(Also Part I, Sections 263A, 446, 471, 472, 481, 1363; 1.263A-1T, 1.446-1, 1.471-2, 1.472-6, 1.481-1.)

Rev. Proc. 88-15

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

This revenue procedure allows certain taxpayers to obtain expeditious consent to discontinue the use of the last-in, first-out (LIFO) inventory method of accounting. Such discontinuation is a change in method of accounting within the meaning of sections 446 and 481 of the Internal Revenue Code. A taxpayer that complies with this revenue procedure has obtained the consent of the Commissioner to change its inventory method.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

.01 Section 446(e) of the Code states generally that a taxpayer that changes the method of accounting on the basis of which it regularly computes its income in keeping its books shall, before computing taxable income under the new method, secure the consent of the Secretary.

Section 1.446-1(e)(3)(i) of the Income Tax Regulations provides that, generally, in order to secure the Commissioner's consent to a change of a taxpayer's method of accounting, the taxpayer must file an application on Form 3115, Application for Change in Accounting Method, with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D.C., within 180 days after the beginning of the tax year for which the proposed change is to be made.

Section 1.446-1(e)(3)(ii) of the regulations states that the Commissioner may prescribe administrative procedures, subject to such limitations, terms, and conditions as deemed necessary to obtain consent, to permit taxpayers to change their accounting practices or methods to an acceptable treatment consistent with applicable regulations. Limitations, terms, and conditions, as may be prescribed in such administrative procedures by the Commissioner, shall include those necessary to prevent the omission or duplication of items includible in gross income or deductions.

.02 Section 481(a) of the Code requires that those adjustments necessary to prevent amounts from being duplicated or omitted be taken into account when the taxpayer's taxable income is computed under a method of accounting different from the method used to compute taxable income for the preceding tax year.

.03 Rev. Proc. 84-74, 1984-2 C.B. 736, contains procedures under section 1.446-1(e) of the regulations for obtaining the consent of the Commissioner to change a method of accounting for federal income tax purposes.

.04 Section 472(a) of the Code and section 1.472-3 of the regulations provide that a taxpayer may use the LIFO method in inventorying goods if the taxpayer files a statement with its income tax return for the tax year the method is first to be used. The statement shall be made on Form 970, Application to Use LIFO Inventory Method, in accordance with the form's instructions and the regulations under section 472.

.05 Section 472(e) of the Code and section 1.472-5 of the regulations provide that an election made to adopt and use the LIFO method is irrevocable. The method, once adopted, shall be used in all subsequent tax years, unless the use of another method is required by the Commissioner, or authorized pursuant to a written application filed as provided in section 1.446-1(e).

.06 Section 1.472-6 of the regulations provides that if a taxpayer is granted permission to discontinue the use of the LIFO inventory method or if the taxpayer is required by the Commissioner to discontinue the use of such method because the taxpayer did not conform to the requirements of section 1.472-2, the inventory of the specified goods for the first tax year affected by the change and for subsequent tax years shall be taken:

(a) In conformity with the method used by the taxpayer under section 471 of the Code for goods not included in its LIFO inventory computations; or

(b) If the LIFO inventory method was used by the taxpayer with respect to all of the taxpayer's goods, then in conformity with the inventory method used by the taxpayer prior to the taxpayer's adoption of the LIFO inventory method; or

(c) If the taxpayer did not use inventories prior to adoption of the LIFO inventory method and has no goods currently subject to inventory by a method other than the LIFO inventory method, then in conformity with such inventory method as may be selected by the taxpayer and approved by the Commissioner as resulting in a clear reflection of income; or

(d) In any event, in conformity with any inventory method to which the taxpayer may change pursuant to an application approved by the Commissioner.

.07 Section 472(c) of the Code requires a taxpayer using the LIFO inventory method to use no other procedure, in inventorying its goods to ascertain the income, profit, or loss of the first tax year for which the LIFO inventory method is to be used, for purposes of a report or statement covering such tax year to shareholders, partners or other proprietors, or beneficiaries, or for credit purposes. Section 472(e) extends this conformity requirement to subsequent tax years.

.08 Section 472(g)(1) of the Code provides that all memebers of the same group of financially related corporations shall generally be treated as one taxpayer for purposes of sections 472(c) and 472(e).

.09 Rev. Proc. 79-23, 1979-1 C.B. 564, lists certain situations that warrant the disallowance or termination of a LIFO election.

.10 Section 6.02 of Rev. Proc. 84-74 defines Category A methods of accounting as methods of accounting that are specifically not permitted to be used by the taxpayer by the Code, regulations, or a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States or certain methods that are clearly erroneous. Section 6.02(4)(10) of Rev. Proc. 84-74 states that an example of a Category A method is the use of the LIFO method of accounting for inventories when there has been a termination event (as described in Rev. Proc. 79-23 or any other applicable revenue ruling or revenue procedure) that occurred during a year not barred by the statute of limitations as of the date of the filing of the Form 3115.

.11 Section 1363(d) of the Code (as added by the Revenue Act of 1987) requires that if a C corporation uses the LIFO inventory method for its last tax year before an S election becomes effective, the LIFO recapture amount, as defined in section 1363(d)(3), shall be included in the gross income of the C corporation for such last tax year and that any increase in tax for the last taxable year as a C corporation shall be payable in 4 equal installments.

.12 Section 263A of the Code provides a uniform set of rules to be applied in determining the costs required to be included in inventory costs for tax years beginning after December 31, 1986. For the first tax year beginning after December 31, 1986, taxpayers that are required by section 263A to change their method of accounting may automatically change that method in accordance with the provisions of section 1.263A-1T(e)(11) of the temporary regulations. Taxpayers that are required to change their method of accounting and that fail to comply with the requirements of section 1.263A-1T(e)(11) are using an improper method of accounting.

SEC. 3. SCOPE

.01 Except as provided in section 3.02 below, this revenue procedure applies to any taxpayer that desires to (1) discontinue the use of the last-in, first-out (LIFO) inventory method for all of its LIFO inventory and (2) change to the permitted method determined in section 4.02(1) of this revenue procedure.

Taxpayers to which this revenue procedure applies may not use Rev. Proc. 84-74 for changes with respect to which this revenue procedure applies.

.02 This revenue procedure does not apply to:

(1) Any taxpayer that, as of the date of the filing of the Form 3115 with the National Office, has been contacted in any manner by a representative of the Service for the purpose of scheduling an examination of its federal income tax return(s) for any year, if the examination has not been completed, unless the taxpayer has obtained and attaches to its Form 3115 an agreement from the Service's examining agent that there is no objection to the proposed change in method of accounting;

(2) Any taxpayer that, as of the date of the filing of the Form 3115 with the National Office, is:

(a) Before an appeals office of the Service with respect to an examination of its federal income tax return(s) for any year, unless the taxpayer has obtained and attaches to its Form 3115 an agreement from the appeals officer that there is no objection to the proposed change in method of accounting, or

(b) Before any federal court with respect to an income tax issue arising in any year, unless the taxpayer has obtained and attaches to its Form 3115 an agreement from counsel for the Government that there is no objection to the proposed change in method of accounting;

(3) Any taxpayer that, as of the date of the filing of the Form 3115 with the National Office, is the subject of a criminal investigation or proceeding concerning (a) directly or indirectly the taxpayer's federal tax liability for any year, or (b) the possibility of false or fraudulent statements made by the taxpayer with respect to any issue relating to its federal tax liability for any year;

(4)(a) If the tax year preceding the year of change begins (or, pursuant to section 1.441-2(b)(1) of the regulations, is deemed to begin) after December 31, 1986, any taxpayer that, for that preceding tax year, uses an impermissible method of determining costs incurred in the production or acquisition of inventory property (in particular, any taxpayer whose method violates the provisions of section 263A of the Code and the regulations thereunder); or

(b) If the tax year preceding the year of change begins (or is deemed to begin) before January 1, 1987, any taxpayer that, for that preceding tax year, uses an impermissible method of determining costs incurred in the production or acquisition of inventory property, unless that taxpayer, for the year of change, changes that method according to the procedures prescribed in section 1.263A-1T(e)(11) of the temporary regulations (concerning a change to comply with section 263A of the Code);

(5) Any taxpayer for which, as of the date of the filing of the Form 3115 with the National Office, a termination event other than the one described in section 3.02(6) of this revenue procedure has occurred during a year not barred by the statute of limitations (For purposes of this revenue procedure, a "termination event" is a situation [as described in Rev. Proc. 79-23 or any other applicable revenue ruling or revenue procedure] that warrants the termination of a LIFO election; provided, however, that the term "termination event" does not include the issuance of nonconforming financial statements if the first such issuance occurs in the tax year in which the request to discontinue the LIFO inventory method is properly filed.);

(6) Any taxpayer that uses the LIFO inventory method and issues nonconforming financial statements in violation of section 472(g) of the Code for any tax year beginning on or after July 18, 1984, unless the first such issuance occurs in the tax year in which the request to discontinue the LIFO inventory method is properly filed;

(7) Any taxpayer that did not file Form(s) 970 to elect the LIFO inventory method and, if applicable, to extend the use of the LIFO method to other items of inventory (For a taxpayer that properly elected the LIFO inventory method but is unable to furnish a copy of the Form(s) 970, see section 7.06 of this revenue procedure.);

(8) A cooperative within the meaning of section 1381(a) of the Code that seeks to justify a section 481(a) adjustment period of more than 1 tax year; or

(9) Any taxpayer that filed a Form 3115 with the National Office under this revenue procedure or under Rev. Proc. 84-74 requesting permission to discontinue the use of the LIFO inventory method for an earlier tax year and that did not effect the requested change.

.03 Any taxpayer to which this revenue procedure does not apply and which desires to discontinue its use of the LIFO inventory method must file a current Form 3115 with the Commissioner in accordance with the requirements of section 1.446-1(e)(3) of the regulations and Rev. Proc. 84-74. If the year of change is the first tax year that the taxpayer is subject to section 263A of the Code and, in order to comply with the provisions of section 263A of the Code and the regulations thereunder, the taxpayer is also changing its method of accounting for determining costs incurred in the production or acquisition of inventory property, see Notice 88-23, page 490, this Bulletin.

SEC. 4. APPLICATION

.01 Consent. In accordance with section 1.446-1(e)(3)(ii) of the regulations, the requirement to file an application on Form 3115 within a 180-day period is waived, and under section 1.446-1(e)(2)(i) consent is hereby granted to any taxpayer within the scope of this revenue procedure to discontinue the use of the LIFO inventory method. This consent is granted for the tax year (year of change) for which a taxpayer requests a change by filing a current Form 3115 in the manner described in section 7 of this revenue procedure. See section 6 regarding compliance with the conditions of this revenue procedure.

.02 Method to be Used.

(1) The inventory method to be used by a taxpayer is determined as follows:

(a) If the taxpayer has inventoriable goods not included in its LIFO inventory computations (non-LIFO inventory) and, for all of the taxpayer's non-LIFO inventory, the taxpayer uses an inventory method that is a permitted method, as defined in section 4.02(2) of this revenue procedure, then the taxpayer must use that same inventory method for its entire inventory.

(b) If the LIFO inventory method is used by the taxpayer with respect to all of the taxpayer's inventoriable goods, then the taxpayer must use the same inventory method it used prior to the adoption of the LIFO inventory method if that prior method is a permitted method, as defined in section 4.02(2).

(c) If the taxpayer has only LIFO inventory and the method used by the taxpayer prior to the adoption of the LIFO inventory method is not a permitted method, as defined in section 4.02(2), then the taxpayer must use a method that is a permitted method, as defined in section 4.02(2).

(d) If the taxpayer had not used inventories prior to the adoption of the LIFO inventory method and has no inventoriable goods other than its LIFO inventory, then the taxpayer must use a permitted method, as defined in section 4.02(2).

(2) For purposes of this revenue procedure, a permitted method is a method under which:

(a) The identification method is either the first-in, first-out (FIFO) method or the specific identification method, and

(b) The valuation method is cost; cost or market, whichever is lower; market (but only if the taxpayer is a dealer in securities, as defined in section 1.471-5 of the regulations); the "farm-price method" or the "unit-livestock-price method" (but only if the taxpayer is a farmer permitted to use such methods); or the retail method, reduced to either approximate cost or approximate cost or market, whichever is lower (but only if the taxpayer is a retail merchant).

It should be noted that the average cost method (sometimes also referred to as "the rolling average method") described in Rev. Rul. 71-234, 1971-1 C.B. 148, is not a permitted method.

Whether an inventory method is a permitted method is determined by the taxpayer's method of inventory identification and valuation and not by which types and amounts of costs are capitalized under the taxpayer's method of computing inventory cost. See section 263A of the Code and the regulations thereunder, which govern the types and amounts of costs required to be included in inventory cost for taxpayers subject to its provisions.

.03 Section 481(a) Adjustment. The section 481(a) adjustment shall be taken into account in the manner set forth in section 5 of this revenue procedure.

.04 Conformity. For the year of change and for later tax years, the taxpayer must keep its tax books and records on the inventory identification and valuation method determined under section 4.02(1) of this revenue procedure. Further, it must use this method for all reports to shareholders, partners or other proprietors, or beneficiaries, including financial statements and statements for credit purposes. Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, costs that are required to be capitalized under section 1.263A-1T(b) of the temporary regulations need not be capitalized in determining the cost of inventoriable goods in reports to shareholders, partners or other proprietors, or beneficiaries.

.05 Limitation on LIFO Election. The taxpayer may not elect the LIFO inventory method for a period of at least 10 tax years beginning with the year of change, unless, based on a showing of extraordinary circumstances, permission is requested, and consent is specifically granted by the Commissioner, to change the method of accounting at an earlier time. The request should comply with Rev. Proc. 84-74 and should be addressed to: Internal Revenue Service, Corporation Tax 4, Attn: CC:IND:D:C, P.O. Box 7604, Benjamin Franklin Station, Washington, D.C. 20044.

SEC. 5. SECTION 481(a) ADJUSTMENT

.01 An adjustment, referred to as the section 481(a) adjustment, is required to prevent items from being duplicated or omitted when a change in method of accounting is made. The section 481(a) adjustment is the difference between (a) the value of the taxpayer's LIFO inventory as of the beginning of the year of change under the taxpayer's LIFO method (adjusted for any LIFO recapture amount previously included in gross income under section 1363 of the Code, if applicable) and (b) the value of that inventory under the method determined under section 4.02 of this revenue procedure. If the year of change is the taxpayer's first tax year that the taxpayer is subject to section 263A of the Code, the cost of the taxpayer's inventory under (b) shall generally be determined using the taxpayer's method for computing cost for the prior tax year. See Notice 88-23. (The difference between the cost of inventory under such prior tax year's method and the cost of inventory under the provisions of section 263A and the regulations thereunder is to be taken into account in accordance with the provisions of section 1.263A-1T of the temporary regulations.) If (b) is greater than (a), then the section 481(a) adjustment is referred to as a positive adjustment. If (a) is greater than (b), then the section 481(a) adjustment is referred to as a negative adjustment. The section 481(a) adjustment shall be taken into account in computing taxable income in the manner provided in section 5.02 below. For purposes of determining the amount of the section 481(a) adjustment, the approved change shall be considered a change in method of accounting initiated by the taxpayer; therefore, the section 481(a) adjustment is not to be reduced in any way by a pre-1954 amount.

.02 Section 481(a) Adjustment Period.

(1) The appropriate period (adjustment period) for taking into account the adjustment, whether positive or negative, referred to in section 5.01, is determined as follows:

(a) If the entire amount of the adjustment is attributable to the tax year immediately preceding the year of change (first preceding year), the total adjustment is to be taken into account in computing taxable income for the year of change. The amount attributable to the tax year immediately preceding the year of change is the amount of the adjustment determined under section 481(a) of the Code for the year of change less the amount of the adjustment that would have been required under section 481(a) if the same change in method of accounting had been made for such preceding year.

(b) If subparagraph (a) of this section 5.02(1) does not apply, the LIFO inventory method has been used for more than 4 tax years, and 67 percent or more of the adjustment is attributable to the 1-tax-year period, 2-tax-year period, or 3-tax-year period immediately preceding the year of change, the highest percent attributable to such 1-, 2-, or 3-tax-year period is to be taken into account ratably over a 3-tax-year period beginning with the year of change. Any remaining balance is to be taken into account ratably over an additional period equal to the remainder of the number of tax years the taxpayer has used the LIFO inventory method. However, the total adjustment period shall not exceed 6 tax years. The amount attributable to the 1-, 2-, or 3-tax-year period immediately preceding the year of change is the amount of the adjustment determined under section 481(a) of the Code for the year of change less the amount that would have been required under section 481(a) if the same change had been made at the beginning of such preceding 1-, 2-, or 3-tax-year period. If the LIFO inventory method has been used for 4 tax years, 75 percent shall be substituted for 67 percent.

(c) A cooperative within the meaning of section 1381(a) of the Code shall take the total amount of the adjustment into account in computing taxable income for the year of change. See Rev. Rul. 79-45, 1979-1 C.B. 284.

(d) In all other situations in which subparagraphs (a), (b), and (c) of this section 5.02(1) do not apply, the adjustment is to be taken into account ratably over the lesser of (i) the number of tax years the taxpayer has used the LIFO inventory method or (ii) 6 tax years.

(2) In applying section 5.02(1), if a taxpayer's books and records do not contain sufficient information to compute the section 481(a) adjustment that would have been required if the same change had been made at the beginning of such preceding 1-, 2-, or 3-tax-year period, the taxpayer may reasonably estimate these amounts, attach the computations upon which the estimates are based, and also sign and attach the following statement to the Form 3115:

Under penalties of perjury, I hereby certify that:

> (a) The books and records of [name of the taxpayer] do not contain sufficient information to permit a computation of the section 481(a) adjustment attributable to the 1-tax-year period, 2-tax-year period, or 3-tax-year period immediately preceding the year of change as required by section 5.02(1) of Rev. Proc. 88-15.
> (b) Based on the information that is contained in such records, to the best of my knowledge and belief, the entire amount of the section 481(a) adjustment for the year of change [indicate either "is" or "is not," as the case may be] attributable to the tax year immediately preceding the year of change, and 67 percent [or "75 percent," in applicable cases] or more of the section 481(a) adjustment for the year of change [indicate "is" or "is not," as the case may be] attributable to the 1-tax-year period, 2-tax-year period, or 3-tax-year period immediately preceding the year of change.

(3) For examples of the application of the rules prescribed in section 5.02(1) with respect to the appropriate period for taking into account the section 481(a) adjustment, see section 5.14 of Rev. Proc. 84-74.

.03 Inventory Reduction.

(1) If, on the last day of any tax year of the adjustment period, the value of the taxpayer's inventory to which the section 481(a) adjustment relates is reduced by more than 33-1/3 percent of the inventory value at the beginning of the first tax year of the adjustment period and is so reduced by at least such percentage at the end of the following tax year, the remaining balance of the section 481(a) adjustment must be taken into account in determining taxable income in the year succeeding the year of reduction. Permanent reductions, not temporary fluctuations, are controlling. If the value of the inventory does not remain reduced for one tax year, the reduction is not considered permanent, and the provisions of this paragraph do not apply. (For an example of the calculation, see section 5.08 of Rev. Proc. 84-74.)

(2) Section 5.03(1) shall not apply if the taxpayer shows to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that the reduction in inventory is attributable to a strike, involuntary conversion, or involuntary interruption of the availabilty of goods. Section 5.03(2) shall apply only if the taxpayer obtains the consent of the Commissioner to continue to spread the section 481(a) adjustment. The consent must be requested no later than 90 days after the end of the tax year in which section 5.03(1) would otherwise apply. The request should comply with section 5.08(2) of Rev. Proc. 84-74 and should be addressed to: Internal Revenue Service, Corporation Tax 4, Attn: CC:IND:D:C, P.O. Box 7604, Benjamin Franklin Station, Washington, D.C. 20044.

.04 Ceasing to Engage in the Trade or Business.

(1) With respect to a corporation:

If the corporation ceases to engage in the trade or business to which the adjustment described in section 5.01 relates at any time prior to the expiration of the adjustment period referred to in section 5.02, the taxpayer shall take into account in that year the balance of the adjustment not previously taken into account in computing taxable income. See Rev. Rul. 80-39, 1980-1 C.B. 112, which holds that in the case of a corporation with a different division for each trade or business, if the corporation ceases to engage in the trade or business of a division that has been granted a change in method of accounting, the remaining portion of the section 481(a) adjustment applicable to that trade or business must be taken into account in computing income in the year the corporation ceases to engage in that trade or business. For purposes of section 5.04, the taxpayer is not considered to have ceased to engage in a trade or business if its assets have been acquired by another corporation in a transaction to which section 381 of the Code applies, but in that case the acquiring corporation shall continue to be subject to this revenue procedure as though it were the acquired corporation.

(2) With respect to a partnership:

In the event a partnership terminates (within the meaning of section 708(b) of the Code) or ceases to engage in the trade or business to which the adjustment described in section 5.01 relates at any time prior to the expiration of the adjustment period referred to in section 5.02, the balance of the adjustment not previously taken into account in computing ordinary income shall be taken into account in that year. A partnership is treated as ceasing to engage in a trade or business upon the incorporation of the trade or business in a transaction to which section 351 of the Code applies (see Rev. Rul. 85-134, 1985-2 C.B. 160).

(3) With respect to a sole proprietor:

If an individual (sole proprietor) ceases to engage in the trade or business to which the adjustment described in section 5.01 relates at any time prior to the expiration of the adjustment period referred to in section 5.02, the balance of the adjustment not previously taken into account in computing taxable income shall be taken into account in that year. A sole proprietor is treated as ceasing to engage in a trade or business upon the incorporation of the trade or business in a transaction to which section 351 of the Code applies (see Rev. Rul. 77-264, 1977-2 C.B. 187). A sole proprietorship is not treated as ceasing to engage in a trade or business upon the sale of a partial interest in the proprietorship if the individual who was the sole proprietor continues to be actively engaged in the management of the business and it is subsequently operated as a partnership. The section 481(a) adjustment remaining at the time the partnership is formed is taken into account by the sole proprietor in computing the sole proprietor's own taxable income as though there had been no change in ownership (see Rev. Rul. 66-206, 1966-2 C.B. 206).

.05 Effect of Subchapter S Election by Corporation.

(1) If the taxpayer is described in section 5.05(1)(a) of this revenue procedure, the balance of the section 481(a) adjustment (not previously taken into account) must be taken into account in its last year as a C corporation. Any increase in the tax for the last year as a C corporation shall be payable as provided in section 5.05(1)(b).

(a) A taxpayer is described in this section 5.05(1)(a) if:

(i) The taxpayer is a C corporation for the year of change;

(ii) The section 481(a) adjustment is positive;

(iii) After December 17, 1987, the taxpayer makes an S election that is effective for one or more tax years in which, but for this section 5.05, some portion of the section 481(a) adjustment would have been taken into account; and

(iv) In the case of an election made before January 1, 1989, then, on or before December 17, 1987, there was neither (A) a resolution adopted by the board of directors of the taxpayer to make the S election nor (B) a ruling request with respect to the business filed with the Service expressing an intent to make such an election.

(b) If a taxpayer is described in section 5.05(1)(a) of this revenue procedure and if the inclusion of the balance of the section 481(a) adjustment results in any increase in tax for its last taxable year as a C corporation over the tax for its last taxable year as a C corporation over the tax that would have been due for that tax year if no portion of the section 481(a) adjustment had been so included, then that increase shall be payable as follows:

(i) Except as provided in (b)(iii), below, the increase shall be payable in equal installments, and the number of installments shall be the lesser of (A) 4, or (B) the number of tax years remaining in the portion of the adjustment period under section 5.02 starting with the taxpayer's last year as a C corporation.

(ii) The first installment shall be paid on or before the due date (determined without regard to extensions) for the income tax return for the taxpayer's last year as a C corporation, and, except as provided in (b)(iii) below, one installment (if any remain) shall be paid on or before the due date (determined without regard to extensions) for such corporation's income tax return for each succeeding tax year until all the installments are paid.

(iii) If, in the absence of this section 5.05, section 5.03 or 5.04 of this revenue procedure would have required the taxpayer to take into account in a single tax year the balance of the section 481(a) adjustment not previously taken into account, then any or all installment(s) that otherwise would have been due after the due date (determined without regard to extensions) for the taxpayer's income tax return for that tax year shall, instead, be paid on or before the due date (determined without regard to extensions) of such return.

(iv) For purposes of section 6601 of the Code (relating to assessment of interest on underpayment of tax), the date(s) prescribed for the payment of any installment(s) that are described in this section 5.05 shall be determined under section 5.05(1)(b)(ii) and (iii) of this revenue procedure.

(c) For example, assume that PJ corporation, a taxpayer that files returns on a calendar year basis, requests pursuant to section 4 of this revenue procedure to discontinue the use of LIFO inventory method for its tax year beginning January 1, 1989. Also assume that the section 481(a) adjustment, calculated under section 5 of this revenue procedure, is $600 and will be taken into income by the corporation in 6 equal installments of $100 for the 1989-1994 tax years. If PJ corporation files an S election to be effective beginning January 1, 1990, then, pursuant to section 5.05(1) of this revenue procedure, PJ corporation must include the balance of the section 481(a) adjustment ($600) in income for its 1989 tax year. Any increase in tax imposed by reason of such inclusion is payable in four equal installments on or before the due dates (determined without regard to extensions) for the income tax returns of PJ corporation for its 1989-1992 tax years. If PJ corporation, instead, files an S election to be effective beginning January 1, 1993, it will have included $300 of the section 481(a) adjustment in income for its 1989-1991 tax years. Pursuant to section 5.05(1) of this revenue procedure, PJ corporation includes the remainder of the section 481(a) adjustment ($300) in income for its 1992 year. Any increase in tax imposed by reason of such inclusion is payable in three equal installments on or before the due dates (determined without regard to extensions) for the income tax returns of PJ corporation for its 1992-1994 tax years.

(2) If the taxpayer makes an S election that is first effective for the year of change, then, as provided in section 1363 of the Code, the taxpayer shall take the LIFO recapture amount (as defined in section 1363) into gross income for the taxpayer's last tax year as a C corporation (which is the year preceding the year of change). Any increase in income tax as a result of that inclusion shall be payable as provided in section 1363, that is, in 4 equal installments, beginning with the taxpayer's last tax year as a C corporation. As provided in section

1363, the taxpayer shall adjust the basis of its inventory as of the end of that last year as a C corporation to take into account the inclusion in income of the LIFO recapture amount. After having made this adjustment to basis, the taxpayer shall then calculate the section 481(a) adjustment, if any, according to the provisions of section 5.01 of this revenue procedure. If there is a section 481(a) adjustment (either positive or negative), the adjustment shall be taken into account as provided elsewhere in this section 5 (generally, over a period not to exceed 6 tax years, beginning with the year of change, which is the first tax year for which the S election is effective).

.06 Net Operating Loss Carryover and Net Operating Losses.

(1) No part of any (consolidated or separate) net operating loss carryover available at the beginning of the year of change may be used as an offset against the portion of the positive section 481(a) adjustment taken into account in the year of change. That is, the net operating loss carryover available at the beginning of the year of change may be offset only against income (other than the section 481(a) adjustment) generated in the year of change. This condition does not apply to years subsequent to the year of change. Any portion of the positive section 481(a) adjustment attributable to the year of change may be offset against any net operating loss otherwise incurred in the year of change as well as against any future net operating loss carryback under section 172(b) of the Code.

(2) Any portion of any net operating loss arising in the year of change or in any subsequent year in the adjustment period that is attributable to the negative section 481(a) adjustment may not be carried to those 3 tax years preceding the year of change to which section 172 of the Code otherwise would require it first to be carried.

.07 Credit Carryover. No part of any (consolidated or separate) credit carryover available at the beginning of the year of change may be used to reduce the federal income tax liability resulting from, or attributable to, the inclusion in income of a portion of the positive section 481(a) adjustment in the year of change. This restriction does not apply to a credit arising in the year of change or to any future credit carrybacks to the year of change.

SEC. 6. COMPLIANCE WITH CONDITIONS

If a taxpayer to which this revenue procedure applies discontinues the use of the LIFO inventory method without complying with all the conditions of this revenue procedure, then that taxpayer has made the change in inventory method without obtaining the permission of the Commissioner as required under section 446(e) of the Code.

SEC. 7. MANNER OF EFFECTING THE CHANGE

.01 The taxpayer applying for a change in method of accounting pursuant to this revenue procedure must complete and file a current Form 3115 in duplicate. A copy of the Form 3115 shall be filed with the National Office addressed to Internal Revenue Service, Corporation Tax 4, P.O. Box 7616, Benjamin Franklin Station, Washington, D.C. 20044. No user fee is required for an application filed under this revenue procedure.

The copy of the Form 3115 that is filed with the National Office must be filed within 270 days after the beginning of the year of change. The original of the Form 3115 shall be attached to the taxpayer's timely filed (determined with regard to extensions) federal income tax return for the year of change.

If the taxpayer is also changing its method of accounting for determining costs incurred in the production or acquisition of inventory property to comply with the provisions of section 263A of the Code and the regulations thereunder and if the year of change is the first tax year that begins (or is deemed to begin) in 1987 and that the taxpayer is subject to section 263A of the Code, then the following two requirements apply in lieu of those stated in the preceding paragraph. First, the copy of the Form 3115 must be filed with the National Office (1) within 270 days after the beginning of the year of change or (2) if later, on or before May 6, 1988, which is 60 days after the publication of this revenue procedure in the Internal Revenue Bulletin. Second, the original of the Form 3115 shall be attached to the taxpayer's original or amended federal income tax return for the year of change, provided that such return is filed no later than the 15th day of the 10th month following the close of the year of change.

.02 In order to assist in the processing of these changes in method of accounting and to insure proper handling, reference to this revenue procedure shall be made a part of the Form 3115 by either typing or legibly printing the applicable statement at the top of page 1 of Form 3115:

(1) For taxpayers complying with the provisions of sections 263A of the Code for the first tax year that begins (or is deemed to begin) in 1987 and that the taxpayer is subject to section 263A: "FILED UNDER NOTICE 88-23 AND REV. PROC. 88-15."

(2) For all other taxpayers: "FILED UNDER REV. PROC. 88-15."

.03 In addition to including all of the information required on the Form 3115, the taxpayer must (1) state that it agrees to all of the conditions of Rev. Proc. 88-15 and that it proposes to take the section 481(a) adjustment into account over the appropriate period required by section 5.02, and (2) identify the period over which the section 481(a) adjustment will be taken into account and the basis for concluding that the identified period is correct. If the Service finds that the taxpayer does not qualify for the change in method of accounting under this revenue procedure, the National Office or the district director will so advise the taxpayer.

.04 Termination Event Statement. The taxpayer must sign the following statement and attach it to the Form 3115:

> Under penalties of perjury, I hereby certify that to the best of my knowledge and belief, with respect to [name of taxpayer]'s use of the LIFO inventory method, no termination event (as defined in section 3.02(5) of Rev. Proc. 88-15) has occurred during a year not barred by the statute of limitations as of the date of the filing of the Form 3115 with the National Office.

.05 Statement of Proposed Method. The taxpayer must complete the following statements and attach them to the Form 3115:

(1) The proposed method of identifying inventory goods will be the [insert method; i.e., specific identification; first-in, first-out; retail; etc.] method.

(2) The proposed method of valuing inventory goods will be [insert method; i.e., cost; cost or market, whichever is lower; etc.].

(3) This method conforms to the requirements of section 4.02(1) [insert either (a), (b), (c), or (d)] of Rev. Proc. 88-15 in that [explain in detail how the proposed method conforms to the specific subsection].

.06 The taxpayer must attach to the Form 3115 either (1) a copy of the Form(s) 970 filed to adopt the LIFO inventory method and, if applicable, to extend the use of the method, or (2) if the taxpayer properly elected the LIFO inventory method but is unable to furnish a copy of such Form(s) 970, the following statement, signed by the taxpayer:

> Under penalties or perjury, I certify that to the best of my knowledge and belief, [name of taxpayer] properly elected the LIFO inventory method by filing a Form 970 with its return for the taxable year(s) ended [insert date(s)] and otherwise complied with the provisions of section 472(d) of the Code and 1.472-3 of the regulations.

.07 The signature of the person preparing the request for change in method of accounting must appear in the space provided for it on the Form 3115. The Form 3115 must be signed by or on behalf of the taxpayer requesting the change. For example, an officer must sign on behalf of a corporation, a general partner on behalf of a partnership, a trustee on behalf of a trust, or the individual taxpayer on behalf of a sole proprietorship. See the signature requirements set forth in the General Instructions attached to a current Form 3115 regarding those who are to sign. If an agent is authorized to represent the taxpayer before the Service, to receive the original or a copy of the coorespondence concerning the request, or to perform any other act(s) regarding the application on behalf of the taxpayer, a power of attorney reflecting such authorization(s) must be attached to the application. A taxpayer's representative without a power of attorney to represent the taxpayer as indicated in this subsection will not be given any information regarding the application.

.08 If the taxpayer is a member of an affiliated group that has elected to file a consolidated federal income tax return, the Form 3115 submitted on behalf of the taxpayer must be signed by a duly authorized officer of the common parent. (See section 1.1502-77 of the regulations.)

.09 For early applications, except as stated below, see section 5.03 of Rev. Proc. 84-74. The statement (described in section 7.02 of this revenue procedure) to be typed or legibly printed at the top of page 1 of the Form 3115 should read: "EARLY APPLICATION FILED UNDER REV. PROC. 88-15." Within the first 270 days after the beginning of the year of change, the taxpayer must file with the National Office a copy of a complete and perfected Form 3115. The original of the complete and perfected Form 3115 is to be attached to the taxpayer's timely filed (determined with regard to extensions) federal income tax return for the year of change. Unlike the early application procedure under Rev. Proc. 84-74, the taxpayer will not be notified during the 270-day period if the early application has not been perfected.

SEC. 8. INQUIRIES

Inquiries regarding this revenue procedure may be addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:C:4, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224.

SEC. 9. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure is effective March 7, 1988, the date of its publication. Any request for change in method of accounting filed under the provisions of Rev. Proc. 84-74 that qualifies under this revenue procedure and is received in the National Office after the effective date will be returned to the taxpayer. Any taxpayer that has timely filed a Form 3115 under Rev. Proc. 84-74 with the National Office prior to the effective date of this revenue procedure and that has not filed its federal income tax return for the requested year of change may use the automatic provisions of this revenue procedure, if such taxpayer otherwise qualifies under this revenue procedure, and will be notified to this effect by the National Office.

SEC. 10. EFFECT ON OTHER DOCUMENTS

.01 As described below, sections 5.10(1)(b) and 6.02(4)(10) of Rev. Proc. 84-74 are modified to conform to sections 3.02(5) and 3.02(6) of this revenue procedure.

The following language is inserted above the final paragraph of section 5.10(1)(b) and as a new paragraph at the end of section 6.02(4)(10) of Rev. Proc. 84-74:

> For purposes of this revenue procedure, a termination event does not include the issuance of nonconforming financial statements if the first such issuance occurs in the tax year in which the request to discontinue the LIFO inventory method is properly filed.

.02 The following language is inserted as new subparagraphs (c) and (d) of section 5.10(1) of Rev. Proc. 84-74:

> (c) Condition relating to a subsequent S election. If the Commissioner approves a taxpayer's request to discontinue the use of the LIFO inventory method of accounting, the Commissioner will impose a condition consistent with the provisions of section 5.05(1)(b) of Rev. Proc. 88-15, applicable to taxpayers described in section 5.05(1)(a) of that revenue procedure (certain taxpayers making a subsequent S election).
> (d) Taxpayer making an S election. If, after the effective date of section 1363(d) of the Code, the taxpayer makes an S election that is first effective for the year of change, then section 1363(d) requires both (i) an increase in the taxpayer's gross income for the tax year preceeding the year of change and (ii) a corresponding adjustment to the basis of the taxpayer's inventory as of the end of such preceeding tax year. This basis adjustment is taken into account in the computation of the section 481(a) adjustment that results from discontinuing the use of the LIFO inventory method. See section 5.05(2) of Rev. Proc. 88-15.

Rev. Proc. 88-16

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

This revenue procedure describes circumstances under which the Internal Revenue Service will select a tax matters partner (TMP) for a partnership pursuant to section 6231(a)(7) of the Internal Revenue Code. It also describes criteria the Service will consider in selecting the TMP.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

.01 Title IV of the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982 (TEFRA), 1982-2 C.B. 462, 585, changed the examination and administrative procedures for partnership items, which are defined in section 301.6231(a)(3)-1 of the Regulations on Procedure and Administration. The rules are applicable to partnership taxable years beginning after September 3, 1982, and are also applicable to any partnership taxable year beginning on or before, and ending after, September 3, 1982, if the partnership, each partner, and each indirect partner requests such application and the Secretary consents.

.02 Prior to TEFRA, tax adjustments were made at the partner level. Under provisions added by TEFRA, the tax treatment of partnership items is generally determined at the partnership level through a unified administrative and judicial proceeding, even though the tax liability that results from such a determination is imposed on each partner individually.

.03 Generally, under the unified proceedings, the TMP is the general partner designated by the partnership to represent the partnership before the Service in all tax matters for a specific taxable year. See section 301.6231(a)(7)-1T of the Temporary Regulations on Procedure and Administration for the rules concerning the designation of the TMP. In addition to facilitating administrative proceedings, the TMP has the authority to extend the statutory period for assessment of tax based upon partnership items for all partners, and to choose the forum for judicial review of adjustments to partnership items. The TMP also has the authority to enter into a binding settlement agreement for certain partners who, under section 6223 of the Code, are not entitled to notice of administrative proceedings (nonnotice partners). See section 6224(c)(3).

.04 Section 6231(a)(7)(A) of the Code provides that the TMP of any partnership is the general partner designated by the partnership as the TMP in the manner provided in regulations. Section 6231(a)(7)(B) provides that if there is no general partner who has been so designated, the TMP is the general partner having the largest profits interest in the partnership at the close of the taxable year involved (or, if there is more than one such partner, the one whose name appears first in an alphabetical listing). Section 6231(a)(7) provides further that if there is no general partner designated as the TMP and the Secretary determines that it is impracticable to apply the largest profits interest rule, the partner selected by the Secretary shall be the TMP. The Service will consider it impracticable to apply the largest profits interest rule under the circumstances described in section 3.03 of this revenue procedure.

.05 Under section 301.6231(a)(7)-1T(b)(1) of the temporary regulations, the partnership may designate a person as the TMP for a taxable year only if that person was a general partner in the partnership at some time during the taxable year for which the designation is made, or is a general partner in the partnership as of the time the partnership makes the designation. However, (1) if the partnership fails to designate a TMP, or if a prior designation has been terminated under section 301.6231(a)(7)-1T(l) and the partnership has not made a subsequent designation, and (2) if the Service determines that it is impracticable to apply the largest profits interest rule, the Service may select as the TMP for the taxable year any person who was a partner, including a person who was a limited partner, at some time during the taxable year.

SEC. 3. APPLICATION

DETERMINATION OF LARGEST PROFITS INTEREST

.01 For purposes of applying the largest profits interest rule of section 6231(a)(7)(B) of the Code and section 301.6231(a)(7)-1T(m)(2) of the temporary regulations, the Service will determine the general partner with the largest profits interest based on the year-end profits interests reported on the Schedules K-1 filed with the partnership income tax return for the taxable year for which the selection is being made. See section 6223(c)(1).

.02 Under section 301.6231(a)(7)-1T(m)(3) of the temporary regulations, each general partner whose selection as TMP would be immediately terminated because of the occurrence of one or more of the events described in section 301.6231(a)(7)-1T(l)(1) through (4) is treated as having a zero profits interest for that taxable year for purposes of applying the largest profits interest rule. Those events are as follows:

(1) The death of the designated TMP;

(2) An adjudication by a court of competent jurisdiction that the individual designated as the TMP is no longer capable of managing the individual's person or estate;

(3) The liquidation or dissolution of the TMP, if the TMP is an entity; and

(4) The treatment of partnership items of the TMP as nonpartnership items under section 6231(c) of the Code (relating to special enforcement areas). This includes being under investigation by the Criminal Investigation Division and being so notified, being assessed income tax under section 6851 (relating to termination assessments) or section 6861 (relating to jeopardy assessment); or being named a debtor in a bankruptcy proceeding.

WHEN DEEMED IMPRACTICABLE

.03 The Service will consider it impracticable to apply the largest profits interest rule of section 301.6231(a)(7)-1T(m) of the temporary regulations if on the date that the rule is applied,—

(1) The general partner with the largest profits interest is not apparent from the Schedules K-1 and is not otherwise readily determinable;

(2) Each general partner is deemed to have a zero profits interest under section 301.6231(a)(7)-1T(m)(3) of the temporary regulations because of the occurrence of one or more of the events described in section 301.6231 (a)(7)-1T(l)(1) through (4); or

(3) The general partner with the largest profits interest determined under section 301.6231(a)(7)-1T(m) of the temporary regulations—

(a) Has been notified of suspension from practice before the Service;

(b) Is incarcerated;

(c) Is residing outside the United States, its possessions or territories; or

(d) Cannot be located or cannot perform the functions of a TMP for any reason. Lack of cooperation with the Service by a general partner with the largest profits interest is not a basis for finding that the partner cannot perform the functions of a TMP.

SELECTION OF TMP WHEN IMPRACTICABLE TO APPLY LARGEST PROFITS INTEREST RULE

.04 If it is impracticable under section 30.03(1) of this revenue procedure to apply the largest profits interest rule of section 301.6231(a)(7)-1T(m)(2) of the temporary regulations, the Service will select as the TMP any person who was a general partner at any time during the taxable year under examination, in accordance with the notification procedures set forth in sections 3.09 through 3.11.

.05 If it is impracticable under section 3.03(2) of this revenue procedure to apply the largest profits interest rule, the Service will select a limited partner as the TMP in accordance with the criteria set forth in section 3.07. The Service will notify both the partner selected and the partnership of its selection, effective as of the date specified in the notice.

.06 If it is impracticable under section 3.03(3) of this revenue procedure to apply the largest profits interest rule, the Service will treat each general partner who fits the criteria contained in section 3.03(3) as having a zero profits interest for the taxable year, and will select a TMP from the remaining persons who were general partners anytime during the taxable year in accordance with the notification procedures set forth in sections 3.09 through 3.11. However, if all such general partners during the taxable year either (1) are treated as having zero profits interest for the taxable year under section 301.6231 (a)(7)-1T(m)(3) of the temporary regulations, or (2) are described in section 3.03(3), the Service will select a limited partner as the TMP in accordance with the criteria set forth in section 3.07 of this revenue procedure. The Service will notify both the partner selected and the partnership of its selection, effective as of the date specified in the notice.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTION OF A LIMITED PARTNER AS TMP

.07 The Service will select a limited partner as the TMP only if the limited partner was a partner in the partnership at the close of the taxable year under examination.

The Service may also consider the following criteria in selecting a limited partner as the TMP:

(1) The general knowledge of the limited partner in tax matters and the administrative operation of the partnership;

(2) The limited partner's access to the books and records of the partnership;

(3) The profits interest held by the limited partner;

(4) The views of the partners having a majority interest in the partnership regarding the selection;

(5) Whether the limited partner is a member of the partnership at the time the TMP selection is made; and

(6) Whether the limited partner is a United States person.

.08 The partnership cannot designate a limited partner to serve as TMP in lieu of a limited partner selected by the Service.

NOTIFICATION OF PARTNERSHIP

.09 The group manager of the agent examining the partnership will select the new TMP.

.10 Before selecting a general partner as TMP under sections 3.04 or 3.06 of this revenue procedure, the Service will notify the partnership by mail that after 30 days from the date of such notice the Service will make a determination that it is impracticable to apply the largest profits interest rule, and will select the TMP unless a prior designation is made by the partnership. This delay in making the determination will permit the partnership to designate a TMP under the regulations, thereby avoiding a selection made by the Service.

.11 If the Service selects a TMP, the Service will notify both the partner selected and the partnership of its selection, effective as of the date specified in the notice.

.12 During the 30-day period and prior to a TMP designation by the partnership, the Service will communicate with the partnership by sending all correspondence or notices to "The Tax Matters Partner" in care of the partnership, at the partnership's address.

.13 Any subsequent designation of a TMP by the partnership after the 30-day period will become effective as provided under section 301.6231 (a)(7)-1T(k)(2) of the temporary regulations.

SEC. 4. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure is effective for selections made on or after March 30, 1988, (30 days after February 29, 1988, the date of publication), for all partnership taxable year that begin after September 3, 1982. It is also applicable to partnership taxable years that begin on or before and end after September 3, 1982, if the partnership, each partner, and each indirect partner requests application of Title IV of TEFRA and the Secretary consents.

Rev. Proc. 88-17

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

This revenue procedure provides taxpayers with instructions for entering into an agreement under section 6212(d) of the Internal Revenue Code to rescind a notice of deficiency. Section 6212(d) of the Code provides that the Secretary may, with the consent of the taxpayer, rescind any notice of deficiency mailed to the taxpayer. Section 6212(d) was added to the Code by the Tax Reform Act of 1986, section 1562(a), 1986-3 (Vol. 1) C.B. 678.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

.01 Section 6212(a) of the Code provides that if the Secretary determines that there is a deficiency in respect of any tax imposed by subtitle A of title 26 (relating to income taxes), subtitle B (relating to estate, gift, and generation-skipping taxes), or chapters 41, 42, 43, 44, or 45 (relating to certain excise taxes), the Secretary is authorized to send notice of such deficiency to the taxpayer by certified mail or registered mail.

.02 Section 6212(c)(1) of the Code provides, in general, that if the Secretary has mailed to the taxpayer a notice of deficiency as provided in section 6212(a), and the taxpayer files a petition with the Tax Court within the time prescribed in section 6213(a), the Secretary shall have no right to determine any additional deficiency, except in the case of fraud, and except as provided in section 6214(a) (relating to assertion of greater deficiencies before the Tax Court), in section 6213(b)(1) (relating to mathematical or clerical errors), in section 6851 (relating to termination assessments), or in section 6861(c) (relating to the making of jeopardy assessments).

.03 Section 6213(a) of the Code states that within 90 days, or 150 days if the notice is addressed to a person outside the United States, after the notice of deficiency authorized in section 6212 is mailed, the taxpayer may file a petition with the Tax Court for a redetermination of the deficiency. Except as provided in sectio 6851 or 6861, no assessment of a deficiency and no levy or proceeding in court for its collection shall be made, begun, or prosecuted until such notice has been mailed to the taxpayer, nor until the expiration of such 90-day or 150-day restriction period, as the case may be, nor, if a petition has been filed with the Tax Court, until the decision of the Tax Court has become final.

.04 Section 6212(d) of the Code provides that the Secretary may, with the consent of the taxpayer, rescind any notice of deficiency mailed to the taxpayer. Any notice so rescinded shall not be treated as a notice of deficiency for purposes of section 6212(c)(1) (relating to further deficiency letters restricted), section 6213(a) (relating to restrictions applicable to deficiencies and petition to Tax Court), and section 6512(a) (relating to limitations in case of petition to Tax Court), and the taxpayer shall have no right to file a petition with the Tax Court based on such notice.

SEC. 3. SCOPE AND OBJECTIVE

.01 This revenue procedure applies to agreements to rescind a notice of deficiency mailed to a taxpayer pursuant to section 6212(a) of the Code. This procedure does not apply to a Notice of Final Partnership Administrative Adjustment (FPAA) or to a Notice of Final S Corporation Administrative Adjustment (FSAA).

.02 Whether a notice of deficiency will be rescinded is discretionary on the part of the Secretary. A notice of deficiency may only be rescinded with the consent of the taxpayer.

.03 If a notice of deficiency is rescinded, it is treated as if it never existed. Limitations regarding credits, refunds, and assessments relating to the rescinded notice are void and the rights and obligations of the parties that existed prior to the issuance of the notice of deficiency are reinstated. The Commissioner or his or her delegate may issue a later notice of deficiency in an amount that exceeds, is the same as, or is less than the amount in the rescinded notice of deficiency. The taxpayer may exercise all administrative and statutory appeal rights from a reissued notice of deficiency, but cannot petition the Tax Court from a rescinded notice of deficiency.

.04 A notice of deficiency may be rescinded for the following reasons:

(1) If the notice was issued as a result of an administrative error; for example, the notice was issued (i) to the wrong taxpayer, (ii) for the wrong tax period, or (iii) without considering a properly executed Form 872, Consent to Extend the Time to Assess Tax.

(2) If the taxpayer submits information establishing the actual tax due to be less than the amount shown in the notice.

(3) If a taxpayer specifically requests a conference with the Appeals Division for the purpose of entering into settlement negotiations. However, the notice may be rescinded only if the Appeals Division first decides that the case is susceptible to agreement.

.05 Notwithstanding section 3.04, the Internal Revenue Service will not rescind a notice of deficiency if:

(1) On the date of the rescission, 90 days or less would remain before the expiration date of the period of limitation on assessment (determined, for this purpose, without regard to the issuance of the notice of deficiency). A notice of deficiency may be rescinded in these circumstances, however, if before that expiration date the taxpayer and the Service execute a consent to extend the limitation period on Form 872. In no case will the Service rescind a notice if, on the date of the rescission, the period of limitation on assessment would have expired but for the issuance of the notice of deficiency;

(2) The 90-day or 150-day restriction period under section 6213(a) of the Code has expired without the taxpayer filing a petition with the Tax Court;

(3) The taxpayer has filed a petition with (or mailed a petition to) the Tax Court; or

(4) The taxpayer and the Service, prior to the issuance of the notice of deficiency, have executed a Form 872-A, Special Consent to Extend the Time to Assess Tax, covering any of the tax years in the notice of deficiency.

SEC. 4. PROCEDURE

.01 In all events taxpayers who wish to have a notice of deficiency rescinded should contact the person/office listed on the notice and request Form 8626, Agreement to Rescind Notice of Deficiency. Taxpayers who wish an Appeals conference (see section 3.04(3) above) should contact the person/office listed on the notice in order to find out how to contact the appropriate Appeals Office.

.02 A request to rescind a notice of deficiency should be made by the taxpayer as soon as possible after receipt of the notice because a notice will not be rescinded after the 90-day or 150-day restriction period under section 6213(a) of the Code has expired.

.03 If the Service agrees with the taxpayer that the notice of deficiency should be rescinded, Form 8626 will be sent to the taxpayer requesting the taxpayer's written consent to rescind. If appropriate, Form 872 will also be sent for the taxpayer's signature. If the taxpayer agrees to the rescission of the notice of deficiency, the signed Form 8626 (and Form 872 if appropriate) must be returned to the office that sent the Form 8626 as soon as possible prior to the expiration of the 90-day or 150-day restriction period as described in section 2.03 of this revenue procedure. After the Form 8626 is returned by the taxpayer and signed on behalf of the Commissioner, a copy will be furnished to the taxpayer (and/or his or her authorized representative(s)) by mail or in person. The effective date of the rescission agreement is the date on which the Commissioner's delegate signs Form 8626.

.04 If the notice of deficiency was issued to a husband and wife jointly, Form 8626 and, if included, Form 872, must be signed by both the husband and wife, or their authorized representative(s). If Form 8626 and/or Form 872 is signed by a representative, and a power of attorney has not previously been filed, the power of attorney must be included with Form 8626.

.05 If the Service does not agree that the notice of deficiency should be rescinded, the taxpayer will be notified in writing and the notice of deficiency will remain in effect.

.06 Form 8626 must cover the same tax period(s) as the notice of deficiency to which it relates and must reflect the same tax deficiency and penalties as the notice of deficiency.

SEC. 5. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure is effective with respect to notices of deficiency issued on or after January 1, 1986.

Rev. Proc. 88-18[1]

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

To deal more efficiently with the need for guidance occasioned by the Tax Reform Act of 1986 and the Revenue Act of 1987, this revenue procedure provides conditions under which the Associate Chief Counsel (Technical and International) will consider requests for letter rulings pending the adoption of either temporary or final regulations. The objective of these changes is to expand the letter rulings process so that the Service will be able to issue rulings that previously would have been precluded by the provisions of section 5.07(2) of Rev. Proc. 88-1, page 557, this Bulletin.

SEC. 2 PROCEDURE

.01 Section 5.07(2) of Rev. Proc. 88-1 is modified to except from its conditions all Code sections added or revised by the Tax Reform Act of 1986 or the Revenue Act of 1987.

.02 For Code sections described in section 2.01 above, the appropriate Branch in Technical and International will entertain all ruling requests and do its best to issue a ruling. However the Service reserves in all cases the right not to rule when the issue cannot be properly resolved in advance of regulations.

.03 When the Service has closed a regulations project (see, for example, the extensive list published in IR 86-167, dated December 9, 1986) or does not intend to open a regulations project (see list below), section 5.07 of Rev. Proc. 88-1 does not apply and the appropriate Branch will entertain all ruling requests unless the issue is covered by the no-rule provisions of section 7 of Rev. Proc. 88-1 or by Rev. Proc. 88-3, page 579, this Bulletin, or later updates of these two revenue procedures. The following is a partial list of Tax Reform Act of 1986 Code sections for which a tentative decision has been made not to open up a regulations project:

Rev. Proc. 88-19

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

This revenue procedure declares obsolete certain revenue procedures relating to the financial conformity requirement that applies to taxpayers using the last-in, first-out (LIFO) inventory identification method of accounting.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

.01 Section 472(c) of the Internal Revenue Code requires a taxpayer using the LIFO method to use no procedure other than the LIFO method as specified in section 472(b)(1) and (3) in inventorying its goods to ascertain the income, profit, or loss of the first tax year for which the LIFO method is to be used, for the purpose of a report or statement covering such tax year to shareholders, partners, or other proprietors, or to beneficiaries, or for credit purposes. Section 472(e) extends this conformity requirement to subsequent tax years.

.02 T.D. 7756, 1981-1 C.B. 316, published in the Federal Register on January 22, 1981, amended section 1.472-2—(e) of the Income Tax Regulations and prescribed comprehensive new rules for complying with the LIFO conformity requirement set forth in section 472—(c) and (e) of the Code. Generally, section 1.472-2(e) as amended by T.D. 7756 applies to tax years beginning after December 31, 1953, and ending after August 16, 1954.

SEC. 3. APPLICATION

Because of the amendments to section 1.472-2(e) of the regulations by T.D. 7756, the eleven revenue procedures listed in section 4 of this revenue procedure are obsolete.

SECTION 1 Electronic Returns

.01 Overview

1 This revenue procedure sets the specifications for the Electronic Filing of Tax Year 1987 Individual Income Tax Returns in 1988. It also provides the specifications for the optional Direct Deposit of refunds on electronically filed returns. Participants in 1987 must reapply for approval to participate in 1988.

2 To participate in 1988, filers must complete an application form and agree to follow all requirements and specifications in this revenue procedure. They must also successfully complete testing and be accepted in the program by January 15, 1988. The data for the test will be provided by the Service.

3 The Service reserves the right to revoke the electronic filing privilege of any electronic filer who varies from these requirements and specifications or who does not consistently transmit error-free returns.

4 Approval to participate will be for 1988 only. Specifications and application procedures for processing year 1989 will be issued in 1988.

5 The number of areas from which electronic returns will be accepted has been expanded from seven metropolitan areas to sixteen IRS districts, ten of which comprise entire states. In addition, taxpayers from all participating districts who file electronically can elect to have their refunds directly deposited into their accounts in financial institutions.

6 For 1988, most widely-used forms and schedules and selected forms developed as a result of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 will be accepted. Electronic returns will be transmitted to either the Cincinnati or the Ogden Service Center.

7 Participants will electronically transmit returns to the Internal Revenue Service over communications lines and will retain related paper documents (taxpayer declarations, copies of Forms W-2, etc.) for weekly submission.

.02 Composition of an Electronic Return

1 An electronic return consists of data transmitted to the Service electronically and of paper documents filed with the Service at a later date which contain information which cannot be electronically transmitted, such as taxpayer signatures, documents prepared by third parties, etc. In total, an electronic return contains the same information as a comparable return filed entirely on paper documents.

2 For 1988, electronically transmitted data is limited to entries from the forms and schedules listed below. Selected data from Forms W-2, W-2P and W-2G will be transmitted electronically; the paper copies will be sent to the Service as attachments to the Forms 8453, U.S. Individual Income Tax Declarations for Electronic Filing. All other schedules and forms listed are to be filed with the Service in electronic form only.

3 The non-electronic portion of the return consists of the following:

(a) Form 8453, U.S. Individual Income Tax Declaration for Electronic Filing, is required for all electronic returns. See Section 5 and Attachment I of these instructions.

(b) Copy B of Forms W-2, W-2P, or W-2G which would normally be attached to the front of a return filed entirely on paper documents. Instead, these will be attached to the front of the Form 8453 overlaying Part II.

(c) Other documents containing required signatures, such as Form 2120 (Multiple Support Agreement), a physician's statement as required to support an entry on Schedule R, a proof of blindness certification from a physician or registered optometrist, an Exemption for Non-Custodial Parent (Form 8332), Form 8283, Page 2, Appraisal Summary, etc.

(d) Any other documents which

(1) are not required by the Service,

(2) are not IRS forms or schedules,

(3) are not covered in subparagraph (c) above, or

(4) are voluntarily being included with the return by the taxpayer as supporting material.

(e) Also, in certain instances, a signed copy of the paper tax return will have to be attached. (See Section 7.03.)

4 The non-electronic material must be stapled together, with the Taxpayer Declaration (Form 8453) on top, followed sequentially by the material described in Section 1.02, paragraph 3(c),

Form 1040, U.S. Individual Income Tax Return
* Form 1040A, U.S. Individual Income Tax Return

* Note: Taxpayers who would normally file Form 1040A or Form 1040EZ can participate. However, these returns must be filed electronically in the format of a Form 1040.

 These forms were developed as a result of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 and are included in the 1988 program.

then the material in paragraphs 3(d) and 3(e).

5 Electronic filers will be tested on all forms and schedules that they intend to file from those listed in Section 1.02, paragraph 2, and must successfully complete a test transmission of these forms.

6 The electronic return must be an overpaid return, i.e., the credits and prepayments reported on the return must exceed the total tax due. The overpaid amount can be refunded by check, directly deposited in the taxpayer's financial institution account or applied to 1988 estimated tax. The overpaid amount can be split two ways at the taxpayers'option. Part of it can be applied to 1988 estimated tax and the remainder refunded by check; or, part of it applied to 1988 estimated tax and the remainder directly deposited. If the amount of the overpayment is changed due to a math error, offset, etc., the estimated tax allocation has priority over the Direct Deposit or refund check allocation.

7 When an electronic filer charges a separate fee for the electronic transmission of the return, this fee must not be based on a percentage of the refund amount.

.03 Exclusions

1 The following types of returns are excluded from electronic filing in 1988.

(a) Returns without an overpayment, such as even balance, balance due or with remittance returns.

(b) Decedent returns, including joint returns filed by surviving spouses.

.01 A participating electronic filer must meet the following qualifications to be accepted:

1 intend to electronically transmit at least 100 tax year 1987 returns in 1988.

NOTE: If you intend to transmit fewer than 100 returns, you must transmit through another accepted electronic filer or through an accepted service bureau.

2 have substantial communication experience under IBM 3780 RJE bisynchronous or CCITT X.25 (1980) protocols at 4800 BAUD through a dial-up modem or associate with another firm which has such experience.

3 have an office in one or more of the designated IRS districts included for 1988. (See Section 2.02.)

NOTE: Software firms, communications firms, and service bureaus who plan to develop packages for use by participating electronic filers do not need to be located within one of the designated districts.

.02 Electronic returns are only prepared or accepted from tax preparation offices within the geographical boundaries of the following IRS districts and must be transmitted to the designated service center.

.03 While there is no geographic restriction on the taxpayers participating in electronic filing, active solicitation of business outside the designated districts is prohibited. Taxpayers who reside outside of the designated districts must appear in person at a preparer's office within the designated districts.

SEC. 3 Advertising Standards

.01 Advertising Restrictions

Preparers/transmitters of electronic returns, with respect to their capability to file returns electronically, shall comply with the advertising and solicitation provisions of 31 C.F.R. Part 10 (Treasury Department Circular No. 230). Such provisions prohibit the use in any way or participation in the use of any form of public communication containing a false, fraudulent, misleading, deceptive, unduly influencing, coercive or unfair statement or claim. The prohibition includes, but is not limited to, statements pertaining to the quality of services rendered unless subject to factual verification, claims of specialized expertise not authorized by State or Federal agencies having jurisdiction over the preparer/transmitter, and statements or suggestions that the ingenuity and/or prior record of a preparer/transmitter rather than the merit of the matter are principal factors likely to determine the result of the matter. In addition, advertising must not imply a special relationship with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), the Financial Management Service (FMS) or the Treasury Department. Claims for faster refunds by virtue of electronic filing must be consistent with the language in official Service publications.

.02 Media Communications

Communications, including fee information, shall be limited to professional lists, telephone directories, print media, permissible mailings, radio and television. In the case of radio and television broadcasting, the broadcast shall be pre-recorded and the practitioner shall retain a recording of the actual audio transmission.

.03 Geographic Limits

A preparer/transmitter shall not advertise electronic filing in a publication or broadcast whose primary recipients or audience are located outside the designated districts. It is understood that the preparer/transmitter cannot limit the broadcasting of advertisements or distribution of publications to areas within the geographical location requested. However, the primary broadcasting or distribution area must be within one of the approved district areas.

.04 IRS or FMS Endorsement Must Not Be Implied

Acceptance to participate in the program does not imply endorsement by the Internal Revenue Service or the Financial Management Service of the software or quality of services provided. Therefore, any public communication in which a participant's electronic filing and/or Direct Deposit capabilities are referenced whether through publication or broadcast, must clearly indicate that IRS acceptance of the participant for electronic filing and/or Direct Deposit does not constitute an endorsement or approval of the

(b) Advertising or promotional materials that indicate the cooperative nature of the project (public/private sector) must contain clear indications of names of all participating organizations.

.06 Advertising Refund Anticipation Loans

In advertising the availability of refund anticipation loans, electronic filers and financial institutions must refer to or describe the funds being advanced as loans, not refunds; i.e., they must make it clear that the taxpayer is borrowing against the anticipated refund, not securing the refund itself from the financial institution.

SEC. 4 Acceptance Procedures

The name, address, including county, and telephone number of a local contact in each designated branch office must be included with the application.

2 The applicant must give each privately-owned branch office a copy of this revenue procedure for electronic filing.

1 After the application has been received, the Service will provide materials to the applicant which will be used to thoroughly check out the applicant's system.

2 When applicants are ready to test with the Service, they should call the Cincinnati Service Center at 606-292-5444 or the Ogden Service Center at 801-625-6856 (not toll-free numbers) for instructions. See Sec. 2.02 for applicable service center.

3 When the same software/communications system is used by several applicants, one successful preliminary test transmission of electronic returns is required in order to test the system. However, after a software/communications system has been accepted by the Service, each applicant using that system will also be required to submit a successful test transmission prior to acceptance of each individual applicant.

.04 Acceptance

1 The Service will review the test transmission and provide feedback to the applicant. If the transmission is not correctly formatted or the applicant's test returns contain errors, the Service will identify to the applicant the errors encountered on each erroneous return. The applicant must then correct the software to eliminate the indicated errors and contact the Service to arrange for another transmission.

2 The applicant must transmit the test materials to the Service between October 5, 1987 and December 18, 1987 and must be accepted in the program by January 15, 1988. Otherwise, the applicant cannot participate in the 1988 program.

3 When the filer is accepted, the Service will issue a letter to the applicant granting official acceptance to participate in the 1988 program. Filers accepted in the program will be notified by telephone when they can begin transmitting live electronic returns. IMPORTANT: Filers are not to stockpile returns for electronic transmission prior to receiving official acceptance in the program.

SEC. 5 Taxpayer Declarations (Form 8453)

.01 Prior to submitting an electronic return, an electronic filer must obtain the taxpayer's signature on a declaration form (see Attachment I). In addition, the electronic filer must obtain all other documents currently required to be filed with returns, as detailed in Section 1.02, paragraph 3, above.

.02 The declaration will serve the following purposes.

1 Authenticate the return.

2 Authorize the electronic filer to file the return on behalf of the taxpayer.

3 Provide a transmittal for the associated paper documents that will be stapled to the declaration.

4 Authorize the electronic filer to transmit via a third-party transmitter.

5 Authorize the Service to directly deposit any overpayment to the taxpayer's account at a financial institution when specified.

.03 The electronic filer will be required to file a corrected declaration when:

1 the Total Tax field or the Refund field on the declaration differs from the corresponding amount on the return by $5 or more; or

2 the Total Income amount differs from the corresponding amount on the return by $25 or more.

.04 Electronic filers must use the official Form 8453 or an approved substitute form which duplicates the official form in format, language, contents and exact size. Electronic filers who wish to develop a substitute form must send a sample to the applicable service center Electronic Filing Unit for approval.

.05 After the Form 8453 has been properly executed, including the taxpayer and electronic filer signatures, the electronic filer will transmit the electronic portion of the return to the Service in accordance with Service specifications. By transmitting the electronic portion of the return to the Service, the electronic filer is stipulating that the declaration has been executed and that the official descriptions of all entries of the electronic return apply, i.e., retained copies do not contain any unauthorized caveats. (See Section 7 for signature requirements).

.06 The electronic filer will assign a unique 14 digitDeclaration Control Number (DCN) to each Form 8453. Its structure will be as follows:

Position	Comments
1–2	These two digits must be "00".
3–7	The Electronic Filer Identification Number (EFIN). This is a unique number assigned by the IRS to each participating electronic filer for each area where electronic returns are prepared. The first two digits will always be the IRS District Office code.
8–11	Sequential number assigned by the electronic filer to each batch of up to 100 returns.
12–13	Serial number of return within batches of 100 returns (00–99). For example, 00 equals the first return; 50 equals the 51st return in the batch of 100 returns.
14	This digit must be "8".

.07 The DCN must be recorded in the upper right hand corner of the Form 8453 for each taxpayer. Hyphens must appear between the 2nd and 3rd, 7th and 8th, and 13th and 14th digits.

For example: 00–12345–678900–8

.08 When a DCN has been assigned to a transmitted record, it cannot be changed. If a transmitted return record is rejected by the Service, the retransmitted return and related Form 8453 must reflect the original DCN.

.09 A listing of all DCN's contained on a return transmission must be produced which records the Declaration Control Number, the Social Security Number and Name Control from each electronic return transmitted. The DCN's on the listing must correspond with the DCN's assigned to the related Taxpayer Declarations. This listing will be used as a control document when sending Forms 8453 to the Service. Each listing should be divided into sections by the sequence number (positions 8–11) of the DCN. Each section is a Declaration Control Record for each batch of Forms 8453 and can contain a minimum of one and a maximum of 100 serial numbers (positions 12 and 13) for each sequence number of the DCN. No more than two printed pages per Declaration Control record (DCN sequence number) is allowed and no more than 50 DCN's can be contained on one page. (See Attachment III for the format of the Declaration Control Record.)

SEC. 6 Filing of Electronic Returns and Distribution of Copies

.01 The Service will advise electronic filers when they can begin to file electronic returns. Until this notification has been issued, electronic returns will not be accepted by the Service.

.02 If the electronic filing system breaks down for a potentially lengthy period, the Service will provide instructions to electronic filers.

.03 Material To Be Filed With The Service.

1 Participating electronic filers must transmit to the Service all electronic data, all taxpayer declarations, and all other materials described in Section 1.02, paragraph 3.

2 The electronic filer will maintain the documents referred to in Section 1.02, paragraph 3, in DCN order and associate them with the related Declaration Control Record.

3 Beginning on January 22, 1988, and every Friday thereafter throughout the filing period, the electronic filer will send this material to the applicable service center, in accordance with shipping instructions described in paragraphs 4 through 7 below. No Form 8453 may be sent to the Service for any electronic return that has not been acknowledged as accepted by the Service (see Section 9). Each shipment should include forms for all electronic returns filed during the previous week which have been acknowledged by the Service, e.g., materials for returns acknowledged by January 29, 1988 must be shipped by February 5, 1988.

> IMPORTANT: For returns prepared and transmitted on April 15, 1988 and accepted after April 15, 1988 to be considered timely filed, the related Forms 8453, Taxpayer Declarations, must be signed by April 15, 1988 and received in the applicable service center by April 22, 1988.

4 A Declaration Control Record, (see Attachment III) must accompany each batch of Forms 8453. If a return has been rejected or not acknowledged by the Service (see Section 9) remove the applicable Forms 8453 from the batch and line through the DCN, SSN and Name Control on the Declaration Control Record for each item removed from the batch. If rejected or unacknowledged returns are subsequently transmitted, the retransmitted record, the applicable Form 8453 and related Declaration Control Record must reflect the originally assigned DCN.

> NOTE: The Declaration Control Record must be created prior to transmitting the return file and should be reviewed thoroughly to avoid duplication of DCNs.

5 Place the Declaration Control Record at the front of the batch of Forms 8453 and secure with a rubber band or string. The paper documents in each batch must be in ascending sequence following the Declaration Control Record.

6 Prepare batches for shipping using envelopes or cartons as volume or preference dictates and send to the appropriate service center.

7 Method of delivery is optional. However, Declarations should be received at the service center within one week of shipment.

8 If a taxpayer declaration is found to be missing, the electronic filer will be required to expeditiously provide either a copy of a signed Form 8453 from his or her records (see Sec. 6.04) or obtain a new Form 8453 from the taxpayer.

.04 Material To Be Retained By The Electronic Filer

The electronic filer must retain a copy of the material furnished to the taxpayer. The copy of the electronic material (described in Section 1.02, paragraph 2) may be retained on magnetic media. In addition, the electronic filer must retain the acknowledgement file received from the Service to facilitate taxpayer inquiries. The retention period for this material must be consistent with Treasury Regulation 1.6107-1(b)(3).

.05 Material To Be Provided To The Taxpayer.

The electronic filer must furnish the taxpayer with a paper copy of all material filed with the Service covered in Section 1.02, subparagraphs 3(a), (c) and (d)(2), and any material covered in subparagraph (d)(3). In addition, the electronic filer should advise the taxpayer to retain copies of materials described in subparagraphs (b) and (d)(1) and materials described in subparagraphs (d)(3) and (d)(4) which were not provided by the electronic filer. The copy of the electronic material described in Sec. 1.02, subparagraph 2, can be contained on replicas of official forms or on forms designed by the electronic filer. If the latter, data entries must be referenced to the line numbers on official forms. Preparers should also advise taxpayers that their electronic returns will be processed by the IRS at the Cincinnati or Ogden Service Center, as applicable, but that amended returns, if needed, must be filed on paper returns and mailed to their usual IRS center.

IMPORTANT: Electronic filers will be required to give each taxpayer for whom they file an electronic return a copy of Notice 811, To Taxpayers Who Take Part in Electronic Filing, provided by the Internal Revenue Service (See Attachment IV).

SEC. 7 Electronic Filer Requirements and Responsibilities

.01 The Service will accept electronic returns only from filers who have been accepted for electronic filing.

.02 Electronic filers must not prepare returns for taxpayers who do not personally appear before them (at least one taxpayer on a joint return) unless the taxpayers are residents of one of the designated districts during the filing season.

.03 An electronic filer that accepts returns prepared by individuals or by non-participating preparers (i.e., those not approved for electronic filing) solely for purposes of electronic input will be considered to come under the "mechanical assistance" exception described in Treasury Regulation 301.7701-01(d)(1), In these cases, the filer will not be considered to be a paid preparer for purposes of IRC 7701(a)(36). In addition, the following requirements must be met:

1 The taxpayer must be physically present in the electronic filer's office.

2 The electronic filer must check the box and sign the Form 8453 as the transmitter only and obtain the taxpayer's signature on that same form.

3 The return must meet the same validation tests required for other electronic returns. However, except for the minor correction provisions in Section 7.07 below, if the electronic filer corrects any material rather than the taxpayer or incorrectly transmits any of the return data contained on the taxpayer's paper return, the electronic filer will be considered to be the return preparer. The electronic filer must sign the Form 8453 as the preparer and not check the box as the tranmitter only.

4 If the return was self-prepared by the taxpayer, one copy of the return signed by the taxpayer must be retained by the electronic filer, another copy of the Form 1040 (Page 1 and 2), Form 1040A (Page 1 and 2) or the Form 1040EZ (Page 1) must be attached to the Form 8453 and the paid preparer field on the electronic return must be left blank.

5 When an electronic filer transmits returns prepared by another firm, the other firm that prepared the return must be identified in the appropriate field of the electronic return as the paid preparer, and a copy of the Form 1040 (Page 1 and 2), Form 1040A (Page 1 and 2) or the Form 1040EZ (Page 1) signed and prepared by that other firm must be attached to the Form 8453.

.04 A firm approved for electronic filing (e.g., Firm A) can provide data processing and/or communication services to another preparer approved for electronic filing (e.g., Firm B). In these cases,

1 Firm A will be considered to come under the "mechanical assistance" exception in 301.7701-15(d)(1), and therefore will not be considered to be the paid preparer for purposes of IRC 7701(a)(36), and

2 Firm B must complete and sign the Form 8453, not Firm A.

.05 A firm not approved for electronic filing can provide data processing services to approved electronic filers. In these cases,

1 the firm providing the services will be considered to come under the "mechanical assistance" exception in 301.7701-15(d)(1), and therefore will not be considered to be the paid preparer for purposes of IRC 7701(a)(36), and

2 the electronic filer must complete and sign the Form 8453, not the servicing organization.

.06 If electronic returns are transmitted to the Service via communications company, and the communications company does not alter the return information,

1 the Service will consider the actions of the approved electronic filer as a permissible disclosure under Treas. Reg. 301.7216-2(h), and

2 the Service will consider the actions of the communications company as an "auxiliary service" under Treas. Reg. 301.7216-1(b)(2)(i)(B).

.07 If an electronic return is corrected in a non-substantive way after the taxpayer's signature has been obtained on Form 8453, but before transmission to the Service, it will not be necessary for the electronic filer to obtain the taxpayer's signature on a new Form 8453, provided the following conditions are met:

1 The corrections do not affect any of the amounts included on the Form 8453 signed by the taxpayer (subject to the tolerances described in paragraphs 1 and 2 of Section 5.03 above).

2 The non-substantive changes are limited to corrections of arithmetic errors, transposition errors, misplaced entries and spelling errors. The incorrect information should be neatly lined through on the Form 8453 and the correct data entered next to the lined-through entry. Also, enter the initials or name of the person making the correction.

Note: Dropping cents and rounding to whole dollars does not constitute a substantive change or alteration to the return. All rounding should be accomplished in accordance with the instructions in the Form 1040 tax package.

.08 After an electronic return is submitted, it cannot be recalled or intercepted in process. If either the electronic filer or the taxpayer wishes to change any entries, an amended return must be filed in the form of a paper document.

.09 Electronic filers must not contact the Service regarding corrections to specific electronic returns that have been acknowledged as accepted unless a current Power of Attorney is on file with the Service for this purpose.

.10 The electronic filer must promptly satisfy Service requests to resolve problems relating to missing or inconsistent Forms 8453 and provide copies of such forms within five workdays upon request by the Service.

.11 The electronic filer must provide Service representatives with access to all materials required to be maintained.

.12 An electronic filer whose application covers branch offices (per Section 4.02 above) must serve as a conduit between the IRS and those offices for correspondence, resolution of problems, evaluation reports, etc. Electronic filers whose branch offices are located in more than one participating district may elect to designate one contact person per district area to serve as the conduit between IRS and the offices within that district. In either case, however, if IRS needs access to retained copies of electronic returns, it will go directly to the designated local contacts. Any problems encountered by the IRS in securing such access will be reported to the electronic filer who is responsible for corrective action.

1 Electronic filers must monitor electronic filing at covered branch offices, to the extent permitted by law and regulations, to ensure compliance with all IRS requirements. To supplement this, IRS will advise electronic filers of problems it has encountered originating in the covered branch offices. Failure to take corrective action will lead to the initiation of suspension action against the electronic filer.

2 If there are repeated or continuing problems with electronic filing from a particular covered branch office, the electronic filer is required to drop that office from the electronic filing program.

3 If IRS initiates suspension action, it will apply to all returns filed by an electronic filer, including covered branches.

4 The procedures in Sec. 7.04 also apply to returns filed by privately-owned branches.

.13 The taxpayer is instructed in Notice 811 to contact the electronic filer if the refund has not been received within four weeks. In these cases, the electronic filer should verify that the Service has acknowledged acceptance of the return.

1 If the return was not acknowledged as accepted by the Service, the electronic filer must immediately advise the taxpayer that the return was not filed, and if directed by the taxpayer, retransmit the return. Otherwise, a paper return must be filed by the taxpayer.

2 If the return was acknowledged as accepted by the Service, but less than four weeks have elapsed since the date of the acknowledgement, the electronic filer should advise the taxpayer to wait four weeks from the acknowledgement date before making another inquiry.

3 If the return was acknowledged as accepted by the Service and four or more weeks have elapsed since the date of the ackowledgement, the electronic filer should advise the taxpayer to contact their local IRS district for assistance.

SEC. 8 Electronic Filing Communications Requirements

.01 These procedures will only apply to the 1988 program and may not be relevant in subsequent years.

.02 Returns can be transmitted by preparers or by communications firms acting for preparers. For purposes of this section both will be termed transmitters. Normally, all data communications will be over the Public Switched Telephone Network to the Cincinnati or Ogden Service Center. However, if transmitters wish to avail themselves of a dedicated (9600 baud) line, they must make a written request (letter) to Director, IS:I, Rm. 3407 ARFB, 1111 Constitution Ave. NW, Washington, DC 20224 by October 15, 1987. Telephone numbers, specific password conventions and a test transmission schedule will be developed between the IRS and transmitters at a later time.

.03 All data communications between transmitters and the Service will be accomplished using the following requirements:

1 Line Speed

(a) 4800 BPS via Public Switched Telephone Network

(b) 9600 BPS via dedicated facility provided by the transmitter.

2 Character Code

(a) Extended Binary Coded Decimal Interchange Code (EBCDIC)

(b) American Standard Code for Information Interchange (ASCII)

3 Communications Protocols

(a) IBM 3780 RJE bi-synchronous (BSC).

(b) Packet-Switching Network Interface Standard as defined by the CCITT Recommended X.25(1980)

NOTE: Other protocols may become available. Contact the EFS Data Communications Coordinator, (202) 377-9390, for the latest list.

4 Modems

(a) All dial-up will be 4800 BPS Bell 208B compatible.

(b) For 9600 BPS dedicated lines, the modem will be provided by the electronic filer/ transmitter.

.04 Transmitters will be responsible for the security of all transmitted data. Transmittals will not be considered filed returns until they successfully pass through the IRS Electronic Filing Pre-Processor.

.05 The receipt date of the electronic transmission will constitute the receipt date of the return if it is acknowledged as accepted by IRS.

.06 Returns Prepared on April 15th.

1 The determination of whether an electronic return is timely filed is made in the same way as for paper returns.

2 If by April 18th, an acknowledgement of acceptance has not been received for any timely transmitted return, the electronic filer must immediately contact the Electronic Filing Unit at the applicable service center. If the situation is not resolved, the filer must advise the taxpayer that the return was not filed and that a paper return should be mailed directly to the IRS. In addition, the preparer should tell the taxpayer to attach a brief note of explanation to the return, containing the name and Employer Identification Number of the preparer/ transmitter and stating that the return is late due to rejection of a timely submitted electronic return.

SEC. 9 Acknowledgement of Electronically Filed Returns

.01 Each transmission of a file of electronic returns will normally be acknowledged to the transmitter within two workdays of successful receipt. Any return not acknowledged as received by the Service will be considered not filed.

.02 The transmitter should immediately match the acknowledgement file back to the original file transmitted. Any tax return transmitted which is not acknowledged by the Service has not been accepted for processing and must be resubmitted to be considered a filed return.

.03 The acknowledgement file identifies which returns have been accepted, rejected or identified as duplicates. Rejects will be coded as internal inconsistencies, control data errors or key field data errors. (See Electronic Return File Specifications.)

.04 When a return has been rejected after three attempts, contact the appropriate service center Electronic Filing Unit.

Note: Any transmitter who does not receive transmission of an Acknowledgement File within two workdays or who receives acknowledgements for returns which were not transmitted on the designated transmission should immediately contact the appropriate service center.

SEC. 10 Overview of Transmission Procedures

(See Electronic Return File Specifications and Electronic Return Record Layouts for all record formats.)

.01 The following sequence of events will constitute a taxreturn data transmission session:

1 The electronic filer will telephone the Service Center's MODEM (on the authorized telephone numbers only) and initiate the authentication process. When the transmitter has been authenticated, a tax return data session will commence. During the session, two types of transmissions can occur.

2 The first transmission will be an acknowledgement by the IRS of previous session transmittals by the electronic filer, if appropriate. Acknowledgement Files will be available within two workdays of receipt of the tax return transmission (see Section 9 for a description of the Acknowledgement File). Upon interfacing with the IRS Electronic Filing System (EFS) computer, the EFS will transmit an acknowledgement of validated tax return records, or a screen announcement of the lack of an acknowledgement file. At the termination of the first transmission, the EFS will proceed to accept the transmission of new return records. The electronic filer may receive return acknowledgements without transmitting new tax return data.

3 The second transmission, without a break in the communication link, will be the transmission of tax return data, if appropriate. Broken transmissions must be re-initiated from the beginning because there is no checkpoint capability at the IRS site. The EFS will terminate the communication session upon the receipt of the RECAP record.

4 Each transmitter sending session will consist of no more than 500 tax returns (approximately 30 minutes line time). If more returns are available for transmission, they must be sent in subsequent transmissions.

5 If a filer is filing fewer than 500 returns on a given day, all returns must be included in one transmission.

.02 Refer to Attachment XI for a description of the commmunications dialogue between the Service communications processor (Series/1) and the transmitter.

SEC. 11 Direct Deposit

.01 General Information

1 Taxpayers who file electronically and meet certain eligibilty requirements can elect to have their refunds directly deposited into their checking and savings accounts in financial institutions.

2 A taxpayer who elects Direct Deposit will not receive a refund check. Instead, the refund will be transferred directly to the designated financial institution for crediting to the taxpayer's account. This transfer will be effected by the Financial Management Service (FMS). The advantages of Direct Deposit to the taxpayer are that the refund amount is received more quickly and conveniently, the risk of loss is minimized and the funds are immediately available upon receipt.

3 Enrollment in Direct Deposit is voluntary. A taxpayer who elects to have part of the overpayment applied to next year's estimated tax credits can elect to have the balance of the overpayment directly deposited. However, an overpayment cannot be split between a Direct Deposit and a refund check.

4 Enrollment in Direct Deposit for income tax refunds is not a permanent election by the taxpayer. A new enrollment is required each year.

.02 Eligibility requirements for Direct Deposit are as follows:

1 The return must be filed electronically by a participating electronic filer.

2 The return must be for tax year 1987.

3 The taxpayer must show the electronic filer a proof of account issued by the financial institution designated by the taxpayer to receive the Direct Deposit. An acceptable proof of account is a check, a copy of Form 1099-INT, or a form, report or statement generated by the financial institution which contains the following information preprinted on the document. (See Attachment V.)

(a) Account Title (Name of the account on the records of the financial institution)

(b) Account Number

(c) Name of the Financial Institution (FI)

(d) Routing Transit Number (RTN) of the Financial Institution

4 The account designated to receive the Direct Deposit must be the taxpayer's, unless the filing status on the return is married filing joint or married filing separately. If the filing status on the return is married filing joint, the account can be that of either spouse or of both spouses. If the filing status on the return is married filing separately, the account can be the taxpayer's or a joint account with the spouse. The account cannot include the name of any other person.

5 The account must be a checking, share draft, savings or other consumer asset account held by a financial institution and established primarily for personal, family or household purposes. (A credit card account is excluded.)

NOTE: A check or share draft that is "payable through" another financial instituion is not eligible as a proof of account since it contains the RTN of the "payable through" financial institution rather than the financial institution where the account is located. The taxpayer must produce another document from the financial institution, such as an account statement, which contains the RTN of the receiving financial institution. (See Attachment VI.)

6 The financial institution must be a State or National bank, savings and loan association, mutual savings bank or credit union. "State" includes any State, territory or possession of the United States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, or any political sub-division of the above.

7 Taxpayers do not need to obtain advance approval of their financial institutions to have their refunds directly deposited.

8 The taxpayer may designate a financial institution to receive the Direct Deposit, even when the financial institution prepared or transmitted the electronic return. The financial institution, however, cannot make a refund anticipation loan with respect to the Direct Deposit election. (See Section 11.08, subparagraph 6.)

9 If electronic filers accept any Direct Deposit enrollments, they must accept all Direct Deposit elections to any financial institution designated by taxpayers.

.03 The electronic filer must enter the Direct Deposit data on Form 8453, Taxpayer Declaration (see Attachment VII).

1 This includes the information described in paragraph 3 of Sec. 11.02, plus the following additional information obtained from the taxpayer:

(a) Type of Account—Savings or Checking.

(b) Ownership of Designated Account—Self, Husband, Wife, or Husband and Wife.

2 The electronic filer must complete all other required entries on Form 8453 and obtain the signature(s) of the taxpayer(s).

.04 Electronic Filer Processing of Direct Deposit Requests

1 Electronic filers will not charge a separate fee for Direct Deposit.

2 Electronic filers must include the following Direct Deposit data on the electronic return.

(a) Routing Transit Number—must be nine numerics.

(1) If less than nine digits, the account is ineligible for Direct Deposit.

(2) If Source Code is "2" for a check or share draft, the RTN is the first 9 digits printed on the bottom left of the check (see Attachment V).

(b) Account Number—maximum 17 positions.

(1) If less than 17 positions, enter the account number left-justified with trailing blanks.

IMPORTANT: Include hyphens and omit spaces and other special characters.

(2) If the Source Code is "2" for a check or sharedraft, the account number field on the source document follows the RTN. In some cases, this field may contain additional data in front of or behind the actual account number, such as the check serial number. If the check serial number is not clearly discernible, electronic filers should treat the entire field following the RTN, including hyphens, as the account number for purposes of Direct Deposit of income tax refunds. (See Attachment VIII.) Using this field, the receiving financial institutions will identify the actual account numbers and properly credit the refund amount. (If the combined field exceeds seventeen digits, the account is ineligible for Direct Deposit.)

NOTE: If a cancelled check is used as a proof of account, do not include the money amount field appearing in the right bottom margin of the cancelled check. See Attachment V.

(c) Source Code—one numeral with a value of 2 (Check) or 3 (Form 1099-INT or Other).

(d) Account Type—one alpha character with value of "S" for a savings account or "C" for a checking account.

(e) Ownership (of Designated Account) Indicator—one numeric position with the value of "0" for Self, "1" for Husband, "2" for Wife or "3" for Husband and Wife.

(1) If Ownership Indicator is "0", Filing Status (SEQ 130 of the return record) must be "1", "3", "4" or "5".

(2) If Ownership Indicator is "1" or "2", Filing Status (SEQ 130 of the return record) must be "2".

(3) If Ownership Indicator is "3", Filing Status (SEQ 130 of the return record) must be "2" or "3".

3 The data specified in Sec. 11.04 is required to be key entered from source documents twice to enable the electronic filer to detect and correct transcription errors. Such errors could delay the Direct Deposit, cause it to be handled incorrectly or cancel it altogether. Accordingly, filer software must compare the two independent key entries, and if they are not identical, generate an error message to initiate corrective action before the returns are transmitted to the Service.

4 In addition to the key verification described in paragraph 3, the electronic filer must validate the Direct Deposit data on the electronic return as follows:

(a) The electronic filer must validate the routing transit number, using the formula shown in Attachment IX.

(b) The electronic filer must ensure the consistency of the routing transit number and the account number entries with the comparable data on the Form 8453.

5 The electronic filer must transmit the electronic return to the IRS.

6 Taxpayers should be cautioned that once an electronic return has been released to the Service, the Direct Deposit election cannot be rescinded nor can the RTN or account number be changed.

.05 Processing of Direct Deposits by IRS and FMS

1 IRS will verify the direct deposit information contained on the electronic returns by:

(a) matching the entries in the five Direct Deposit fields of the Return and Summary records, and

(b) identifying Source Code/RTN inconsistencies or Account Number duplications.

2 If there is any inconsistency, the return will be rejected. The electronic filer will be advised of the error on the Acknowledgement File.

3 The IRS may also sometimes find it necessary to supersede the Direct Deposit election and issue checks which will be mailed to the address on the return. This would be due to conditions arising during processing, such as the need for special processing by IRS. When such a condition occurs, the IRS will normally issue an explanatory notice to the taxpayer.

4 IRS will send a Direct Deposit refund tape to FMS weekly for transmission to the designated financial institutions. The refunds will be transmitted via the Automated Clearing House (ACH) system to all financial institutions which accept electronic fund transfers. Note: Refer any questions about FMS' processing of Direct Deposits to Jim Knox at 202-287-0467 (not a toll-free number).

.06 Processing of Direct Deposits by Financial Institutions

1 The financial institutions will credit refunds to payee accounts in accordance with the procedures developed by IRS and FMS specifically for the Direct Deposit of refunds.

2 If an account number on a Direct Deposit transaction does not match the financial institution's records, the financial institution will attempt to credit the refund based on other identifying information which accompanies the payment (i.e., name, address, SSN, etc.). If this is unsuccessful, the financial institution will return the Direct Deposit to FMS, which will in turn notify the IRS. IRS will then authorize FMS to mail a refund check to the taxpayer.

.07 Non-Receipt of Direct Deposits

1 The IRS will not issue a written notice to taxpayers confirming Direct Deposits. To check the status of their refunds, taxpayers in all district areas should call the toll-free IRS Tele-Tax number 1-800-554-4477. EXCEPTION: Taxpayers in the Sacramento district who reside in the counties of Amador, Calaveras, Contra Costa, Marin and San Joaquin should call the toll-free Tele-Tax number 1-800-428-4032 instead. When calling, they should have available the primary Social Security Number (the first SSN listed, if a joint return), the Filing Status as shown on the return and the exact amount of the expected refund excluding any amount designated to be applied to 1987 estimated tax. The taxpayers should allow one week after the Tele-Tax refund issued date for their refund to be credited in their accounts.

> NOTE: At certain times the Tele-Tax system may not be available due to internal update processing. When this occurs, the taxpayer should call the following day.

2 When taxpayers call the Tele-Tax number and learn that their refund was not issued, they should call the electronic filer. The electronic filer, in turn, should verify that the IRS has acknowledged that the tax return has been accepted.

3 If from the Tele-Tax number, taxpayers learn that the Direct Deposit was issued but their account is not credited within a week from the date issued, they should contact the IRS to initiate trace actions. Trace actions for Direct Deposit will be routed to the receiving financial institutions by FMS for resolution. If, after four weeks, the financial institution has not contacted the taxpayer, or has failed to satisfactorily resolve the problem, the taxpayer should initiate a follow-up trace action with IRS.

4 If a taxpayer's account has not been credited with the refund four or more weeks after the electronic filer has received an acknowledgement from the IRS that the electronic return was accepted, and the taxpayer has not received a notice indicating that the refund will be issued by check, the electronic filer should advise the taxpayer to contact their local IRS district office for assistance.

5 Neither IRS nor FMS is responsible for the misapplication of a Direct Deposit which is caused by error or negligence on the part of the taxpayer, electronic filer or financial institution, or any of their agents.

.08 Refund Anticipation Loans

1 An electronic filer may assist a client in applying for a refund anticipation loan. This is a loan made by the financial institution designated to receive Direct Deposit of the anticipated refund. The loan would normally be repaid through an authorization to the financial institution to debit the account when the refund is credited. Financial institutions authorized to receive Direct Deposits are described in Sec 11.02.

2 An electronic filer may charge a fee to assist a client in applying for a refund anticipation loan, but such fee must be identical for all affected clients and must not be related to the amount of the refund or loan. The electronic filer may only share in the flat fees imposed by the lending financial institution to provide the loan and cannot share in any fees imposed by the financial institution based on the amount of the loan.

3 An electronic filer can disclose tax information to the lending financial institution in connection with an application for a refund anticipation loan only with the client's written consent as specified in Section 301.7216-3(b) of the Income Tax Regulations.

4 A Direct Deposit refund will usually be made within approximately three weeks of the date the electronic return is accepted. However, the Treasury Department will not guarantee that a refund will be issued by a specific date or for the requested amount. Further, sometimes a refund check will be issued to the taxpayer at his or her home address in lieu of a Direct Deposit. The electronic filer or the lending financial institution will not be notified if the Direct Deposit refund is delayed or cancelled, or if the amount is changed. The Treasury Department will not be liable for any loss incurred by the taxpayer, the electronic filer or the financial institution with respect to a refund anticipation loan. The absence of any guarantees with respect to the date the refund will be issued or the amount of such refund must be included on the refund anticipation loan application form. Further, electronic filers must advise taxpayers that if Direct Deposits are not timely, they may be liable for additional interest on the refund anticipation loan.

5 The IRS will not accept inquiries from financial institutions with respect to the timing or amount of a Direct Deposit. Also, prior to the filing of electronic returns, the IRS will not accept inquiries from taxpayers or electronic filers concerned with refund anticipation loans, e.g., whether the prospective refund would be subject to offset or delay, whether the taxpayer identification number is consistent with IRS records, etc. Inquiries subsequent to the filing of an electronic return must be in accordance with Section 6.

6 An electronic filer that is also the return preparer must not be affiliated (as defined in Section 1504(a) of the Internal Revenue Code) with the financial institution making the refund anticipation loan.

7 Actions taken by an electronic filer not consistent with this Revenue Procedure may result in the imposition of the penalties prescribed in Section 6695(f) of the Internal Revenue Code and/or may also result in suspension from electronic filing. Actions taken in violation of these provisions by a lending financial institution could result in the Service ceasing to honor requests from taxpayers to directly deposit refunds in those institutions.

SEC. 12 Monitoring

.01 The following conditions can lead to suspension:

1 Deterioration in the format of individual transmissions.

2 Cumulative error rate is not acceptable.

3 Violation of advertising standards.

4 Unethical practices in return preparation.

.02 The Service will monitor the quality of filers' transmissions throughout the filing season. The Service will also monitor electronic returns and tabulate rejects, errors and other defects. If the quality deteriorates, the electronic filer will receive a warning from the Service, or in extreme cases, a letter suspending the electronic filer from electronic filing.

.03 The Service will monitor advertising and return preparation practices of electronic filers for consistency with Service requirements. If the situation warrants, a warning letter will be issued prescribing specific corrective action for cited deviations. If the deviation is not corrected, a letter of suspension will be issued to the filer by the Service. In extreme cases, the filer will be suspended immediately from electronic filing without a warning letter. The suspension will remain in effect until the Service has determined that the deviations have been corrected.

.04 When suspended, the electronic filer will be counseled concerning the requirements for re-acceptance in the electronic filing program.

SEC. 13 Administrative Review Process

.01 The electronic filer has the right of administrative review of the suspension decision.

.02 Requests for administrative review of suspension decisions should be directed to the Office of the Director of Practice (PM:HR:DP), 1111 Constitution Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224.

SEC. 14 Effect on Other Documents

Rev. Proc. 87-16 dated April 27, 1987 and Rev. Proc. 87-52 dated October 5, 1987 are superseded.

Appendix A – Electronic Return File Specifications

SECTION 1 Summary

.01 After the transmitter has been authenticated, an acknowledgement transmission will commence, if appropriate. The sequence of acknowledgement records is as follows:

1 The original Trans record.

2 An Ack record for each recognizable return received.

3 The original Recap record plus counts for accepted and rejected returns.

.02 If the entire transmission is rejected, the acknowledgement transmission will contain the following:

1 the original Trans record, and

2 one Ack record containing the Reject Code (Field 14e) significant.

3 the original Recap record with Fields (9) through (12) zero-filled.

.03 After the acknowlegdement transmission, a return record transmission will commence. The sequence of record transmissions is as follows:

1 Trans record (this record identifies the transmitter).

2 Tax Return records (including the return (RET), and all related schedule (SCH), form (FRM), statement (STM) and summary (SUM) records).

3 Recap record.

(This sequence will be repeated for each batch of 500 returns transmitted in a subsequent session.)

.04 All returns on a transmission must be from the Cincinnati (A) or Ogden (B) designated processing areas (see Processing Site Designator, Element (8), in the Trans Record).

Sec. 2 General Description

.01 Byte Counts

1 EBCDIC transmissions must use the IBM Byte count convention. A four byte counter must precede each logical record. The byte counts contain the length of the record or block plus the length of the byte count.

2 ASCII transmissions must use the ANS Byte count convention. A four byte counter must precede each logical record in a block. The byte counts contain the length of the record plus the length of the byte count.

3 Record byte counts are provided for filers using the fixed format option. They may be found preceding the Record ID field in the record layout for each record. Filers using the variable format option must compute their own byte counts.

4 EBCDIC transmitters must compute the block byte count by adding the byte counts of the records in the blocks and then adding four to the total.

.02 The first record on a transmitted file (the TRANS record) contains information regarding the transmitter and file format. This record should be followed by the records comprising the tax returns being transmitted. The last record on a transmitted file (the RECAP record) will provide balancing counts of returns.

.03 A tax return will consist of a variable number of fixed-field records. The size and format of the logical record for each page of each form, schedule etc., are specified herein. In addition, a variable field/record format option is acceptable. See details under Variable Length Option. Maximum block size is limited to 512 bytes, excluding bi-synchronous control characters.

.04 (Reserved)

.05 Each logical record should contain all data fields pertaining to one printed page of an official form or schedule or to a line of a continuation statement. Therefore, the logical record contains an entire form or schedule; a logical part (i.e., a page) of a form or schedule; or, a logical part (i.e., a line) of a statement. The complete tax return must consist of all logical records pertaining to it in the following sequence: Return, Schedules, Forms, Statements and Summary. Schedules must be in alphabetical sequence and forms must be in numeric sequence. Forms W-2, W-G and W-2P records shall appear as the initial forms in the Form Record sequence. Return, Schedule, Form, and Statement Records may contain additional sequential Page Records if they consist of more than one printed page.

(Pages are only numbered within a form, schedule or statement, not across the return.) All records must appear in the proper sequence, with the proper control information and the counts of the schedules and forms must balance to the Summary Record or the return will be rejected.

.06 A page need not be generated, if there are no entries on the page record of a form or schedule.

.07 The first logical record for a tax return (i.e., the Return Record for page 1 of the tax form) will include the tax period, return type, the Declaration Control Number (containing the Electronic Filer Identification Number of the electronic filer who prepared the return), and the Return Sequence Number (RSN). The Return Sequence Number is a unique 16-digit field assigned by the transmitter to each return within a return transmission. The RSN includes the transmitter's Electronic Filer Identification Number (EFIN) and the date and sequence of the transmitted return and consists of the following fields:

1 Electronic Filer Identification Number (EFIN) of the transmitter (5 numerics)

2 EFIN suffix, the value of which is determined by the transmitting electronic filer (2 numerics)

3 Julian date of transmission (3 numerics)

4 Transmission sequence number for the given Julian Date (2 numerics)

5 Sequential number assigned to the return (4 numerics).

NOTE: Do not confuse the RSN and the DCN. The Declaration Control Number (DCN) included in the Return Record ID must contain the EFIN of the electronic filer who prepared the return, even if the Transmitter assigns the DCN as a service to the electronic return preparer.

.08 If the number of data items appearing on the same line exceeds the number that can be contained in the space provided on the printed form or schedule, the data must be provided on a separate continuation statement (STM) record. There is a maximum of 20 statement page records per return in total. If STM is used, no data should be entered in the base return.

1 The first line entry for the continued item on the base form or schedule record itself shall read "STMbnn ("nn" being the applicable statement number). All of the applicable entries (the "*" field and any related " + " fields) must then be on the statement record and cannot be split between the continued item record and the statement.

2 The first statement record will contain a literal description of the item continued (e.g., "Interest Income, Schedule B").

3 The second statement record for all continuations of tabular data should contain the column headings (e.g., "Name of Payer............ Amount...........") spaced with the headings as they would appear on the printed form they continue.

4 The third statement record will contain, left-justified, a series of two position counters giving the length and displacement from the left margin of each related field which will appear on the same line (e.g., if a 20 position description and a 12 position amount are to be positioned beginning in columns 15 and 40, the record would contain "20151240").

5 Each following statement record from "LN04" on will contain, left-justified, the related data fields in the same format as they appear in the base layout.

6 Statements can only be used by the electronic filer when the open-ended item cannot be contained in the space provided on the printed form or schedule. See details under Statement Record Layout in Section 8 below.

.09 All money fields are 12 characters (11 numerics followed by the sign character or 12 spaces). Money fields containing no significant data must be filled with spaces. The significant numeric characters must be right-justified and zero filled. Dollar signs, decimal points, or other non-numeric characters are not permitted. The right-most position of any negative money field must contain the negative sign; for positive fields this position is always blank. Money fields must be all whole dollars (no cents).

> Note: Fields which can only contain loss amounts, such as Schedule D, Total Short Term Column (f) Losses, must be transmitted as positive fields. Fields which can contain either gain (income) or loss amounts, such as Schedule D, Line 17, Net Long Term Gain/Loss must be transmitted with the applicable sign character, i. e., blank for positive amounts and minus for negative amounts.

.10 All percentage fields must be five positions, left-justified and zero filled. Do not enter the decimal point on the record. The decimal point will be assumed to be between the left-most and the second left-most positions. If percentage is less than 100%, precede the figure with a zero. For example, 25.32% would be entered as "02532" and 105% would be entered as "10500".

> Exception: Form 6252, Line 15, Gross Profit Ratio requires five positions following the decimal point. When this field is significant, do not enter the leading zero. The decimal point will be assumed to precede the left-most position. For example, if Gross Profit Ratio equals 65.987 percent, enter as "65987".

.11 A summary record will be the final record for each tax return. This record will contain electronic filer identification data and counts of the Schedules, Forms and Statements included in the return and indicators for paper documents retained by the electronic filer for subsequent transmission to the IRS.

.12 Except where designated, do not enter blanks or spaces between data elements.

.13 The file should be unlabeled (no standard header or trailer records).

.14 Each file must contain only complete returns.

.15 All alphabetic data must be in upper case only.

.16 For fixed format, blank fill all nonsignificant fields unless otherwise specified in the Electronic Return Record Layouts.

Sec. 3 TRANS Record

.01 The first record on each file is the TRANS record which will contain the following (for this purpose, Transmitter is the firm handling the data communication):

Sec. 4 Variable Length Option

.01 The variable format will be indicated by a "V" in the Record Type field of the initial Transmitter (TRANS) Record for a file. In this format the data field is preceded by the applicable field identification number shown in specific record layouts. The field identification number is enclosed with field delimiters ([ ]). These characters will also enclose the control information (i.e. Record I.D. field) which begins each return, schedule or form record. The beginning of record control information remains in the same fixed format shown; the individual data fields need only contain the significant data (i.e. no leading zeros or trailing spaces). The Summary and Statement records, which are not keyed to field numbers, must be full length expanded records but must still be enclosed in field delimiters.

.02 Each variable record (including the Statement and Summary Records) will end with a Record Terminus Character (#). There must not be any extraneous characters between terminus characters and the byte count preceding the next logical record.

> IMPORTANT: THE FOLLOWING THREE CHARACTERS "[", "]", and "#" ARE RESERVED AS DELIMITERS AND MAY NOT APPEAR AS DATA CHARACTERS. The basic record would follow the format below.

[RECORD ID FIELD] [1st field number] DATA
[Next field number] DATA ... #

.03 A list of special symbols and their hexidecimal and octal conversion characters for ASCII and EBCDIC are contained in Attachment XII.

Sec. 5 Tax Return Record

.01 The Page 01 record for each tax return (Form 1040) starts with the following 10 fields. Page 2 of each Form 1040 will have a new page record with the Page Number incremented to "02". These records will each begin with Fields 1-8 below.

Sec. 6 Schedule Record

.01 The second record or series of records is the Schedule Record. Each page of a schedule will have a new Schedule Record with the Page Number incremented. This record should appear in alphabetic order by Schedule type.

Sec. 7 Form Record

.01 The third series of records after Returns and Schedules are the Form records. They should appear in numeric order by form number. Each page of a form will have a new Form Record with the Page Number incremented.

Sec. 8 Statement Record

.01 The statement record is the fourth series of records after Returns, Schedules and Forms. Statement records are used to continue a field or related series of fields which appear on the same print line. Each statement is given a sequential number from OO to 99. References to statements on the tax return must be in ascending numerical sequence and must be referenced in the same sequence as the transmission sequence of the forms. Note: Although statement reference numbers must be in ascending sequence, they do not have to be in consecutive numerical sequence. The first data field of the line item(s) being continued will contain "STMbnn" with "nn" being the sequential statement number. Each statement will consist of a series of records with LINE NUMBERS of 01 up to 50 for each sequential PAGE NUMBER. There are maximums of 2 statement pages per statement and 20 statement pages per return. A statement can only be referred to once in a tax return

.02 After the control information there will be 80 characters of data for each line. The first line record (LNO1) for each page of a statement will contain only the title of the item(s) being continued. The second line of each page (LN02) will contain the column titles for tabular data. For continuous non-tabular data (e.g., Type of Other Method, Schedule C) this line will be blank.

.03 The third line record (LN03) contains up to eight pairs of two digit counters giving the field length and beginning displacement from the left margin for printing of each related field occurring in the same print line. For continuous non-tabular data (e.g., Type of Other Method, Schedule C) this line will be blank.

.04 The tabular column titles will be spaced in the same format as would be printed on a blank continuation page. Related contiguous fields which would have appeared as a single print line on the basic form or schedule shall also appear contiguously on the same Statement line record, left justified, beginning with the fourth line record ("LN04") on. The first data field for a table or a group of related line entries (e.g., Interest or Dividends on Schedule B) must contain the "STMbnn" for the entire table (i.e., part of the table cannot appear on the form and part in a statement).

.05 Only fields marked with an asterisk (*) in the record layout may contain "STMbnn". Fields marked with a plus sign (+) identify the related fields which must be included on the statement record with the asterisked field. Fields marked with an "" sign" in the record layout must contain "STMbnn" on the record and the data field(s) must appear on a statement record.

When the related fields cannot be contained within the 80 positions allowed in the statement record, a second statement record with a different statement number is required. This condition is identified with a plus sign and an asterisk (+*) preceding the first field to be included in the second statement record. (See to Sections 10 and 27 in the Record Layouts.)

.06 Refer to Attachment XIII for examples of statement records.

Sec. 9 Summary Record

.01 The final record for each tax return is the summary record. (A "1" in the paper document indicator field shows that the paper document specified is a part of the return, and has been attached to the Taxpayer Declaration Form 8453.) The format is as follows:

Sec. 10 RECAP Record

.01 The final record on each file is the RECAP record. This record will contain a count of all returns in the file by type, and by a grand total. The format is as follows:

Sec. 11 Format of the Acknowledgement File

.01 The acknowledgement will be a transmission of a file consisting of the TRANS record submitted by the transmitter, an acknowledgement ("ACK") record for each recognizable return transmitted and the original "RECAP" record information submitted, plus counts for accepted, rejected and duplicate records. For each transmission file sent during a transmission session, a separate ACK file will be transmitted back to the sender within two workdays.

Field#	Identification	Length	Description
	Byte Counts, Page 1 and Page 2	4	"0030" plus length of data fields
(1)	Record ID	4	Value "FRMb"
(2)	Form Number	6	Alphanumeric (left-justified)
(3)	Form Sequence Number	2	Value 01 thru 99
(4)	Page Number	5	"PGnnb" nn = 01 to 02
(5)	Social Security Number	9	Primary SSN
(6)	Data Fields	Various	Page data fields

Field#	Identification	Length	Description
	Byte Count	4	"0030" plus length of data fields per LN (line)
(1)	Record ID	4	Value "STMb"
(2)	Statement Number	3	nnb, nn = 00-99
(3)	Page Number	5	Value "PGnnb" nn = 01 to 02
(4)	Line Number	5	LNnnb, nn = 01-50
(5)	SSN	9	Primary SSN
(6)	Statement Data	80	Statement Title if "LN01"; column Titles or blank if "LN02"; up to 8 pairs of counters giving field lengths and displacements of following data elements or blank if "LN03"; otherwise, left-justified field(s) from record being continued.

NOTE: Refer to Sec. 2, paragraph .08 for restrictions on the use of statement records. Data cannot be split between the return, schedule, or form record and a statement record. If more entries are required than are provided for in the Return Specifications and Record Layouts, enter "STMbnn" in the field or the first of a series of fields on the return, schedule or form record and put the specific data entries on the statement record.

.02 Further, if an ACK record contains an "R" in the Acceptance Code field, the return has been rejected due to a fatal error involving the return format, internal consistency, or data errors in a key field, and must also be corrected and resubmitted to the IRS to be considered as a filed return.

.03 If an ACK record contains a "D" in the Acceptance code field, the return has been identified as a duplicate record, i.e., a return record has previously been transmitted and accepted for that Primary Social Security Number.

.04 Any tax return with an "A" in the Acceptance Code field has been accepted as a filed tax return and will be processed from that point in the same manner as a return originally submitted on a paper document. This does not imply that the return will pass all IRS service center validity checks or post to the IRS Master File without delays.

.05 Any return with a "D" in the Duplicate EFT field has been rejected because it contained an Account Number for direct deposit which has already been recorded as contained in a previously accepted return record.

Exception: A duplication of the Account Number is acceptable only when the Filing Status on the return is married filing separately.

.06 The acknowledgement file can be a separate transmission or can precede a return file transmission.

.07 The first record on the acknowledgement file will be the same TRANS record as the first record of the tax return file being acknowledged. (see TRANS Record format above). An ACK record will be generated for each recognizable tax return in the transmission.

Sec. 12 Acknowledgement Record

.01 The format for the ACK record follows.

.03 Error Counter Explanation

1 Internal Inconsistency-The total number of records, forms, schedules or statements for the return, do not balance to totals in Summary Record.

2 Control Data Error-Erroneous data or sequence error(s) present in the control information at the beginning of each logical record.

3 Key Field Data Error–Data is present in a key field that is not within the valid range specified, significant data is present in "NO ENTRY" fields, or the bottom line entries for schedules and forms do not agree with the carry-forward entries on the return, schedule or form.

.04 Reject Code Explanation

1 Up to 10 three position Reject Codes will be furnished to the electronic filer on the Acknowledgement File. Filers should use these codes to determine the source of the error causing the return (or transmission) to reject. If more than 10 reject conditions are identified, the first 9 Reject Codes will be listed followed by "999". When this occurs, the filer cancontact the Electronic Filing Unit at the applicable service center for information about the additional reject conditions.

2 The First Error Field and Data Element Number provided in the Acknowledgement record relates to the first Reject Code listed.

3 The Reject Codes and brief explanations of the conditions that cause the codes to be assigned are listed in Attachment XIV. Filers should use this information to resolve reject conditions. When a condition cannot be resolved with the information provided, the filer should contact the Electronic Filing Unit at the applicable service center for assistance.

Sec. 13 Format of the Acknowledgement File RECAP Record

.01 After the ACK records, the final record of the file will be the RECAP record which is the final record of the tax return file being acknowledged with the addition of counts for accepted and rejected returns.

Sec. 14 Data Validation and Rejection Criteria

.01 The following data controls must be adhered to or the return will be rejected:

1 The data records of the transmission must be in the following sequence: TRANS record, return records (1–500) and RECAP record.

2 The format of the TRANS and the RECAP record must correspond exactly to the record layouts specified above. Program accumulators will be maintained which correspond to the counters shown in the RECAP record. The entire transmission will be rejected when any of the following conditions exist:

(a) The Total EFT (Field 4 in the RECAP Record) mismatches;

(b) The Total Return Count (Field 5 in the RECAP Record) mismatches;

(c) The Count of Overpaid Returns (Field 8 in the RECAP Record) mismatches;

(d) There is no TRANS record.

3 The data records of the tax return must be in the following sequence: Return, Schedule, Form, Statement and Summary.

4 Accumulators will be maintained when processing each set of records for a tax return which corresponds to the counters in the SUMMARY record. If they disagree, the return will be rejected.

5 Page (PGnn) records must be consecutive and sequential.

Note: Schedule E, Page 2 (SCHbEbbbbbnbPG02, etc.) may be present without Schedule E, Page 1 (SCHbEbbbbbnbPG01, etc.)
Page 2 of Schedule C, Form 2106, Form 4562, Form 8283 or Form 8598 need not be transmitted if there are no entries for that page.

6 Schedule records must be in ascending alpha sequence.

7 Any W-2 records must be in the following sequence: Form W-2, Form W-2G and Form W-2P. These records must follow the return and any schedule records and precede any other Form records.

8 Form records must be in ascending numeric sequence.

9 The Schedule Sequence Number (Field 3 of the Schedule Record) and Form Sequence Number (Field 3 of the Form Record) must be significant and in ascending numerical sequence if more than one schedule or form type is present. The sequence number must not be greater than that permitted for the particular form or schedule.

Note: With multiple schedules or forms, the Page Number must be sequential within the Schedule Sequence Number of a schedule or the Form Sequence Number of the form.

10 Statement records do not have to be consecutive but must be in ascending sequence. Each statement number reference occuring in a data field ("STMbNN") must have a corresponding statement record. Each statement record may be referenced only once. There may be no more than 20 statement page records with any return. For each statement record, LN01, LN02, LN03 and LN04 must be present and all line numbers must be in ascending numeric sequence. When completing a table or listing other items, such as, Schedule D, Short F1099-B Desc, or Schedule C, Other Expense Type, the items must be listed in ascending numerical sequence, i.e., Short F1099-B Desc 1, then Short F1099-B Desc 2, then Short F1099-B Desc 3, etc.

11 The Declaration Control Number in the Return record information must be in ascending numerical sequence. However, the DCNs within a transmission do not have to be consecutive.

12 The Return Sequence Number in the Return record information must be in ascending numerical sequence.

Sec. 16 Special Instructions for Entering Taxpayer's Name and Address

.01 These instructions must be carefully followed to avoid delaying returns for error conditions. They must be included in electronic filers' programs as consistency tests and in the data entry instructions.

Caution: All entity data, i.e., SSN, name, street address, city, state and zip code should be key verified to avoid lengthy delays caused by mismatches with the existing taxpayer information on IRS records or by undeliverable refund checks.

.02 Name Line 1

1 Only alphabetic characters, spaces and the special characters Less-Than (<), ampersand (&) and hyphen (-) may appear in Name Line 1.

2 Only one intervening space may separate any component of a name line. The special character Less-Than replaces an intervening space to identify the primary taxpayer's last name.

3 All apostrophes and any other punctuation characters except hyphen must be omitted from names and the alphabetic characters shifted to the left in their place (e.g., O'Shea = OSHEA).

4 Numeric Characters in name components must be replaced by alphabetic Roman Numerals (e.g., Charles 3rd = CHARLES III 5 Enter a Less-Than (<) before the last name of the primary taxpayer. Enter a Less-Than after the name only if a title suffix follows (e.g., "III"). Do not enter a space before or after any Less-Than; the Less-Than takes the place of a space.

6 Enter first name, space, middle name or initial, Less-Than, last name. (The last name(s) of the individuals must be completed within this name line field.) If there is a suffix, enter a Less-Than between the last name and the suffix. Joint returns must contain one ampersand (&) between taxpayers' first names. The taxpayer whose first name is associated with the Primary SSN used on the return must be entered first and the last name of that taxpayer must be identified by a preceding Less-Than. If spouses use different last names, the primary taxpayer's first and last name appear first, with the last name bracketed by Less-Thans followed by an ampersand and the full name of the spouse.

.03 Instructions for Street Address and Name Line 2

1 Only alphabetic and numeric characters, ampersand (&), hyphen (-), percent (%), slash (/) and spaces appear in the Street Address and Name Line 2 fields.

2 Name Line 2 will be used for street addresses that require two lines or "In Care Of" address. An "In Care of" address must be indicated by a percent character (%) followed by the name which is in care of delivery.

3 Enter the house number and street, route number, post office box, or box number.

4 Abbreviate words requiring standard abbreviations unless the word is a proper name.

Examples	Enter As
South Court Street	S COURT ST
Circle Drive	CIRCLE DR
Lane Building	LANE BLDG
Northeast Street	NORTHEAST ST
Third Street	THIRD ST
3 Ave.	3RD AVE

5 If two addresses are present, enter the address shown immediately above or before the city and state in the Street Address field. The remaining address should be entered in the Name Line 2 field.

6 Enter college, building, post office branch as the address if no mailing address is given.

7 If "In Care Of" is the mailing address, use the symbol "%" followed by a space.

8 Do not use "#" symbol, "No.", and "Number" as a prefix to a house, apt., route, or P.O. Box.

9 Always add st, nd, rd, th, to a numbered street or avenue. Examples: 1 = 1ST; 2 = 2ND; 3 = 3RD, etc.

10 Enter 1/2 as 1/2 (no spaces).

11 Plurals for street, road, avenue, apartment, etc., will be entered as STS, RDS, AVES, APTS, etc.

12 Omit the letters "APO" and "FPO" in the address. Transcribe the five digits following the "APO" or "FPO" as the Zip Code, left-justified.

13 Space for all periods in the address line.

14 When it is necessary to abbreviate street address data, see Attachment XV for recommended abbreviations.

.04 Instructions for City, State and Zip Code Fields

1 The City field may contain only alphabetic or numeric characters, ampersand, percent, hyphen or spaces.

2 Attachment XVI contains the standard Postal Service state abbreviations which must be used for the State Abbreviation field and the valid range of the corresponding three high order zip code digits for each state.

.05 Special Instructions for Determining the IRS Name Control Field

1 The Name Control consists of the first four significant characters of the individual's last name whose social security number is the Primary SSN for the return being filed. There should be no leading or embedded blanks in the name control. Omit punctuation marks, titles and suffixes.

2 Consider certain foreign suffixes as part of the last name (i.e., Armah-Bey, Paz-Ayala, Allar-Sid). Particular attention must be given to those names which incorporate a mother's maiden name as a suffix to the last name. This practice is common in names of Spanish extraction. Consider the mother's maiden name as part of the surname for Name Control purposes.

Examples	Enter As
Henry A. (Carter)*	HENRY A < CARTER
John A. and Jane B. (Smith)	JOHN A & JANE B < SMITH

SEC. 17 Refund Delay Criteria and Preparer Front End Checks

.01 The following conditions may delay refunds and/or change refund amounts.

1 Taxpayer owes back taxes, either individual or business (refund will be offset).

2 Taxpayer owes delinquent child support (refund offset).

3 Taxpayer has certain delinquent federal debit, such as student loans, etc. (refund offset).

4 The last name and social security number of the primary taxpayer must be the same as on last year's return or the return will be delayed at least one week for rematching.

5 The Estimated Tax payments reported on the return do not match the ES Tax Payments recorded on the IRS master file. This generally occurs when:

(a) the spouse made separate payments and filed a joint return or vice versa; or

(b) the return was filed before the last ES payment was credited to the account.

6 The taxpayer has a Schedule E claiming a deduction for a questionable tax shelter.

7 The taxpayer is claiming a blatantly unallowable deduction.

.02 The following are conditions under which correctly prepared tax returns are automatically subject to manual review which could delay the refund.

1 The Wages amount on the return record equals the maximum amount for Social Security Wages (Wages equal $43,800 or $87,600 for tax year 1987).

2 IRA Deduction Self and IRA Deduction Spouse equals Withholding or Estimated Tax Credits or the sum of the two.

3 Withholding equals the amount which should have been withheld for Social Security or RRTA Taxes.

4 The Refund amount is $500,000 or more.

.03 Optional Social Security Number Validation

Preparers may wish to make a computer check on the validity of the SSN's of those taxpayers who have IRS preprinted mailing labels to prevent transcription errors that would result in delayed refunds. The two alpha characters which appear to the right of the SSN on the IRS label are check digits which are used to verify the SSN. Use the following formula to validate the transcription of the SSN when the taxpayer presents an IRS mailing label:

1 Generate the high order check digit by multiplying the specific digits by the appropriate weight multiple.

Digit of the SSN	Times	Weight Multiple
1st position (high order)	×	+1
2nd position	×	+2
3rd position	×	-4
4th position	×	+1
5th position	×	+2
6th position	×	-4
7th position	×	+1
8th position	×	+2
9th position	×	-4

2 Add the products to an accumulator. If the net results of the accumulation is within the range of 0 through-22, select the alphabetical equivalent from the alphabetic table below. If the net result is outside the range of the table, check the sign of the accumulation. If the sign is plus, subtract 23 from the result; if the sign is minus, add 23 to the result. Repeat this until the result is within the range of the table and select the alphabetic equivalent from the table for the high order position of the check digit.

3 Generate the low order position of the check digit by multiplying the specific digits by the appropriate weight multiple.

Digit of the SSN	Times	Weight Multiple
1st position (high order)	×	+1
1st position (low order)	×	+1
2nd position	×	-3
3rd position	×	+1
4th position	×	-3
5th position	×	+1
6th position	×	-3
7th position	×	+1
8th position	×	-3
9th position	×	+1

4 Add the products to an accumulator and repeat the calculation in 2. above to arrive at the low order position of the check digit.

5 Alphabetic Table

0 = A -8 = K -16 = T
-1 = B -9 = L -17 = U
-2 = C -10 = N -18 = V
-3 = D -11 = O -19 = W
-4 = F -12 = P -20 = X
-5 = H -13 = Q -21 = Y
-6 = I -14 = R -22 = Z
-7 = J -15 = S

.04 For taxpayers without preprinted mailing labels, the following ranges of Social Security Numbers are invalid and will delay the issuance of the refund for several weeks.

1. 000-00-0000 through 001-00-9999
2. 627-00-0000 through 699-99-9999
3. 729-00-0000 through 899-99-9999

Sec. 18 Valid Statement References and Related Fields

1. The following asterisked "*" fields may contain the literal "STMbnn".

2. The following "" sign fields must contain the Literal "STMbnn" if significant.

3. The following fields on the "RETb", "SCHb" or "FRMb" record should reflect the total of the money fields reported on the respective "STMbnn" record. If no "STMb" is required, the applicable money amount should be reported in the specific field and repeated in the "Total" field.

An asterisk () precedes any field which may contain a statement reference (STMbnn) indicating either the first entry of a line or table of related items to be continued on a statement record. When present, a plus-sign (+) precedes the items related to the first entry field. An at-sign (@) precedes any field which must contain a statement reference when significant. In some cases, the related statement fields require more than the maximum 80 positions allowed, such as Schedule E, Page 2, Part/S Corp Name A (SEQ-1170). An asterisk followed by a plus sign (+) indicates the first field of a separate statement record which continues the required related fields from the previous statement record.

Notice 811, To Taxpayers Who Take Part in Electronic Filing

To Taxpayers Who Take Part in Electronic Filing

Thank you for taking part in our program for taxpayers who file their 1987 individual tax returns electronically. This is the third year the program has been available, and it is expanding to a number of new areas.

We expect that electronic filing will enable us to shorten the average time needed to process returns and issue refunds. Processing electronic returns can take 2 to 3 weeks less than paper returns. We cannot guarantee a refund within a specific time, however. Errors in the return, the transmission, or the processing can delay an electronic return.

Electronic filing automates most manual steps needed to process paper returns. As a result, processing is faster, less expensive, and more nearly error-free for electronic returns than for paper returns. Electronic filing does not make it more or less likely that we would audit your return.

If you want, you can have your refund directly deposited in your savings or checking account at your financial institution. Occasionally, honoring a Direct Deposit request could delay the refund. If that happens, we will issue a paper check instead.

In rare cases, the Service owes interest on a refund. When interest is included with a refund that IRS pays by paper check, the check is noted that the amount includes interest. IRS does not send a notice when interest is paid on a Direct Deposit refund, but the amount deposited would include interest.

Your preparer will give you the required preparer-signed copy of your return and will ask you to sign a declaration form, Form 8453, that must be filed with us. The declaration form replaces the signature part of a paper return and gives your authorization to have your return filed electronically. If you choose Direct Deposit, the form also allows you to give authorization to have your refund deposited directly to your account. Form 8453 is not a power of attorney, so it does not authorize your tax preparer to receive information from IRS about your tax account.

Information below explains electronic filing and Direct Deposit further.

Electronic Filing of Returns and Direct Deposit of Refunds

1. As with a paper return, you are responsible for making sure that your return is filed accurately and on time.
2. IRS will acknowledge to your preparer when the Service accepts your electronic return for processing.
3. Refund inquiries. You can get answers to many tax questions, including refund inquiries, by calling IRS's Tele-Tax system. The general Tele-Tax number is 1-(800)-554-4477. However, if you live in one of the following counties in California, your Tele-Tax number is 1-(800)-428-4032: Amador, Calaveras, Contra Costa, Marin, or San Joaquin. Before you call Tele-Tax, please have available the primary social security number and filing status shown on your return and the exact amount you expect. DO NOT CALL YOUR BANK.

   If Tele-Tax gives you a date when IRS issued your refund, you should receive the refund within a week after that date. If you do not have it by then, contact your local IRS office.

   If Tele-Tax does not give you a refund date, and you filed your electronic return more than 4 weeks ago, ask your preparer to contact IRS. Your preparer will tell you what to do next.
4. Direct Deposit. If you file a joint return and choose Direct Deposit, you may have the refund credited to a joint account or to the separate account of either spouse. If you are married filing separately, the Direct Deposit can be made only to your own account or to your joint account with your spouse. On your declaration form, Form 8453, please be sure to show who owns the account.
5. Refund anticipation loans. Examples of refund anticipation loans include actual loans and certain other account arrangements based on your expected refund. A refund anticipation loan is a contract between a financial institution and you, the taxpayer. The Government is not a party to the contract, so we cannot answer questions about it. Please contact your tax preparer if you have questions about a refund anticipation loan.
6. If you have other questions, please contact your preparer.

Validation of Routing Transit Number

Verify correctness of the Routing Transit Number by computing the check digit. The check digit is the ninth digit of the RTN. The steps are as follows:

1. Multiply each of the first eight digits of the RTN by the appropriate multiplier (the first digit multiplied by 3, the second by 7, the third by 1, the fourth by 3, the fifth by 7, the sixth digit by 1, the seventh by 3 and the eighth by 7).

2. Add all the products.

3. Subtract the sum of all the products from the next multiple of ten.

4. The remainder is the check digit which must be equal to the ninth digit of the RTN.

Note: If the sum of the products is evenly divisible by 10, the check digit is zero (0).

For example, if 120139013 were the RTN, verify the check digit as follows:

1. Multiply each of the first eight digits, 12013901, by 37137137 respectively:

Routing Transit Number	1	2	0	1	3	9	0	1
Constant Multiplier	X3	X7	X1	X3	X7	X1	X3	X7
	3	14	0	3	21	9	0	7

2. Add the products: 3 + 14 + 0 + 3 + 21 + 9 + 0 + 7 = 57

3. Subtract the sum of all the products from the next multiple of ten: 60 - 57 = 3

4. The remainder is the check digit: 3

5. If the check digit does not equal the ninth digit of the RTN, verify that the first eight digits of the RTN were correctly entered from the source document and recompute if appropriate.

Note: If the check digit does not match, the refund cannot be directly deposited.

Rev. Proc. 88-21

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

This revenue procedure provides guidance under section 1446 of the Internal Revenue Code concerning certain withholding requirements applicable to distributions by partnerships with foreign partners. This revenue procedure provides general guidance on how to comply with section 1446, and provides for an election permitting quarterly payments of tax based on effectively connected income of a foreign partner, in lieu of withholding on distributions.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

Section 1446 of the Code generally applies to U.S. and foreign partnerships that have income effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business ("effectively connected income"). Such partnerships must withhold tax when they make a distribution to a partner that is a foreign person. Under the election provided for by this revenue procedure, such partnerships may instead make quarterly payments of tax at specified rates based on the amount of effectively connected income of the partnership that is includible in the taxable income of each foreign partner. Accordingly, this revenue procedure provides guidance concerning the following matters:

(a) Description of withholding requirements under section 1446 (Section 3—REQUIREMENT OF WITHHOLDING);

(b) Who is responsible for withholding under section 1446 (Section 4—WITHHOLDING AGENTS);

(c) How to determine whether a partner is a foreign person subject to withholding (Section 5—DETERMINATION OF FOREIGN STATUS);

(d) Which partnership distributions are subject to withholding (Section 6—SECTION 1446 DISTRIBUTIONS);

(e) How much of a partnership distribution is subject to withholding (Section 7—EFFECTIVELY CONNECTED PERCENTAGE);

(f) Partnership election to make quarterly payments of tax on the basis of foreign partners' effectively connected income attributable to the partnership (Section 8—ELECTION BY PARTNERSHIP);

(g) How to report and pay over withheld amounts or quarterly payments (Section 9—REPORTING AND PAYING OVER OF WITHHELD AMOUNTS OR QUARTERLY PAYMENTS);

(h) How to claim a credit for taxes withheld or quarterly payments (Section 10—CREDITABILITY OF WITHHELD AMOUNTS OR QUARTERLY PAYMENTS);

(i) Partnerships exempt from withholding under section 1446 (Section 11—EXEMPT PARTNERSHIPS);

(j) Special rules for publicly traded partnerships (Section 12—PUBLICLY TRADED PARTNERSHIPS); and

(k) Special rules for tiered partnerships (Section 13—TIERED PARTNERSHIPS).

SEC. 3. REQUIREMENT OF WITHHOLDING

If at any time after December 31, 1987 a foreign or domestic partnership has income, gain, or loss effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business, then the partnership or a withholding agent for that partnership must withhold a tax of 20 percent with respect to the effectively connected percentage of any section 1446 distribution made on or after January 1, 1988, by the partnership to any partner that is a foreign person. Tax withheld must generally be paid over to the Internal Revenue Service by the 20th day following the date of the distribution. However, tax withheld shall in no event be paid over to the Service before June 15, 1988.

If a partnership has made the election described in Section 8 of this revenue procedure, the partnership or a withholding agent for the partnership shall instead make quarterly payments of tax at rates specified with respect to the effectively connected income of each foreign partner attributable to the partnership, in accordance with the rules set forth in Sections 8 and 9. In the case of partnerships that make the election described in Section 8 by June 15, 1988, any amounts withheld from distributions made before June 15, 1988, may be used to make the quarterly payments of tax due under the election.

SEC. 4. WITHHOLDING AGENTS

.01 In general. If distributions from a partnership are subject to withholding under section 1446 of the Code then the partnership or a withholding agent for the partnership must withhold or make quarterly payments of tax under the election described in Section 8 of this revenue procedure. The general partners of a partnership shall be jointly and severally liable as withholding agents for the partnership. In addition, the term withholding agent shall also include any other person who pays or causes to be paid a distribution to a foreign person (or to an agent of a foreign person) under the principles of section 1441(a) and section 1.1441-7(a) of the Income Tax regulations. For ease of reference, this revenue procedure refers to various requirements applicable to withholding agents as requirements applicable to partnerships themselves. This does not affect the legal incidence of liability. For special rules concerning withholding agents of publicly traded partnerships, see Section 12 of this revenue procedure.

.02 Penalty for failure to withhold. A partnership required to deduct and withhold tax under section 1446 of the Code is made liable under section 1461 for that tax, or for a tax equal to all payments required to be made under the election described in Section 8 of this revenue procedure. Therefore, a partnership that is required to deduct and withhold tax or make quarterly payments of tax, but fails to do so, may be held liable for the payment of tax, any applicable penalties, and interest. A person failing to withhold or make quarterly payments of tax required by section 1446 may also be subject to civil and criminal penalties. Officers or other responsible persons of either a corporation that is a general partner or any other withholding agent may be subject to a civil penalty under section 6672 equal to the amount that should have been withheld from distributions and paid over or paid quarterly under the election provided in Section 8.

Partnerships that are required to withhold tax on section 1446 distributions but fail to do so shall be required to pay interest under the principles of section 1.1445-1(e) of the regulations on the amount of tax that should have been withheld and paid over. Interest is generally payable by the partnership for the period beginning on the 21st day following the date of the section 1446 distribution and ending on the date the tax is actually paid to the Internal Revenue Service. However, in the case of a failure to withhold and pay over the tax required to be withheld a section 1446 distribution made on or before June 15, 1988, interest shall be imposed beginning on the later of June 16, 1988, or the 21st day following the date of the section 1446 distribution.

A partnership that has made the election described in Section 8 of this revenue procedure, but fails to make a quarterly payment when due, shall be required to pay an additional amount beginning on the day after the due date provided in this revenue procedure for the quarterly payment. This additional amount shall be equal to the penalty imposed under section 6655 of the Code on an underpayment of estimated tax, and shall be imposed without regard to whether the partner is taxable as a corporation.

SEC. 5. DETERMINATION OF WHETHER A PARTNER IS A FOREIGN PERSON

.01 In general. Section 1446 of the Code requires withholding with respect to any partner that is a foreign person. Accordingly, a partnership must determine under the rules of this Section whether any partner is a foreign person subject to section 1446. For purposes of section 1446, a foreign person is a nonresident alien individual, foreign corporation, foreign partnership, or foreign trust or estate. A partnership may determine a partner's status by relying upon a certification of non-foreign status, under the rules of Section 5.02 of this revenue procedure, or any other means, under the rules of Section 5.03.

.02 Certification of non-foreign status.

1 In general. This Section provides rules pursuant to which a partnership can determine that a partner is not a foreign person by obtaining a certification of non-foreign status from the partner. A partnership that has obtained such a certification may rely upon it to establish the non-foreign status of a partner, as provided in paragraph 2, below.

2 Reliance upon certification. A partnership that has obtained a certification of non-foreign status in accordance with the rules of this Section may rely upon the certification to determine that the partner is not subject to withholding, but only if the partnership does not have actual knowledge that the certification is false. If a partnership relies in good faith upon a certification, but it is subsequently determined that the certification was false, the partnership shall not be subject to the liability imposed by Section 4.02 of this revenue procedure for a failure to withhold under section 1446 of the Code. A partnership may rely on a partner's certification of non-foreign status until the earliest of—

(a) the end of the third year after the taxable year of the partnership during which the certification was obtained;

(b) the time the partnership receives notice from the partner that it has become a foreign person; or

(c) the time the partnership has actual knowledge that the partner is, or has become, a foreign person.

If a partnership has actual knowledge that a certification of non-foreign status is false, it shall not be entitled to rely on that certification at any time after obtaining that knowledge, and the partnership shall be fully liable under section 1461 for any failure to withhold or make a quarterly payment of tax as of the time it obtained that knowledge. A certification that satisfies the requirements of this revenue procedure will also satisfy the requirements for a withholding certificate under section 1445.

3 Certification. No particular form is required for a certification of non-foreign status, nor is any particular language required. The certification must—

(a) State that the partner is not a foreign person,

(b) Set forth the partner's name, U.S. taxpayer identifying number, and home address (in the case of an individual) or office address (in the case of an entity),

(c) Provide that the partner will notify the partnership within sixty (60) days of a change to foreign status, and

(d) Be signed under penalties of perjury.

An individual's identifying number is the individual's social security number (or such other taxpayer identification number as may have been assigned to a foreign individual by the Internal Revenue Service), and any other person's identifying number is its U.S. employer identification number. A certification of non-foreign status must be verified as true and signed under penalties of perjury by a responsible corporate officer in the case of a corporation, by a general partner in the case of a partnership, and by a trustee, executor, or equivalent fiduciary in the case of a trust or estate. A certification of non-foreign status may also be signed by a person authorized under a power of attorney in proper form executed by the partner, provided the power of attorney accompanies the certification. Examples of acceptable certifications of non-foreign status are provided in Section 5.04 of this revenue procedure.

4 Retention of certifications. A partnership must retain a certification of non-foreign status until the end of the fifth taxable year after the last taxable year in which the partnership relied upon the certification.

5 Certifications under section 1445. For purposes of section 1446 of the Code, a partnership may rely on a certification of non-foreign status provided by a partner under section 1445 and section 1.1445-2 or -5 of the regulations until the beginning of the partnership's first taxable year beginning after 1988. However, a partnership may not rely upon a certification of non-foreign status given by a foreign corporation that has based the certification on an election under section 897(i). A foreign corporation that has made an election under section 897(i) continues to be treated as a foreign person for all U.S. tax purposes other than sections 897, 1445, and 6039C. Thus, a distribution to such a foreign corporate partner is subject to withholding under section 1446 notwithstanding the election under section 897(i).

6 Special rule for widely held partnerships. A partnership that is widely held, as defined in this paragraph, may rely on statements provided to it on Form 1001, Form W-8, or Form W-9 to determine whether a partner is a foreign person, or on a certification from a nominee that a partner owning a partnership interest through the nominee is not a foreign person. For this purpose a nominee may in turn rely on a certification of non-foreign status provided by a foreign partner under the rules of Section 5.02 of this revenue procedure, or may rely on statements provided to it on Form 1001, Form W-8, or Form W-9 to determine whether a partner is a foreign person. A partnership is widely held for purposes of this paragraph if it has more than 200 partners (other than a regularly traded partnership within the meaning of section 1.1445-8T of the regulations subject to the rules in Section 12) on the date it is or may be required to withhold on a section 1446 distribution or make a quarterly payment under the election described in Section 8.

.03 Use of means other than certification. A partnership is not required to obtain a certification of non-foreign status under the rules of Section 5.02 of this revenue procedure; a partnership may instead rely upon other means to ascertain the non-foreign status of the partner. If, however, the partnership relies upon other means and erroneously determines that the partner was not a foreign person, then the partnership is subject to the liability described in Section 4.02. A partnership is in no event required to rely upon other means to determine the non-foreign status of a partner and may demand a certification of non-foreign status. If a certification is not provided, the partnership may withhold tax under section 1446 of the Code and will be considered, for purposes of sections 1461 through 1463, to have been required to withhold such tax.

.04 Sample certifications. The following are examples of acceptable certifications under the rules of this revenue procedure.

(a) Partners who are individuals. "Section 1446 of the Internal Revenue Code provides that a partnership must withhold a tax equal to 20 percent of any section 1446 partnership distribution, if the partner is a foreign person. To inform [name of partnership] that the provisions of section 1446 do not apply, I, [name of partner], hereby certify the following:

1. I am not a nonresident alien for purposes of U.S. income taxation;
2. My U.S. taxpayer identification number (social security number) is __________ ; and
3. My home address is ______ .

I hereby agree that if I become a nonresident alien, I will notify the partnership within sixty (60) days of doing so. I understand that this certification may be disclosed to the Internal Revenue Service by the partnership and that any false statement I have made here could be punished by fine, imprisonment, or both.

Under penalties of perjury I declare that I have examined this certification and to the best of my knowledge and belief it is true, correct and complete.

[Signature and Date]"

(b) Partners that are entities. "Section 1446 of the Internal Revenue Code provides that a partnership must withhold a tax equal to 20 percent of any section 1446 partnership distribution if the partner is a foreign person. To inform [name of partnership] that the provisions of section 1446 do not apply, the undersigned hereby certifies on behalf of [name of the entity] the following:

1. [Name of the entity] is not a foreign corporation, foreign partnership, foreign trust, or foreign estate (as those terms are defined in the Internal Revenue Code and Income Tax Regulations);
2. [Name of the entity]'s U.S. employer identification number is __________ ; and
3. [Name of the entity]'s office address is __________ .

[Name of the entity] hereby agrees to notify the partnership within sixty (60) days of the date [name of the entity] becomes a foreign person. [Name of entity] understands that this certification may be disclosed to the Internal Revenue Service by the partnership and that any false statement contained herein could be punished by fine, imprisonment, or both.

Under penalties of perjury I declare that I have examined this certification and to the best of my knowledge and belief it is true, correct, and complete, and I further declare that I have authority to sign this document on behalf of [name of entity].

SEC. 6. SECTION 1446 DISTRIBUTIONS

.01 In general. A foreign or domestic partnership must withhold with respect to any section 1446 distribution to a foreign partner. A section 1446 distribution consists of any actual distribution of money or property, and certain constructive distributions arising from the assumption of liabilities, as described in item (c) below. If an actual distribution is made with property other than money, the partnership shall not release the property until it has funds sufficient to enable the partnership to pay over in money the tax required to be withheld. The amount of a section 1446 distribution includes the amount of any tax required to be withheld with respect to that distribution, and must be calculated under the rules set forth below. Except as provided herein, a section 1446 distribution consists of—

(a) the gross amount of money actually distributed (prior to withholding of tax under section 1446);

(b) 125 percent of the fair market value of any property other than money actually distributed; and

(c) 125 percent of the amount of (i) any individual liability of a foreign partner that is assumed by the partnership, and (ii) any liability encumbering property that a foreign partner contributes to the partnership.

The 125 percent figure used in items (b) and (c) takes into account the fact that the section 1446 tax paid on the distribution of property (or assumption of a liability) itself constitutes a distribution by the partnership for the benefit of the partner, subject to withholding under section 1446. In such a case the total section 1446 distribution algebraically equals 125 percent of the fair market value of property distributed (or liability assumed).

.02 Excluded amounts. Distributions from partnerships are deemed to be paid first out of the following types of income in the order indicated and are excluded from the term "section 1446 distribution" to the extent thereof;

1. Amounts attributable to noneffectively connected income distributed by a partnership that have been or are subject to the withholding requirements of section 1441 or 1442 of the Code (without regard to whether any amount was or is required to be withheld because of a treaty or statutory exemption); and

2. Amounts that are attributable to the disposition of a U.S. real property interest and that have been, or are, subjected to the withholding requirements of the regulations under section 1445 (without regard to whether any amount was or is required to be withheld), subject to the rule of Section 6.03 of this revenue procedure.

.03 Coordination with section 1445. Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 6.02 of this revenue procedure, section 1446 distributions shall include—

(a) The fair market value of a U.S. real property interest distributed to a partner and potentially subject to withholding under section 1445(e)(4) of the Code, regardless of whether amounts are in fact withheld under section 1445; and

(b) Amounts not subject to withholding under section 1445 because the distributee is a foreign corporation that has made an election under section 897(i)).

SEC. 7. EFFECTIVELY CONNECTED PERCENTAGE

.01 In general. The portion of a section 1446 distribution that is subject to withholding may be affected by the percentage of the partnership's income that is effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business. Partnerships must withhold on the entire amount of a section 1446 distribution when the effectively connected percentage of the partnership is 80 percent or greater. When a partnership's effectively connected percentage is less than 80 percent, the partnership must withhold on only the effectively connected percentage of a section 1446 distribution.

.02 Computation of the effectively connected percentage. The effectively connected percentage is equal to a fraction, the numerator of which is the amount of the partnership's gross income from all sources during the measuring period that is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States (under section 864 of the Code and section 1.864-3 of the regulations), and the denominator of which is the amount of the partnership's gross income from all sources during the measuring period. However, in determining the effectively connected percentage, neither the numerator nor the denominator of the fraction shall include amounts of noneffectively connected income that were received during the measuring period but excludable from the amount of a section 1446 distribution under Section 6.02 of this revenue procedure.

.03 Measuring period. The measuring period for the effectively connected percentage consists of the three taxable years preceding the taxable year in which a partnership makes a section 1446 distribution, or such part of that three year period as the partnership has been carrying on a trade or business in the United States within the meaning of section 1.6031-1 of the regulations (relating to the duty to file partnership returns).

SEC. 8. ELECTION BY PARTNERSHIP TO MAKE QUARTERLY PAYMENTS OF TAX ON THE BASIS OF FOREIGN PARTNER'S EFFECTIVELY CONNECTED INCOME ATTRIBUTABLE TO THE PARTNERSHIP INSTEAD OF WITHHOLDING ON ACTUAL DISTRIBUTIONS

.01 In general. Withholding under section 1446 of the Code shall not be required on section 1446 distributions to a foreign partner if the partnership makes an election to instead make quarterly payments of tax at the rates specified in Section 8.025 of this revenue procedure, infra, for each foreign partner based on the foreign partner's effectively connected taxable income attributable to the partnership ("the ECI election") in accordance with the rules of this Section.

A partnership that makes an ECI election must retain and pay over, as set forth below, an amount based on each foreign partner's effectively connected taxable income attributable to the partnership. Because amounts may be required to be paid over under an ECI election at a time other than the time of an actual distribution, a partnership that makes such an election must exercise care to retain funds adequate to meet its obligations under the election.

.02 Calculation of quarterly payments of tax.

1 In general. A partnership that has made the ECI election must make quarterly payments of tax at the appropriate rate specified in Section 8.025 of this revenue procedure, based on the effectively connected income of each foreign partner attributable to the partnership for the partner's current year. Thus, the partnership must estimate each foreign partner's effectively connected income attributable to the partnership for the partner's taxable year, and make quarterly payments equal to 25 percent of that estimate multiplied by the appropriate tax rate specified in Section 8.025. A partner's liability for the tax imposed under section 884 of the Code and the partner's distributive share of the partnership's tax credits shall not be taken into account in determining the amount of the partner's quarterly payments. Certain timing issues may be presented because a partner may have a different taxable year than its partnership; these issues are addressed in Section 8.03, below.

2. Coordination with estimated tax liability. Amounts paid under the ECI election shall be credited against the estimated tax liability of the foreign partner.

3 Partner's effectively connected income. For purposes of calculating quarterly payments of tax under the ECI election, a foreign partner's effectively connected income is the distributive share of gross effectively connected income of the partnership for the taxable year of the partnership ending within the partner's taxable year that is properly allocable to the partner under section 704 of the Code, reduced by the distributive share of deductions of the partnership for such year that are properly allocable to the partner under section 704 and connected with such income under section 873 or section 882(c)(1).

4 Partnership's effectively connected income. For purposes of the ECI election, a partnership's gross effectively connected income is based upon the income derived by the partnership that is effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business during the partnership's relevant taxable year, as determined under section 864 of the Code and the regulations thereunder, and generally includes the sum of all items of income set forth in section 702(a), to the extent determined to be effectively connected. However, net operating losses and charitable contributions shall not be taken into account in determining a partnership's effectively connected income for this purpose. For purposes of the ECI election, the effectively connected income of a partnership includes income subject to a partner's election under section 871(d) or 882(d) of the Code, and also includes any amount treated as effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business pursuant to section 897.

5 Tax rate. The amount required to be paid by a partnership under the ECI election with respect to a foreign partner shall be determined by multiplying the foreign partner's effectively connected income attributable to the partnership, as determined under paragraph 3 of this Section, by the applicable tax rate. In the case of a foreign partner that is not taxable as a corporation, the tax rate is the highest rate of tax specified in section 1 of the Code (28% for taxable years beginning in 1988). In the case of a foreign partner that is taxable as a corporation, the tax rate is the highest rate of tax specified in section 11(b) (34% for taxable years beginning in 1988). If a partner is itself a partnership, or if it cannot be determined whether or not a foreign partner is taxable as a corporation, the applicable tax rate shall be the maximum rate specified in section 11(b).

.03 Timing of ECI quarterly payment.

1 In general. Under the ECI election, the payments of tax for a foreign partner must be made no later than the estimated tax payment dates for that foreign partner. Estimated tax payment dates for a corporation are the 15th day of the fourth, sixth, ninth, and twelfth months of its taxable year. However, in the case of foreign partners that are individuals, four quarterly payments must be made under the ECI election, notwithstanding section 6654(j) of the Code which requires only three payments of estimated tax by a nonresident alien partner described in section 6072(c). For example, in the case of individual foreign partners who have a calendar taxable year, quarterly amounts must be paid over by April 15, June 15, September 15, and January 15 of the following year. The partnership shall assume that all foreign partners have a calendar taxable year unless the partnership is notified by the partner of the partner's fiscal taxable year.

2 Transition rule for 1988. The first quarterly payment in 1988 shall not be due before June 15, 1988. In the case of a calendar year partner, for its 1988 calendar year only three quarterly payments shall be due, and the amount due as the partner's first payment by June 15, 1988, shall be the sum of the amount that would otherwise have been due on April 15, 1988 and June 15, 1988 if four quarterly payments had been required in 1988 for such a partner. In the case of a partner with a fiscal taxable year (i.e., a year that does not end on December 31), the amount of the quarterly payment due to be paid to the Internal Revenue Service on June 15, 1988, shall be the sum of all payments that the partnership would otherwise be required to make after December 31, 1987, but on or before June 15, 1988, on behalf of the partner. All subsequent quarterly payments for that partner are due on the date subsequent estimated tax payments for the partner are due.

3 Partnership income to be taken into account. The amount required to be paid on a quarterly basis under the ECI election is based on partnership income includible by the partner in the partner's taxable year to which an estimated tax payment on that date by a U.S. resident would relate. Accordingly, if the partner and the partnership are both calendar year taxpayers, the amount to be paid for each quarter of the partner must be calculated by reference to the income of the current taxable year of the partnership (except that the January 15 payment for an individual partner is based on the income of the partnership for the year that ended on the immediately preceding December 31). However, if the partner and partnership have non-conforming taxable years, the partnership income to be taken into account in making quarterly payments for the partner under the ECI election will relate to the taxable year of the partnership that ends within the relevant taxable year of the partner.

.04 Correction of estimates and safe harbor.

1 In general. If amounts paid over by the partnership in prior quarters for the same taxable year under the ECI election are greater or less than the amount necessary based on current estimates of partnership income, then appropriate adjustments may be made to the amount of subsequent payments of tax.

2 Safe harbor. The principles of section 6654(d)(1) and 6655(d) of the Code shall be applied in determining whether the quarterly payments for the current taxable year of the partnership made by the partnership for individual and corporate foreign partners, respectively, are greater or less than the amount necessary. In the case of quarterly payments for a foreign corporate partner that satisfies the definition of a large corporation in section 6655(i)(2) based upon its distributive share of a partnership's effectively connected taxable income, the principles of section 6655(i) shall be applied in determining whether the quarterly payments are greater or less than the amount necessary. The partner's distributive share of the partnership's effectively connected taxable income for the preceding taxable year of the partnership, shall be used when applying the principles of section 6654(d)(1) and 6655. However, the preceding taxable year of the partnership shall not be used with respect to any quarterly payment made after the date specified in section 6031(b) on which the partnership must report to its partners the partnership's tax return information; in this situation the amount of the quarterly payment must be based on the taxable year of the partnership to which the payment actually relates.

2 Transition rule. Quarterly payments of tax for a partner that are made during 1988 under the ECI election are not to be adjusted under paragraph .041 of this Section for prior quarters for which the estimated tax payment dates occurred prior to January 1, 1988.

3 Examples.

Example 1. If a partnership has a fiscal taxable year that begins on February 1, 1987, and ends on January 31, 1988, and an individual foreign partner has a calendar taxable year, the quarterly payments that must be made during the 1988 taxable year of the partner under the ECI election with respect to that partner must be based upon the income of the partnership's 1987-1988 taxable year, and the first quarterly payment by the partnership will be due on June 15, 1988.

Example 2. The facts are the same as in Example 1, except the individual foreign partner and the partnership both have a fiscal taxable year ending on January 31. In this situation, the partnership must make one quarterly payment in 1988 (on June 15, 1988 for the partner's February 15, 1988 quarterly payment date) with respect to that partner that is based upon the partnership's 1987-1988 taxable year. The amount of that payment will be the sum of two amounts. The first amount is equal to 25 percent of the tax liability of the foreign partner with respect to the effectively connected income attributable to the partnership's 1987-1988 taxable year, computed as provided in Section 8.02 of this revenue procedure (although the safe harbor rules in Section 8.042 may prevent the partnership from incurring liability to pay additional amounts if less than 25 percent is paid). The second amount reflected in the June 15, 1988 quarterly payment by the partnership will be equal to an amount based on the first payment of estimated tax due for the foreign partner on May 15, 1988, with respect to that partner's effectively connected income attributable to the partnership's 1988-1989 taxable year. The partner should adjust its subsequent estimated tax payments to the extent that it made an estimated tax payment on May 15, 1988 which was duplicated by the partnership in the partnership's June 15, 1988 payment.

.05 Coordination with other withholding rules.

1 Interest, dividends, etc. Fixed or determinable, annual or periodical income subject to tax only under section 871(a) or 881 of the Code is not included in the partnership's effectively connected taxable income under Section 8.02 of this revenue procedure for purposes of the ECI election. However, such amounts are independently subject to withholding pursuant to the requirements of sections 1441 and 1442 and the regulations thereunder.

2 Real property gains. A partnership that makes the ECI election shall be exempt from the requirements of section 1445(e) of the Code with respect to its dispositions of U.S. real property interests that occur during taxable years of the partnership during which the election is in effect.

.06 Time, manner, and effective date of ECI election.

1 In general. The ECI election shall be effective as of January 1, 1988. An election shall be deemed to have been made if the partnership makes quarterly payments of tax in accordance with the rules of this Section beginning on June 15, 1988. The ECI election shall apply to the taxable year of the partnership in which the election is made, and to all subsequent taxable years. An ECI election may be revoked only with the consent of the Commissioner.

2 Retroactive ECI election. A partnership that has not made an ECI election as of June 15, 1988, may nevertheless make such an election at any later date if the partnership pays over, together with interest imposed on underpayments of tax accrued thereon, all amounts that should have been withheld pursuant to the ECI election on and after January 1, 1988. In such case, amounts previously withheld and paid over with respect to section 1446 distributions may be credited against the amount required to be paid over pursuant to this paragraph.

SEC. 9. REPORTING AND PAYING OVER WITHHELD TAX

.01 In general. The tax withheld on a distribution under section 1446 of the Code must be reported and paid over to the Internal Revenue Service by the partnership by the 20th day following the distribution. Quarterly payments of tax due under the ECI election must be made by a partnership by the appropriate quarterly payment date described in Section 8.03 of this revenue procedure. However, no amounts shall be due before June 15, 1988.

Until a change is announced in a future administrative pronouncement by the Internal Revenue Service, the tax withheld on distributions and the quarterly payments of tax shall be:

(a) made payable to the Internal Revenue Service; and

(b) sent to the Internal Revenue Service, P.O. Box 21086, Philadelphia, PA 19114.

Until official Internal Revenue Service forms are available and obtained by a partnership, payments made to the Internal Revenue Service under section 1446 of the Code must be accompanied by the information prescribed in Section 9.02 and Section 9.03. Pursuant to Section 7502 and the regulations thereunder, the timely mailing of the tax withheld or the quarterly payment with the information specified in Section 9.02 and 9.03 shall be treated as timely filing.

(l). Tax creditable by partner (line 6(g)):

.04 Reporting to partners. A partnership must provide foreign partners with a copy of the statement that is described in Section 9.03 of this revenue procedure. This information must be supplied to foreign partners even if no tax is withheld or quarterly payments are made under section 1446 of the Code and a statement is not filed with the Internal Revenue Service. This information must be delivered to the foreign partner by the 30th day after the last date on which the relevant payment, if any, would be required to be made to the Internal Revenue Service.

.05 Payment Without Identifying Number. A partnership that has not been assigned a U.S. identifying number (an Employer Identification Number ("EIN")) must obtain one, and must in any event withhold and pay over any tax withheld, or quarterly payment, to the Internal Revenue Service, P.O. Box 21086, Philadelphia, PA 19114, by the time provided in this revenue procedure. Accompanying any payment must be a statement containing the relevant information described above in Section 9.02 and 9.03 and indicating the date the EIN was applied for. Upon receipt of its EIN, the partnership must immediately provide that number to the Internal Revenue Service, P.O. Box 21086, Philadelphia, PA 19114.

.06 Taxpayer identification numbers of partners. To assure appropriate crediting of withheld amounts or quarterly payments, when reporting to the Internal Revenue Service, a partnership must provide a U.S. taxpayer identification number or an EIN for each foreign partner and should therefore notify each foreign partner of the necessity of obtaining U.S. identifying numbers. See Rev. Rul. 84-158, 1984-2 C.B. 262 (partnership must request partner to furnish taxpayer identification number), clarified, Rev. Rul. 85-61, 1985-1 C.B. 355. A partnership must withhold or make quarterly payments with respect to a foreign partner even if the partnership does not have a taxpayer identification number for that partner.

SEC. 10. CREDITING OF WITHHELD AMOUNTS OR QUARTERLY PAYMENTS

.01 In general. Amounts withheld and paid over under section 1446 of the Code or paid quarterly under the ECI election relate to the partner's U.S. income tax liability for the taxable year of the partner in which the tax was withheld, or the taxable year to which an estimated tax payment on that date by a U.S. person would relate, and are thus creditable by the partner against its U.S. income tax liability for that taxable year. The early refund procedures of section 1.1445-6(g) of the regulations shall not apply under section 1446.

Amounts withheld and paid over during a taxable year of a partner or paid quarterly under the ECI election may not be applied against the partner's liability for a previous taxable year until the partner has filed a return establishing its U.S. tax liability for the taxable year in which the withholding took place, or to which the quarterly payment relates. The amount withheld and paid over under section 1446 of the Code or paid quarterly under the ECI election that is in excess of the partner's U.S. income tax liability as established on a tax return for that entire year may be credited against the partner's U.S. income tax liability for other years.

.02 Procedural rule. A partner that seeks a credit against its U.S. income tax liability for amounts withheld and paid over under section 1446 of the Code or paid quarterly under the ECI election must attach proof of payment to its U.S. income tax return for the taxable year in which it claims the credit. Proof of payment consists of a copy of all statements that the partnership is required to furnish under Section 9.04 of this revenue procedure, or copies of any official Internal Revenue Service form that may be prescribed.

SEC. 11. EXEMPT PARTNERSHIPS

Under section 1446(c)(2) of the Code a partnership is exempt from the requirements of section 1446 if 90 percent of the U.S. source income of the partnership and 90 percent of the effectively connected income of the partnership is properly allocated to U.S. persons, but only with respect to each foreign partner whose distributive share of effectively connected income for the partnership's taxable year, under a valid allocation pursuant to section 704(b), equals less than ten percent of the partner's entire distributive share of partnership income. Under section 1446(c)(2), a partnership must withhold on a foreign partner whose distributive share of effectively connected income is greater than or equal to ten percent of the partner's entire distributive share of partnership income for the taxable year of the partnership.

SEC. 12. PUBLICLY TRADED PARTNERSHIPS

Partnerships that are publicly traded on an established securities market within the meaning of section 1.1445-8T(a)(1) of the regulations may not make the ECI election described in Section 8 of this revenue procedure, and must withhold on section 1446 distributions under the rules of this revenue procedure. Such partnerships may designate nominees as withholding agents in accordance with the provisions of section 1.1445-8T, however, for purposes of withholding on distributions.

SEC. 13. TIERED PARTNERSHIPS

.01 In general. Any amount withheld under section 1446 of the Code or paid quarterly by a subsidiary partnership with respect to a foreign partnership (or a partnership that is a direct or indirect partner of such a foreign partnership) that is a partner in the subsidiary partnership shall be credited against the foreign partnership's liability to withhold under section 1446 or make quarterly payments under the ECI election. Such withholding or quarterly payments may occur because withholding is required under section 1446 with respect to a partner of any partnership that is itself a foreign partnership (since a foreign partnership is a foreign person). Such a foreign partnership (or another foreign or domestic partnership that is a direct to indirect partner in such a foreign partnership) may either receive a distribution which has already been subject to withholding by the subsidiary partnership in which it is a partner, or take into income a distributive share of effectively connected income on which a quarterly payment has been made under the ECI election. In addition, such a foreign partnership is itself subject to the requirements of section 1446, and potentially required to either withhold with respect to distributions it makes or elect to make quarterly payments with respect to the distributive share of effectively connected income of its foreign partners.

.02 Reporting requirements. A partnership that is a direct or indirect partner in a subsidiary partnership must comply with the reporting requirements of Section 9.04 of this revenue procedure (which applies in the absence of official Internal Revenue Service forms), with respect to its foreign partners. To the extent that a partnership is a direct or indirect partner in a subsidiary partnership and has had amounts withheld from distributions to it under section 1446 of the Code, or has had quarterly payments made on its behalf, it will receive a copy of the statements required under Section 9.04 of this revenue procedure to be sent to partners, and must in turn file the statements required under Sections 9.02 and 9.03 to the extent it is subject to section 1446, treating the amount withheld by the subsidiary partnership as a credit against its liability to withhold or make quarterly payments of tax. The foreign partnership must attach to the statement it must file under Sections 9.02 and 9.03 for itself, a copy of the statement it receives from the subsidiary partnership in which it is a partner, and must in turn provide its partners with a copy of any statements it receives from the subsidiary partnership along with the information described in Section 9.04. These statements will enable the partners of the foreign partnership to obtain appropriate credit for withheld amounts or paid quarterly by the foreign partnership and the lower tier partnership.

EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure is effective January 1, 1988.

Rev. Proc. 88-22

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

This revenue procedure modifies Rev. Proc. 87-56, 1987-2 C.B. 674, by providing: a) correct recovery periods for asset classes 48.12 and 49.4, b) new asset class designations or descriptions for horses in asset classes 01.221 through 01.225, and c) corrected text for asset classes 22.3, 30.1, 36.0, 37.11, and 49.223. This revenue procedure also clarifies Rev. Proc. 87-56 by making it clear that: a) nonresidential real property that is contained in any of the asset classes set out in section 5.02 of Rev. Proc. 87-56 has an applicable recovery period set out for the asset class, and b) the assets described in asset class 36.1 include any semi-conductor manufacturing equipment.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

Section 168(e)(2)(B) of the Internal Revenue Code defines nonresidential real property as section 1250 property that is not residential rental property or property with a class life of less than 27.5 years. For purposes of the general depreciation system, section 168(c) provides that the applicable recovery period for nonresidential real property is 31.5 years. For purposes of the alternative depreciation system, section 168(g)(2)(C) provides that the applicable recovery period for nonresidential real property is 40 years. See Rev. Proc. 87-57, 1987-2 C.B. 687.

SEC. 3. CLARIFICATION AND MODIFICATION OF REV. PROC. 87-56

.01 Section 5.02 of Rev. Proc. 87-56 sets out the applicable recovery periods for nonresidential real property, and section 5.01 states that those recovery periods are not contained in the tables that follow. Sections 5.01 and .02, however, fail to state that the recovery periods for nonresidential real property apply in all events because those recovery periods are separately prescribed by statute.

Section 5.02 of Rev. Proc. 87-56 is clarified by adding the following paragraph at the end thereof:

> Under section 168(e)(2)(B)(ii) of the Code, "non-residential real property" does not include any property described in an asset class with a class life of less than 27.5 years. Even if nonresidential real property is described in an asset class with a class life of 27.5 years or more, the applicable recovery period for that property is 31.5 years for purposes of the general depreciation system and 40 years for purposes of the alternative depreciation system, regardless of the applicable recovery periods set out for the asset class in the tables below.

.02 Asset classes 01.22, 01.221, and 01.222 and their related text in section 5 of Rev. Proc. 87-56 are removed and replaced with the asset classes, class lives, recovery periods and associated footnotes set out in Table 1.

Rev. Proc. 88-+ +, Table 1

01.225	Any horse not described in classes 01.221, 01.222, 01.223, or 01.224	*	7	12

+ + to be inserted, when available

* Property described in asset classes 01.223, 01.224, and 01.225 are assigned recovery periods under either section 168(e)(3)(A) or section 168(g)(2)(C) but have no class lives.

 A horse is more than 2 (or 12) years old after the day that is 24 (or 144) months after its actual birthdate.

.03 Asset class 36.1 is clarified to read in its entirety, "Any Semiconductor Manufacturing Equipment." The class life and recovery periods are unaffected.

.04 For purposes of the general depreciation system, the recovery period for asset class 48.12 is 10 years rather than 15 years.

.05 For purposes of the alternative depreciation system, the recovery period for asset class 49.4 is 28 years rather than 20 years.

.06 Asset class 22.3, "Manufacture of Carpets and Dyeing, Finishing, and Packaging of Textile Products and Manufacture of Medical and Dental Supplies," is corrected to read as follows:

Includes assets used in the production of carpets, rugs, mats, woven carpet backing, chenille, and other tufted products, and assets used in the joining together of backing with carpet yarn or fabric. Includes assets used in washing, scouring, bleaching, dyeing, printing, drying, and similar finishing processes applied to textile fabrics, yarns, threads, and other textile goods. Includes assets used in the production and packaging of textile products, other than apparel, by creasing, forming, trimming, cutting, and sewing, such as the preparation of carpet and fabric samples, or similar joining together processes (other than the production of scrim reinforced paper products and laminated paper products) such as the sewing and folding of hosiery and panty hose, and the creasing, folding, trimming, and cutting of fabrics to produce nonwoven products, such as disposable diapers and sanitary products. Also includes assets used in the production of medical and dental supplies other than drugs and medicines. Assets used in the manufacture of nonwoven carpet backing, and hard surface floor covering such as tile, rubber, and cork, are elsewhere classified.

.07 Asset class 30.1, "Manufacture of Rubber Products," is corrected to read as follows:

Includes assets used for the production of products from natural, synthetic, or reclaimed rubber, gutta percha, balata, or gutta siak, such as tires, tubes, rubber footwear, mechanical rubber goods, heels and soles, flooring, and rubber sundries; and in the recapping, retreading, and rebuilding of tires.

.08 Asset class 36.0, "Manufacture of Electronic Components, Products, and Systems," is corrected to read as follows:

Includes assets used in the manufacture of electronic communication, computation, instrumentation and control system, including airborne applications; also includes assets used in the manufacture of electronic products such as frequency and amplitude modulated transmitters and receivers, electronic switching stations, television cameras, video recorders, record players and tape recorders, computers and computer peripheral machines, and electronic instruments, watches, and clocks; also includes assets used in the manufacture of components, provided their primary use is in products and systems defined above such as electron tubes, capacitors, coils, resistors, printed circuit substrates, switches, harness cables, lasers, fiber optic devices, and magnetic media devices. Specifically excludes assets used to manufacture electronic products and components, photocopiers, typewriters, postage meters and other electromechanical and mechanical business machines and instruments that are elsewhere classified. Does not include semiconductor manufacturing equipment included in class 36.1

.09 Asset class 37.11, "Manufacture of Motor Vehicles," is corrected to read as follows:

Includes assets used in the manufacture and assembly of finished automobiles, trucks, trailers, motor homes, and buses. Does not include assets used in mining, printing and publishing, production of primary metals, electricity, or steam, or the manufacture of glass, industrial chemicals, batteries, or rubber products, which are classified elsewhere. Includes assets used in manufacturing activities elsewhere classified other than those excluded above, where such activities are incidental to and an integral part of the manufacture and assembly of finished motor vehicles such as the manufacture of parts and subassemblies of fabricated metal products, electrical equipment, textiles, plastics, leather, and foundry and forging operations. Does not include any assets not classified in manufacturing activity classes, e.g., does not include any assets classified in asset guideline classes 00.11 through 00.4. Activities will be considered incidental to the manufacture and assembly of finished motor vehicles only if 75 percent or more of the value of the products produced under one roof are used for the manufacture and assembly of finished motor vehicles. Parts that are produced as a normal replacement stock complement in connection with the manufacture and assembly of finished motor vehicles are considered used for the manufacture and assembly of finished motor vehicles. Does not include assets used in the manufacture of component parts if these assets are used by taxpayers not engaged in the assembly of finished motor vehicles.

.10 Asset class 49.223, "Substitute Natural Gas-Coal Gasification," is corrected to read as follows:

Includes assets used in the manufacture and production of pipeline quality gas from coal using the basic Lurgi process with advanced methanation. Includes all process plant equipment and structures used in this coal gasification process and all utility assets such as cooling systems, water supply and treatment facilities, and assets used in the production and distribution of electricity and steam for use by the taxpayer in a gasification plant and attendant coal mining site processes but not for assets used in the production and distribution of electricity and steam for sale to others. Also includes all other related land improvements. Does not include assets used in the direct mining and treatment of coal prior to the gasification process itself.

Rev. Proc. 88-23

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to supersede Rev. Proc. 85-41, 1985-2 C.B. 482, which provided the procedures to be followed to obtain a withholding certificate for purposes of sections 1.1445-3T and 1.1445-6T of the Temporary Income Tax Regulations concerning withholding on dispositions by foreign persons of United States (U.S.) real property interests. Final regulations under section 1445 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 were promulgated on December 24, 1986; this revenue procedure reflects those final regulations.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

The Tax Reform Act of 1984, section 129, 1984-3 (Vol. 1) C.B. 163, added section 1445 to the Internal Revenue Code as a means of enforcing the tax imposed pursuant to section 897 on dispositions by foreign persons of investments in U.S. real property. Section 1445(a) provides that a transferee of a U.S. real property interest from a foreign person must deduct and withhold a tax equal to 10 percent of the amount realized by the foreign person on the disposition. Section 1445(b) provides several exceptions to this requirement, including an exemption from withholding for persons who purchase property for use as a residence for $300,000 or less. Other exemptions under section 1445(b) include cases where the transferor furnishes an affidavit of nonforeign status, where the property transferred is stock that is regularly traded on an established securities market, and where a statement is obtained from the Internal Revenue Service that excuses withholding. Similarly, section 1445(c) provides that the amount required to be withheld can be reduced pursuant to a determination by the Service of the transferor's maximum tax liability upon the disposition. Sections 1.1445-3 and 1.1445-6 of the Income Tax Regulations provide rules concerning the issuance by the Service of a withholding certificate that reduces or eliminates withholding. This revenue procedure provides additional guidance concerning applications for withholding certificates.

SEC. 3. WITHHOLDING CERTIFICATES— IN GENERAL

.01 Purpose of Withholding Certificate. Withholding under section 1445 of the Code may be reduced or eliminated pursuant to a withholding certificate issued by the Service in accordance with the rules set forth in this revenue procedure. A withholding certificate may be issued by the Service in cases where reduced withholding is appropriate, where the transferor is exempt from U.S. tax, or where an agreement for the payment of tax is entered into with the Service. A withholding certificate that is obtained prior to a transfer notifies the transferee that no withholding is required or that reduced withholding is required. A withholding certificate that is obtained after a transfer has been made may authorize a normal refund or an early refund. See section 1.1445-3(g) of the regulations. A withholding certificate issued pursuant to the provisions of this revenue procedure serves to fulfill the requirements, as applicable, of section 1445(b)(4) concerning qualifying statements, section 1445(c)(1) concerning the transferor's maximum tax liability, or section 1445(c)(2) concerning the Secretary's authority to prescribe reduced withholding.

.02 Limited Effect of a Withholding Certificate. A withholding certificate serves only to adjust withholding obligations to correspond as closely as possible to the probable tax liability arising out of a transfer. Therefore, all determinations that are made by the Service in connection with the issuance of a withholding certificate apply solely for the limited purpose of determining withholding obligations under section 1445 of the Code and do not necessarily represent the Service's final view with respect to any substantive issue that may arise in connection with a transfer. Similarly, the Service's acceptance in connection with the issuance of a withholding certificate of any evidence provided or any representation made by a taxpayer is made only for that purpose, is not binding for any other purpose, and does not constitute a final determination of the truth or accuracy of any such evidence or representation.

.03 Types of Withholding Certificates Available. Pursuant to section 1.1445-3 of the regulations, a withholding certificate may be issued on the basis of any of the following:

1. A determination by the Service that reduced withholding is appropriate because either:

(a) The amount otherwise required to be withheld would exceed the transferor's maximum tax liability; or

(b) Withholding of a reduced amount would not jeopardize collection of the tax.

2. The exemption from U.S. tax of all gain realized by the transferor; or

3. An agreement of the payment of tax providing security for the tax liability, entered into by the transferee or transferor.

SEC. 4. APPLICATIONS FOR WITHHOLDING CERTIFICATES

.01 General rules. An application for a withholding certificate must be submitted to the Director, Philadelphia Service Center, P.O. Box 21086, Philadelphia, PA 19114. However, an application for a withholding certificate under section 6 (category 4 conforming security applications), section 9 (category 5 blanket withholding certificate applications), or section 10 (category 6 non-standard applications) of this revenue procedure must be submitted to the Assistant Commissioner (International), Director, Office of Taxpayer Service and Compliance, IN:C:E, 950 L'Enfant Plaza South, S.W.; COMSAT Building; Washington, D.C. 20024. Either a transferee or a transferor may apply for a withholding certificate, but only a transferor may apply for a blanket withholding certificate. The Service ordinarily will act upon an application not later than the 90th day after all information necessary for the Service to make a determination is received. However, in the case of an application for a certificate described in section 4.03(6) below, and in unusually complicated cases, the Service may be unable to provide a withholding certificate by the 90th day. In such a case, the Service will notify the applicant by the 45th day after all information necessary for the Service to make a determination is received that additional processing time will be necessary. The Service's notice may request additional information or explanation concerning particular aspects of the application and will provide a target date for final action (contingent upon the applicant's timely submission of any requested information). If an application for a withholding certificate is submitted before or on the date of a transfer and on the date of the transfer the application remains pending with the Service, the amount required to be withheld by the transferee is not required to be reported and paid over immediately. Instead, that amount (or such other amount as is appropriate) must be reported and paid over by the 20th day following the day upon which a copy of the withholding certificate or notice of denial is mailed by the Service.

.02 Required signatures. An application for a withholding certificate must be signed by a responsible officer in the case of a corporation, by a general partner in the case of a partnership, by a trustee, executor, or equivalent fiduciary in the case of a trust or estate, and, in the case of an individual, by the individual himself or herself. In addition, an application may be signed by an agent authorized to do so by a general or specific power of attorney. Form 2848 may be used for this purpose. The person signing the application must verify under penalties of perjury that all representations made in connection with the application are true, correct, and complete to the best of that person's knowledge and belief. To the extent that an application is premised in whole or in part on information provided by another party to the transaction, this information is to be supported by a written verification attached to that application signed under penalties of perjury by the party to whom it pertains. The application must follow the format set forth in section 4.04 below.

.03 Categorizing of applications. To facilitate the processing of applications for withholding certificates, this revenue procedure divides all applications into six basic categories as follows:

1. Applications for withholding certificates based on a claim that the transferor is entitled to nonrecognition treatment or is exempt from tax;

2. Applications for withholding certificates based solely on a calculation of the transferor's maximum tax liability;

3. Applications for withholding certificates under the special installment sales rules of section 7 of this revenue procedure;

4. Applications for withholding certificates based on an agreement for the payment of tax with conforming security;

5. Applications for blanket withholding certificates under section 9 of this revenue procedure; and

6. Applications for withholding certificates on any other basis.

.04 Format for application. All applications for withholding certificates must provide the following information in paragraphs labeled to correspond with the numbers and letters set forth below. Place "N/A" in the relevant space if the information requested is not applicable to the application being submitted.

1. (a) State which category of section 4.03, above, describes the application;

(b) In the case of category 4 applications (agreement for the payment of tax with conforming security):

(1) State whether the proposed agreement secures (A) the transferor's maximum tax liability, or (B) the amount that would otherwise be required to be withheld; and

(2) State whether the proposed agreement and security instrument conform to the standard formats set forth in this revenue procedure.

2. (a) Provide the name, identification number (if any), and home address (for an individual) or office address (for an entity) of the person applying for the withholding certificate. A mailing address may also be included.

(b) State whether the applicant is the transferee or transferor.

(c) Provide the name, address, and identification number (if none exists for any party the application must so state) of all other transferees and transferors (specifying whether such party is a transferee or transferor) of the U.S. real property interest with respect to which the withholding certificate is sought.

3. Provide the following information concerning the U.S. real property interest with respect to which the withholding certificate is sought:

(a) Type of interest (that is, interest in real property, in associated personal property, or in a domestic U.S. real property holding corporation);

(b) The contract price;

(c) Date of transfer;

(d) In the case of an interest in real property, its location and a general description of the property (for example, "10-story, 100 unit luxury apartment building"); and

(e) In the case of an interest in a U.S. real property holding corporation, the class or type and amount of the interest.

4. Provide full information concerning the basis for the issuance of the withholding certificate, in accordance with the rules of sections 4.05 through 4.10 below. Although the information to be included in this section of the application will necessarily vary from case to case, the rules set forth below provide general guidelines for the inclusion of appropriate information with respect to each category of application.

.05 Information concerning category 1 applications (nonrecognition or exempt transfer). If a withholding certificate is sought on the basis of a claim that the transaction is entitled to nonrecognition treatment or is exempt from U.S. taxation, provide the following:

1. A brief description of the transfer;

2. A brief summary of the law and facts supporting the claim of nonrecognition or exemption;

3. Evidence that the transferor has no unsatisfied withholding liability, as described in section 4.06(3); and

4. The most recent assessed value, for state or local property tax purposes, of the U.S. real property interest to be transferred, or other good faith estimate of its fair market value (no supporting evidence concerning the value of the property need be supplied).

.06 Information concerning category 2 applications (determination of maximum tax liability).

1. In general. If a withholding certificate is sought on the basis of a determination of the transferor's maximum tax liability, information must be provided to establish the two elements of that liability: (1) the maximum tax that may be imposed on the disposition, and (b) the transferor's unsatisfied withholding liability. Paragraphs 4.06(2) and .06(3), below, provide guidelines for the furnishing of such information for further information concerning the determination of the transferor's maximum tax liability. See section 1.1445-3(c) of the regulations.

2. Maximum tax on disposition. (a) The applicant must provide a calculation of the maximum tax that may be imposed on the disposition, including the following information:

(1) The amount to be realized by the transferor plus evidence confirming this amount, such as a copy of the signed contract relating to the transfer;

(2) Adjusted basis of the property plus evidence confirming the basis claimed, such as schedules of depreciation for tax purposes (if no depreciation schedules are provided, the application must state the nature of the use of the property and why depreciation was not allowed);

(3) Amounts to be recaptured with respect to accelerated depreciation, investment tax credit, or other items subject to recapture;

(4) Maximum capital gain and/or ordinary income tax rates applicable to the transfer;

(5) Tentative tax owed;

(6) Amount of any increase or reduction of tax to which the transferor is subject, including any reduction to which the transferor is entitled under a provision of a U.S. income tax treaty as well as evidence supporting the adjustment claimed. See section 1.1445-3(c)(2) of the regulations.

(b) For purposes of calculating the maximum tax that may be imposed upon a disposition, unused credit carryovers shall not be taken into account, and net operation loss carryovers (NOLs) (see section 172 of the Code) may be taken into account only if:

(1) The transferor claiming the NOL has been engaged in a trade or business in the U.S. during the three preceding tax years and has timely filed an income tax return for each of those years (copies of which should be attached);

(2) The claimed NOL has been reflected on previously-filed returns (no anticipated loss with respect to current year operations may be considered);

(3) The claimed NOL is not currently the subject of an examination by or a dispute with the Service;

(4) The transferor agrees that, if the amount of gain that the transferor claimed would be offset by the

NOL exceeds the amount of the gain actually recognized and offset by the claimed NOL when the transferor files its tax return for the current tax year, the transferor will pay interest upon the excess of the amount that should have been subject to withholding over the amount, if any, actually withheld, which interest will be computed:

(A) At the rates and in the manner prescribed by sections 6621 and 6622 of the Code; and

(B) With respect to the period between the date on which withholding would otherwise have been required and the date on which payment is made (for purposes of determining whether gain recognized on the disposition was in fact offset by the claimed NOL, the NOL is deemed first to offset income from sources other than the disposition of U.S. real property interests, and then to offset gain from such dispositions with respect to which a withholding certificate was issued in the order to which such dispositions occurred);

(5) The claimed NOL has not previously been used to reduce withholding upon other dispositions of U.S. real property interests or to reduce the amount of any other obligation or liability under U.S. internal revenue laws; and

(6) As part of the application, the transferor represents that:

(A) At least 80 percent of its gross income subject to U.S. taxation in the taxable year of disposition will be derived from U.S. real property interests; and

(B) In calculating the maximum tax that may be imposed on the disposition, the application calculates the NOL in the manner prescribed by the provisions of this section 4.06(2)(b), and the NOL is taken into account only to the extent permitted by such provisions.

3. Transferor's unsatisfied withholding liability. The applicant must provide a calculation of the transferor's unsatisfied withholding liability or evidence that it does not exist. That liability is the amount of any tax that the transferor was required to but did not withhold and pay over under section 1445 of the Code upon the acquisition of the subject U.S. real property interest or a prior interest. The transferor's unsatisfied withholding liability is included in the calculation of maximum tax liability so that such prior withholding liability may be satisfied by the transferee's withholding upon the current transfer. For further information, see section 1.1445-3(c)(3) of the regulations. Evidence that the transferor has no unsatisfied withholding liability includes any of the following items:

(a) Evidence that the transferor acquired the subject or prior real property interest before January 1, 1985;

(b) A copy of the Form 8288 that was filed by the transferor, and proof of payment of the amount shown due thereon, with respect to the transferor's acquisition of the subject or prior real property interest;

(c) A copy of a withholding certificate issued with respect to the transferor's acquisition of the subject or prior real property interest, plus a copy of Form 8288 and proof of payment with respect to any withholding required under that certificate;

(d) A copy of the nonforeign certificate furnished by the person from whom the subject or prior U.S. real property interest was acquired, executed at the time of that acquisition;

(e) Evidence that the transferor purchased the subject or prior real property interest for $300,000 or less and a statement, signed by the transferor under penalties of perjury, that the transferor purchased the property for use as a residence within the meaning of section 1.1445-2(d)(1);

(f) Evidence that the person from whom the transferor acquired the subject or prior U.S. real property interest fully paid any tax imposed on that transaction pursuant to section 897;

(g) A copy of a notice of nonrecognition treatment provided to the transferor pursuant to section 1.1445-2(d)(2) by the person from whom the transferor acquired the subject or prior U.S. real property interest; and

(h) A statement, signed by the transferor under penalties of perjury, setting forth the facts and circumstances that support the transferor's conclusion that no withholding was required under section 1445(a) with respect to the transferor's acquisition of the subject or prior real property interest.

.07 Information concerning category 3 applications (installment sales). See section 7 of this revenue procedure.

.08 Information concerning category 4 applications (agreement for the payment of tax with conforming security). If a withholding certificate is sought on the basis of an agreement for the payment of tax, the application must include:

1. Information establishing:

(a) The transferor's maximum tax liability, in accordance with section 4.06; or

(b) The amount otherwise required to be withheld pursuant to section 1445(a) of the Code;

2. A signed copy of the agreement proposed by the applicant; and

3. A copy of the security instrument proposed by the applicant. For further information concerning agreements for the payment of tax and security instruments, see sections 5 and 6 of this revenue procedure and section 1.1445-3 of the regulations.

.09 Information concerning category 5 applications (blanket withholding certificate). See section 9 of this revenue procedure.

.10 Information concerning category 6 applications (non-standard applications).

1. Agreement for payment of tax with nonconforming security. If the applicant seeks to enter into an agreement for the payment of tax, but wishes to provide a nonconforming type of security, the application must include:

(a) The information required by section 4.08 concerning category 4 applications;

(b) A description of the nonconforming security proposed by the applicant; and

(c) A memorandum of law and facts establishing that the proposed security is valid and enforceable and that it adequately protects the government's interest.

2. Ohter non-standard applications. An application for a withholding certificate not otherwise described in this revenue procedure must explain in detail the proposed basis for the issuance of the certificate and set forth the reasons justifying the issuance of a certificate on that basis.

.11 Availability of records. The applicant shall make available to the Director or to the Assistant Commissioner (International), within the time prescribed by the Director or Assistant Commissioner (International), respectively, all information that may be required by the Director or by the Assistant Commissioner (International) in order to verify that representations relied upon by the Director or the Assistant Commissioner (International) in accepting the agreement are accurate, and that the obligations assumed by the applicant will be performed pursuant to the agreement. Failure to provide requested information promptly will usually result in rejection of the application. Instead of or in addition to such rejection, the Director or the Assistant Commissioner (International), in his discretion, may also consider extension of an established target date for issuing a withholding certificate.

The parties shall agree that the review of books and records pursuant to the agreement shall not constitute an examination for purposes of section 7605(b) of the Code.

SEC. 5. AGREEMENT FOR THE PAYMENT OF TAX

.01 In general. The Service will issue a withholding certificate that excuses withholding or that permits a transferee to withhold a reduced amount if either the transferor or the transferee enters into an agreement for the payment of tax. An agreement for the payment of tax is a contract between the Service and any other person that consists of two necessary elements. Those elements are:

1. A detailed description of the rights and obligations of each; and

2. A security instrument or other form of security acceptable to the Assistant Commissioner (International).

.02 Contents of agreement—In general. An agreement for the payment of tax must either provide adequate security for the payment of the tax in accordance with section 6 of this revenue procedure or provide for the payment of the tax through a combination of security and withholding of tax by the transferee. The agreement must cover an amount described in subdivision (a) or (b) of this paragraph.

(a) Tax that would otherwise be withheld. An agreement for the payment of tax may cover the tax that would otherwise be required to be withheld pursuant to section 1445(a) of the Code. In addition to securing the amount computed pursuant to section 1445(a), the agreement must provide that the applicant will pay interest upon that amount, at the rates and in the manner prescribed by section 6621 and 6622, with respect to the period between the date on which the tax imposed by section 1445(a) would otherwise be due (i.e., the 20th day after the date of transfer) and the date on which the transferor's payment of tax with respect to the disposition will be due. Interest and additions with respect to the tax also must be secured. In most instances, payments of interest and additions to tax may be secured by the same agreement that secures payment of taxes. At the discretion of the Assistant Commissioner (International) however, separate security agreements may be required.

(b) Maximum tax liability. An agreement for the payment of tax may provide for the payment of the transferor's maximum tax liability, determined in accordance with section 4.06(2) of this revenue procedure. The agreement must also provide for the payment of an additional amount equal to 25 percent of the amount determined under section 4.06(2). This additional amount secures the interest and additions to tax that would accrue between the date of a failure to file a return and pay tax with respect to the disposition, and the date on which the Service collects the tax pursuant to the agreement.

.03 All agreements for the payment of tax will be between the Assistant Commissioner (International) and the applicant furnishing the security or personally guaranteeing payment of any tax later determined to be due. In addition, the Assistant Commissioner (International) may require as a signatory any other party deemed to be appropriate. The Assistant Commissioner (International) may require such other terms and conditions, or vary the format as appropriate in the particular case, to provide adequate security.

.04 The agreement for the payment of tax should state the purpose and basis of the agreement. It should also recite any warranties or representations upon which the Assistant Commissioner (International) will be required to place material reliance in accepting the agreement.

.05 The agreement for the payment of tax must set forth in detail the obligations to be assumed and identify the nature of the security that is being offered. To the extent that the security is embodied in an instrument or document collateral to the agreement, such instrument or document must be incorporated by reference in the agreement.

.06 Sample agreement. The following example sets forth the language of an agreement for the payment of tax that in most circumstances will be acceptable to the Service:

1. This agreement is entered into pursuant to the provisions of section 1445 of the Internal Revenue Code (the "Code") and the regulations thereunder.

The signatories warrant that they are authorized under applicable law to enter into the agreement and undertake the actions and obligations specified herein.

2. ____________ (name) warrants that (s)he/it will make timely payment of any liability (including tax, penalties, interest, and additions to tax) that may become lawfully due and owing under the Code as a result of the disposition or distribution by _____ of the interest, or any part thereof, described in Exhibit(s) _____ [the "subject interest(s)"] giving rise to tax liability by reason of the operation of sections 871(b), 882, and/or 897 of the Code. The related security secures payment of such amounts. Security for the payment of such liability is provided in the amount of _____, in accordance with the requirements of section 1.1445-3(e)(2) of the Income Tax Regulations. The computation of the proper amount of security to be provided is set forth in Exhibit _____and such computation is hereby incorporated by reference.

3. The provisions of this agreement shall be construed as binding upon all signatories to this agreement, unless the intent to exclude any one or more signatories is clearly set forth in the provisions or is clearly implicit in the terms hereof.

4. The amount of each deposit of estimated tax that will be required with respect to the amount recognized on the subject disposition may be collected by levy upon or recourse to the security as of the date following the date on which each such deposit is due (unless such deposit is timely made).

5. The entire amount of the liability may be collected by levy upon or recourse to the security at any time during the nine months following the date on which the payment of tax with respect to the subject disposition is due, subject to release of the security upon the full payment of the tax and any interest and penalties due. If the transferor requests an extension of time to file a return with respect to the disposition, the Assistant Commissioner (International) may require that the term of the security instrument be extended until the date that is nine months after the filing deadline as extended.

6. The applicant shall make available to the Assistant Commissioner (International) within 30 days of a request from the Assistant Commissioner (International) all information that may be required by the Assistant Commissioner (International) in order to verify that representations relied upon by the Assistant Commissioner (International) in accepting the agreement are accurate, and that the obligations assumed by the applicant are performed pursuant to this agreement.

7. The parties agree that the review of books and records pursuant to this agreement shall not constitute an examination for purposes of section 7605(b) of the Code.

8. Nothing in this agreement shall limit the Assistant Commissioner (International) from performing the obligations imposed upon or delegated to him under the law.

9. Upon the occurrence of any default by the applicant under the applicable provisions of this agreement, in addition to any and all other rights and remedies which the Assistant Commissioner (International) may have hereunder, or under any other applicable law, or otherwise, the Assistant Commissioner (International) may reduce the claim to judgment, otherwise enforce the security interests by any available judicial procedure, and exercise any other rights and remedies the Assistant Commissioner (International) may have at law, or in equity, or otherwise, including, but not limited to the right to apply toward payment of the obligations hereunder, without notice to the applicant, any sums which may then be held by the Assistant Commissioner (International) for said applicant.

10. For purposes of this agreement, the term "default" means a material misrepresentation of material fact or a failure to honor an obligation or warranty agreed to herein.

11. Except as otherwise provided in this agreement, no provision of this agreement shall be deemed to constitute a waiver of any right that any party may have to recover any amount in accordance with the laws, statutes, and regulations of the United States, nor shall any provision of the agreement be deemed to be an admission by any person, whether or not a party hereto, that such person is liable for any federal income tax, or, if a foreign corporation or nonresident alien, that such person is subject to the taxing jurisdiction of the United States, or if the Assistant Commissioner (International), that the facts upon which this agreement is based are true and accurate.

12. This agreement and all of its terms and conditions shall inure to the benefit of, and be binding upon, the Assistant Commissioner (International) and the applicant, and their respective successors and assigns.

13. All notices, instructions and other communications ("Notices") required or permitted to be given, forwarded, or transmitted hereunder or necessary or convenient in connection herewith shall be in writing and addressed to

To [the applicant: the applicant's address etc], and shall be deemed to have been given only when delivered personally; or sent by first class U.S. mail (postage pre-paid, by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested); or sent by cable, telex, telegram or facsimile transmission (for example, telecopier) and confirmed by letter mailed the same day to the party receiving the notice. Any notice sent by mail to or from a place outside the continental United States shall be sent by air mail. Any notice sent by cable, telegram, or telex may be addressed to any published cable, telegram, or telex address that the addressee may have specified by notice to all the signatories. Any signatory may change the address or addresses to which communications are to be directed to it by giving written notice of such change to the persons above specified in the manner provided above, provided, however, that [the applicant] may establish or change an address to which notices are to be directed only if the new address is the address of [the applicant] itself or the address of a person with power of attorney to act for [the applicant] with respect to the disposition or distribution described in paragraph 2.

14. This agreement may not be amended, modified, superseded, or cancelled and none of the terms hereof may be waived, except by a written instrument executed by the Assistant Commissioner (International) and the other party or parties hereto sought to be charged thereby. In the case of a waiver of the breach of any term contained in this agreement in any one or more instances, the waiver shall be neither deemed to be nor construed as a further or continuing waiver of any such breach or term or any other term contained in this agreement.

15. This agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts with all the counterparts together constituting one and the same agreement.

16. The term "Assistant Commissioner (International)" as used herein also shall include any successors in office, the Deputy Assistant Commissioner (International) and any and all agents or employees thereof duty authorized for the purpose.

17. This agreement shall not be binding upon any signatory hereto until it has been signed by the Assistant Commissioner (International) and the Assistant Commissioner (International) has received counterparts thereof duly executed by each of the signatories whose names appear at the end of this agreement.

18. No provision of this agreement shall relieve any party or person of any obligation or liability under the internal revenue laws of the United States, except as specifically provided in this agreement.

19. This agreement is made without prejudice to the assertion and/or collection of tax liabilities other than for any tax imposed by section 871(b)(1) or 882(a)(1) of the Code on any gain realized by the transferor on the disposition of the subject United States real property interest.

20. This agreement shall be governed, construed, and enforced in accordance with the laws of the United States of America and, where applicable, the laws of the State of [insert applicable local jurisdiction.]

21. It is agreed that nothing herein shall be construed to increase, decrease, or otherwise affect in any way the substantive tax liability of the taxpayer under any other provision of the Code.

22. The Assistant Commissioner (International) will not, in part or in full, release, subordinate, or return the security held with respect to this agreement except upon the payment of any liability determined to be due or upon the deposit of an acceptable amount of estimated tax or upon a showing to the satisfaction of the Assistant Commissioner (International) that the liability is zero.

SEC. 6. SECURITY

.01 There are four major types of security acceptable to the Service. These are:

1. Bond with surety or guarantor. The Service may accept as security with respect to a transferor's tax liability a bond that is executed with a satisfactory surety or guarantor. Only the following persons may act as surety or guarantor for this purpose:

(a) A surety company holding a certificate of authority for the Secretary as an acceptable surety on Federal bonds, as listed in Treasury Department Circular No. 570, published annually in the Federal Register on the first working day in July and as supplemented from time to time thereafter;

(b) A person who is engaged within or without the U.S. in the conduct of a banking, financing, or similar business under the principles of section 1.864-4(c)(5) of the regulations, and who is subject to U.S. or foreign (local or national) regulation of such business, if that person is otherwise acceptable to the Service; and

(c) A person who is engaged within or without the U.S. in the conduct of an insurance business that is subject to U.S. or foreign (local or national) regulation, if that person is otherwise acceptable to the Service.

2. Bond with collateral. The Service may accept as security with respect to a transferor's tax liability a bond that is secured by acceptable collateral. All collateral must be deposited with a responsible financial institution acting as escrow agent, or in the Service's discretion, with the Service. Only the following types of collateral are acceptable:

(a) Bonds, notes, or other public debt obligations of the U.S., in accordance with the rules of 31 CFR Part 225; and

(b) A certified, cashier's, or treasurer's check, drawn on an entity acceptable to the Service that is engaged within or without the U.S. in the conduct of a banking, financing, or similar business under the principles of section 1.864-4(c)(5) of the regulations and that is subject to U.S. or foreign (local or national) regulation of such business.

3. Letter of credit. The Service may accept as security with respect to a transferor's tax liability an irrevocable letter or credit issued by an entity acceptable to the Service that is engaged within or without the U.S. in the conduct of a banking, financing, or similar business under the principles of section 1.864-4(c)(5) of the regulations and that is subject to U.S. or foreign (local or national) regulation of such business. The Assistant Commissioner (International) will accept a letter of credit from an entity that is not engaged in a trade or business in the U.S. only if such letter may be drawn on an advising bank within the U.S.

4. Guarantee. The Service may accept as security with respect to a corporate transferor's tax liability a guarantee of the payment of such liability. The Service will accept such a guarantee only if (a) the corporation providing the guarantee is a corporation, foreign or domestic, any class of the stock of which is regularly traded on an established securities market on the date of the transfer; (b) the corporation providing the guarantee (1) is the transferor or holds, directly or indirectly, more than 80 percent of the voting stock of the transferor and (2) is engaged in a trade or business within the U.S.; and (c) has gross assets in the U.S. at least $25 million in excess of the value of the U.S. real property interest which is being disposed of.

5. Other forms of security. The Service, at its discretion, may in unusual circumstances accept any additional form of security that it finds to be adequate.

SEC. 7. INSTALLMENT SALES

.01 In general. A transferee as a result of a disposition of a U.S. real property interest occurring after December 31, 1984, is required to satisfy its withholding obligation based on the full amount of the sales price regardless of the amount of the payment by the transferee. If the transferor is a person other than a dealer and will report gain from the disposition under section 453 of the Code, a withholding certificate that permits the transferee to withhold at a reduced rate may be obtained under the rules of this section. Any withholding certificate must provide for payment of the interest on the deferred tax liability under section 453A(c) of the Code when applicable. No refund of the amount withheld will be made unless such a withholding certificate is obtained.

.02 With respect to installment sales subject to withholding under section 1445(a) of the Code, the Service will entertain requests for withholding certificates based on the transferee's agreement to do the following:

1. Withhold and pay over 10 percent, or such lesser amount as determined by the Director, of any down payment, including any liabilities of the transferor assumed by the transferee or liabilities to which the subject U.S. real property interest was subject immediately before and after the transfer;

2. Withhold 10 percent, or such lesser amount as may be determined by the Director, of each subsequent payment and the interest on the deferred tax liability under section 453A(c) of the Code (these amounts are in addition to any other amount required to be withheld under section 1441 or 1442);

3. Pay over all amounts withheld using Forms 8288 and 8288-A, including thereon the identification number of the transferor; and

4. Notify the Director prior to the disposition or encumbrance of the subject U.S. real property interest, and upon such disposition or encumbrance pay over to the Service the amount remaining to be withheld pursuant to section 1445(a).

5. If the transferor pledges the installment obligation in exchange for all or a portion of the proceeds due on the installment obligation and includes in gross income under section 453A(d) of the Code the net proceeds of the secured indebtedness, the transferee's obligation to withhold under a reduced withholding certificate nevertheless continues until an amended withholding certificate is issued even though the transferor includes the proceeds in gross income.

SEC. 8. APPLICATION FOR WITHHOLDING CERTIFICATES FOR AMOUNTS REQUIRED TO BE WITHHELD UNDER SECTION 1445(e)

.01 In general. Pursuant to the provisions of sections 1.1445-5(c), (d), and (e) of the regulations, withholding under section 1445(e) of the Code may be reduced or eliminated pursuant to a withholding certificate issued by the Service in accordance with the rules of section 1.1445-6. A withholding certificate may be issued in cases where adjusted withholding is appropriate, where the relevant taxpayers are exempt from U.S. tax, or where an agreement for the payment of tax is entered into with the Service. The term "relevant taxpayer" shall mean any foreign person that will bear substantive income tax liability by reason of a transaction upon which withholding is required under section 1445(e).

.02 Applications. An application for a withholding certificate pursuant to section 1.1445-6 of the regulations must follow the format set forth in section 4.04 of this revenue procedure and provide the information described in sections 4.05 through 4.10, with the following adjustments:

1. The application must include a preliminary item stating that it relates to withholding under section 1445(e) of the Code and specifying the applicable provisions of that section;

2. Item 2(b) of section 4.04 must state whether the applicant is a relevant taxpayer or a person required to withhold (and in what capacity that person is required to withhold; for example, as trustee);

3. Item 2(c) of section 4.04 must provide the required information with respect to each relevant taxpayer with respect to which adjusted withholding is sought; and

4. Information concerning the basis for the issuance of the certificate must be provided with respect to each relevant taxpayer.

.03 Installment sales. With respect to installment sales subject to withholding under section 1445(e) of the Code, the Service will entertain requests for withholding certificates based on the entity's or the fiduciary's agreement to do the following:

1. Withhold and pay over a portion, in an amount determined appropriate under section 1445(e) by the Director, of any down payment received, including any liabilities of the entity assumed by the transferee or liabilities to which the subject U.S. real property interest was subject immediately before and after the transfer;

2. Withhold a portion, in an amount determined appropriate under section 1445(e) by the Director, of each subsequent payment received (this amount is in addition to any other amount required to be withheld under sections 1441 or 1442);

3. Pay over all amounts withheld using Forms 8288 and 8288-A, including thereon the identification number of the interest holder subject to withholding; and

4. Notify the Director, prior to the disposition or encumbrance of the subject installment obligation, and upon such disposition or encumbrance pay over to the Service the amount remaining to be withheld under section 1445(e).

SEC. 9. BLANKET WITHHOLDING CERTIFICATE

.01 In general. The Assistant Commissioner (International) may issue a withholding certificate (blanket withholding certificate) that excuses withholding with respect to multiple dispositions of U.S. real property interests by the transferor or the transferor's legal representative during a period of no more than 12 months. A blanket withholding certificate may be issued if the transferor holding the U.S. real property interests provides a letter of credit as specified in paragraph 1 of this subsection .01 or a guarantee as specified in paragraph 2 of this subsection .01 and enters into an agreement with the Service that meets the requirements of paragraphs 3 and 4 of this subsection .01.

1. For dispositions not subject to section 1445(e) of the Code, the transferor must provide an irrevocable letter of credit in an amount equal to the greater of (i) $100,000 or (ii) 10 percent of the amount to be realized on the projected dispositions covered by the certificate. For dispositions subject to section 1445(e), the transferor must provide an irrevocable letter of credit in an amount equal to the greater of (i) $100,000 or (ii) the tax that section 1445(e) would require to be withheld. The letter of credit must meet the requirements of paragraph 3 of subsection 6.01 of this revenue procedure and otherwise must be acceptable to the Assistant Commissioner (International). In addition, the letter of credit by its terms must be valid until at least the last day of the ninth month following the date (including extensions of time) on which a return will be required to be filed with respect to the tax year in which the 12th month covered by the withholding certificate falls. A letter of credit in the form specified in subsection 6.02(5) in most circumstances will be acceptable to the Service when requesting a blanket withholding certificate.

2. Alternatively, the Service may accept as security for a blanket withholding certificate with respect to a corporate transferor's tax liability a guarantee of the payment of such liability. The Service will accept such a guarantee only if (a) the corporation providing the guarantee is a corporation, foreign or domestic, any class of the stock of which is regularly traded on an established securities market on the date of the transfer; (b) the corporation providing the guarantee (1) is the transferor or holds, directly or indirectly, more than 80 percent of the voting stock of the transferor and (2) is engaged in a trade or business within the U.S.; and (c) has gross assets in the U.S. at least $25 million in excess of the U.S. real property interest being disposed of.

Additionally, the transferor corporation must have filed United States corporate income tax returns for the prior consecutive three years and the guarantee otherwise must be acceptable to the Assistant Commissioner (International). The guarantee by its terms must be valid until at least the last day of the ninth month following the date (including extensions of time) on which a return will be required to be filed with respect to the tax year in which the 12th month covered by the withholding certificate falls. A guarantee in the form specified in subsection 6.02(6) will be acceptable to the Service in most circumstances when requesting a blanket withholding certificate.

3. The transferor must provide with the letter of credit described in paragraph 1 of this subsection or the guarantee described in paragraph 2 of this subsection an executed tax payment and security agreement securing the payment of tax with respect to the projected dispositions covered by the blanket withholding certificate. The agreement must meet the requirements of subsections 5.02 through 5.05 of this revenue procedure as modified to take account of this subsection 9.01 and otherwise must be acceptable to the Assistant Commissioner (International). In addition, the agreement must contain the terms as to notification of specific dispositions required by paragraph 4 of this subsection 9.01 and must provide that, in the event of a failure by the transferor to provide such notification or to file a return in a timely manner, deposit estimated tax in a timely manner, or to pay tax in a timely manner, with respect to the gain on one or more of the dispositions covered by the certificate, the Assistant Commissioner (International) may drawn upon the letter of credit or demand payment under the guarantee to satisfy the transferor's liability for any tax imposed by section 871(b)(1) or 882(a)(1) of the Code, plus interest and penalties, if any, on any one or more dispositions covered by the certificate.

4. The agreement required by paragraph 3 of this subsection must state that the transferor agrees to notify the Assistant Commissioner (International) before or on the date of any disposition of a U.S. real property interest covered by the blanket withholding certificate. The notice shall include the following information:

(a) The name, legal address, and taxpayer identification number, if any, of the transferor or the name and legal address of a legal representative of the transferor with the power to bind the transferor with respect to the disposition;

(b) The name, legal address, and taxpayer identification number, if any, of the transferee or the name and legal address of a legal representative of the transferee with the power to bind the transferee with respect to the disposition:

(c) A description of the U.S. real property interest to be transferred and the anticipated date of the transfer;

(d) The amount that would otherwise have been required to be withheld on the transfer (10 percent of the amount realized unreduced by the maximum tax calculation or for any other reason);

(e) The cumulative total of amounts that would otherwise have been required to be withheld with respect to dispositions (i) which have already taken place or are scheduled to take place prior to the disposition with respect to which notice is being given and (ii) with respect to which the Assistant Commissioner (International) has not sent the notice described in subsection .02(1) below;

(f) The amount of the original letter of credit provided or the amount the guarantor is bound to pay the Service under the guarantee; and

(g) A copy of the transferor's withholding certificate.

An agreement in the form prescribed by subsection 5.06 of this revenue procedure in most cases will be acceptable to the Service for purposes of paragraphs 3 and 4 of this subsection 9.01, with the following modifications: (i) The form should reflect and describe, as the "subject interests," the projected dispositions to be covered by the blanket withholding certificate to which the agreement will relate, (ii) paragraph 2 of the form should be modified to state that the agreement is entered into in connection with an application for a blanket withholding certificate and will extend to all dispositions covered by the blanket withholding certificate, (iii) the third sentence of paragraph 2 should be revised to read "Security for the payment of such liability is provided by an irrevocable letter of credit in the amount of , in accordance with the requirements of subsection 9.01(1) of Rev. Proc. 87-23 or by a guarantee in accordance with the requirements of subsection 9.01(2) of Rev. Proc. 87-23", (iv) a new paragraph should be added to the form (designated as paragraph 3, with the other paragraphs being renumbered accordingly), containing the terms of paragraph 4 of this subsection 9.01, and (v) paragraph 5 of the form (paragraph 6 as renumbered) should be revised to read:

"6. In the event of any failure by the transferor or the transferor's legal representative (i) to notify the Assistant Commissioner (International) properly, in accordance with paragraph 4, of a disposition of a U.S. real property interest covered by this agreement and the blanket withholding certificate to which it relates, or (ii) to file a return in a timely manner, to deposit estimated tax in a timely manner, or to pay tax in a timely manner, with respect to the gain on one or more dispositions covered by this agreement and such certificate, the Assistant Commissioner (International) may draw upon the letter of credit provided or the guarantee as related security under this agreement in full to the extent of the tax imposed by section 871(b)(1) or section 882(a)(1) of the Code on any one or more dispositions covered by this agreement and such certificate, plus interest and additions to tax, if any. This amount shall be in addition to any other civil or criminal penalties that may apply with respect to the applicant's use of the withholding certificate in violation of the terms thereof."

.02 A withholding certificate issued by the Assistant Commissioner (International) under this section will state that no withholding is required with respect to any disposition of a U.S. real property interest by the applicant provided that (1) before the date of the transfer, the Assistant Commissioner (International) does not provide notice to the person who would otherwise be required to withhold (discussed in paragraph 1 below) that such withholding is required and (2) the person who would otherwise be required to withhold timely provides the information and material described in paragraph 2 below and the disposition as consummated does not materially fail to correspond to the information so provided.

1. If one of the following conditions occurs, the Assistant Commissioner (International) will provide notice to the applicant, and to the person required to withhold, that withholding is required despite the prior issuance of a withholding certificate:

(a) The applicant's letter of credit or amount under the guarantee, in light of prior dispositions, is not sufficient to cover the amount otherwise required to be withheld on the transfer, or

(b) The applicant has otherwise violated the provisions of this section.

2. To be exempt from withholding tax liability, the person that would otherwise be required to withhold must, before or on the day of the closing of a transaction, provide a statement to the Assistant Commissioner (International) containing the following information and material:

(a) The name, legal address, and taxpayer identification number, if any, of the transferee or the name and legal address of a legal representative of the transferee with the power to bind the transferee with respect to the acquisition;

(b) The name, legal address, and taxpayer identification number, if any, of the transferor or the name and legal address of a legal representative of the transferor with the power to bind the transferor with respect to the acquisition;

(c) A description of the acquired U.S. real property interest and the anticipated date of the acquisition;

(d) The total contract price of the acquired U.S. real property interest; the amount of liabilities, if any, to be assumed by the transferee; and the amount of liabilities, if any, to which the property is to be acquired is subject; and

(e) A copy of the transferor's withholding certificate.

.03 The Assistant Commissioner (International) will, upon request, provide the transferor with a copy of a security agreement submitted pursuant to paragraph 9.01(2) executed by the Assistant Commissioner (International), but such an executed copy is not needed to establish the validity of the blanket withholding certificate for purposes of the subject disposition. Provided that notice is not given by the Assistant Commissioner (International) under section 9.02(1) and provided that the transferee timely provides the required information and materials, the withholding certificate remains valid.

.04 In the event of any failure by the transferor or the transferor's legal representative to notify the Assistant Commissioner (International) properly, in accordance with section 9.01(3), of a disposition of a U.S. real property interest, or to file a return in a timely manner, to deposit estimated tax in a timely manner, or to pay tax in a timely manner, with respect to the gain on one or more dispositions covered by the blanket withholding certificate, the letter of credit provided under section 9.01(1) or the guarantee provided under section 9.01(2) may be drawn upon in full to the extent of the tax imposed by section 871(b)(1) or section 882 (a)(1) of the Code, plus interest and additions to tax, if any, on any one or more dispositions covered by the blanket withholding certificate. This amount shall be in addition to any other civil or criminal penalties that may apply with respect to the applicant's use of the withholding certificate in violation of the terms thereof.

Rev. Proc. 88-24

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

This revenue procedure provides that payors of U.S. source grant or scholarship income to foreign students and grantees who are holders of F, J, or M visas may withhold in certain circumstances at less than the statutory rate under section 1441 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

Recipients of U.S. source grants or scholarships who (i) are not eligible for the exclusion from U.S. gross income under section 117(a) of the Code, (ii) are eligible for the exclusion from U.S. gross income only as to a portion of their grant or scholarship, or (iii) receive grants or scholarships which are wholly or partly exempt under an applicable tax treaty, may be subject to the provisions of this revenue procedure.

Withholding procedures for foreign students and trainees for whom an applicable tax treaty provides an exclusion from U.S. income for compensation for services performed are contained in Rev. Proc. 87-8, 1987-1 C.B. 366.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 amended the definition of a scholarship excludable from gross income under section 117(a) of the Code to limit the amount excludable from gross income to certain tuition, fees, books, supplies, and equipment required for courses of instruction incurred by an individual who is a candidate for a degree. Under former law, the excludable amount allowed for degree candidates included any amount received as a scholarship (not including compensation). For nondegree candidates, the excludable amount allowed was $300 per month if certain conditions were met. Thus, many scholarships were excludable from gross income in whole or in part. Exempt scholarship amounts of foreign students were not subject to withholding under section 1441.

Because of the amendments to section 117(a) of the Code made by the Tax Reform Act of 1986, fewer scholarships are excludable from gross income, either in whole or in part. Scholarships awarded to foreign students that are not excludable from gross income are subject to withholding under section 1441. In general, the statutory withholding rate under section 1441 is 30 percent. In the case of nonexempt amounts that are incident to a scholarship exempt under section 117(a), however, the withholding rate is lowered to 14 percent. Because both of these rates may exceed the actual tax liability of the foreign scholarship or grant recipient, the Internal Revenue Service is providing a reduced withholding procedure to approximate the actual tax liability of foreign scholarship or grant recipients.

SEC. 3. GENERAL PROCEDURE

Foreign students and grantees who wish to avail themselves of reduced withholding under section 1441 of the Code with respect to U.S. source taxable grant or scholarship income must complete a Form W-4 annually, subject to the special instructions contained in Section 4 of this revenue procedure. Properly completing the Form W-4 includes providing a U.S. taxpayer identifying number if one has been assigned. The Internal Revenue Service will assign a temporary number to a nonresident alien when the alien files the Form 1040NR.

The properly completed Form W-4 should be forwarded to the administrator agency (i.e., the payor) of the grant or scholarship. The administrator agency may rely on the Form W-4 (but is not required to do so) and withhold from a U.S. source grant or scholarship (or the nonexempt portion of a U.S. source grant or scholarship) paid to the foreign student or grantee on the basis of the properly completed Form W-4. The administrator agency will be subject to all relevant Code provisions and regulations, including section 1461 of the Code, which imposes liability for the tax to be withheld upon the withholding agent, and section 1.1461-2 of the Income Tax Regulations, which requires the filing of Forms 1042 and 1042S with respect to each student or grantee who has submitted a Form W-4 to the administrator agency.

Each individual student or grantee is required to file an annual income tax return under section 6012 of the Code. Section 874(a) makes the filing of a return a prerequisite to the allowance of deductions, including the allowance for personal deductions. If a student or grantee is in the United States during more than one taxable year, the student or grantee must attach to the annual Form W-4 a statement indicating that a proper U.S. income tax return was filed for the previous taxable year. If the student or grantee has not been in the United States for at least a portion of a taxable year, the student or grantee must attach to the annual Form W-4 a statement that he intends to file a timely return with respect to such year if the return is not yet due. A nonresident alien who is married to a citizen or resident of the United States and who elects to file a joint return under section 6013 is not eligible for relief under this revenue procedure.

SEC. 4. SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING FORM W-4

.01 Standard deductions. Under section 63(c)(6)(B) of the Code, a nonresident alien individual is not eligible for the standard deduction as defined in section 63(c)(2). Therefore, the standard deduction may not be taken into account by a nonresident alien student or grantee for purposes of reduced withholding under section 1441. Line B on the Personal Allowances Worksheet of Form W-4 should be completed by entering zero.

.02 Personal exemptions. Section 873(b) of the Code limits the number of personal exemptions allowed by section 151 to one exemption unless the taxpayer is a resident of a contiguous country (i.e., Canada or Mexico) or is a national of the United States. A national of the United States for purposes of the Code is a person who owes allegiance to the United States such as, for example, a native of American Samoa. A resident of Japan may claim personal exemptions for a spouse and children who live with the taxpayer in the United States at some time during the taxable year; the amount of the additional exemption, however, is the product of the full exemption otherwise allowable and a fraction, the numerator of which is the taxpayer's gross income that is effectively connected with a U.S. trade or business for the taxable year, and the denominator of which is the taxpayer's income from all sources for that taxable year. See IRS Publication 519 for further details and section 871(c) regarding treatment of certain grant or scholarship income as effectively connected income.

Section 1.1441-3(e)(2) of the Income Tax Regulations requires that the allowable personal exemptions be prorated upon a daily basis for the period during which the nonresident alien student or trainee is present in the United States. For taxable years beginning after 1987, the daily amount is determined by dividing the exemption amount for a particular taxable year by 365 (366 in the case of a leap year). Thus, a married nonresident alien, not a resident of either Mexico or Canada or a national of the United States, is allowed only one personal exemption equal to the daily proration amount times the number of days for which the nonresident alien is present in the United States during the taxable year. For purposes of completing Form W-4 under this revenue procedure, the student or grantee must use the number of days he or she expects to be present in the United States during the taxable year. Enter the personal exemption amount as calculated above on line A of the Personal Allowances Worksheet. Enter zero on lines C and D of the Personal Allowances Worksheet unless the student or grantee is a resident of either Mexico, Canada, or is a national of the United States. In that case, if the student or grantee is married or has dependents, a personal exemption amount for the spouse and each dependent may be calculated in the same manner using the same number of days as for the student or trainee and entered as appropriate on lines C and D. Residents of Japan who are eligible for exemptions for a spouse and children should calculate the appropriate exemption amount and enter that amount on lines C and D.

Nonresident aliens are not eligible for head of household status under section 2(b)(3) of the Code or for the credit for the elderly and disabled under section 22(f). Because the child-care credit is available only to taxpayers filing a joint return, it is not available to aliens subject to this revenue procedure. Therefore, make no entries on lines E or F of the Personal Allowances Worksheet.

.03 Section 162 deductions. Section 162 deductions may be taken only if the guidelines provided in Rev. Rul. 83-82, 1983-1 C.B. 45, are met. A nonresident alien who realistically expects his training or study period to last less than two years may be eligible for deductions under section 162 of the Code if he meets all three claimed abode tests set forth in Rev. Rul. 83-82. An expected or actual stay of two years (i.e., 24 months) or longer is considered an indefinite stay and not a stay away from home, regardless of any other facts or circumstances. No section 162 deductions are allowed with respect to stays of two years or longer. If a student or grantee claims section 162 deductions for purposes of withholding, the student or grantee must attach a statement to the annual Form W-4, signed under penalties of perjury, indicating that the student or grantee meets the three claimed abode tests.

If the anticipated actual expenses allowable under sections 1.162-5(c)(1) and 1.162-5(e) of the regulations are known, the anticipated actual amounts may be allowed as a deduction for purposes of completing the Form W-4. In the event that the exact amount of such expenses is not known at the time of the completion of the Form W-4, the current U.S. government per diem allowances in effect for participants in the Career Education Program under the Federal Travel Regulations may be used to determine the deduction allowable under section 162 of the Code for purposes of completing the Form W-4. See IRM 1763-67(a), Travel Handbook. MT 1763-71 (Nov. 12, 1987). The current amount allowable as of the date of issuance of this revenue procedure is $18.00 per day.

The actual expenses or the per diem allowance should be entered on Line A of the Personal Allowances Worksheet in addition to the personal exemption amount as calculated under section 4.02 of this revenue procedure.

.04 Tax exempt portions of a scholarship or grant under section 117(a) or pursuant to a tax treaty. Amounts that are exempt from taxation under section 117(a) of the Code or pursuant to a tax treaty should be entered on Line A of the Personal Allowances Worksheet.

.05 Other allowable deductions. Other deductions allowable to a nonresident alien under the Code should be added to the amount on Line A of the Personal Allowances Worksheet.

.06 Final completion of form. Provide the total of the amounts entered on lines A through F on line G. Submit the Personal Allowances Worksheet to the administrator agency with Form W-4 and any required statements.

SEC. 5. REVIEW BY ADMINISTRATOR AGENCY

Upon receiving a Form W-4 and a Personal Allowances Worksheet from a foreign student or grantee, the administrator agency shall review the Form W-4 and the Personal Allowances Worksheet to ensure that all necessary and required information is provided, including (i) the student or grantee's temporary taxpayer identification number assigned by the Internal Revenue Service (if one has been assigned), (ii) if section 162 deductions are claimed, the statement of the student or grantee indicating that the three claimed abode tests are met, and (iii) the statement certifying that the student or grantee filed a proper federal income tax return for the previous taxable year or that the student or grantee intends to file a timely return with respect to such taxable year.

Except as provided in the next paragraph, if the administrator agency acting as withholding agent knows or has reason to know that any of the facts or representations on the Form W-4 or the Personal Allowances Worksheet may be false (including claims for deductions or exemptions for which the student or grantee is not entitled) or if a required statement is not submitted, the withholding agent may not accept the W-4 and must withhold at the rate required under section 1441 of the Code. Except as provided in the next paragraph, if the withholding agent accepts the Form W-4 and the Personal Allowances Worksheet and subsequently knows or has reason to know that any of the facts and representations contained therein may be false (including claims for deductions or exemptions for which the student or grantee is not entitled), the withholding agent must withhold at the rate required under section 1441.

If, however, the withholding agent knows or has reason to know that a student or grantee has extended a stay in the United States beyond 24 months and erroneously continues to claim section 162 deductions, the withholding agent may accept an otherwise correct Form W-4 and Personal Allowance Worksheet and continue to withhold under the authority of this revenue procedure, but without regard to the claimed section 162 deductions.

SEC. 6. WITHHOLDING BY ADMINISTRATOR AGENCY

The administrator agency must withhold as provided under section 3402 of the Code as if the grant or scholarship income were wages thereunder. In calculating the amount to be withheld thereunder, the administrator agency may reduce the gross amount of the scholarship or grant by the total amount on line G of the Personal Allowances Worksheet. The administrator agency shall be liable as withholding agent for the payment of the tax required to be deducted and withheld under this revenue procedure to the extent provided in section 1.1461-3 of the regulations.

SEC. 7. REPORTING REQUIREMENTS OF ADMINISTRATOR AGENCY

The administrator agency shall comply with the provisions of section

1.1461 of the regulations relating to the filing of Forms 1042 and 1042S each March 15 with respect to each foreign student or grantee. A Form 1042S must be filed with respect to each foreign student or trainee receiving a grant or scholarship. A Form 1042S is not required to be filed with respect to compensation income that is reported on a Form W-2. Amounts shown on the Form 1042S must be stated in U.S. currency. All items of income subject to withholding under section 1441 of the Code paid during the previous calendar year to nonresident alien individuals and withheld on under the authority of this revenue procedure must be reported on the Form 1042S.

A Form 1042 is required to be filed each calendar year even though no tax was required to be withheld under the Code during the calendar year if the withholding agent is required to make an information return on Form 1042S with respect to any payments made during the year. Form 1042 shall be filed with the Internal Revenue Service Center, Philadelphia, PA 19255.

SEC. 8. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure shall be effective beginning January 1, 1988. A failure to withhold under section 1441 of the Code prior to this date may be justified by the administrator agency demonstrating that, had a proper Form W-4 been filed under the procedures contained in this revenue procedure, the amount actually withheld would have been appropriate or that no withholding would have been required.

(Also Part I, Section 368; 1.368-1.)

Rev. Proc. 88-25

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

Rev. Proc. 88-3, page 579, this Bulletin, contains in section 3 a list of those areas of the Internal Revenue Code under the jurisdiction of the Associate Chief Counsel (Technical and International) in which advance rulings or determination letters will not be issued. The present revenue procedure modifies Rev. Proc. 88-3 by amending section 3.01(24), relating to corporate recapitalizations, and makes a conforming modification to Rev. Proc. 88-1, page 557, this Bulletin.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

Section 3.01(24) of Rev. Proc. 88-3 states that the Internal Revenue Service will not issue a ruling or determination letter as to whether a transaction constitutes a corporate recapitalization within the meaning of section 368(a)(1)(E) of the Code (or a transaction that also qualifies under section 1036) except when the recapitalization is an integral part of a larger transaction and it is impossible to determine the tax consequences of the larger transaction without making a determination with regard to the recapitalization.

In addition, Rev. Proc. 88-1, in section 8 (Instructions to Taxpayers), reflects the provision in Rev. Proc. 88-3 regarding this corporate recapitalization no-ruling area.

The Service is now aware that certain transactions not involving a closely-held corporation covered, or thought to be covered, by this no-ruling area are of sufficient significance or complexity to warrant issuance of a ruling letter. Accordingly, the Service will expand the scope of its ruling program with regard to these transactions.

SEC. 3. PROCEDURE

.01 Rev. Proc. 88-3 is modified by amending section 3.01(24) to read as follows:

> Section 368(a)(1)(E).—Definitions Relating to Corporate Reorganizations.—Whether a transaction constitutes a corporate recapitalization within the meaning of section 368(a)(1)(E) of the Code (or a transaction that also qualifies under section 1036) when either (i) the transaction involves a closely-held corporation or (ii) the issues involved are substantially similar to those described in the following revenue rulings:
> Rev. Rul. 82-34, 1982-1 C.B. 59 (continuity of business enterprise);
> Rev. Rul. 77-479, 1977-2 C.B. 119 (continuity of shareholder interest);
> Rev. Rul. 77-238, 1977-2 C.B. 115 (conversion of shares of one class of stock into shares of another class, as permitted by certificate of incorporation);
> Rev. Rul. 74-269, 1974-1 C.B. 87 (major shareholder's exchange of common stock for preferred stock);
> Rev. Rul. 56-654, 1956-2 C.B. 216 (corporate charter amended to provide preferred stock with increased redemption and liquidation value, where common and preferred stock held pro rata);
> Rev. Rul. 55-112, 1955-1 C.B. 344 (common stock exchanged for preferred stock); and
> Rev. Rul. 54-482, 1954-2 C.B. 148 (old common stock exchanged for new common stock).
> The above no-ruling area does not apply, however, to any corporate recapitalization that is an integral part of a larger transaction if it is impossible to determine the tax consequences of the larger transaction without making a determination with regard to the recapitalization.

.02 Rev. Proc. 88-1 is modified by deleting from the third paragraph of section 8.05 (dealing with specific guidelines for requesting rulings) the second sentence, which begins: "See, however, Rev. Proc. 88-3 . . . ." In place of this deleted sentence, the following sentence is substituted:

> See, however, Rev. Proc. 88-25, 1988-1 C.B. 803, which describes circumstances under which the Service will not issue advance rulings or determination letters as to whether a transaction constitutes a corporate recapitalization within the meaning of section 368(a)(1)(E) (or a transaction that also qualifies under section 1036).

SEC. 4. COMMENTS OR INQUIRIES

Comments or inquiries regarding this revenue procedure should be addressed to the Associate Chief Counsel (Technical and International), Attention: CC:C:3, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224.

SEC. 5. EFFECT ON OTHER DOCUMENTS

Rev. Procs. 88-3 and 88-1 are modified.

Rev. Proc. 88-26

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

This revenue procedure modifies section 4.01, paragraphs 4 and 7, of Rev. Proc. 88-3, page 579, this Bulletin, relating to areas under section 103 of the Code for which rulings will not ordinarily be issued by the Internal Revenue Service.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

Section 4 of Rev. Proc. 88-3 is titled "Areas in Which Rulings or Determination Letters Will Not Ordinarily Be Issued." Paragraphs 4 and 7 of section 4.01 are updated to reflect nonsubstantive changes resulting from the enactment of the Tax Reform Act of 1986, 1986-3 (Vol. 1) C.B. 519.

SEC. 3. PROCEDURE

.01 Rev. Proc. 88-3 is updated by deleting paragraph 4 of section 4.01 and substituting in its place the following new paragraph:

> 4. Section 103.—Interest on State and Local Bonds.—Whether the interest on state and local bonds will be excludable from gross income under section 103(a) of the Internal Revenue Code if the proceeds of issues of bonds (other than advance refunding issues) are placed in escrow or otherwise not expended for a governmental purpose for an extended period of time even though the proceeds are invested at a yield that will not exceed the yield on the state and local bonds prior to their expenditure.

.02 Rev. Proc. 88-3 is updated by deleting paragraph 7 of section 4.01 and substituting in its place the following new paragraph:

> 7. Section 148.—Arbitrage.—Whether amounts received as proceeds from the sale of municipal bond financed property and pledged to the payment of debt service or pledged as collateral for the municipal bond issue are sinking fund proceeds within the meaning of section 1.103-13(g) of the Income Tax Regulations (issued under former section 103(c) of the Code) or replaced proceeds described in section 148(a)(2) of the Code (or former section 103 (c)(2)(B)).

SEC. 4. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure is effective May 31, 1988, the date of publication of this revenue procedure in the Internal Revenue Bulletin.

SEC. 5. EFFECT ON OTHER REVENUE PROCEDURES

Rev. Proc. 88-3 is modified.

Rev. Proc. 88-27

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

This revenue procedure provides that no user fee is charged for earnings and profits determinations (Form 5452). It modifies Rev. proc. 88-8, page 628, this Bulletin, as modified by Rev. Proc. 88-13, page 639, this Bulletin, which requires the payment of a user fee for requests to the Internal Revenue Service for ruling letters, opinion letters, and determination letters and for similar requests.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

.01 Question N on page 3 of the Form 1120, U.S. Corporation Income Tax Return, instructs the corporate taxpayer, that, if during the year it paid dividends in excess of its current and accumulated earnings and profits, it must file Form 5452, Corporate Report of Nontaxable Dividends.

.02 Section 10511 of the Revenue Act of 1987 (Act), Pub. L. No. 100-203, 101 Stat. 1330, provides that the Secretary shall establish a program requiring the payment of user fees for requests to the Internal Revenue Service for ruling letters, opinion letters, and determination letters and for similar requests.

.03 Rev. Proc. 88-8 establishes such a program. It imposes a $200 fee for earnings and profits determination letters (Form 5452).

.04 After reconsideration, however, the Service has concluded that a Form 5452 is not subject to section 10511 of the Act because that form is neither a request for a ruling letter, opinion letter, or determination letter nor a similar request.

SEC. 3. PROCEDURES

.01 Section 4.031 of Rev. Proc. 88-8 is modified to delete the user fee of $200 for earnings and profits determinations (Form 5452). Section 4.031 of Rev. Proc. 88-8, as modified, reads as follows:

Applications with respect to accounting periods (Forms 1128 and 2553)	$150
Change in accounting method (Form 3115)................	$200
All other rulings (which includes accounting period, accounting method, and earnings and profits requests other than those submitted on Forms 1128, 2553, 3115, and 5452)......................	$300

SEC. 4. EFFECT ON OTHER REVENUE PROCEDURES

Section 4.031 of Rev. Proc. 88-8, is modified. When reprinted in the Cumulative Bulletin, Rev. Proc. 88-8 will incorporate this modification.

SEC. 5. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure applies to all requests subject to Rev. Proc. 88-8, that is, to requests postmarked or, if not mailed, received on or after February 1, 1988. Any fees that have been paid for earnings and profits determinations (Form 5452) will be refunded.

For a substitute form to be acceptable to the IRS, it must conform to the official form and the specifications outlined in this revenue procedure. DO NOT submit any substitutes for APPROVAL. Only those forms that conform to the official form and comply with the specifications set forth herein are acceptable. See Part A, Section 8 for the specifications that apply to form recipient statements (Copy B).

.03 This revenue procedure supersedes Revenue Procedure 87-17.

SEC. 2. NATURE OF CHANGES

.01 Various editorial changes have been made.

.02 Chemical transfer paper no longer requires IRS approval.

.03 Form 1099-S, Statement for Recipients of Proceeds From Real Estate Transactions, has been added. In the past, real estate transactions were reported on Form 1099-B.

.04 A payee statement may be perforated to a check or to a statement of the payee's account. See section 8.01.

SEC. 3. REQUIREMENTS FOR ACCEPTABLE SUBSTITUTE FORMS 1096, 1098, 1099, 5498, and W-2G.

.01 Paper substitutes for Form 1096, and Copy A of Forms 1098, 1099, 5498, and W-2G, that totally conform to the specifications contained in this procedure may be privately printed and filed as returns with the IRS. DO NOT submit any substitutes for general approval. Only those forms that conform with the official form and the specifications contained herein are acceptable.

If you are uncertain of any specification set forth herein and want that specification clarified, you may submit a letter citing the specification in question, your interpretation of the specification, and an example of the form with your understanding of the specification to:

Internal Revenue Service
ATTN: TR:R:T

Washington, DC 20224

.02 Copy B (Form 1098 For Payer, Form 1099-A For Borrower, other Forms 1099 For Recipient, Form 1099-S For Tansferor, Form 5498 For Participant), and Copy C (Form W-2G For Winner's Records) must contain the information specified in section 8 to rise to the level of a "statement" or "official form" under the applicable provisions of the Internal Revenue Code. The format of this information is at the discretion of the filer with the exception of the composite Form 1099 statement specified in section 8.04.

.03 Proposed substitutes for Copy A that do not conform to these specifications are not acceptable.

.04 No IRS office is authorized to allow deviations from this revenue procedure.

.05 IRS approval for the use of chemical transfer paper on Copy A is no longer required.

.06 Forms 1096, 1098, 1099, 5498, and W-2G are subject to annual review and possible change. Filers are cautioned, therefore, against overstocking supplies of privately printed substitutes. THE SPECIFICATIONS CONTAINED IN THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE APPLY TO 1988 FORMS ONLY.

.07 Copies of the official forms for the reporting year may be obtained from most Internal Revenue offices. IRS provides only cut sheets (no carbon interleaves) of these forms. If they are not available at your local IRS district office, you may ask them to order copies for you. You should receive your order within 10 days. If you prefer, you may order them by calling 1-800-424-Form.

.08 Only original or ribbon copies that are typed or machine printed with black carbon based ink may be filed with IRS. Carbon copies and photocopies are not acceptable.

SEC. 4. DEFINITONS

.01 The term "taxpayer (form recipient) identification number (TIN)" for an individual means the individual's social security number (SSN). The SSN consists of nine digits separated by hyphens as follows: 000-00-0000. For all other form recipients, the term "taxpayer (form recipient) identification number" means the employer identification number (EIN). The EIN consists of nine digits separated by one hyphen as follows: 00-0000000. For a sole proprietor, use the sole proprietor's SSN.

.02 In the past the terms payee and recipient were usually synonymous.

The addition of new forms to the information returns family requires different terminology to identify the recipient of a copy of the form filed with IRS i.e., 1098 is payer/borrower, 1099-A is borrower, 1099S is transferor, 5498 is participant. Therefore, to prevent any confusion, the person who is required by law to receive a copy of the official form or information statement will be referred to as the "form recipient."

.03 The term "filer" means the person or organization required by law to file with IRS a form listed in section 1.01 above. A filer includes a payer, a recipient of mortgage interest payments, a broker, a barter exchange, a person reporting real estate transactions, a trustee or issuer of an individual retirement arrangement (including an IRA or SEP), and a lender who acquires an interest in secured property or who has reason to know that the property has been abandoned.

.04 A corrected and/or amended return is one that corrects previously reported information.

.05 The term "substitute form" means a paper substitute of Copy A of an official form listed in section 1.01 above that totally conforms to the provisions in this revenue procedure.

.06 The term "form recipient statement" means a paper statement of the information reported on a form listed in section 1.01 above that must be furnished to a person, (form recipient) as so defined under the applicable provisions of the Internal Revenue Code.

.07 A composite statement is a substitute form recipient copy of official Forms 1099-DIV, INT, OID and PATR, in the aggregate or in any combination thereof. A filer may use a composite statement when such reportable payments are paid to the same form recipient during the calendar year. A composite statement is one form (although the form itself may comprise more than one page) that contains all the requisite Form 1099 information (for Forms 1099-DIV, INT, OID, and PATR) A composite statement may contain any combination of the above Form 1099 information. A composite Form 1099 CANNOT be filed with IRS. If the filer does not use a composite statement for these payments, the filer must provide the necessary information to the form recipient separately on each respective form or substitute statement as the case may be.

SEC. 5. INSTRUCTIONS FOR PREPARING FORMS THAT WILL BE FILED WITH THE IRS

.01 The form recipient's name, street address, city, state, and ZIP code information must be TYPED OR MACHINE PRINTED IN BLACK INK on separate lines. The city, state, and ZIP code must be on the same line.

.02 The name of the appropriate form recipient must be shown on the first or second name line in the area on the form provided for the form recipient name and address. (See Section 6 for guidelines on the preferred methods for the form recipient name and TIN). No descriptive information or other name should precede the form recipient's name. ONLY one form recipient name should appear on the first line of the form. If more than one form recipient(s) name must be entered, we prefer that the filer place the responsible form recipient (person or organization whose TIN is provided) on the first line. Place other form recipients' names on the succeeding name lines (up to 2 name lines are allowable). While we prefer that these guidelines be followed in submitting information returns, we recognize that certain states require that the entities on trust accounts be provided in a different format. Filers should provide information returns reflecting payments to trust accounts with the trusts' TIN in the recipients' TIN areas, and the trusts' names as the recipients' first name lines and the trustee as the recipient's second name lines.

.03 The box below the form recipient's name and address may be used for the account number. This information is not required; however, special caution must be taken if an account number is being entered. This number must be unique and MUST NOT appear anywhere on the form other than in the box specified for this use. If window envelopes are used, this number must not show through the window because the Postal Service may not accept them for metered mail.

.04 Filers must TYPE OR MACHINE PRINT data entries on the forms, use carbon-base BLACK ribbon, insert data in the middle of blocks well separated from other printing and guidelines, and take other measures to guarantee a clear, dark black, sharp image.

.05 Machine printed forms should be printed using a 6 lines/inch option.

.06 Machine printed forms must be printed in 10 pitch pica (i.e., 10 print characters per inch) or 12 pitch elite (i.e., 12 print positions per inch).

.07 On corrected returns, an "X" must be placed within the check box located at the top of the form to the left of the word "CORRECTED." The accompanying Form 1096 for a submission of corrected returns should also contain an "X" within the "CORRECTED" box at the top of the form. DO NOT type the words CORRECTED RETURN on the Form 1096, 1098, 1099, 5498 or W-2G. All required data blocks must be completed on a corrected return since it replaces and supersedes the information return previously filed. Do not intermix corrected and original returns in a submission. Corrected returns should be filed separately.

.08 For corrected or voided documents, enter an "X" within the appropriate box using only computer print, typewriter or #2 pencil. DO NOT use a ball-point pen or felt tip marker. The machine used to "read" paper forms generally cannot "read" these ink types.

.09 Substitute forms prepared in continuous or strip form must be burst and stripped to conform to the size specified for a single sheet before they are filed with IRS. The size specified does not include pinfeed holes. Pinfeed holes MUST NOT be present on forms filed with IRS.

.10 Use decimal points to indicate dollars and cents. DO NOT use dollars signs ($), ampersands (&), asterisks(*), commas(,), or other special characters.

.11 DO NOT FOLD Forms 1096, 1098, 1099, or 5498 mailed to IRS. Mail these forms flat in an appropriately sized envelope or box. Folded documents cannot be readily moved through the scanner transport used in IRS processing.

.12 DO NOT STAPLE Forms 1096 to the returns being transmitted. Staple holes in the vicinity of the return code number reduce our ability to machine scan the return code number, which is used to identify the type of document being processed.

.13 MAIL completed paper forms to the IRS service center specified in the 1988 Instructions for Forms 1099, 1098, 5498, 1096, and W-2G.

.14 If you submit forms to IRS that do not meet the specifications in this revenue procedure, you may be subject to a penalty under section 6721 or 6723 of the Internal Revenue Code. The penalty is $50 for each form that the IRS cannot accept as a return because it does not meet the provisions set out in this revenue procedure.

.15 Filers who submit forms with missing or incorrect information (other than an SSN) on an information return may be subject to a penalty under section 6723 of the Internal Revenue Code. Generally the penalty is $5 per information return. For instructions on how to file information returns, see the 1988 Instructions for Forms 1099, 1098, 5498, 1096, and W-2G.

SEC. 6. TAXPAYER IDENTIFICATION NUMBERS

.01 Under section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code, a person with respect to whom a return, statement, or other document is required to be made by another person must furnish his taxpayer identification number (TIN) to such other person. The number must be furnished to the filer whether or not the form recipient is required to file a tax return or is covered by Social Security. Section 6109 also requires filers to request the TINs and place them on returns required to be filed with IRS.

.02 Filers must provide correct TINs on all forms submitted. It is particularly important that correct social security and employer identification numbers for form recipients be provided on magnetic media or paper forms submitted to IRS.

.03 Section 6676 of the Internal Revenue Code imposes a $50 penalty on filers for each return filed with an incorrect or missing TIN. For payments of interest, dividends, patronage and original issue discount the penalty is self-assessable on Form 8210, Self-Assessed Penalties Return.

.04 The TIN required to be furnished to the IRS depends primarily on the manner in which the account is maintained in the filer's records. Usually, the TIN provided must be that of the owner of record. If an account is recorded as a joint account, i.e., more than one person is listed on the account, furnish the TIN and name of the first person listed on the record. For individuals, recipients, including sole proprietors, the TIN is the SSN. For other entities, furnish an EIN.

.05 Sole proprietors filing information returns should show their EIN on the return if required to have an EIN. If not, they should show their SSN.

.06 The charts below will help you determine the TIN to be furnished to IRS.

SEC. 7. MAGNETIC MEDIA FILING

.01 IRS encourages all filers including nominees (hereafter collectively referred to as filers) to file information returns on magnetic media instead of paper forms. All forms listed in Sec. 1.01 (except Form 1096) may be filed on magnetic media.

.02 Any person who is required to file, or was required to file for the prior year, more than 50 Forms 1099-DIV (for dividends reportable under section 6042 of the Code), 1099-INT, 1099-OID, or 1099-PATR in any combination, for a calendar year MUST file these returns on magnetic media. This requirement applies to any person for any period unless such person establishes that this requirement would result in undue hardship and requests a waiver from the filing requirements. To request a waiver from filing on magnetic media, submit a waiver request on a written statement or on Form 8508, Request for Waiver From Filing Information Returns on Magnetic Media, 90 days before the due date of the return and send it to the following address: Internal Revenue Service, National Computer Center, P.O. Box 1359, Martinsburg, WV 25401-1359.

.03 Regulations section 1.6045-1(1) requires brokers and barter exchanges to use magnetic media in reporting any Form 1099-B data to IRS. Generally, new brokers and new barter exchanges may request an undue hardship exception by filing a waiver request by the end of the second month following the month in which they became a broker or barter exchange, at the address in .02 above.

.04 You are required to use magnetic media for filing Forms 1098, 1099-A, 1099-G, 1099-MISC (except substitute payments reported in Box 8), 1099-R, 1099-S, 5498, and W-2G if you are required to file, or were required to file for the prior year, 250 or more returns unless you establish that this requirement would result in undue hardship. A request for a waiver should be submitted by written statement or on Form 8508, 90 days before the due date of the return and sent to the National Computer Center, at the address in .02 above.

.05 Specifications for filing information returns on magnetic tape, 9 inch, 5 1/4 inch diskette, and 3 1/2 inch diskette are contained in various revenue procedures relating to Requirements and Conditions for Filing Information Returns on Magnetic Media. Copies of these procedures may be obtained from any Internal Revenue district office or by writing to the address in .02 above or calling (304) 263-8700 (not a toll-free number). Filers or agents who are required to, or want to, file information returns on magnetic media must file Form 4419, Application for Information Returns Filing on Magnetic Media. Forms 4419 must be filed prior to submitting returns on magnetic media. IRS will provide a written reply to the applicant and further instructions at the time of approval. The application must be sent to the National Computer Center address in .02 above.

.06 Since many states accept information returns filed on magnetic media, savings may be obtained if similar media is used for filing with IRS and state tax agencies. For information regarding state magnetic media filing requirements, filers should contact the respective state tax authority.

SEC. 8. STATEMENT TO FORM RECIPIENTS AND FORM RECIPIENT COPIES

.01 For payments of interest and dividends reportable on Forms 1099-DIV (for dividends reportable under section 6042 of the IRC), 1099-INT (except for interest reportable under section 6041), 1099-OID, or 1099-PATR, an official Form 1099 must be furnished to a form recipient either in a statement mailing by first-class mail or in person. For payments of royalties reportable on Form 1099-MISC, you are also required to furnish the statement in person or in a statement mailing by first-class mail, but the statement need not be the official form. These forms may be mailed or provided to the form recipient in one of two ways: (1) in a statement mailing with other Forms 1098, 1099 or 5498 form recipient statements, a check, a letter explaining why no check is enclosed, a statement of the person's account, Forms W-8 and W-9, Forms W-2 and W-2P, and a letter limited to an explanation of the tax consequences of the enclosed form recipient statements. A form recipient statement may be perforated to a check with respect to the account reported on the payee statement or to a statement of the payee's specific account if payments on such account are reflected on the form recipient statement. The enclosure to which the form recipient statement is perforated must contain, in a bold and conspicuous type the legend "Important Tax Return Document Attached." If this method is used, the statement "Important Tax Return Document Enclosed" must appear on the outside of the envelope and on each check, letter, or account statement in a bold and conspicuous manner. (2) In a separate mailing with other Forms 1098, 1099, or 5498 form recipient statements, Forms W-8 and, W-9 Forms W-2 and W-2P, and a letter of the tax consequences of the enclosed form recipient statements. If you follow the second method you are not required to include the legend "Important Tax Return Document Enclosed" on the envelope. NOTE: Applies to (1) and (2), No other information, such as advertising, promotional material, or a quarterly or annual report, may be mailed with the form recipient statement or provided in person with the form recipient statement without violating these requirements. See Notice 87-17, 1987-1 C.B. 454, and other applicable procedures for the rules on how these statements should be provided to form recipients.

.02 The requirement to furnish form recipients with an official Form 1099-DIV, INT, OID, and PATR, may be met by furnishing a substitute Form 1099 (form recipient statement) if it contains language substantially similar to that of the official IRS form, such as the aggregate amount paid to the form recipient, any Federal income tax withheld under IRC section 3406 of the Code, the name, address, and TIN of the person making the return, and any other information required by the official form. Generally, information not required by the official form should not be included on the form because it may violate the mailing requirements (see .01 above). In addition, the form recipient statement for interest, dividends, patronage dividends, and original issue discount must contain the information listed below.

1 All money amounts required to be reported to the form recipient must be titled and numbered in substantially the same manner as those on the official IRS form.

2 The form recipient statement must contain all applicable form recipient instructions provided on the front and back of the official IRS form.

3 Form recipient statement covering reportable interest, dividends, patronage dividends, and original issue discount must contain the following statement in bold and conspicuous type, "This is important tax information and is being furnished to the Internal Revenue Service. If you are required to file a return, a negligence penalty or other sanction will be imposed on you if this income is taxable and IRS determines that it has not been reported."

4 The form recipient statement must contain the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) number as shown on the official IRS form.

5 The form recipient statement must show the title and number of the official IRS Form 1099 for which it substitutes.

.03 If the form recipient statement contains all the information listed in .02 above, layout and format of the form is at the discretion of the filer.

.04 A composite form recipient statement is permitted for reportable payments of interest, dividends, patronage dividends, and/or original issue discount (Forms 1099-DIV, INT, OID or PATR) when one filer is reporting any or all of these payments during a calendar year to the same form recipient. Although the composite form recipient statement may be on one form, the format of the composite form recipient statement must satisfy the following requirements in addition to the requirements listed in .02 above.

1 All information pertaining to a particular type of payment must be located and blocked together on the form and must be separate from any information covering other types of payments included on the form.

2 The title of the official IRS form or forms for which this form recipient statement substitutes must be shown at the beginning of each appropriate block of information.

3 Any information required by the official IRS form that would otherwise be repeated in each information block is only required to be listed once in the first information block on the composite form. For example, there is no requirement to report the name of the filer in each information block.

.05 Statements to form recipients of other reportable payments on Forms 1098, 1099-A, 1099-B, 1099-G, 1099-MISC (except payments reportable under section 6045), 1099-R, 1099-S, 5498, 1099-DIV (or payments reportable under section 6047), 1099-INT (for payments reportable under section 6041) and W-2G should meet the following requirements:

1. The filer and form recipient information required on the official IRS form must be included.
2. All money amounts and information required to be reported to the form recipient must be titled on the form recipient statement in substantially the same manner as those on the official IRS form.
3. Form recipient statements must contain the following:

    (1) Forms 5498 and Form 1099-R—"This is important tax information and is being furnished to the Internal Revenue Service."

    (2) Forms 1099-G and W-2G—"This is important tax information and is being furnished to the Internal Revenue Service. If you are required to file a return, a negligence penalty or other sanction may be imposed on you if this income is taxable and the IRS determines that it has not been reported."

    (3) Forms 1099-B and 1099-MISC—Same as item (2) above, except change "may" to "will" in the second sentence.

    (4) Form 1099-A—"This is important tax information and is being furnished to the Internal Revenue Service. If you are required to file a return, a negligence penalty or other sanction will be imposed on you if taxable income results from this transaction and the IRS determines that it has not been reported."

    (5) Form 1098—(a) "This is important tax information and is being furnished to the Internal Revenue Service. If you are required to file a return, a negligence penalty or other sanction will be imposed on you if the IRS determines that an underpayment of tax results because you overstated a deduction for this mortgage interest on your return."

    (b) "The amount shown may not be fully deductible by you on your Federal income tax return. Limitations based on the cost and value of the secured property may apply. In addition, you may only deduct an amount of mortgage interest to the extent it was incurred by you, actually paid by you, and not reimbursed by another person."

    NOTE: The language contained in 5(a) differs from the 1988 official IRS Form 1098. You may choose to use the legend as shown on the official IRS form in place of 5(a).

    (6) Form 1099-S any written statement must contain the following: "This is important tax information and is being furnished to the Internal Revenue Service. If you are required to file a return, a negligence penalty or other sanctions will be imposed on you if this item is required to be reported and the IRS determines that it has not been reported.

    NOTE: You may use a Uniform Settlement Statement (under RESPA) as the written statement if it is conformed by designating on the statement the legend described above and that information reported to IRS on Form 1099-S.

4. Appropriate instructions to the form recipient, similar to those on the official IRS form, must be provided to aid in the proper reporting of the items on the form recipient's income tax return. For payments reported on Form 1099-B, the requirement to include on the statement furnished to form recipients instructions that are substantially similar to those on the official IRS form may be satisfied by providing form recipient with a single set of instructions with respect to all statements required to be furnished in a calendar year.

.06 Form recipient statements specified in .05 above may contain information other than that required by the official IRS form. However, if other information is included, such statements cannot mailed with Forms 1099-DIV, INT, OID, or PATR or their substitutes without violating the statement mailing requirements.

.07 A composite form recipient statement for forms specified in .05 above is permitted when one filer is reporting any or all of these payments during a calendar year to the same form recipient. A composite statement is not allowable for a combination of forms listed in .05 above and forms listed in .04 above. For example, a composite statement of Form 1098 and 1099-INT (for interest reportable under section 6049) is not allowable. Although the composite form recipient statement may be on one form, the format of the composite form recipient statement must satisfy the requirements listed in items (1), (2), and (3) of .04 above.

PART B. SUBSTITUTE FORM FORMAT REQUIREMENTS (EXCLUDING FORM W-2G)

SEC. 1. GENERAL

.02 The form identifying number (e.g., 9191 for Forms 1099-DIV) must be printed in non-reflective black carbon-based ink in print positions 25 through 29 using an OCR A font. The ballot boxes located to the right of the form identifying number must be 10-point boxes.

NOTE: If the ballot box is checked indicating a corrected return or a "void" return, more than 50% of the box must be covered by an "X." Do not type "CORRECTED RETURN" on the top of the form. All required data must be completed on the corrected form since it replaces and supersedes the information return previously filed.

SEC. 2. SPECIFICATIONS FOR FORMS 1096 AND COPY A OF FORMS 1098, 1099 AND 5498

.03 All printing will be in red OCR dropout ink, as specified, except for the 4-digit form identifying numbers appearing in the upper middle margin on the official IRS form, which will be printed in nonreflective carbon-based black ink. All other printing will be in red OCR dropout ink with or comparable to the specifications below. The screened area of any substitute form should generally correspond to that present on the official form. Separation between fields must be 0.1 inch. The numbered captions are printed as a solid with no screened background. The red OCR dropout ink must be Sinclair-Valentine J-6983 or an exact match.

OCR Specifications

Contractor must have or initiate a quality control program to assure OCR ink density. In addition he must have at or adjacent to his production area either a MacBeth PCM-II tester or a Kidder 082A tester in order that testing may be accomplished at regular intervals throughout a shift.

Paper and Ink

Readings will be made when printed on approved 20 lb. White OCR bond with a reflectance of not less than 80%. Black ink must not have a reflectance greater than 15%. These readings are based on requirements of the "REI Input 80 Model C1 & D" Optical Scanner using Sinclair and Valentine J-6983 red ink or equal.

MacBeth PCM II Tester

The tested Print Contrast Signal (PCS) values when using the MacBeth PCM-II tester on the "C" scale must range from .01 minimum to .06 maximum.

Kidder 082A Tester

The tested Print Contrast Signal (PCS) values when using the Kidder 082A tester on the Infra Red (IR) scale must range from .12 minimum to .21 maximum. White calibration disc must be 100%, sensitivity must be set at one (1).

Alternative Tester

If an alternative tester is used it must be approved by the Government so that tested (PCS) values can be established with this equipment. Approval may be obtained by writing to the following address:

Commissioner of Internal Revenue
Attn: HR:F:P:P Room 1237
Tax Forms Procurement Analyst
1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W.
Washington, DC 20224

Printing exceeding the maximum screen density will cause the forms to be nonprocessable. If this happens the filer will be required to refile on acceptable forms and will be subject to a $50 penalty for each form printed or prepared that is filed in a nonprocessable format.

.04 Typography—Type must be substantially identical in size and shape with corresponding type on the official form. All rules are either 1/2-point or 3/4-point. Rules must be identical to that on the official IRS form.

NOTE: The form identifying number must be nonreflective carbon-based black ink in OCR A font.

.05 Dimension—Three official Forms 1098, 1099 or 5498 (Copy A) are contained on a single page, which is 8 inches wide (exclusive of any snapstubs and/or pinfeed holes) by 11 inches deep. The top margins must be 2/6 inch, and the right margin must be 1/4 inch plus or minus .0313 inch. If the right and top margins are properly aligned the left margin for all forms will be correct. All margins must be free of all printing.

Note: The image size of Forms 1099-S will be 1/6 of an inch shorter than the other Forms 1099, 1098, or 5498. See Exhibit K for specifications.

.06 The depth of the individual trim size of each form on a page must be the same (3 2/3 inches) as that of the official form.

.07 Perforations are required between forms on all copies except Copy A to enable the separation of individual forms.

.08 The words "For Paperwork Reduction Act Notice and instructions for completing this form, see Instructions for Forms 1099, 1098, 5498, 1096 and W-2G must be printed on Copy A and Copy C.

.09 The OMB Number must be printed on each ply in the same location as on the official form.

.10 Privately printed continuous substitute forms (Copy A) must be perforated at each 11" (3-on) page depth. No perforations are allowed between the 3 2/3" forms on a single copy page of Copy A.

.11 The words "Do NOT Cut or Separate Forms on This Page" must be printed in red dropout ink (as required by form specifications) between the three forms. NOTE: Performations are required between all the other individual copies (Copies B and C, and Copies 1 and 2 for Form 1099-R) included in the set.

.12 The back of a substitute Copy A must be free of all printing.

.13 Carbonized. "Spot carbons" are not permitted for Copy A. Interleaved carbon must be of good quality to assure legibility of information on all parts to preclude smudging and should be black. "Chemical transfer paper" is now permitted without IRS approval.

.14 Printer's symbol—The GPO symbol must not be placed on substitute Copy A. In place of the GPO symbol, the employer identification number (EIN) of the forms printer must be printed in the bottom margin on the face of each individual form of Copy A.

.15 A postal indicia may be used if it meets the following criteria: a) it is printed in the OCR ink color prescribed for the form; b) no part of the indicia is within 1 print position of the scannable area; c) there is a 2/6 inch head margin; and d) there is a 1/4 inch right margin.

PART C. SUBSTITUTE FORM FORMAT REQUIREMENTS FOR FORM W-2G ONLY

SEC. 1. GENERAL

.01 The following specifications prescribe the format requirements of Form W-2G—COPY A ONLY

.02 A filer may file a substitute Form W-2G with IRS (hereinafter referred to as substitute Copy A). Substitute forms submitted to IRS must be exact replicas of the official forms with respect to layout and contents. The Government Printing Office symbol must be deleted.

SEC. 2. SPECIFICATIONS FOR COPY A FOR FORMS W-2G

.01 Color and Quality of Paper.

1 Paper for Copy A must be white chemical wood bond, or equivalent, 20 pound (basis 17 x 22-500), plus or minus 5 percent. The paper must consist of principally bleached chemical woodpulp and be free from unbleached or ground woodpulp or recycled printed paper. It also must be suitably sized to accept ink without feathering.

2 Copies B and C (to be filed with tax return and For Winner's Records) and D (For Payer) are provided in the official assembly solely for the convenience of the filer. Filers may choose the format, design, color and quantity of the paper used for these copies.

3 Copies 1 and 2 are provided to file with the state. Some states have requested the addition of these two plys and they have been included solely for the convenience of the filer.

.02 Color and Quality of Ink—All printing must be in a high quality non-gloss black ink. Bar codes should be free from picks and voids.

.03 Typography—Type must be substantially identical in size and shape with corresponding type on the official form. All rules on the document are either 1/2 point (.007 inch), 1 point (0.015 inch) or 3 point (0.045). Vertical rules must be parallel to the left edge of the document; horizontal rules, parallel to the top edge.

.04 Dimensions—The official form is 8 inches wide × 3 2/3 inches deep, exclusive of a 2/3 inch snap stub on the left side of the form. The snap feature is not required on substitutes. The top and right margins must be 1/4 inch plus or minus .0313. If the top and right margins are properly aligned, the left margin for all forms will be correct. All margins must be free of all printing. If the substitute forms are in continuous or strip form, they must be burst and stripped to conform to the size specified for a single form before they are filed with IRS.

1 The width of a substitute Copy A must be 8 inches. The left margin must be free of all printing other than that shown on the official form.

2 The depth of a substitute Copy A must be 3 2/3 inches.

.05 Clear Area—The back of Copy A must be free of all printing.

.06 Carbonized forms or "spot carbons"—Carbonized forms and "spot carbons" are not permitted. Interleaved carbons, if used, must be of good quality to preclude smudging and should be black.

.07-Printer's Symbol—The Government Printing Office symbol must not be printed on substitute Forms W-2G. In place thereof, the printer's employer identification number should appear in the same place on such substitute forms.

Instructions

Change You Should Note.—Form 1096 is now used to transmit new Form 1099-S, Statement for Recipients of Proceeds From Real Estate Transactions.

Purpose of Form.—Use this form to transmit Forms W-2G, 1098, 1099, and 5498 to the Internal Revenue Service.

Completing Form 1096.—If you have received a preprinted label from IRS, place it in the name and address area of the form using the brackets as indicators. Make any necessary corrections to your name and address on the label. However, do not use the label if the taxpayer identification number (TIN) shown is incorrect. If you are not using a preprinted label, enter the filer's name, address, and TIN in the spaces provided on the form. A filer includes a payer, a recipient of mortgage interest payments, a broker, a barter exchange, a person reporting real estate transactions, a trustee or issuer of an individual retirement arrangement (including an IRA or SEP), and a lender who acquires an interest in secured property or who has reason to know that the property has been abandoned. Individuals not in a trade or business should enter their social security number in Box 2; sole proprietors and all others should enter their employer identification number in Box 1. However, sole proprietors who are not required to have an employer identification number should enter their social security number in Box 2.

Group the forms by form number and submit each group with a separate Form 1096. For example, if you must file both Forms 1099-DIV and Forms 1099-INT, complete one Form 1096 to transmit your Forms 1099-DIV and another Form 1096 to transmit your Forms 1099-INT.

In Box 3, enter the number of forms you are transmitting with this Form 1096. Do not include blank or voided forms in your total. Enter the number of correctly completed forms, not the number of pages, being transmitted. For example, if you send one page of three-to-a-page Forms 5498 with a Form 1096 and you have correctly completed two Forms 5498 on that page, enter 2 in Box 3 of Form 1096. Check the appropriate box to indicate the type of form you are transmitting.

No entry is required in Box 5 if you are filing Form 1099-A or 1099-G. For all other forms, enter in Box 5 of Form 1096 the total of the amounts from the specific boxes of the forms listed below:

Form W-2G	Box 1
Form 1098	Box 1
Form 1099-B	Boxes 2, 3, and 6
Form 1099-DIV	Boxes 1, 8, and 9
Form 1099-INT	Boxes 1 and 3
Form 1099-MISC	Boxes 1, 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, and 8
Form 1099-OID	Boxes 1 and 2
Form 1099-PATR	Boxes 1, 2, 3, and 5
Form 1099-R	Boxes 1 and 8
Form 1099-S	Box 2
Form 5498	Boxes 1 and 2

If you are filing a Form 1096 for corrected information returns, enter an "X" in the CORRECTED box at the top of this form.

For more information about filing, see the separate Instructions for Forms 1099, 1098, 5498, 1096, and W-2G.

Rev. Proc. 88-29

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

This revenue procedure adds additional language to Rev. Proc. 88-5, page 587, this Bulletin, to reflect changes made by the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987 (OBRA), Public Law 100-203. OBRA modified certain provisions of the Code with respect to requirements relating to waivers of minimum funding standards. This revenue procedure provides guidance only with respect to changes in the procedures and administrative requirements for requesting waivers which are necessitated by the modifications enacted under OBRA. Further guidance relating to substantive changes to the rules regarding waivers will be issued at a later date.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND INFORMATION

OBRA (1) added a new paragraph to subsection (d) of section 412 of the 1986 Internal Revenue Code which requires that an employer (other than an employer maintaining a multiemployer plan) seeking a waiver of the minimum funding standard submit a request within 2 1/2 months following the close of the plan year for which the waiver is requested; (2) amended section 412(f)(4)(A) of the Code to require that notice of application for funding waivers also be given to each participant, beneficiary, and alternate payee; (3) amended subparagraph (C) of section 412(f)(3) by striking out "$2,000,000" and inserting in lieu thereof "$1,000,000"; and (4) added section 412(d)(5), which requires that business hardship be evidenced not only by the individual employer seeking the waiver but also by the controlled group of which such employer is a member.

Revenue Procedure 83-41, 1983-1 C.B. 775, describes the procedure for requesting a waiver of the minimum funding standard under section 412(d) of the Code. Revenue Procedure 88-5 modified certain provisions of Rev. Proc. 83-41 to reflect changes made by the Single Employer Pension Plan Amendments Act (SEPPAA), Public Law 99-272. The changes made by OBRA require certain additional changes.

SEC. 3. CHANGES TO REV. PROC. 88-5

.01 The second sentence of Section 1 of Rev. Proc. 88-5 is changed by adding the following phrase after the words "1986-2 C.B. 298."

> "and the changes made by the Pension Protection Act, Part II of subtitle D of title IX of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987 (OBRA), Public Law 100-203."

.02 Section 2.02 of Rev. Proc. 88-5 is changed by inserting the following sentences after the second sentence of that section.

> "OBRA modified section 412(f)(3) of the Code by striking out "$2,000,000" and inserting in lieu thereof "$1,000,000". In addition, OBRA amended section 412(f)(4)(A) of the Code to require that notice of application of a funding waiver also be given to each participant, beneficiary and alternate payee (within the meaning of section 414(p)(8))."

.03 Section 3.01 of Rev. Proc. 88-5 is modified by adding the following sentence to the end of the section.

> "This $2,000,000 threshold was reduced to $1,000,000 by OBRA."

.04 Section 3.03 of Rev. Proc. 88-5 is changed by striking out "$2,000,000" and inserting in its place "$1,000,000".

.05 Section 4 of Rev. Proc. 88-5 is changed by deleting the phrase "To Employee Organizations" from the title.

.06 All of the sentences of the inset paragraph of section 4 of Rev. Proc. 88-5 are replaced by the following sentences.

> "(3) The taxpayer must provide as part of the application a copy of a written notification signed by an appropriate officer of the taxpayer to each employee organization (union) representing employees covered by the affected plan and each participant, beneficiary, and alternate payee (within the meaning of section 414(p)(8) of the Code) that an application for a waiver of the minimum funding standard under section 412(d) of the Code has been submitted to the Service. The individual notice to participants, beneficiaries, and alternate payees may be in the form of a copy of a general notice which was signed by an appropriate officer of the company. The applicant must state that such notice was hand delivered or mailed to the last known address of the appropriate employee organization, participant, beneficiary, and alternate payee. If the applicant makes a reasonable effort to carry out the provisions of this paragraph, failure of an employee organization, participant, beneficiary, or alternate payee to receive the notice will not cause the applicant to fail the notice requirement. However, merely posting the notice on a bulletin board is not sufficient to satisfy this requirement. The notice must state that, under section 412(f)(4)(B) of the Code, the Service will consider any relevant information submitted. Further, the notice must specify the address to which information may be sent to the Service and state that because of the disclosure restrictions of section 6103 of the Code, the Service will not provide any information with respect to the waiver. The notice must also state that in accordance with section 104 of ERISA and section 2520.104b-10 of the Department of Labor regulations (29 CFR Part 2520) annual financial reports for the plan which include employer contributions made to the plan and the accumulated funding deficiency for the plan for any year are available for inspection at the U.S. Department of Labor in Washington, D.C., and that copies of such reports may be obtained upon request from the Public Disclosure Room, Room N-5507, Pension and Welfare Benefits Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20210, upon payment of copying costs. In addition, the notice must state that copies of the latest annual report are available for inspection at the principal office of the plan administrator and any other location as required under section 104(b)(2) of the Employee Retirement Security Act of 1974 and the street address of such location. The notice must also state that copies of the annual report may be obtained from the plan administrator at a reasonable charge. The address to which requests for such copies may be sent and the amount of the charge must be stated. In addition, the notice must include a description of the extent to which the plan is funded for benefits which are guaranteed under Title IV of ERISA and the extent to which the plan is funded for benefit liabilities. Generally, this is satisfied if the notice includes the present value of the vested benefits, the present value of benefits determined as though the plan terminated, and the fair market value of plan assets, using the interest rate for calculating current liability. No addition information is required by the Service to be furnished to plan participants, beneficiaries, alternate payees or employee organizations as part of the waiver application process. Additional information may, of course, be provided by the employer pursuant to the collective bargaining process or otherwise.

.07 Section 5 of Rev. Proc. 88-5 is changed by retitling such section as follows.

"SEC. 5. SUBMISSION OF COMMENTS"

.08 Sec. 5.02 of Rev. Proc. 88-5 is changed by deleting the phrase "on behalf of an employee organization" from the first sentence.

.09 Sec 5.03 of Rev. Proc. 88-5 is changed by deleting the phrase "by an employee organization" from the second sentence.

.10 Rev. Proc. 88-5 is changed to insert a new section immediately after section 5, which reads as follows.

"SEC. 6. TIME WHEN APPROPRIATE TO REQUEST A WAIVER

Section 414(d), as amended by OBRA, requires that an employer (other than an employer maintaining a multiemployer plan) seeking a minimum funding waiver for a plan year beginning after December 31, 1987, must submit the request on or before the 15th day of the 3rd month following the close of the plan year for which the waiver is requested. However, there is a transitional rule for plan years beginning in calendar year 1988, that permits requests to be filed on or before the 15th day of the 6th month following the close of the plan year for which the waiver is requested. Accordingly, the first sentence of the first paragraph of section 4 of Rev. Proc. 83-41 is replaced by the following sentences:

"A waiver request for a plan year beginning on or before December 31, 1987, must be submitted no later than the close of the plant year following the plan year for which the waiver is requested. A waiver request for a plan year beginning after December 31, 1987, and before January 1, 1989, must be submitted no later than the 15th day of the 6th month following the close of the plan year. All other waiver requests must be submitted no later than the 15th day of the 3rd month following the close of the plan year for which the waiver is requested."

.11 Rev. Proc. 88-5 is changed to insert a new section immediately after the new section 6, which reads as follows.

"SEC. 7. TEMPORARY HARDSHIP AT THE CONTROLLED GROUP LEVEL

Sec. 2.03 of Rev. Proc. 83-41 is changed by inserting after the term "employer" where it first appears in the first sentence the phrase:

'and all other entities included within the controlled group of which the employer is a member'.

Sec. 2.03(b) of Rev. Proc. 83-41 is changed by inserting after the term employer in the first sentence the phrase:

'and all other entities included within the controlled group of which the employer is a member.' "

.12 Section 6 of Rev. Proc. 88-5 is renumbered to be section 8 and the following sentences are added to that renumbered section.

"The provision in section 4 requiring that participants, beneficiaries and alternate payees be notified of waiver requests and the provision in section 4 requiring that such notification include a description of the extent to which guaranteed benefits and benefit liabilities are funded are applicable to requests submitted on or after March 22, 1988. The effective date of the provisions in section 6 with respect to timely filing of waiver requests is based on the plan year for which the waiver is requested as stated in that section."

.13 Section 7 of Rev. Proc. 88-5 is renumbered to be section 9.

SEC. 4. DRAFTING INFORMATION

Mr. Nassal's telephone number is (202) 566-3149 (also not a toll-free call).

SEC. 5. EFFECT ON OTHER REVENUE PROCEDURES

Rev. Proc. 88-5 is modified as indicated above and will appear as so modified in Cumulative Bulletin 1988-1. Attached below is the complete text of Rev. Proc. 88-5 as modified:

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to modify the procedures for applications for waivers of the minimum funding standard under section 412(d) of the Internal Revenue Code and section 303 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA), Public Law 93-406, 1974-3 C.B. 1, 41. The modifications will reflect changes made by the Single-Employer Pension Plan Amendments Act (SEPPAA), Title XI of the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985, Public Law 99-272, 1986-2 C.B. 298, and the changes made by the Pension Protection Act, Part II of subtitle D of title IX of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987 (OBRA), Public Law 100-203.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND INFORMATION

.01 Revenue Procedure 83-41, 1983-1 C.B. 725, describes the procedure for requesting a waiver of the minimum funding standard under section 412(d) of the Code. Section 2.02 of the Revenue Procedure states that a request will not be considered unless certain specific documents described therein are included in the waiver application. Section 2.03 of the Revenue Procedure describes the necessary information that must be furnished by the applicant for the waiver.

.02 SEPPAA modified the provisions of the Code with respect to requirements relating to waivers. In particular, SEPPAA (1) added section 412(f)(3)(B) and (C) to require that the Service consult with the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation (PBGC) before granting or modifying a waiver under subsection 412(d) where the cumulative outstanding balance of the amount of waived funding deficiencies for a plan plus the amount of the waiver currently requested equals or exceeds $2,000,000 and (2) added section 412(f)(4), which provides that the Secretary, before granting a waiver under subsection 412(d) shall require each applicant to provide evidence satisfactory to the Secretary that the applicant has provided notice of the filing of the application for such waiver to each employee organization representing employees covered by the affected plan. OBRA modified section 412(f)(3) of the Code by striking out "$2,000,000" and inserting in lieu thereof "$1,000,000". In addition, OBRA amended section 412(f)(4)(A) of the Code to require that notice of application for a funding waiver also be given to each participant, beneficiary and alternate payee (within the meaning of section 414(p)(8)). Section 412(f)(4) also provides that the Secretary shall consider any relevant information provided by a person to whom such notice was given.

SEC. 3. CONSULTATION WITH PBGC

.01 Section 412(f)(3)(B) and (C) of the Code, as added by SEPPAA, requires that the Service provide the PBGC with notice of the completed application for any waiver and an opportunity to comment on such application within 30 days after receipt of such notice. Any information provided to the PBGC as a result of this provision shall be considered tax return information and is subject to the safeguards and reporting requirements of section 6103(p). The Service is not required to notify PBGC regarding applications where the outstanding balance of the amount of waived funding deficiencies for prior plan years plus the amount for which a waiver is currently requested is less than $2,000,000. This $2,000,000 threshold was reduced to $1,000,000 by OBRA.

.02 To expedite the procedures necessary to satisfy this requirement, section 2.03(d)(15) of Revenue Procedure 83-41 is modified to read as follows:

"(15) A list of each of the prior 15 years for which a waiver was granted, the amount waived for such plan year, the outstanding balance of the amortization base established for the waiver, and the conditions, if any, placed upon the waiver. A copy of each waiver ruling letter must be submitted with the waiver request. The outstanding balance of the amortization base for each waiver is to be calculated as of the first day of the plan year for which a waiver is being requested."

.03 In addition, the first paragraph of section 2.03 of Revenue Procedure 83-41 is modified to add at the end thereof the following new sentence:

"If the sum of the outstanding balances of any amortization bases established under section 412(b)(2)(C) of the Code for waivers granted to the plan for any prior plan years (calculated as of the first day of the plan year for which a new waiver is being requested) when added to the amount for which a waiver is currently being requested, equals or exceeds $1,000,000, the applicant must furnish two copies of the necessary waiver information described in this section 2.03."

SEC. 4. PROCEDURES FOR NOTICE AND SUBMISSION OF RELEVANT INFORMATION

Section 412(f)(4) states that the Secretary shall require each applicant for a waiver to demonstrate that the applicant has notified each employee organization representing employees covered by the affected plan that a waiver application has been filed. Accordingly, section 2.02 of Revenue Procedure 83-41 is modified to substitute a comma for the word "and" between "(1) and (2)" in the first sentence, insert after "(2)" the words "and (3)," and to add the following paragraph (3):

"(3) The taxpayer must provide as part of the application a copy of a written notification signed by an appropriate officer of the taxpayer to each employee organization (union) representing employees covered by the affected plan and each participant, beneficiary, and alternate payee (within the meaning of section 414(p)(8) of the Code) that an application for a waiver of the minimum funding standard under section 412(d) of the Code has been submitted to the Service. The individual notice to participants, beneficiaries, and alternate payees may be in the form of a copy of a general notice which was signed by an appropriate officer of the company. The applicant must state that such notice was hand delivered or mailed to the last known address of the appropriate employee organization, participant, beneficiary, and alternate payee. If the applicant makes a reasonable effort to carry out the provisions of this paragraph, failure of an employee organization, participant, beneficiary, or alternate payee to receive the notice will not cause the applicant to fail the notice requirement. However, merely posting the notice on a bulletin board is not sufficient to satisfy this requirement. The notice must state that, under section 412(f)(4)(B) of the Code, the Service will consider any relevant information submitted. Further, the notice must specify the address to which information may be sent to the Service and state that because of the disclosure restrictions of section 6103 of the Code, the Service will not provide any information with respect to the waiver. The notice must also state that in accordance with section 104 of ERISA and section 2520.104b-10 of the Department of Labor regulations (29 CFR Part 2520) annual financial reports for the plan which include employer contributions made to the plan and the accumulated funding deficiency for the plan for any year are available for inspection at the U.S. Department of Labor in Washington, D.C., and that copies of such reports may be obtained upon request from the Public Disclosure Room, Room N-5507, Pension and Welfare Benefits Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20210, upon payment of copying costs. In addition, the notice must state that copies of the latest annual report are available for inspection at the principal office of the plan administrator and any other location as required under section 104(b)(2) of the Employee Retirement Security Act of 1974 and the street address of such location. The notice must also state that copies of the annual report may be obtained from the plan administrator at a reasonable charge. The address to which requests for such copies may be sent and the amount of the charge must be stated. In addition, the notice must include a description of the extent to which the plan is funded for benefits which are guaranteed under Title IV of ERISA and the extent to which the plan is funded for benefit liabilities. Generally, this is satisfied if the notice includes the present value of the vested benefits, the present value of benefits determined as though the plan terminated, and the fair market value of plan assets, using the interest rate for calculating current liability. No additional information is required by the Service to be furnished to plan participants, beneficiaries, alternate payees or employee organizations as part of the waiver application process. Additional information may, of course, be provided by the employer pursuant to the collective bargaining process or otherwise.

SEC. 5. SUBMISSION OF COMMENTS

.01 Section 412(f)(4)(B), as added by SEPPAA, provides that the Secretary shall consider any relevant information provided by a person to whom notice was given as described in section 4 above. Section 6103 of the Internal Revenue Code prohibits the Service from disclosing return information with respect to any taxpayer. Accordingly, absent a disclosure waiver the Service may not reveal any part of the contents of any waiver application to any individual who wishes to submit relevant information concerning a waiver application. Moreover, the Service can neither confirm nor deny that a request for a waiver of the minimum funding requirement with respect to any particular pension plan has or has not been received.

.02 All relevant information submitted should be submitted in writing to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: E:EP:PA; 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224. Although no specific time period is provided within which the information is to be submitted, such information should be submitted as soon as possible after notice is received that a waiver application has been filed.

.03 The Service will not suspend action on a waiver request in order to wait for information from employee organizations. If, however, a ruling letter has been issued to the applicant and information is later submitted, the Service will review the information so submitted and revoke or modify the ruling letter if it is deemed appropriate to do so. Generally, information submitted will not cause a revocation or modification of the ruling letter unless the information indicates that there was a material omission or misstatement of facts.

SEC. 6. TIME WHEN APPROPRIATE TO REQUEST A WAIVER

Section 414(d), as amended by OBRA, requires that an employer (other than an employer maintaining a multiemployer plan) seeking a minimum funding waiver for a plan year beginning after December 31, 1987, must submit the request on or before the 15th day of the 3rd month following the close of the plan year for which the waiver is requested. However, there is a transitional rule for plan years beginning in calendar year 1988, that permits requests to be filed on or before the 15th day of the 6th month following the close of the plan year for which the waiver is requested. Accordingly, the first sentence of the first paragraph of section 4 of Rev. Proc. 83-41 is replaced by the following sentences:

> "A waiver request for a plan year beginning on or before December 31, 1987, must be submitted no later than the close of the plan year following the plan year for which the waiver is requested. A waiver request for a plan year beginning after December 31, 1987, and before January 1, 1989, must be submitted no later than the 15th day of the 6th month following the close of the plan year. All other waiver requests must be submitte no later than the 15th day of the 3rd month following the close of the plan year for which the waiver is requested."

SEC. 7. TEMPORARY HARDSHIP AT THE CONTROLLED GROUP LEVEL

Sec. 2.03 of Rev. Proc. 83-41 is changed by inserting after the term "employer" where it first appears in the first sentence the phrase:

> "and all other entities included within the controlled group of which the employer is a member".

Sec. 2.03(b) of Rev. Proc. 83-41 is changed by inserting after the term employer in the first sentence the phrase:

> "and all other entities included within the controlled group of which the employer is a member."

SEC. 8. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure is effective for all ruling requests received after the date of its publication in the Internal Revenue Bulletin. The provision in section 4 requiring that participants, beneficiaries and alternate payees be notified of waiver requests and the provision in section 4 requiring that such notification include a description of the extent to which guaranteed benefits and benefit liabilities are funded are applicable to requests submitted on or after March 22, 1988. The effective date of the provisions in section 6 with respect to timely filing of waiver requests is based on the plan year for which the waiver is requested as stated in that section.

SEC. 9. EFFECT ON OTHER REVENUE PROCEDURES

Revenue Procedure 83-41 is modified.

Rev. Proc. 88-30

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

This revenue procedure modifies the average area purchase price safe harbor limitations for new and existing single-family residences for the State of Iowa as published in Rev. Proc. 87-20, 1987-1 C.B. 713.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

Issuers of qualified mortgage bonds, as defined in section 143(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, and issuers of mortgage credit certificates, as defined in section 25(c), must satisfy several requirements contained in section 143. One of the requirements is that the cost of each residence must not exceed a certain percentage of the average area purchase price applicable to such residence. Section 143(e). Issuers of qualified mortgage bonds and mortgage credit certificates may rely on the average area purchase price safe harbor limitations contained in Rev. Proc. 87-20 for purposes of satisfying the purchase price requirement. However, the average area purchase price safe harbor limitations published in Rev. Proc. 87-20 for Iowa have been determined to be incorrect. Therefore, corrected safe harbor limitations are set forth in section 3 of this revenue procedure.

SEC. 3. APPLICATION

Section 3.04 of Rev. Proc. 87-20 is modified by deleting the average area purchase price safe harbor limitations for "all areas" in the State of Iowa of $54,700 for new single-family residences and $64,600 for existing single-family residences and substituting $81,800 for new single-family residences and $58,500 for existing single-family residences.

SEC. 4. EFFECTIVE DATE

.01 Subject to subsections .02 and .03, the modifications made by this revenue procedure are effective as if they were contained in Rev. Proc. 87-20.

.02 Pursuant to the authority contained in section 7805(b) of the Code, the corrected average area purchase price safe harbor limitation for existing single-family residences for Iowa set forth in this revenue procedure does not apply to qualified mortgage bonds sold before July 13, 1988, 30 days after publication of this revenue procedure in the Internal Revenue Bulletin, if commitments to provide financing for the mortgages are made before September 11, 1988, 90 days after publication of this revenue procedure in the Internal Revenue Bulletin.

.03 Pursuant to the authority contained in section 7805(b) of the Code, the corrected average area purchase price safe harbor limitation for existing single-family residences for Iowa set forth in this revenue procedure does not apply if mortgage credit certificates are issued with respect to bond authority exchanged before the earlier of (1) July 13, 1988, 30 days after publication of this revenue procedure in the Internal Revenue Bulletin, or (2) the date following the termination date set forth in section 25(h), and if the commitments to issue the certificates are made before September 11, 1988, 90 days after the publication of this revenue procedure in the Internal Revenue Bulletin.

Rev. Proc. 88-31

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to set forth procedures for requesting approval of a state designation of an area as an "area of chronic economic distress" under section 143(j)(3)(A)(ii) of the Internal Revenue Code.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

.01 Section 103(a) of the Code provides that, except as provided in section 103(b), gross income does not include interest on any state or local bond. Section 103(b)(1) provides that section 103(a) shall not apply to any private activity bond that is not a qualified bond. Section 141(e)(1)(B) provides that the term "qualified bond" includes a qualified mortgage bond.

.02 Section 143(a)(1)(A) of the Code provides that the term "qualified mortgage bond" means a bond that is issued as part of a qualified mortgage issue. Section 143(a)(2)(A) provides that the term "qualified mortgage issue" means an issue by a state or political subdivision thereof of one or more bonds, but only if (i) all proceeds of such issue (exclusive of issuance costs and a reasonably required reserve) are to be used to finance owner-occupied residences; (ii) such issue meets the requirements of subsections (c), (d), (e), (f), (g), (h), and (i); and (iii) such issue does not meet the private business tests of paragraphs (1) and (2) of section 141(b).

.03 An issue meets the requirements of subsection (h) of section 143 of the Code only if at least 20 percent of the proceeds of the issue that are devoted to owner-financing is made available (with reasonable diligence) for owner-financing of targeted area residences for at least 1 year after the date on which owner-financing is first made available with respect to targeted area residences. However, the amount made available need not exceed 40 percent of the average annual aggregate principal amount of mortgages executed during the immediately preceding 3 calendar years for single-family, owner-occupied residences located in targeted areas within the jurisdiction of the issuing authority. Section 143(j)(1)(B) defines a targeted area residence to include a residence in an area of chronic economic distress. Section 143(j)(3)(A) defines an "area of chronic economic distress" as an area of chronic economic distress (i) designated by the state as meeting standards established by the state for the purposes of subsection (j), and (ii) the designation of which has been approved by the Secretary and the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

.04 Section 143(j)(3)(B) of the Code provides that the criteria used by the Secretary and the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development in evaluating any proposed designation of an area will be as follows:

(i) the condition of the housing stock, including the age of the housing and the number of abandoned and substandard residential units,

(ii) the need of area residents for owner-financing under section 143, as indicated by low per capita income, a high percentage of families in poverty, a high number of welfare recipients, and high unemployment rates,

(iii) the potential for use of owner-financing under section 143 to improve housing conditions in the area, and

(iv) the existence of a housing assistance plan that provides a displacement program and a public improvements and services program.

.05 Section 6a.103A-2(b)(5)(iii) of the Temporary Income Tax Regulations (issued under former section 103A(k) of the Code, the predecessor of section 143(j)) sets forth the criteria that will be used in evaluating a proposed designation of an area of chronic economic distress. Section 6a.103A-2(b)(5)(iv) lists the information that must be contained in a proposal by a state that an area be approved as an area of chronic economic distress.

.06 A state or local government may elect to exchange all or part of its qualified mortgage bond authority for authority to issue mortgage credit certificates. See section 1.25-1T(a) of the Temporary Income Tax Regulations. In general, if such an election is made, section 25(a) of the Code will allow the recipient of a mortgage credit certificate to claim a credit against the recipient's federal income tax in an amount equal to the product of the certificate credit rate and the interest paid or accrued by the recipient during the taxable year on the remaining principal of the certified indebtedness amount. Section 25(c)(2)(A)(iii)(V) provides that the indebtedness certified by mortgage credit certificates must meet the requirements relating to the portion of loans that must be placed in targeted areas under section 143(h) (as modified by section 25(c)(2)(B).

.07 Section 143(a)(1)(B) of the Code provides that no bond issued after December 31, 1988, may be treated as a qualified mortgage bond.

SEC. 3. PROCEDURE

.01 A request for approval of a state designation of an area as an "area of chronic economic distress" under section 143(j)(3)(A)(ii) of the Code must be submitted by the state in triplicate to the Assistant Secretary for Housing/Federal Housing Commissioner of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (Attention: Office of Financial Management, Financial Policy Division, Room 9132, 451 7th Street, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20410).

.02 The approval or disapproval by the Assistant Secretary for Housing/Federal Housing Commissioner of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) of the state designation of an area as an "area of chronic economic distress" will be transmitted for concurrence or comment to the Associate Chief Counsel (Technical and International), Internal Revenue Service, Attention: CC:IND:2, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224. The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) generally will respond in writing to HUD within 10 working days of the receipt of HUD's approval or disapproval.

.03 If the state desires a conference because of an adverse decision on the proposed designation, representatives of HUD and IRS will attend the conference.

.04 HUD will issue the response to the state's request for approval of the state designation of an area as an "area of chronic economic distress."

.05 If the state, as an issuer of mortgage revenue bonds, requests a ruling concerning a prospective issue of mortgage revenue bonds that addresses requirements in addition to those pertaining to the approval of a state designation of "areas of chronic economic distress," the issuer must submit a separate request relating to the approval of the state designation of "areas of chronic economic distress" and must follow the procedures set forth in this revenue procedure. The request pertaining to the other requirements applicable to the prospective issue of mortgage revenue bonds must follow the procedures set forth in Rev. Proc. 88-32, this page, this Bulletin. Only by following the procedures set forth in this revenue procedure and in Rev. Proc. 88-32, will the issuer be treated as having exhausted its administrative remedies and be able to seek a declaratory judgment from the United States Tax Court under section 7478 of the Code involving a determination by the IRS (or the failure by IRS to make a determination) whether prospective obligations are described in section 103(a). Even though a letter may be issued by HUD approving or disapproving the designation of a geographic area as an area of chronic economic distress, an issuer will in no event be deemed to have exhausted its administrative remedies for purposes of section 7478 until the earlier of the times set forth in section 6.02 of Rev. Proc. 88-32.

.06 If an issuer, other than the state, desires to request a ruling that a prospective issue of mortgage revenue bonds will satisfy all the requirements necessary for the bonds to be described in section 103(a) of the Code, and a request for approval of state designated "areas of chronic economic distress" has already been considered by HUD and the IRS, the issuer must follow the procedures set forth in Rev. Proc. 88-32, this page, this Bulletin.

.07 If a person (other than the issuer) with a material financial interest in the issuance of prospective mortgage revenue bonds desires to request a ruling on questions relating to the bonds other than the state designation of a geographic area as an "area of chronic economic distress," a separate request for such questions must be submitted to the IRS. Such request must comply with the requirements of Rev. Proc. 88-1, page 557, this Bulletin; Rev. Proc. 88-33, page 835, this Bulletin; and Rev. Proc. 88-3, page 579, this Bulletin.

.08 If an issuer of, or a person (other than the issuer) with a material financial interest in, an outstanding issue of mortgage revenue bonds desires to request a ruling on questions relating to the bonds, such request must comply with the requirements of Rev. Proc. 88-1, Rev. Proc. 88-33, and Rev. Proc. 88-3.

SEC. 4. EFFECT ON OTHER DOCUMENTS

Rev. Proc. 81-30 is amplified and superseded.

Rev. Proc. 88-32

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to set forth procedures for the submission of requests for rulings to the Internal Revenue Service under sections 103 and 7478 of the Internal Revenue Code and to update the procedures described in Rev. Proc. 84-48, 1984-1 C.B. 547. References in this revenue procedure to section 103 of the Code also refer to sections 141-150 and 7871.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

.01 Section 7478 of the Code provides that under the conditions specified therein, the issuer (and only the issuer) of prospective obligations may petition the United States Tax court for a declaratory judgment in a case of actual controversy involving a determination by the Service, or a failure by the Service to make a determination, with respect to whether prospective obligations are described in section 103(a).

.02 The Tax Court may not issue a declaratory judgment or decree under section 7478 of the Code in any proceeding unless it determines that the issuer of the prospective obligations has exhausted all available administrative remedies within the Service.

.03 Any ruling request that is made by an issuer with respect to prospective obligations is subject to section 7478 of the Code and, accordingly, must be made in full compliance with this revenue procedure. Procedures for the submission of ruling requests when the requester of the ruling is not the issuer, or when the request relates to outstanding obligations, are set forth in Rev. Proc. 88-33, page 835, this Bulletin.

.04 Section 10511 of the Revenue Act of 1987, 1987-3 C.B. ____ , provides that a user fee must be paid with respect to requests to the Service for rulings. Also see Rev. Proc. 88-8, page 628, this Bulletin.

SEC. 3. REQUESTS FOR RULINGS UNDER SECTIONS 103 AND 7478

.01 A request for a ruling under sections 103 and 7478 of the Code is to be submitted and signed, under the penalty of perjury, (1) by an authorized officer of the issuer, or (2) in the case of a joint submission, by both an authorized officer of the issuer and a party with a material financial interest in the issuance of the prospective obligations.

.02 In those instances in which an authorized representative is retained, the request for a ruling must be submitted with powers of attorney that are properly executed and that are signed (1) by an authorized officer of the issuer, or (2) in the case of a joint submission, by both an authorized officer of the issuer and a party with a material financial interest in the issuance of the prospective obligations.

.03 Each request for a ruling must contain a complete and detailed statement of all facts relating to the prospective obligations and must comply with the requirements of Rev. Proc. 88-1, page 557, this Bulletin (or its successor), to the extent that revenue procedure is not inconsistent with this revenue procedure. Each request for a ruling must be submitted in duplicate and must be accompanied by two copies of all relevant documents, including copies of state statutes, appropriate bond resolutions adopted in accordance with state or local law authorizing the issuance of the bonds, bond indentures, leases, management contracts, output contracts, and other agreements. Relevant facts reflected in the documents submitted must be included in the body of the ruling request and not merely incorporated by reference and must be accompanied by an analysis of their bearing on the pertinent issues specifying pertinent provisions. In addition, in order to assist the Internal Revenue Service in making the deletions required by section 6110(c) of the Code, each request for a ruling must be accompanied by a deletion statement submitted in accordance with section 601.201 of the Statement of Procedural Rules (26 CFR Part 601).

.04 Each request for a ruling must contain a statement of all reasons and legal authority that are pertinent in determining whether the prospective obligations are described in section 103(a) of the Code. Thus, for example, a request for a ruling that interest on prospective obligations to provide for construction of a facility for the furnishing of water will be excludable from gross income under section 103(a) must contain a statement of facts, reasons, and legal authority that will enable the Service to determine whether the prospective obligations will be (1) issued by or on behalf of a state or political subdivision thereof, (2) private activity bonds within the meaning of section 141, (3) part of an issue 95 percent or more of the net proceeds of which will be used to provide facilities described in section 142(a)(4), (4) part of an issue that meets the volume cap requirement under section 146, (5) obligations not held by persons described in section 147(a)(1), (6) part of an issue that meets the maturity requirements of section 147(b), (7) part of an issue that meets the limitation on use for land acquisition of section 147(c), (8) part of an issue that meets the requirements concerning the acquisition of existing property in section 147(d), (9) part of an issue no portion of which is to be used to provide property described in section 147(e), (10) part of an issue that satisfies the public approval requirement of section 147(f), (11) part of an issue that satisfies the restrictions on issuance costs in section 147(g), (12) obligations that are not arbitrage bonds within the meaning of section 148, (13) obligations that are in registered form within the meaning of section 149(a), (14) obligations that are not federally guaranteed within the meaning of section 149(b), and (15) part of an issue that meets the information reporting requirements under section 149(e).

.05 If a request for a ruling under this revenue procedure requires the approval of a state designation of a geographic area as an "area of chronic economic distress" as required by section 143(j)(3)(A)(ii) of the Code, the requirements set forth in Rev. Proc. 88-31, page 832, this Bulletin, also must be satisfied along with the requirements in this revenue procedure.

SEC. 4. ISSUING RULING LETTERS

.01 The 180-day period referred to in section 7478(b)(2) of the Code generally will be considered to begin on the date that a ruling request that complies with section 3 of this revenue procedure is received by the National Office of the Internal Revenue Service. Upon receipt of a request for a ruling, the Service will send a written acknowledgment to the requester. If a request for a ruling does not comply with all the requirements of section 3, it will not be processed further and the requester will be sent a letter that will point out the requirements that have not been met. The 180-day period will not be considered as starting until the date an amended request for ruling containing the additional information requested by the Service is received by the National Office of the Internal Revenue Service.

.02 Although the Service may initially determine that a request for a ruling complies with section 3 of this revenue procedure and thus begins the 180-day period described above, the Service may, nevertheless, request additional information in support of a request for ruling. A failure to timely submit additional information requested by the Service will be considered a failure to exhaust administrative remedies within the meaning of section 7478(b)(2) of the Code. Additional information or statements of legal authority will be considered timely submitted to the National Office of the Internal Revenue Service if the letter containing such information is sent within 30 days after the date the additional information is requested. The additional information or statements of legal authority must be signed and submitted in the manner set forth in section 3.01 of this revenue procedure.

.03 Any oral representation of additional facts or modification of the facts as represented or alleged in the request for ruling must be confirmed by letter to the National Office of the Internal Revenue Service, under the penalty of perjury, within 7 days after the oral representation or modification by the issuer and, in the case of a joint submission, by a party with a material financial interest and the issuer. Failure to submit a written statement of the oral representation of additional facts or modification of the facts within the time set forth in this subsection will be considered a failure to exhaust administrative remedies within the meaning of section 7478(b)(2) of the Code.

.04 Requests for rulings will be considered to be sent to the National Office of the Internal Revenue Service if addressed to the Internal Revenue Service, Associate Chief Counsel (Technical and International), Attention: CC:IND:D:C, SECTION 103 REQUEST, P.O. Box 7604, Ben Franklin Station, Washington, D.C. 20044. Requests may be hand delivered to Room 6561, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224.

.05 Additional correspondence or documents (including withdrawals of requests for rulings) submitted with respect to requests for rulings will be considered to be sent to the National Office of the Internal Revenue Service if addressed as follows: ADDITIONAL INFORMATION, Attorney/Tax Law Specialist, CC:IND:2, Room 5314, Internal Revenue Service, P.O. Box 7604, Ben Franklin Station, Washington, D.C. 20044.

SEC. 5. WITHDRAWAL OF REQUESTS FOR RULINGS

.01 All withdrawals of requests for rulings must be sent in writing to the National Office of the Internal Revenue Service by the issuer or its authorized representative. The withdrawal is not a failure to make a determination within the meaning of section 7478(a)(2) of the Code or an exhaustion of administrative remedies within the meaning of section 7478(b)(2).

SEC. 6. EXHAUSTION OF ADMINISTRATIVE REMEDIES

.01 Section 7478 of the Code requires that an issuer must exhaust its administrative remedies by taking, in a timely manner, all reasonable steps to secure a determination. Those steps and administrative remedies required to be exhausted within the Service are:

(1) The filing of a request for ruling that complies with section 3 of this revenue procedure; and

(2) The timely submission, in writing, of all additional information or representation of additional facts or modification of facts requested by the Service to process the request for ruling.

.02 An issuer will in no event be deemed to have exhausted its administrative remedies prior to the earlier of:

(1) The date that the Internal Revenue Service sends by certified or registered mail notice of a determination that the prospective obligations are not described in section 103(a) of the Code; or

(2) The expiration of the 180-day period described in section 7478(b)(2) of the Code in a case in which the Service has not made a determination whether the prospective obligations are described in section 103(a), and the issuer has completed the steps in section 6.01 of this revenue procedure.

SEC. 7. NOTICE OF DETERMINATION

.01 A notice of determination to which section 7478 of the Code applies is a ruling letter, sent by certified or registered mail, that holds that prospective obligations are not described in section 103(a) of the Code.

SEC. 8. INQUIRIES

.01 Inquiries with respect to this revenue procedure should refer to its number and should be addressed to the Internal Revenue Service, Associate Chief Counsel (Technical and International), Attention: CC:IND:2, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224.

SEC. 9. EFFECT ON OTHER DOCUMENTS

This revenue procedure supplements Rev. Proc. 88-1 and supersedes Rev. Proc. 84-48.

Rev. Proc. 88-33

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to update the procedures under Rev. Proc. 84-49, 1984-1 C.B. 548, for submission of requests for rulings to the Internal Revenue Service under section 103 of the Internal Revenue Code when the requester of the ruling is not the issuer, or when the request relates to outstanding obligations. This revenue procedure also updates and amplifies Rev. Proc. 84-50, 1984-1 C.B. 550, which sets forth the procedures for requesting a ruling to which certain of the arbitrage provisions under former section 103(c) (now section 148) apply when the requester is other than the issuer of the prospective obligations. See Rev. Proc. 88-32, page 833, this Bulletin, for the procedures when the issuer of prospective obligations requests a ruling from the Service. References to section 103 of the Code also refer to sections 141-150 and 7871 of the Code.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

.01 Section 103(a) of the Code provides that, except as provided in subsection (b), gross income does not include interest on any state or local bond. Section 7478 provides that the issuer of the prospective obligations may petition the United States Tax Court for a declaratory judgment in a case of actual controversy involving a determination by the Service, or a failure by the Service to make a determination, with respect to whether prospective obligations are described in section 103(a). After the obligations have been issued, the issuer may no longer obtain a declaratory judgment under section 7478. The issuer then may seek a ruling under this revenue procedure. See section 3.04 below.

.02 Historically, the Service has issued rulings under section 103 of the Code to an issuer of obligations and other parties with a material financial interest in the issuance. In addition, it has been the practice of the Service to issue rulings, in its discretion, that address only certain issues pertaining to whether an obligation is described in section 103(a). In the case of a ruling request that addressed only certain issues, the request would contain a statement of facts, reasons, and legal authority, together with supporting documents, that would discuss only the issue raised by the person requesting the ruling and would not address other issues pertaining to whether the obligations were described in section 103(a). In response to such requests, the Service might issue a ruling in which it would determine, for example, that a dock financed by governmental obligations was a facility described in section 142(a)(2), but would not express an opinion with respect to whether the prospective obligations were otherwise described in section 103(a).

.03 However, in light of the provisions of section 7478 of the Code, the Service has set forth procedures in Rev. Proc. 88-32, page 833, this Bulletin, that preclude the issuance of a ruling to an issuer of prospective obligations (or to an issuer and another party in a joint submission) unless the issuer has submitted a statement of facts, reasons, and legal authority, together with supporting documents, that address all issues pertaining to whether the prospective obligations are described in section 103(a). See section 3.04 of Rev. Proc. 88-32. The reason for the requirements set forth in Rev. Proc. 88-32 is that, under section 7478, the issuer of the prospective obligations may petition the United States Tax Court to determine whether the prospective obligations are described in section 103(a). See section 2.01 of Rev. Proc. 88-32. Because that determination involves an examination of all issues pertaining to the status of the prospective obligations, the Service must in the ruling process examine and address all issues pertaining to whether the prospective obligations are described in section 103(a).

.04 Section 10511 of the Revenue Act of 1987, 1987-3 C.B. ___ , provides that a user fee must be paid with respect to requests to the Service for rulings. Also see Rev. Proc. 88-8, page 628, this Bulletin.

SEC. 3. APPLICATION

.01 In the case of requests for rulings made by a person (other than the issuer) with a material financial interest in the issuance of the obligations, to which neither section 3.02 of Rev. Proc. 88-32 (joint submission) nor section 3.03 of this revenue procedure (requester subsequently joined by issuer) applies, the Service will continue to issue rulings that address a specific issue pertaining to whether prospective obligations are described in section 103(a) of the Code. Further, the Service will continue to issue rulings to these requesters in those situations in which the Income Tax Regulations require or permit the issuer to request a ruling. For example, a party that has a material financial interest in the issue may request a ruling that a single computation of yield may be made pursuant to section 1.103-13(c)(1)(ii) of the regulations (issued under former section 103(c) of the Code). The Service also will issue rulings to these requesters as to whether prospective obligations are described in section 103(a). The requester must comply with the requirements of any other applicable revenue procedures, other than Rev. Proc. 88-32, that relate to submission to the Service of requests for ruling.

.02 In the case of requests for rulings by a person other than the issuer, the failure of the Service to issue a ruling or the issuance of an adverse ruling is not either a failure to make a determination within the meaning of section 7478(a)(2) of the Code or an exhaustion of administrative remedies by the issuer within the meaning of section 7478(b)(2).

.03 If, subsequent to the date a person other than the issuer requests a ruling, the issuer of the prospective obligations joins in the request, the Service will treat the request as a joint submission by the issuer and the original requester and the requirements set forth in Rev. Proc. 88-32 must be satisfied. The Service will notify in writing the joint requesters of any additional information or documents required. In the case of requests for rulings that are subject to the provisions of this subsection, the 180-day period referred to in section 7478(b)(2) of the Code will be considered to begin on the later of the date the issuer joins in the request or the date set forth in section 4.01 of Rev. Proc. 88-32.

.04 In the case of requests for rulings with respect to outstanding obligations made by the issuer or a person (other than the issuer) with a material financial interest in the issuance of the obligations, the Service will continue to issue rulings that address one or more issues pertaining to whether the outstanding obligations are described in section 103(a) of the Code. The request for ruling must comply with the requirements of any other revenue procedures, other than Rev. Proc. 88-32, that relate to the submission to the Service of requests for a ruling. If interest has been paid on the obligation, the Service will determine whether the subject of the request should be processed as a ruling request in the National Office or should be referred to the district director having jurisdiction over the matter.

SEC. 4. INQUIRIES

.01 Inquiries with respect to this revenue procedure should refer to its number and should be addressed to the Internal Revenue Service, Associate Chief Counsel (Technical and International), Attention: CC:IND:2, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224.

SEC. 5. EFFECT ON OTHER DOCUMENTS

This revenue procedure supplements Rev. Proc. 88-1, page 557, this Bulletin, supersedes Rev. Proc. 84-49, and amplifies and supersedes Rev. Proc. 84-50.

Rev. Proc. 88-34

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

Section 5 of Rev. Proc. 88-3, page 579, this Bulletin, contains a list of those areas of the Internal Revenue Code under the jurisdiction of the Associate Chief Counsel (Technical and International) in which advance rulings or determination letters will not be issued because the matter is under extensive study. This revenue procedure modifies Rev. Proc. 88-3 by deleting section 5.14, relating to status as an 80-percent distributee as referred to in section 337(c).

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

Under section 5.14 of Rev. Proc. 88-3, the Internal Revenue Service will not issue a ruling or determination letter as to whether section 1.1502-34 of the Income Tax Regulations (dealing with aggregation of stockholdings under consolidated return rules) is applicable in determining a corporate shareholder's status as an 80-percent distributee as referred to in section 337(c) of the Code.

This matter is no longer under study, and the Service will now rule on this question of the applicability of section 1.1502-34 in determining 80-percent distributee status for purposes of section 337(c) of the Code.

SEC. 3. PROCEDURE

Rev. Proc. 88-3 is modified by deleting section 5.14 in its entirety.

SEC. 4. COMMENTS OR INQUIRIES

Comments or inquiries regarding this revenue procedure should be addressed to the Associate Chief Counsel (Technical and International), Attention: CC:C:3, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington D.C. 20224.

SEC. 5. EFFECT ON OTHER DOCUMENTS

Rev. Proc. 88-3 is modified.

SEC. 6. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure is effective June 27, 1988, the date of its publication in the Internal Revenue Bulletin.

26 CFR 601.201: Rulings and determination letters.

Rev. Proc. 88-35

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

This revenue procedure removes from the no-ruling list those rulings that relate to safe harbor leases.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

.01 Section 5 of Rev. Proc. 88-3, page 579, this Bulletin, contains a list of areas under extensive study in which rulings or determination letters will not be issued until the Service resolves the issue through publication of a revenue ruling, revenue procedure, regulations, or otherwise.

.02 Section 5.09 of Rev. Proc. 88-3, which is entitled "Section 168(f)(8).—Special Rule for Leases.", includes in the "no-ruling list" certain areas that were specifically reserved in the Temporary Income Tax Regulations under the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981, relating to special rules for leases. The areas specifically reserved are:

(1) section 5c.168(f)(8)-8(b)(9)—retirements and casualties;

(2) section 5c.168(f)(8)-9—transfer of investment credit by section 168(f)(8) leases;

(3) section 5c.168(f)(8)-10—leases between related parties; and

(4) section 5c.168(f)(8)-11—consolidated returns.

.03 The Service has decided that no temporary or final regulations will be issued concerning the four no-ruling areas listed in section 5.09 of Rev. Proc. 88-3.

.04 Certain transactions, however, raise issues covered by the no-ruling areas listed in section 5.09 of Rev. Proc. 88-3 and are of sufficient significance to warrant issuance of rulings and determination letters. Accordingly, the Service will now entertain requests for rulings and determination letters on issues listed in section 5.09 of Rev. Proc. 88-3 to the extent appropriate.

Section 1. Purpose

.01 The purpose of this revenue procedure is to provide the requirements and conditions for filing Forms 1098, 1099, 5498, and W-2G on magnetic tape, 5¼ inch magnetic diskette, and 3½ inch magnetic diskette. Other revenue procedures provide instructions for filing on 8 inch magnetic diskette. THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE IS TO BE USED FOR THE PREPARATION OF 1988 INFORMATION RETURNS ONLY. THIS PROCEDURE IS UPDATED YEARLY TO REFLECT NECESSARY CHANGES. PLEASE READ THIS PUBLICATION CAREFULLY. Specifications for filing the following forms are contained in this procedure:

(a) Form 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement.

(b) Form 1099-A, Information Return for Acquisition or Abandonment of Secured Property.

(c) Form 1099-B, Statement for Recipients of Proceeds From Broker and Barter Exchange Transactions.

(d) Form 1099-DIV, Statement for Recipients of Dividends and Distributions.

(e) Form 1099-G, Statement for Recipients of Certain Government Payments.

(f) Form 1099-INT, Statement for Recipients of Interest Income.

(g) Form 1099-MISC, Statement for Recipients of Miscellaneous Income.

(h) Form 1099-OID, Statement for Recipients of Original Issue Discount.

(i) Form 1099-PATR, Statement for Recipients (Patrons) of Taxable Distributions Received From Cooperatives.

(j) Form 1099-R, Statement for Recipients of Total Distributions From Profit-Sharing, Retirement Plans, Individual Retirement Arrangements, Insurance Contracts, Etc.

(k) Form 1099-S, Statement for Recipients of Proceeds From Real Estate Transactions.

(l) Form 5498, Individual Retirement Arrangement Information.

(m) Form W-2G, Statement for Recipients of Certain Gambling Winnings.

Specifications for filing Forms 1042S, 6248, 8027, W-2, and W-2P are contained in separate publications.

.02 All filing requirements that follow apply individually to each reporting entity as defined by its separate TIN (Social Security Number (SSN) or Employer Identification Number (EIN)). For example, if you are a corporation with several branches or locations and each uses the same EIN, you must aggregate the total volume of returns to be filed for that EIN and apply the filing requirements for each type of return accordingly.

Section 1.6045-1(l) of the Income Tax Regulations requires brokers and barter exchanges to use magnetic media to report ALL Form 1099-B data to IRS, do not, however, report real estate transactions on Form 1099-B. Form 1099-S will be used to report real estate transactions. Magnetic media filing is required if 250 or more Forms 1099-S must be filed. THESE REQUIREMENTS APPLY SEPARATELY TO BOTH ORIGINAL AND CORRECTED RETURNS.

Section 6011(e) of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations thereunder require any person, including corporations, partnerships, individuals, estates, and trusts, who must file, or who were required to file for the prior year, more than 50 information returns in the aggregate for payments of interest (Forms 1099-INT and 1099-OID), dividends (Form 1099-DIV), or patronage dividends (Form 1099-PATR), for any calendar year, to file such returns on magnetic media. For example, if you must file 30 Forms 1099-DIV and 25 Forms 1099-INT, filing on magnetic media is required. THIS REQUIREMENT APPLIES SEPARATELY TO BOTH ORIGINAL AND CORRECTED RETURNS.

In addition, for returns filed in 1989 (for tax year 1988), magnetic media reporting is required if you file, or were required to file for the prior year, 250 or more of EACH of the following forms: Forms W-2, W-2P, W-2G, 1098, 1099-A, 1099-G, 1099-MISC, 1099-R, 1099-S, 5498, 1042S, 6248, and 8027. To determine the number of returns you are required to file, or were required to file for the prior year, count each type of form separately. For example, if you must file 450 Forms 1098 and 100 Forms 1099-A, the 450 Forms 1098 must be filed on magnetic media; however, you are not required to file the 100 Forms 1099-A on magnetic media. THIS REQUIREMENT APPLIES SEPARATELY TO BOTH ORIGINAL AND CORRECTED RETURNS. For example, if you file 300 Forms 1099-MISC and later file 50 corrections for Forms 1099-MISC, only the original 300 returns would be required to be filed on magnetic media. The 50 1099-MISC corrections could be filed on paper since there are less than 250 corrections to be filed. All Forms 1099-B are required to be filed on magnetic media. For real estate transactions filed on Form 1099-S, magnetic media filing is required if 250 or more returns must be filed. Forms W-2 and W-2P are filed with the Social Security Administration (SSA), NOT with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). These requirements shall not apply if you establish that it will cause you undue hardship. Refer to Part A, Sec. 3.

.03 CONTACT THE IRS NATIONAL COMPUTER CENTER (SEE PART A, SECTION 11 FOR THE ADDRESS) WITH QUESTIONS CONCERNING FORMS W-2 OR W-2P ONLY IF THE QUESTIONS PERTAIN TO AN EXTENSION OF TIME TO FILE OR MAGNETIC MEDIA WAIVER REQUESTS. QUESTIONS PERTAINING TO MAGNETIC MEDIA FILING OF FORMS W-2 OR W-2P SHOULD BE DIRECTED TO SSA. TAX LAW QUESTIONS PERTAINING TO FORMS W-2 OR W-2P SHOULD BE DIRECTED TO IRS TAXPAYER SERVICE.

.04 Personnel at the IRS National Computer Center are equipped to answer any questions you may have concerning the magnetic media filing of information returns (Forms 1098, 1099, 5498, W-2G, 1042S, 6248 and 8027). Tax law related questions should be directed to IRS Taxpayer Service.

.05 This procedure also provides the requirements and specifications for magnetic media filing under the Combined Federal/State Filing Program. Refer to Part A, Sec. 12.

.06 The following revenue procedures and publications provide more detailed filing procedures for certain information returns:

(a) 1988 "Instructions for Forms 1099, 1098, 5498, 1096, and W-2G," provide further information on filing returns with IRS. These instructions are available at IRS offices and are included in magnetic media reporting packages mailed to filers on this program each year.

(b) Rev. Proc. 84-33, 1984-1 C.B. 502, or other current revenue procedure, regarding the optional method for agents to report and deposit backup withholding.

(c) Publication 1179, Specifications for Paper Document Reporting and Paper Substitutes for Forms 1096, 1098, 1099 Series, 5498, and W-2G.

.07 This procedure supersedes the following revenue procedures: Rev. Proc. 87-62, 1987-2 C.B. 765, also published in Publication 1220 (Rev. 7-87), Requirements and Conditions for Filing Information Returns in the Forms 1098, 1099, 5498, and W-2G Series on Magnetic Tape and *Rev. .08 Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for definitions of terms used in this publication.

Section 3. Application for Magnetic Media Reporting and Requests for Undue Hardship Waivers

.01 For purposes of this revenue procedure, the PAYER includes the person making payments, a recipient of mortgage interest payments, a broker, a barter exchange, person reporting a real estate transaction, a trustee or issuer of an IRA or SEP, or a lender who acquires an interest in secured property or who has reason to know that the property has been abandoned. The TRANSMITTER is the organization submitting the magnetic media file. The payer and transmitter may be the same organization. Payers or their transmitters are required to complete Form 4419, Application for Filing Information Returns on Magnetic Media. A single Form 4419 should be filed no matter how many types of returns the payer or transmitter will be submitting on magnetic media. For example, if you plan to file Forms 1099-INT and Forms 1099-DIV on magnetic media, submit one Form 4419. If you later wish to file another type of return on magnetic media in the Form 1099, 1098, 5498, or W-2G, it is not necessary to submit a new Form 4419.

If you plan to file for multiple payers, IRS encourages filers to submit one application and to use one Transmitter Control Code for all payers. Include a list of all payers and their TINs with the Form 4419. If you file for additional payers in later years, you may simply notify IRS in writing providing the additional names and TINs. Do not submit a new application for these additional payers.

Copies of Form 4419, for your use, are included in this publication. Form 4419 has been revised for 1988. When completing Form 4419, follow the instructions on the back of the form carefully. Requests for additional information or forms related to magnetic media processing should be addressed to the IRS National Computer Center. The address is listed in Part A, Sec. 11.

.02 Application Form 4419 must be filed with the IRS National Computer Center before "test" files are submitted. ("Test" files must be submitted between October 1 and December 15 each year.) IRS will act on an application and notify the applicant, in writing, of authorization to file. A five character alpha/numeric Transmitter Control Code will be assigned and included in an acknowledgment letter. Magnetic media returns may not be filed with IRS until the application has been approved and a Transmitter Control Code assigned. Do not enter blanks in the "A" Record Transmitter Control Code field; enter the five character alpha/numeric Transmitter Control Code that is assigned to you by IRS.

.03 After you have received approval to file on magnetic media, you do not need to reapply each year; however, notify IRS in writing if:

(a) there are hardware or software changes that would affect the characteristics of the magnetic media submission (e.g., changing from 8-inch diskette to tape filing or vice versa, or reporting using more than one type of magnetic media), a new Transmitter Control Code may be necessary, or

(b) you discontinue filing on magnetic media for a year (your five character alpha/numeric Transmitter Control Code may be reassigned).

If either of these conditions apply to you, you should contact IRS for clarification. In ALL correspondence, refer to your current five character alpha/numeric Transmitter Control Code to assist IRS in locating your files.

.04 IRS will assist new filers with their initial magnetic media submission by reviewing "test" files submitted in advance of the filing season. The "test" data should be actual data for the "A" Records, not fictitious information. Approved payers or transmitters should submit "test" files to the IRS National Computer Center. In order to participate in the Combined Federal/State Program, you MUST submit a magnetic media "test" file. This test file is only required for the first year that you participate in the Combined Federal/State Program. ALL new filers, however, are encouraged to submit "test" files. All "test" files must be submitted between October 1 and December 15 each year. Refer to Part A, Sec. 11 for the address. Do not submit "test" files after December 15. If you are unable to submit your magnetic media "test" file by this date, you may only send a sample hardcopy printout that shows a sample of each type of record (A, B, C, and F) used to the IRS National Computer Center. This sample hardcopy printout must be postmarked by January 15, 1989. A hardcopy print is not an acceptable test file for the Combined Federal/State Program. Combined Federal/State test files must be submitted on magnetic media between October 1 and December 15. Clearly mark the hardcopy printout as "TEST DATA," and include identifying information such as name, address, and telephone number of someone familiar with the "test" print who may be contacted to discuss its acceptability. With all "test" data, include a transmittal Form 4804, 4802 or computer generated substitute marked as "TEST DATA" that identifies your five character alpha/numeric Transmitter Control Code, total record and money amounts. The transmittal Form 4804 and 4802 were updated for tax year 1988. Agencies who produce a computer generated substitute must include the additional information required on these forms. The Form 4804 includes a checkbox 1 to indicate the type of file (e.g., original, correction, replacement, test). The "test" data must be coded according to the current revenue procedure.

.05 If your magnetic media files have been prepared for you in the past by a service agency, and you now have computer equipment compatible with that of IRS and wish to prepare your own files, you must request your own five character alpha/numeric Transmitter Control Code by filing an application, Form 4419, as described above. If you should happen to file on two types of magnetic media (e.g., tape and 8 inch diskette), only one Form 4419 should be submitted. IRS will assign different Transmitter Control Codes to each type of magnetic media. This ensures that IRS will provide the proper revenue procedure to filers each year.

.06 If you as an individual or organization are an approved filer on magnetic media and you change the name or address of the organization, person to contact or EIN specified on your original Form 4419, please notify the IRS National Computer Center, in writing, so that your file may be updated to reflect the correct information.

.07 In accordance with section 1.6041-7(b) of the Income Tax Regulations, payments to providers of medical and health care services from separate departments of a health care carrier may be reported as separate returns on magnetic media. In this case, the headquarters office will be considered to be the transmitter, and the individual departments of the company filing reports will be considered to be payers. A single application form covering all the departments that will be filing on magnetic media should be submitted. One five character alpha/numeric Transmitter Control Code may be used for all departments.

.08 Any person required to file original or corrected returns on magnetic media may request a waiver from the filing requirements by submitting Form 8508, Request for Waiver From Filing Information Returns on Magnetic Media, with the IRS National Computer Center if filing on magnetic media would create an undue hardship. A SEPARATE FORM 8508 MUST BE SUBMITTED FOR EACH PAYER. It is not acceptable to submit a list of payers. The specific types of returns for which a waiver is being requested must be specified on Form 8508 (e.g., 1099-DIV, 1099-MISC). Persons or organizations who serve as transmitters only cannot submit Form 8508 for persons required to file on magnetic media. Form 8508 must be filed by the payer only. For returns required to be filed on magnetic media, waiver requests must be filed at least 90 days before the returns are due. This waiver, if approved, will only provide exemption from magnetic media filing for one tax year. Filers cannot apply for a waiver for more than one tax year at a time. You must reapply each year that a waiver is necessary. Copies of Form 8508 are included in this publication and may be obtained from the IRS National Computer Center and other IRS offices. See Part A, Sec. 11 for the address of the IRS National Computer Center.

.09 Section 1.6045-1(l) of the Income Tax Regulations requires brokers and barter exchanges to use magnetic media in reporting to IRS ALL Form 1099-B data. THIS REQUIREMENT APPLIES SEPARATELY TO BOTH ORIGINAL AND CORRECTED RETURNS. Generally NEW brokers and NEW barter exchanges may request an undue hardship exemption by filing a request for waiver on Form 8508 with the IRS National Computer Center by the end of the second month following the month in which they became a broker or barter exchange.

.10 All requests for magnetic media related undue hardship exemptions must be submitted to the IRS National Computer Center at least 90 days before the due date of the return except as stated in Part A, Sec. 3.09. All magnetic media related undue hardship requests for Forms W-2 and W-2P are to be filed with the IRS National Computer Center, not SSA. Refer to Part A, Sec. 11 for the address.

.11 If you request a waiver from filing on magnetic media and it is approved, DO NOT SEND A COPY OF THE APPROVED WAIVER TO THE SERVICE CENTER WHERE YOU FILE YOUR PAPER RETURNS. Keep the waiver for your records. Do NOT staple, paperclip or use rubberbands on any scannable forms. Paper information returns are read by an optical scanner (OCR) at the service centers.

.12 Waivers are granted on a case-by-case basis and may be approved at the discretion of the IRS National Computer Center.

.13 If you are required to file on magnetic media but fail to do so and you do not have an approved waiver on record, you may be subject to a failure to file penalty. Refer to Part A, Sec. 4.01.

.14 An approved waiver from filing information returns on magnetic media does not provide exemption from filing; you MUST still file your information returns on acceptable paper forms.

.15 A magnetic media reporting package, which includes all the necessary transmittals, labels, and instructions, will be mailed to the last known address of all approved filers each year.

Section 4. Filing of Magnetic Media Reports and Retention Requirements

.01 If you do not file your returns on time, you may be subject to a $50 per return failure to file penalty. If you file without following the instructions in this revenue procedure, you may also be subject to a $50 per return failure to file penalty. The maximum penalty is $100,000 per calendar year. However, there is no maximum penalty for Forms 1099-INT, 1099-OID, 1099-DIV, 1099-PATR, 5498, or if the failure to file is due to intentional disregard of the filing requirements.

.02 Generally, you are subject to a $50 penalty for each failure to include the payee's correct TIN on an information return unless the failure is due to reasonable cause or in some cases the payer can demonstrate that the payer met the due diligence requirements. Refer to Part A, Sec. 9. For the definition of Payer and Payee see Part A, Sec. 13.

.03 Form 4804, Transmittal of Information Returns Reported on Magnetic Media, must accompany magnetic media submissions. If you file for multiple payers and have the authority to sign the affidavit on Form 4804, you should also submit Form 4802, Transmittal for Multiple Magnetic Media Reporting. Forms 4804 and 4802 have been revised for tax year 1988. The revised forms must be used for your tax year 1988 submissions. Be sure to include Form 4804, 4802 or computer generated substitute with your magnetic media shipment. DO NOT MAIL THE MAGNETIC MEDIA AND THE TRANSMITTAL DOCUMENTS SEPARATELY. Magnetic media files covered by this revenue procedure are to be sent to the IRS National Computer Center (see Part A, Section 11 for the address). IRS encourages the use of a computer generated Form 4804 that includes all necessary information requested on the current form.

Paper information returns must be transmitted to the appropriate service center using Form 1096, Annual Summary and Transmittal of U.S. Information Returns. Do not send information returns filed on paper forms to the IRS National Computer Center.

.04 The affidavit for Form 4804 should be signed by the payer; however, the transmitter, service bureau, paying agent, or disbursing agent (all hereafter referred to as agent), may sign the affidavit on behalf of the payer if the conditions in (a), (b)(i) or (b)(ii), and (c) are met:

(a) The agent has the authority to sign the affidavit under an agency agreement (either oral, written, or implied) that is valid under state law.

(b)(i) The agent has the responsibility (either oral, written or implied) conferred on it by the payer to request the TINs of payees (or others for whom information is being reported),

OR

(ii) If the return of more than one payer is included in a single magnetic media submission, covered by a single Form 4804, each payer has attested by affidavit to the agent that the payer has complied with the law in attempting to secure correct TINs.

(c) The agent signs the affidavit and adds the caption "For: (name of payer)."

.05 Although a duly authorized agent signs the affidavit, the payer is held responsible for the accuracy of the Form 4804, and the payer will be liable for penalties for failure to comply with filing requirements.

.06 DO NOT REPORT THE SAME INFORMATION ON PAPER FORMS THAT YOU REPORT ON MAGNETIC MEDIA. IF YOU REPORT PART OF YOUR RETURNS ON PAPER AND PART ON MAGNETIC MEDIA, BE SURE THAT DUPLICATE RETURNS, WITH THE SAME INFORMATION, ARE NOT INCLUDED ON BOTH. This does not mean that corrected documents are not to be filed. If a return has been prepared and submitted improperly, you must file a corrected return as soon as possible. Refer to Part A, Sec. 8 for requirements and instructions on filing corrected returns.

.07 Reports from different branches or locations for one payer, if submitted on the same file, MUST be consolidated under one Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of information return. For example, all Forms 1099-INT for the same payer on a single file must be sorted together under one Payer/Transmitter "A" Record followed by the appropriate "B" Records and one "C" Record.

.08 Before submitting magnetic media files, include the following:

(a) A signed Form 4804 or computer generated substitute.

(b) A Form 4802 if you transmit for multiple payers and have the authority to sign the affidavit on Form 4804.

(c) The magnetic media with an external identifying label as described in Part B, Section 1. Be sure to include the proper sequence on this label.

(d) On the outside of the shipping container, include a Form 4801 or a substitute for the form which reads "DELIVER UNOPENED TO TAPE LIBRARY–MAGNETIC MEDIA REPORTING–BOX ____ of ____." If there is only one container, mark the outside as Box 1 of 1. For multiple containers, include the sequence (e.g., Box 1 of 33, 2 of 33, etc.).

(e) If you were granted an extension, include a copy of the approval letter with the magnetic media shipment. See Part A, Section 6.01 for information on how to apply for an extension of time to file.

.09 IRS will not pay or accept "Collect on Delivery" or "Charged to IRS" shipments of reportable tax information that an individual or organization is legally required to submit.

.10 Files may be returned to you due to coding or format errors. These are to be corrected and returned to IRS within 45 days of date of notice or the payer may be subject to a failure to file penalty. If you are unable to return the file within 45 days, request an extension of time.

.11 Payers are required to retain a copy of the information returns filed with IRS or to have the ability to reconstruct the data for at least three years.

Section 5. Filing Dates

.01 The dates prescribed for filing paper returns with IRS also apply to magnetic media filing. Magnetic media reporting to IRS for Forms 1098, 1099, and W-2G must be on a calendar year basis. Form 5498 is used to report amounts contributed during or after the calendar year but not later than April 17.

.02 Information returns filed on magnetic media for Forms 1098, all types of Forms 1099, and W–2G must be submitted to IRS and postmarked by February 28 but not before January 1. The due date for furnishing the required copy or statement to the payee is January 31.

.03 Information returns filed on magnetic media for Form 5498 must be submitted to IRS and postmarked by May 31. Trustees or issuers of IRAs or SEPs must provide participants with a statement of the value of the participant's account by January 31, in any written format. Statements are due to the participants by May 31 for contributions made to IRAs for the prior calendar year. Form 5498 is filed for contributions to be applied to 1988 that are made between January 1, 1988, and April 17, 1989.

Section 6. Extensions of Time to File

.01 If a payer or transmitter of information returns on magnetic media or paper forms filed with IRS or SSA is unable to submit their magnetic me- dia or paper file by the dates prescribed in Sec. 5.02 and 5.03 above, submit a letter requesting an extension of time for a maximum of 60 days as soon as you are aware that an extension will be necessary. In order to be considered, the request MUST be filed before the due date of the return; otherwise, you will be subject to the late filing penalty of $50 per return. The letter should be sent to the attention of the Magnetic Media Reporting Program at the IRS National Computer Center. See Part A, Sec. 11 for the address. The request should include:

(a) The filer's (or transmitter's, if filing for multiple payers) name and address.

(b) The filer's Taxpayer Identification Number (SSN or EIN).

(c) The tax year for which the extension of time is requested: tax year 1988.

(d) The name and telephone number of a person to contact who is familiar with the request.

(e) The specific type of returns and expected volume (e.g., 5000 Forms 1099–INT).

(f) The five character alpha/numeric Transmitter Control Code assigned to the organization or individual requesting the extension (if a number has been assigned).

(g) The reason for the delay and date that you will be able to file.

(h) If you file for multiple payers, the request must include a list of all payers, their TINs (SSN or EIN), and addresses.

An approved extension for magnetic media filing does not provide additional time for supplying a copy to the payee. If additional time is needed in providing a copy to the payee, contact the District Director of the IRS District in which you reside or in which your business is located.

.02 If an extension of time to file on magnetic media is granted by the IRS National Computer Center, a copy of the letter granting the extension MUST be included with the transmittal Form 1096, 4804 or computer generated substitute when the file is submitted.

Section 7. Processing of Magnetic Media Returns

.01 All data received at the IRS National Computer Center for processing will be given the same protection as individual returns (Form 1040), and will be returned to the originator after processing. Please open all returned files as soon as you receive them. In some cases, files are returned due to errors and they must be corrected and returned to IRS within 45 days of date of notice or you may be subject to a failure to file penalty.

.02 Due to the volume of input received and the cost to return special containers, special shipping containers should not be used for transmitting data to the IRS National Computer Center since IRS will not return such containers.

.03 Files will be returned to you for correction if they are unprocessable due to format or coding errors, or by the request of the filer. Unprocessable files must be corrected and returned to the IRS National Computer Center within 45 days of date of notice or the payer may be subject to a failure to file penalty. The corrected files will be returned to the filer by the IRS National Computer Center after processing. PLEASE BE SURE THAT YOUR FORMAT AND CODING COMPLY WITH THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE. THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE IS TO BE USED FOR THE PREPARATION OF TAX YEAR 1988 INFORMATION RETURNS ONLY. LEGISLATIVE AND FORMS CHANGES AFFECTING INFORMATION RETURNS MAY OCCUR EACH YEAR. THESE PROCEDURES ARE UPDATED TO REFLECT NECESSARY CHANGES. PLEASE READ THIS PUBLICATION CAREFULLY.

Section 8. How to File Corrected Returns

.01 The filing requirement thresholds listed in Part A, Sec. 1 apply separately to both original and corrected returns. A hardship waiver is only required for corrected returns if the total number of corrections for a particular tax year exceeds the magnetic media threshold. For example, if 100 corrections for Form 1099–A are filed, they may be submitted on paper forms and no waiver is required; however, if 300 corrected Forms 1099–A are to be filed on paper, a waiver is required. Corrections should be aggregated and filed as soon as possible but not later than October 1 of each year. ALL FIELDS MUST BE COMPLETED WITH THE CORRECT INFORMATION, NOT JUST THE DATA FIELDS NEEDING CORRECTION. Submit corrections only for the returns filed in error, not the entire file. If your complete file is in error, contact the IRS National Computer Center immediately. If you file corrected returns on paper forms, submit Copy A to the appropriate service center. There are numerous types of errors. It may require more than one transaction to properly correct the initial error. A "G" in magnetic media position 7 of the "B" Record is used to indicate a corrected return. You are strongly encouraged to read this ENTIRE section before attempting to make ANY correction (if the initial return was filed as an aggregate, you must consider this in filing the corrected return).

.02 Corrected returns submitted to IRS on magnetic media, using a "G" coded Payee "B" Record, may be submitted on the same media as those corrections submitted without the "G" code; however, they must be submitted using a separate "A" Record. Corrected returns are to be identified as corrections on the transmittal document, by marking the appropriate checkbox, and on the EXTERNAL affixed label of the file.

.03 The instructions that follow will provide information on how to file corrected returns on magnetic media. The 1988 "Instructions for Forms 1099, 1098, 5498, 1096, and W-2G" provide more specific instructions for filing corrections on paper forms and are included in your magnetic media reporting packages each year.

.04 If you are not required to file your corrections on magnetic media and you file them on paper forms, do not submit the paper returns to the IRS National Computer Center. All paper returns, whether original or corrected, must be filed with the appropriate service center. Corrected returns filed on magnetic media must be filed with the IRS National Computer Center. Refer to Part A, Sec. 11 for the address.

.05 Statements to payees should be identified as "CORRECTED" and should be provided to them as soon as possible.

.06 Use the same name and TIN (SSN or EIN) for the payee on the Form 4804 transmittal and all related "A" Records.

.07 A transmittal Form 4804 or computer generated substitute is used to transmit magnetic media. A Form 4802 is a continuation form for a Form 4804. Please utilize a Form 4802 if you file on magnetic media for multiple payers and are an authorized agent for the payers.

.08 Use the correct tax year's revenue procedures to file information returns with IRS (i.e., do not submit tax year 1988 returns using the 1987 format). You must submit your returns filed on magnetic media using the revenue procedure for the tax year of the returns. Forms and revenue procedures are normally updated each year to include necessary legislative and forms changes.

.09 On magnetic media files, the Payee "B" Record provides space to enter a Payer's Account Number for the Payee. This same account number may be provided on paper forms. In order to properly file corrected returns, this number will help identify the appropriate incorrect return if more than one return was filed for a particular payee. DO NOT ENTER A TIN (SSN OR EIN). A PAYER'S ACCOUNT NUMBER FOR THE PAYEE MAY BE A CHECKING ACCOUNT NUMBER, SAVINGS ACCOUNT NUMBER, SERIAL NUMBER OR ANY OTHER NUMBER ASSIGNED TO THE PAYEE BY THE PAYER THAT WILL DISTINGUISH THE SPECIFIC ACCOUNT. THIS NUMBER MUST APPEAR ON THE INITIAL RETURN AND ON THE CORRECTED RETURN IN ORDER TO IDENTIFY AND PROCESS THE CORRECTION PROPERLY.

.10 REVIEW THE CHART THAT FOLLOWS. The types of errors made will normally fall under one of the three categories listed. Next to each type of error made, you will find a list of instructions to tell you how to properly file the corrected return for that type of error. READ ALL OF THE INSTRUCTIONS LISTED AND FOLLOW THEM FOR THE TYPE OF ERROR MADE ON THE INITIAL RETURN. IN SOME CASES TWO TRANSACTIONS ARE REQUIRED TO PROPERLY FILE CORRECTIONS. IF THE ORIGINAL RETURN WAS FILED AS AN AGGREGATE, YOU MUST CONSIDER THIS IN FILING CORRECTED RETURNS.

Section 9. Taxpayer Identification Numbers

.01 Section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code, and the regulations thereunder, requires a person whose Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) must be shown on an information return to furnish his or her TINs to the person required to file the information return. The number must be furnished to the payer whether or not the payee is required to file a tax return or is covered by social security. Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for a definition of taxpayer identification number (TIN).

.02 The recipient's TIN is used to associate and verify amounts reported to IRS with corresponding amounts on tax returns. Therefore, it is particularly important that correct social security and employer identification numbers for payees be provided on magnetic media or paper forms submitted to IRS. IRS validates the SSN by using the Name Control of the surname of the individual who has been assigned this number. For this reason, provide the surname in the First Payee Name Line and/or the Name Control in positions 8-11 of the "B" Record. Failure to provide this information may make it impossible for IRS to validate the SSN. DO NOT ENTER HYPHENS, ALPHA CHARACTERS, ALL 9s OR ALL ZEROS.

.03 Under section 6676 of the Internal Revenue Code, a $50 penalty applies for each failure to furnish a TIN to another person who is required to file an information return, and for each failure to include a TIN on an information return. Except for interest and dividends, the penalty applies unless the failure to comply is due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect. The maximum penalty for other than interest and dividends is $100,000 for each failure to furnish the recipients TIN on an information return. For mortgages in existence before 1985, you will not be subject to the penalty for failure to provide the TIN of the payer of record on Form 1098 if you followed the rules for requesting TINs contained in Temporary Regulations section 1.6050H-1T, and you properly and promptly processed the responses.

.04 With respect to all payers of interest and dividends, section 6676 of the Internal Revenue Code provides that the payer must self-assess a $50 penalty for each failure to include a payee's TIN or each inclusion of an incorrect TIN on an information return, unless the payer can demonstrate that the payer met the due diligence requirements in attempting to acquire correct TINs for payees. Use Form 8210, Self-Assessed Penalties Return.

A penalty of $5 per failure applies to each failure by a payer to include his or her own TIN in any return, statement, or document.

.05 For certain reportable payments, if the payee fails to provide a TIN to the payer in the manner required, then backup withholding must be instituted for that payee. If the payee has applied for a TIN, the payee may certify to this on Form W-9 by noting "Applied For" in the TIN block and by signing the form. This form then becomes an "awaiting-TIN certificate." If the TIN is not received and certified, if required, within 60 days, begin withholding and continue until you receive a TIN in the manner required. If IRS notifies the payer that the payee's TIN is incorrect, the payee has 30 days to provide a TIN to the payer in the manner required or backup withholding must be instituted.

.06 The TIN to be furnished to IRS depends primarily upon the manner in which the account is maintained or set up on the payer's record. The payer and payee names and TINs should be consistent with the names and numbers used on other tax returns. The name and TIN must be those of the owner of the account. If the account is recorded in more than one name, furnish the TIN and name of one of the owners of the account. The TIN provided must be associated with the name of the payee provided in the first name line of the Payee "B" Record. For individuals, including sole proprietors, the payee TIN is the payee's social security number. For other entities, the payee TIN is the payee's employer identification number.

.07 Sole proprietors who are payers should show their employer identification number in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. However, sole proprietors who are not otherwise required to have an employer identification number should use their social security number.

.08 The charts below will help you determine the TIN to be furnished to IRS for those persons for whom you are reporting information (payees).

Section 10. Effect on Paper Returns

.01 Magnetic media reporting of the information returns listed in Part A, Sec. 1 applies only to the original (Copy A).

.02 For payments of dividends or interest (reported on Forms 1099-DIV, 1099-PATR, 1099-INT or 1099-OID) the payer is required to furnish an official Form 1099 to a payee in person or in a "statement mailing" by first-class mail. For payments of royalties, a statement in person or in a statement mailing is also required, but the statement need not be the official form. These forms may not be combined or mailed with other information furnished to the recipient except Forms W-2, W-2P, W-8, W-9, other Forms 1098, 1099, 5498, a check, a letter explaining why no check is enclosed, a letter limited to an explanation of the tax consequences of the information shown on the payee statement, and a statement of the person's account reflected on the 1099. The outside of the envelope and each check, letter, or account statement must contain the legend, "Important Tax Return Document Enclosed." A payee statement may be perforated to a check with respect to the account reported on the payee statement or to a statement of the payee's specific account if payments on such account are reflected in the payee's statement. The enclosure to which the payee statement is perforated must contain the legend "Important Tax Return Document Attached." No additional enclosures, such as advertising, promotional material, or a quarterly or annual report, are permitted. The payer may use substitute Forms 1099 if they utilize the proper language, are substantially similar to the official forms, and the payer complies with all revenue procedures relating to substitute Forms 1099 in effect at the time (see Publication 1179). The substitute payee statement must contain instructions substantially similar to those on the back of Copy B of the official form. The following messages must appear on the payee statements:

(a) Forms 5498 and 1099-R–"This information is being furnished to the Internal Revenue Service."

(b) Forms 1099-G and W-2G–"This is important tax information and is being furnished to the Internal Revenue Service. If you are required to file a return, a negligence penalty or other sanction may be imposed on you if this income is taxable and IRS determines that it has not been reported."

(c) Forms 1099-B and 1099-MISC–Same as item (b) above, except change "may" to "will" in the second sentence.

(d) Form 1099-A–"This is important tax information and is being furnished to the Internal Revenue Service. If you are required to file a return, a negligence penalty or other sanction will be imposed on you if taxable income results from this transaction and the IRS determines that it has not been reported."

(e) Form 1098–(1)–"This is important tax information and is being furnished to the Internal Revenue Service." If you are required to file a return, a negligence penalty or other sanction will be imposed on you if the IRS determines that an underpayment of tax results because you overstated a deduction for this mortgage interest on your return. (2) "The amount shown may not be fully deductible by you on your Federal income tax return. Limitations based on the cost and value of the secured property may apply. In addition, you may only deduct an amount of mortgage interest to the extent it was incurred by you, actually paid by you, and not reimbursed by another person."

(f) Forms 1099-S–"This is important tax information and is being furnished to the Internal Revenue Service. If you are required to file a return, a negligence penalty or other sanction will be imposed on you if this item is required to be reported and the IRS determines that it has not been reported."

.03 Statements to recipients for Forms 1098, 1099-A, 1099-B, 1099-G, 1099-MISC (except for substitute payments in lieu of dividends and tax-exempt interest), 1099-R, 1099-S, 5498, or W-2G need not be a copy of the paper form filed with IRS. However, it is important that income items be properly classified for Federal tax purposes on the statement the payer gives to recipients. The space provisions on official paper forms do not agree with those used in magnetic media. The amount of space on paper forms is less than that allowed on magnetic media. Filers may wish to seek a substitute form for statements to payees that accommodates the space provisions used in magnetic media. Payers are permitted considerable flexibility in designing statements to payees. The payer may combine the information return data with other reports or statements as long as all required information is present and worded properly and the payee's copy is conducive to proper reporting of income on tax returns. (This does not apply to Forms 1099-INT, 1099-OID, 1099-DIV and 1099-PATR. See Part A, Sec. 10.02 above for the requirements for these four forms.)

Section 11. How to Contact the IRS National Computer Center

.01 Magnetic media processing for all service centers is centralized at the IRS National Computer Center. Magnetic media covered under this revenue procedure and all requests for IRS magnetic media related publications, information, undue hardship waivers, extensions of time or forms are to be directed to the following addresses (if Postal Service or land carrier):

IRS–National Computer Center
Post Office Box 1359
Martinsburg, WV 25401-1359
or
IRS–National Computer Center
Route 9 & Needy Road
Martinsburg, WV 25401

Hours of operation at this address will be 8:30 A.M. until 6:00 P.M. Eastern Time Zone. The telephone number is (304) 263-8700.

Requests for paper returns, publications or forms not related to magnetic media processing should be requested by calling the toll-free Forms only number in your area.

.02 The National Computer Center will process returns filed on magnetic media only. All information returns, including corrections, that are filed on paper forms should be submitted to the appropriate service center, not the IRS National Computer Center. Organizations who file their information returns on magnetic media but who submit their corrected returns on paper forms refer to the 1988 "Instructions for Forms 1099, 1098, 5498, 1096, and W-2G" for the service center addresses.

Section 12. Combined Federal/State Filing

.01 The Combined Federal/State Program was established to simplify information returns filing for the taxpayer. IRS will accept, upon prior approval, magnetic media files containing state reporting information only for those states listed in Table 1 in this section. FORMS 1098, 1099-A, 1099-B, 1099-S, AND W-2G CANNOT BE FILED UNDER THE COMBINED FEDERAL/STATE FILING PROGRAM.

.02 To request approval to participate in the Combined Federal/State Program, a "test" file, coded for this program, must be submitted by the transmitter to the IRS National Computer Center between October 1 and December 15 using the revenue procedure that will be used for the actual data files. Blanket approval will not be given to software packages. ATTACH A LETTER TO THE FORM 4804 SUBMITTED WITH THE "TEST" FILE WHICH INDICATES THAT YOU WISH TO PARTICIPATE IN THIS PROGRAM. The "test" file is only required for the first year. Once you are approved, you do not need to resubmit "tests" each year, except when notified by IRS. Refer to Part A, Sec. 11 for the address. See Part A, Sec. 3.04 for general guidelines on submission of "test" files. Each record, both in the "test" file and actual data file, must conform exactly to the revenue procedure for the tax year of the actual data. Combined Federal/State records must be coded using each state's dollar criteria from Table 2 of this section for each type of return.

If the "test" file is determined to be acceptable, IRS will return it to the filer with Form 6847, Consent For Internal Revenue Service to Release Tax Information. The payer must complete Form 6847. The five character alpha/numeric Transmitter Control Code must be included on the form. The form must then be returned to IRS before IRS will release tax information to any of the participating states.

Form 6847 must be signed by one of the individuals listed at the bottom of the form and returned to the address listed in Part A, Sec. 11. If the form is signed by an attorney-in-fact, the written consent from the taxpayer to the attorney-in-fact must be included with the Form 6847. This consent by language and/or scope must clearly indicate that the attorney-in-fact is empowered to authorize release of the information document returns to the state(s). A separate Form 6847 is required for each payer. A transmitter may not combine payers on one Form 6847 even though acting as attorney-in-fact for several payers. Form 6847 may be photocopied if you receive an insufficient number of the forms. A computer generated Form 6847 may also be used as long as the generated form includes the same information as the official Form 6847. If you have filed on this program in the past and have not met these requirements, you must resubmit the Form 6847 with the proper signatures as specified. If you file for multiple payers, code the records to go to the state(s) only for those payers that participate and have properly submitted Form 6847. Do not submit actual data records coded for the Combined Federal/State Program without prior approval from IRS.

.03 States that participate in this program and the valid state code assigned to each are listed in Table 1 of this section. If the state that you wish information released to does not participate in the program, do not code your records for that state. If the state participates, if you have received prior approval, and if all other conditions are met, IRS will forward the tax information to the participating state at no charge to the filer. You do not need to reapply for this program each year.

.04 IF CORRECTIONS MUST BE MADE, IRS WILL NOT TRANSMIT CORRECTED RETURNS TO THE STATES; THIS WILL BE THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE FILER.

.05 IRS will make no attempt to process files with any deviations. Approval to participate in the Combined Federal/State Program will be revoked if any files are submitted that do not totally conform.

.06 IRS is acting as a forwarding agent ONLY. Some participating states require separate notification that you are filing in this manner. It is your responsibility to contact the appropriate states for further information.

.07 The appropriate state code should be entered for those documents which meet that state's filing requirements. It is the filer's responsibility to determine the state code to be used and to obtain the filing requirements from the appropriate state(s).

.08 If you meet all of the requirements for this program, you must provide the state totals from the "K" Record on a separate Form 4804, Transmittal of Information Returns on Magnetic Media (or Form 4802, Transmittal For Multiple Magnetic Media Reporting) or computer generated substitute for each state, or you must include a listing which identifies each state and the "K" Record totals for each.

.09 If you have met ALL of the above conditions:

(a) You must submit all records which indicate the appropriate coding related to this program.

(b) The "C" Record must be followed by a "K" Record for each state. The "K" Record indicates the number of payees being reported to each particular state.

(c) Payment amount totals and the valid participating state code must be included in the state totals "K" Record. Refer to Part B, Sec. 8, for a description of the "K" Record.

(d) The "K" Record is followed by an end of transmission "F" Record (if this is the last record of the entire file).

.10 Only those states listed in Table 1 will receive information from IRS. It is the filer's responsibility to file information returns with states that do not participate in this program.

See Part A, Sec. 3. (Abbreviation for this term is TCC.)

Section 14. State Abbreviations

.01 You MUST use the following state abbreviations when developing the state code portion of address fields. (This table provides state abbreviations only and does not represent those states participating in the Combined Federal/State Program. For a list of states that participate in the Combined Federal/State Program, refer to Part A, Sec. 12.10.)

.02 In the past, IRS has provided a list of foreign country codes. These codes have been eliminated for tax year 1988. You may enter foreign addresses using a 40 position free format rather than the 29-2-9 format for the Payee City, Payee State and Payee ZIP Code; however, this is only allowable if a "1" appears in the Foreign Country Indicator field. This 40 position free format may only be used for foreign addresses. You may choose to spell out the name of the foreign country or use abbreviations. Addresses in the United States must use the state codes provided and must be in the 29-2-9 format.

Part B. Magnetic Media Specifications

Section 1. General

.01 The specifications contained in this part of the revenue procedure define the required format and contents of the records to be included in the magnetic media file. These specifications must be adhered to unless deviations have been specifically granted by IRS.

.02 An external affixed label, Form 5064, must appear on each tape and diskette submitted for processing. If diskettes are used and the operating system is not MS/DOS compatible, the operating system and hardware information MUST be provided. Failure to provide this information will result in the diskette being returned to the filer. The following information is needed:

(a) The transmitter's name.

(b) The five character alpha/numeric Transmitter Control Code.

(c) The tax year of the data (e.g., 1988).

(d) Operating system and hardware used to create the file (e.g., Apple MacIntosh/MacWrite V2.2).

(e) Document types (e.g., 1099-09-INT).

(f) The total number of "B" Records after each "A" Record (this figure is taken from the "C" Records).

(g) An in-house number assigned by the transmitter to the magnetic media (if applicable).

(h) The sequence of each tape or diskette (e.g., 001 of 008).

The external media label, Form 5064, was updated in tax year 1988. You must use the updated label. This information will assist IRS in processing the file or in locating a file, should the transmitter request that it be returned due to errors. IRS advises that special shipping containers not be used for transmitting data since they will not be returned.

.03 A provision is made in the Payee "B" Records for Special Data Entries. These entries are optional. If the field is not utilized, enter blanks to maintain a fixed record length of 420 positions. The field is intended to serve one or both of these purposes:

(a) Contain information required by state or local governments. Filers who wish to use this option for satisfying state or local reporting requirements should contact their state or local department of revenue for filing instructions. Also refer to Part A, Sec. 12.

(b) This field is also reserved for the filer's own personal use and may be used at the discretion of the filer to include information related to each individual return. IRS will not use the information supplied in this field. (The length of this field will vary depending on the type of return. For Forms 1098, 1099-DIV, 1099-G, 1099-INT, 1099-MISC, 1099-PATR, 1099-R, and 5498, there are 67 positions reserved for Special Data Entries. For Form 1099-A, there are 21 positions, for Form 1099-B, there are 10 positions, for Forms 1099-OID, there are 28 positions and for Forms 1099-09S, there are 23 positions. Form W-2G has no available space within the Payee "B" Record for Special Data Entries.

.04 All records must be a fixed length of 420 positions. Use "K" Records only if you are an approved Combined Federal/State filer.

Section 2. Tape Specifications

.01 In most instances, IRS will be able to process any compatible tape files. Tape files must be EBCDIC, ASCII or BCD and must meet the following criteria:

(a) 9 track EBCDIC (Extended Binary Coded Decimal Interchange Code) with

(1) Odd Parity and

(2) A density of 800, 1600, or 6250 BPI.

(3) If you use UNIVAC Series 1100, you must submit an interchange tape.

(b) 9 track ASCII (American Standard Coded Information Interchange) with

(1) Odd Parity and

(2) A density of 800, 1600, or 6250 BPI.

(c) 7 track BCD (Binary Coded Decimal) with

(1) Either Even or Odd Parity and

(2) A density of 556 or 800 BPI. (IRS will accept and process 7 track tapes; however, 9 track is preferred.)

Please be consistent in the use of recording codes and density on your files. If files are generated in more than one recording code and/or density, multiple shipments would be appreciated.

.02 All compatible tape files must have the following characteristics: Type of tape – 0.5 inch (12.7 mm) wide, computer grade magnetic tape on reels of up to 2400 feet (731.52 m) within the following specifications:

(a) Tape thickness: 1.0 or 1.5 mils and

(b) Reel diameter: 10.5 inch (26.67 cm), 8.5 inch (21.59 cm), or 7 inch (17.78 cm).

(c) At this time, IRS cannot accept cartridge tape.

.03 Payers who can substantially conform to these specifications, but who require some minor deviations, MUST contact the IRS National Computer Center. Under no circumstances may tapes deviating from the specifications in this revenue procedure be submitted without prior approval from IRS. If you file on the Combined Federal/State Program, your files must conform totally to this revenue procedure.

.04 The tape records defined in this revenue procedure may be blocked or unblocked, subject to the following:

(a) A block must not exceed 10,000 tape positions.

(b) If the use of blocked records would result in a short block, all remaining positions of the block must be filled with 9's; however, the last block of the file may be filled with 9's or truncated. Do not pad a block with blanks.

(c) All records, except the Header and Trailer Labels, may be blocked.

(d) Records may not span blocks.

.05 Labeled or unlabeled tapes may be submitted.

.06 For the purposes of this revenue procedure the following must be used. Tape Mark:

1. Used to signify the physical end of the recording on tape.

2. For even parity, use BCD configuration 001111 ("8421").

3. May follow the header label and precede and/or follow the–trailer label.

Section 3. 5¼ Inch and 3½ Inch Diskette Specifications

.01 To be compatible, a diskette file must meet the following specifications:

(a) 5¼ or 3½ inches in diameter.

(b) Data must be recorded in standard ASCII code.

(c) Records must be fixed length of 420 bytes per record.

(d) Delimiter character commas (,) must not be used.

(e) Position 419 and 420 of each record has been reserved for carriage return/line feed (cr/lf) characters.

(f) Filename of IRSTAX must be used. If a file will consist of more than one diskette, the filename IRSTAX will contain a 3 digit numeric extension. This extension will indicate the sequence of the diskettes within the file. For example, the first diskette will be named IRSTAX.001, the second diskette will be IRSTAX.002 etc.

(g) A diskette file may consist of multiple diskettes as long as the filename conventions are adhered to.

(h) Diskettes must meet one of the following specifications:

Capacity	Tracks	Sides/ Density	Size Sector
1.44 mb	96tpi	hd	512
1.2 mb	96tpi	hd	512
720 kb	48tpi	ds/dd	512
360 kb	48tpi	ds/dd	512
320 kb	48tpi	ds/dd	512
180 kb	48tpi	ss/dd	512
160 kb	48tpi	ss/dd	512

.02 IRS prefers that 5¼ and 3½ inch diskettes be created using MS/DOS, however, diskettes created using other operating systems are acceptable. A test file submission is highly recommended for 5¼ and 3½ inch diskettes, especially if the file is not MS/DOS (see Part A, Section 3.04 for instructions on submitting "test" files).

.03 Deviations from the prescribed formats will not be acceptable. Under no circumstances may diskettes deviating from the specifications in this revenue procedure be submitted without prior approval from IRS. If you file under the Combined Federal/State Program, your files must conform totally to this revenue procedure.

Section 4. Payer/Transmitter "A" Record

.01 Identifies the payer and transmitter of the magnetic media file and provides parameters for the succeeding Payee "B" Records. IRS computer programs rely on the absolute relationship between the parameters and data fields in the "A" Record and the data fields in the "B" Records to which they apply.

.02 The number of "A" Records appearing on a tape reel or diskette will depend on the number of payers and the different types of returns being reported. The payment amounts for one payer for one type of return must be consolidated under one "A" Record if submitted on the same file. Do not submit separate "A" Records for each payment amount being reported. For example, if you are filing Form 1099–DIV to report Amount Codes 1, 2, and 3, all three amount codes must be reported under one "A" Record, not three separate "A" Records. For Payee "B" Records which do not contain payment amounts for all three amount codes, enter zeros for those which have no payment to be reported. The first record appearing on the file must be an "A" Record. All records must be a fixed length of 420 positions. A transmitter may include Payee "B" Records for more than one payer on a tape reel or diskette; however, each GROUP of Payee "B" Records must be preceded by an "A" Record. A single tape reel or diskette may also contain different types of returns, but the types of returns must not be intermingled. A separate "A" Record is required for each payer and each type of return being reported. An "A" Record may be blocked with "B" Records; however, the initial record on a file must be an "A" Record. IRS will accept an "A" Record after a "C" Record. Do not begin any record at the end of a block or diskette and continue the same record into the next block.

.03 All alpha characters entered in the "A" Record should be upper-case.

.04 WHEN REPORTING FORM 1098, MORTGAGE INTEREST STATEMENT, THE "A" RECORD WILL REFLECT THE NAME OF THE RECIPIENT OF THE INTEREST (THE FILER). THE "B" RECORD WILL REFLECT THE INDIVIDUAL PAYING THE INTEREST (BORROWER/PAYER OF RECORD) AND THE AMOUNT PAID.

RECORD NAME: PAYER/TRANSMITTER "A" RECORD

NOTE: For all fields marked REQUIRED, you must provide the information described under Description and Remarks. For those fields not marked REQUIRED, you must allow for the field but may be instructed to enter blanks or zeros in the indicated tape position(s) and for the indicated length. All records are now a fixed length of 420 positions.

Field Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
1	Record Type	1	REQUIRED. Enter "A".
2-3	Payment Year	2	REQUIRED. Must be the last two digits of the year for which information is being reported. (e.g., if payments were made in 1988, enter "88"). Must be incremented each year.
4-6	Reel Sequence Number	3	The reel sequence number incremented by 1, for each tape or diskette on the file starting with 001. You may choose to enter blanks or zeros in this field. IRS bypasses this information. You must indicate the proper sequence on the external label Form 5064.
7-15	Payer's Federal EIN	9	REQUIRED. Must be the valid 9-digit number assigned to the payer by IRS. DO NOT ENTER BLANKS, HYPHENS, ALPHA CHARACTERS, ALL 9s OR ALL ZEROS. (Also see Part A, Sec 9.07.). For Foreign Corporations that are not required to have an EIN, this field may be left blank. Foreign Corporations should have the Foreign Corporation Indicator set to "1." See Part A, Section 13 for the definition of a Foreign Corporation.

<tr><td>23-31</td><td>Amount Indicators</td><td>9</td><td>REQUIRED. In most cases, the box numbers on paper information returns correspond with the Amount Codes used to file on magnetic media; however, should you notice discrepancies between this revenue procedure and paper forms, please disregard them and program according to this revenue procedure for your returns filed on magnetic media. For specific instructions on information to be reported in each Amount Code, refer to the 1988 "Instructions for Forms 1099, 1098, 5498, 1096, and W-2G," included in your magnetic media reporting packages. The amount indicators entered for a given type of return indicate type(s) of payment(s) that were made. For each Amount Code entered in this field, a corresponding payment amount will appear in the Payee "B" Record. Example: If position 22 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record is "7" (for 1099-PATR) and positions 23-31 are "247bbbbbb," this indicates that you will be reporting 3 actual payment amounts in all of the following Payee "B" Records. The first payment amount field in the Payee "B" Record will be all "0" (zeros), the second will represent Nonpatronage distributions, the third will be all "0" (zeros), the fourth will represent Federal income tax withheld, the fifth and sixth will be all "0" (zeros), the seventh will represent Energy investment credit, and the eighth and ninth will be all "0" (zeros). Enter the Amount Indicators in ASCENDING SEQUENCE (i.e., 1247bbbbb), left-justify, filling unused positions with blanks. 			8	Substitute payments in lieu of dividends or interest (see NOTE 2)
			9	Direct sales "indicator" (see NOTE 3)

NOTE 1: Amount code "7" is normally used to report nonemployee compensation. Amount code "7" can also be used however, to report crop insurance proceeds. See Part B, Section 6, Document Specific Code for instructions on how to indicate Crop Insurance Proceeds.

NOTE 2: Brokers who transfer securities of a customer for use in a short sale must use Amount Code 8 to report the aggregate payments received in lieu of dividends or tax-exempt interest on behalf of a customer while the short sale was open. Generally, for substitute payments in lieu of dividends, a broker is required to file a Form 1099-MISC for each affected customer who is not an individual. Refer to the 1988 "Instructions for Forms 1099, 1098, 5498, 1096, and W-2G," for detailed information. The instructions are included in your magnetic media reporting packages.

NOTE 3: Use Amount Code "9" to report sales by you of $5,000 or more of consumer products to a person on a buy-sell, deposit-commission, or any other commission basis for resale. Refer to the 1988 "Instructions for Forms 1099, 1098, 5498, 1096, and W-2G," for specific instructions. Do not use this indicator for sales of less than $5,000. The use of Amount Code "9" actually reflects an indicator of direct sales over $5,000 and is not an actual payment amount or amount code. The corresponding payment amount field in the Payee "B" Record MUST be reflected as 0000000100 if you are reporting direct sales of greater than $5000. This does not mean that a payment of $1.00 was made or is being reported.

NOTE 4: If you are reporting Excess Golden Parachute Payments, use paper forms 1099-MISC. Do not report these payments on magnetic media. See Part A, Sec. 13 for a definition of an Excess Golden Parachute Payment.

NOTE: Form 5498 is filed for each person for whom you maintained an individual retirement arrangement (IRA) or simplified employee pension (SEP) during 1988. Amount Code 4 represents the value of the account. Trustees and issuers of IRAs and SEPs must report the value of accounts in existence during the year, even if no contributions were made during the year. However, if a total distribution was made from an IRA during the year and no contributions were made for that year, you need not file Form 5498 to reflect that the fair market value on December 31 was zero. Do not report employer SEP contributions on Form 5498; however, you must report the value of an SEP account. For an IRA, use all applicable Amount Codes. If no IRA contributions were made for 1988, you will only use Amount Code 4. Only IRA contributions to be applied to 1988 that are made between January 1, 1988, and April 17, 1989, are to be reported in Amount Code 1.

Section 6. Payee "B" Record—General Field Descriptions and Record Layouts

.01 The Payee "B" Record contains the payment information from the individual statements. When filing information documents on magnetic media, the format for the Payee "B" Records will remain constant and is a fixed length of 420 positions. The record layout for positions 1 through 321 is the same for all "B" Records. Positions 322 through 420 varies slightly for Forms 1099-A, 1099-B, 1099-OID, 1099-S and W-2G to accommodate variations within these forms. The individual field definitions can be found following the Payee Zip Code field in the "B" Record.

All records must be submitted with a fixed length of 420 positions. In the "A" Record, the Amount Indicator Codes that appear in tape or diskette positions 23 through 31 will be left-justified and blank filled. In the "B" Record, you will allow for all nine payment amount fields and for those not used, enter zeros. For example, if you are reporting on Form 1099-PATR, you will enter a "7" in tape position 22 of the "A" Record, Type of Return Indicator field. If you are reporting payments for Amount Codes 2, 4, and 7, then tape positions 23 through 31 of the "A" Record will be "247bbbbbb". In the Payee "B" Record, positions 51 through 60 for Payment Amount 1 will be zeros. Positions 61-70 will reflect the actual payment amount to be reported for "Nonpatronage distributions." Positions 71-80 for Payment Amount 3 will be zeros. Positions 81-90 will reflect the actual payment amount to be reported for "Federal income tax withheld." Positions 91-110 for Payment

Amounts 5 and 6 will be zeros. Positions 111-120 will reflect the actual payment amount to be reported for "Energy investment credit." Positions 121-140 for Payment Amounts 8 and 9 will be zeros. The First Payee Name Line will always appear in positions 162-201

.02 All records must be a fixed length. Records on magnetic media may be blocked or unblocked. Records may not span blocks. A block on magnetic media may not exceed 10,000 positions. DO NOT PAD A BLOCK WITH BLANKS. If the use of blocked records would result in a short block, all remaining positions of the block must be filled with 9s; however, the last block of the file may be filled with 9's or truncated.

.03 IRS must be able to identify the surname associated with the TIN (SSN or EIN) furnished on a statement. The specifications below include a field in the payee records called "Name Control" in which the first four alphabetic characters of the payee's surname or last name are to be entered by the payer. The surname or last name should appear first in the First Payee Name Line of all Payee "B" Records; however, if your records have been developed using the first name first, IRS programs will accept this but a blank must appear between the first and last name.

.04 If payers are unable to determine the first four characters of the surname, the Name Control Field may be left blank; however, compliance with the following will facilitate IRS computer programs in generating the Name Control.

(a) The surname of the payee whose TIN (SSN or EIN) is shown in the Payee "B" Record should always appear first. If, however, you enter the first name first, you must leave a blank space between the first and last name.

(b) In the case of multiple payees, only the surname of the payee whose TIN (SSN or EIN) is shown in the Payee "B" Record must be present in the First Payee Name Line. Surnames of any other payees in the record must be entered in the Second Payee Name Line.

.05 A field is also provided in these specifications for Special Data Entries. This field may be used to record information required by state or local governments or for the filer's own personal use. IRS does not use the data provided in the Special Data Entries field.

.06 Those filers participating in the Combined Federal/State Filing Program must code their records appropriately for the state to receive the information. The state code now appears in tape positions 417 and 418 of the "B" Record. The file should also meet the money criteria described in Part A, Sec. 12.11. Do not code for the states unless prior approval to participate has been granted by IRS. See Part A, Sec. 12.10 for a list of the valid participating state codes. FORMS 1098, 1099-A, 1099-B, 1099-S, AND W-2G CANNOT BE FILED UNDER THE COMBINED FEDERAL/STATE FILING PROGRAM. Your files must meet all of the requirements specified in Part A, Sec. 12 in order to participate in this program.

.07 All alpha characters entered in the "B" Record should be uppercase.

.08 Do not use decimal points (.) to indicate dollars and cents on magnetic media.

.09 IRS STRONGLY ENCOURAGES FILERS TO REVIEW THEIR DATA FOR ACCURACY BEFORE SUBMISSION TO PREVENT ERRONEOUS NOTICES BEING MAILED TO PERSONS FOR WHOM REPORTS ARE FILED. FILERS SHOULD BE ESPECIALLY CAREFUL THAT THEIR TAXPAYER NAMES, SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBERS (SSNs), ACCOUNT NUMBERS, TYPES OF INCOME, AND INCOME AMOUNTS ARE CORRECT.

.10 WHEN REPORTING FORM 1098, MORTGAGE INTEREST STATEMENT, THE "A" RECORD WILL REFLECT THE NAME OF THE RECIPIENT OF THE INTEREST. THE "B" RECORD WILL REFLECT THE INDIVIDUAL PAYING THE INTEREST (THE BORROWER/PAYER OF RECORD) AND THE AMOUNT PAID. FOR FORM 1099-S, THE "A" RECORD WILL REFLECT THE PERSON RESPONSIBLE FOR REPORTING THE TRANSACTION. THE "B" RECORD WILL REFLECT THE SELLER.

RECORD NAME: PAYEE "B" RECORD

NOTE: For all fields marked REQUIRED, you must provide the information described under Description and Remarks. For those fields not marked REQUIRED, you must allow for the field but may be instructed to enter blanks or zeros in the indicated tape position(s) and for the indicated length. All records are now a fixed length of 420 positions.

Field Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
1	Record Type	1	REQUIRED. Enter "B".
2-3	Payment Year	2	REQUIRED. Must be the last two digits of the year for which payments are being reported (e.g., if payments were made in 1988 enter "88"). Must be incremented each year.
4-5	Document Specific Code	2	REQUIRED for Forms 1098, 1099-R, 1099-MISC, 1099-G, and W-2G. FOR ALL OTHER FORMS, OR IF NOT USED, ENTER BLANKS. For Form 1098, position 4 will be used to indicate that the mortgage was incurred after 1987, position 5 will be blank. For Form 1099-R, enter the appropriate code(s) for the Category of Distribution. More than one code may apply for Form 1099-R; however, if only one code is required, it will be entered in position 4 and position 5 will be blank. For Form 1099-MISC, position 4 is used to indicate Crop Insurance Proceeds, position 5 will be blank. For Form 1099-G, enter the year of income tax refund in position 4, position 5 will be blank. For Form W-2G enter the Type of Wager in position 4, position 5 will be blank.

Field Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
	Category of Distribution (Form 1099-R only)		Use only for reporting on Form 1099-R to identify the Category of Distribution. When applicable, you may enter a numeric and an alpha code but not two numeric codes. No numeric code is needed for normal distributions reported in Amount Code 1, but codes A, B, or C might apply. IRS suggests that anyone using code P for the refund of an excess IRA contribution under Section 408(d)(4) advise payees, at the time the distribution is made, that the earnings are taxable in the year in which the contribution was made. Enter the applicable code from the table that follows. A "0" (zero) is not a valid code for Form 1099-R. IF YOU ARE REPORTING A DISTRIBUTION TO WHICH THE FOLLOWING CODES DO NOT APPLY, ENTER BLANKS IN THIS FIELD. If you are reporting a total distribution from a plan that includes a distribution of a DEC, you must report two separate "B" Records—one to report the distribution of DECs and the other to report the distribution from the other part of the plan. This is necessary since DECs are not subject to 5-year/10-year averaging. Report the distribution of DECs in Amount Codes 1 and 2 of the "A" Record.

Rollover (see NOTE 1)	2

Qualifies for 5-year/10-year averaging	A
Qualifies for death benefit exclusion	B
Qualifies for both A and B	C

NOTE 1: Use this code only if the participant has informed you that the distribution will be rolled over and only if no other numeric code applies.

NOTE 2: PS 58 Costs may be reported on Form 1099-R if a total distribution is also made; otherwise, use Form W-2P (filed with SSA). Since PS 58 costs are taxable as ordinary income, a separate "B" Record is required to report PS 58 Costs. These costs may not be reported in combination with a total distribution. Refer to the 1988 "Instructions for Forms 1099, 1098, 5498, 1096, and W-2G," included in your magnetic media reporting packages.

	Mortgage Incurred After 1987 (Form 1098 Only)		If the mortgage was incurred after 1987, for a purpose other than the purchase of a personal residence, position 4 will be "1." If this is not the case, position 4 will be blank. Position 5 will be blank.
	Crop Insurance Proceeds (Form 1099-MISC only)		If the payment amount reported for Amount Code 7 is crop insurance proceeds, enter a "1" in position 4. Position 5 will be blank.
	Refund is for Tax Year (Form 1099-G only)		Use only for reporting the tax year for which the refund was issued. Enter the NUMERIC year for which the refund was issued (i.e., for 1987, enter 7). However, if the payment amount for Amount Code 2, State or Local Income Tax Refunds, contains a refund, credit or offset that is attributable to an income tax that applies exclusively to income from a trade or business and is not of general application, then enter the ALPHA equivalent of the year for which the refund was issued, from the table below (i.e., for 1987, enter G). This code should appear in position 4. Position 5 will be blank.

The surname of the person whose TIN is being reported in positions 15-23 of the "B" Record should be used to determine the Name Control. This is especially important in the case of trustee accounts. IF THE NAME THAT CORRESPONDS TO THE TIN IS NOT INCLUDED IN THE FIRST OR SECOND PAYEE NAME LINE, EVERY EFFORT SHOULD BE MADE TO DEVELOP THE CORRECT NAME CONTROL OF THE NAME THAT CORRESPONDS TO THE TIN. Surnames of less than four (4) letters should be left-justified, filling the unused positions with blanks. Special characters and imbedded blanks should be removed. In the case of a business, use the first significant word of the business name—i.e., words such as "a," "an" and "of" are not considered significant. Section 7. End of Payer "C" Record

.01 THE "C" RECORD IS A FIXED RECORD LENGTH OF 420 POSITIONS. The Control Total fields are each 15 positions in length.

.02 The End of Payer "C" Record is a summary record for a type of return for a given payer.

.03 The "C" Record will contain the total number of payees and the totals of the payment amount fields filed by a given payer. The "C" Record must be written after the last Payee "B" Record for each type of return for a given payer. For each "A" Record and group of "B" Records on the file, there must be a corresponding "C" Record.

.04 In developing the "C" Record, for example, if you used Amount Codes 1, 3 and 6 in the "A" Record, the totals from the "B" Records will appear in Control Totals 1, 3 and 6 of the "C" Record. In this example, positions 26–40, 56–85, and 101–145 would be zero filled. Positions 146–420 would be blank filled.

.05 Payers/Transmitters must verify the accuracy of the totals in the "C" Record and must enter the totals on the transmittal, Form 4804, 4802 or computer generated substitute, which will accompany the shipment. The lines used on Forms 4804 and 4802 to record payment amounts correspond with the Amount Codes used in the "A" Record.

.03 The "K" Record will contain the total number of payees and the totals of the payment amount fields filed by a given payer for a given state. The "K" Record(s) must be written after the "C" Record for the related "A" Record.

.04 In developing the "K" Record, for example, if you used Amount Codes 1, 3 and 6 in the "A" Record, the totals from the "B" Records coded for this state will appear in Control Totals 1, 3 and 6 of the "K" Record.

.05 There MUST be a separate "K" Record for each state being reported.

.06 Refer to Part A, Sec. 12 for the requirements and conditions that MUST be met to file on this program.

EE-184-86

AGENCY: Internal Revenue Service, Treasury.

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking.

SUMMARY: This document contains proposed regulations relating to the requirement for continued accruals beyond normal retirement age under employee pension benefit plans. Changes to the applicable tax law were made by the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986. These regulations will provide the public with guidance needed to comply with the minimum participation and vesting standards and affect employers maintaining employee retirement plans.

DATES: Written comments and request for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed by June 10, 1988. These amendments generally apply to plan years beginning after December 31, 1987, except as otherwise specified in the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986.

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests for a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T (EE-184-86) Washington, D.C. 20224.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

This document contains proposed amendments to the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1) under sections 410 and 411 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. These amendments are proposed to conform the regulations to sections 9201 through 9204, Subtitle C (Older Americans Pension Benefits) of Title IX of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986 (Pub. L. 99-509) (OBRA 1986) (100 Stat. 1874, 1973).

EXPLANATION OF PROVISIONS

Section 9202(b)(1) of OBRA 1986 added subparagraph (H) to section 411(b)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code (Code) to provide rules for continued benefit accruals under defined benefit plans without regard to the attainment of any age. Section 9202(b)(2) of OBRA 1986 redesignated paragraphs (2) and (3) of Code section 411(b) as paragraphs (3) and (4) and added a new paragraph (2) to Code section 411(b) to provide rules for allocations to the accounts of employees in defined contribution plans without regard to the attainment of any age.

Effective with respect to plan years beginning after December 31, 1987, section 411(b)(1)(H)(i) provides the general rule that a defined benefit plan will not be treated as meeting the minimum vesting standards of section 411 (and, accordingly, will not constitute a qualified plan under section 401(a)) if under the plan an employee's benefit accrual is ceased, or the rate of an employee's benefit accrual is reduced, because of the attainment of any age. Effective for plan years beginning after December 31, 1987, section 411(b)(2) provides that a defined contribution plan will not be treated as satisfying the minimum vesting standards of section 411 (and, accordingly, will not constitute a qualified plan under section 401(a)) if allocations to an employee's account are ceased, or the rate of allocations to an employee's account is reduced, because of the attainment of any age.

The proposed regulations provide that reductions or cessations of account allocations or benefit accruals that are based on factors other than age will not affect the qualification of the plan under section 411(b)(1)(H) or (b)(2). The proposed regulations also provide that benefits under a defined benefit plan may accrue at different rates without violating section 411(b)(1)(H), provided the difference in the rate of benefit accrual is determined without regard to the attainment of any age.

Section 411(b)(1)(H)(ii) provides that a plan will not be treated as failing to satisfy the general rule in section 411(b)(1)(H)(i) merely because the plan contains a limitation (determined without regard to age) on the maximum number of years of service or participation that are taken into account in determining benefits under the plan or merely because the plan contains a limitation on the amount of benefits an employee will receive under the plan. The proposed regulations provide that these limitations are permitted in both defined benefit plans and defined contribution plans (including target benefit plans).

Section 411(b)(1)(H)(iii) provides that, with respect to a employee who, as of the end of a plan year, has attained normal retirement age under a defined benefit plan, certain adjustments may be made to the benefit accrual for the plan year if the plan distributes benefits to the employee or if the plan adjusts the amount of the benefits payable to take into account delayed payment. The continued benefit accrual rules of section 411(b)(1)(H) operate in conjunction with the suspension of benefit payment rules under section 203(a)(3)(B) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA) and the proposed regulations do not change the rules relating to the suspension of pension benefit payments under section 203(a)(3)(B) of ERISA and the regulations thereunder issued by the Department of Labor. However, the proposed regulations provide rules under which benefit accruals required under section 411(b)(1)(H)(i) may be reduced or offset either by the value of actuarial adjustments in an employee's normal retirement benefit or by the value of benefit distributions made to an employee.

Section 411(b)(1)(H)(iv) provides that a defined benefit plan will not be treated as failing to satisfy the general rule of section 411(b)(1)(H)(i) merely because the subsidized portion of an early retirement benefit provided under the plan (whether provided on a permanent or temporary basis) is disregarded in determining benefit accruals under the plan. The proposed regulations also provide that a plan will not be treated as failing to satisfy the general rule of section 411(b)(1)(H)(i) merely because a social security supplemental benefit or a qualified disability benefit is disregarded in determining benefit accruals under the plan.

The proposed regulations provide that the rate of an employee's benefit accrual under a defined benefit plan or the rate of allocations to an employee's account under a defined contribution plan will be considered to be reduced on account of the attainment of a specified age if optional forms of benefits, ancillary benefits or other benefits, rights or features under a plan that are provided with respect to benefits or allocations prior to such age are not provided (on terms that are at least as favorable to employees) with respect to benefits or allocations after such age. Thus, for example, under the proposed regulations, a plan may not make a lump sum option available only with respect to benefits or allocations attributable to service prior to a specified age. Similarly, a plan may not use actuarial assumptions that are less favorable to employees for determining lump sum benefits payable after a specified age than are used for determining lump sum benefits payable prior to such age. However, the proposed regulations provide that the accrual rate under a defined benefit plan will not be considered to be reduced merely because the subsidized portion of an early retirement benefit, a qualified disability benefit or a social security supplemental benefit provided under the plan ceases to be provided to an employee or is provided on a reduced basis to an employee by a plan on account of the employee's attainment of a specified age.

Section 411(b)(1)(H)(v) and (b)(2)(D) provide that the Secretary shall prescribe regulations coordinating the requirements of section 411(b)(1)(H) and (b)(2) with the requirements of sections 411(a), 404, 410, 415 and the anti-discrimination provisions of subchapter D of Chapter 1 (Code sections 401 through 425). The proposed regulations provide that no allocation to the account of an employee in a defined contribution plan and no benefit accrual on behalf of an employee in a defined benefit plan are required under section 411(b)(1)(H) or (b)(2) if such allocation or benefit accrual would cause the plan to (1) exceed the section 415 limitations on benefits and contributions, or (2) discriminate in favor of highly compensated employees within the meaning of section 401(a)(4).

Section 9203(a)(2) of OBRA 1986 amended Code section 410(a)(2) to provide that a plan will not constitute a qualified plan under section 401(a) if the plan excludes from participation (on the basis of age) an employee who has attained a specified age. The proposed regulations provide that, effective for plan years beginning after December 31, 1987, a plan may not apply a maximum age provision to any employee who has at least one hour of service for the employer on or after January 1, 1988, regardless of when the employee first performed an hour of service for the employer.

In the case of an employee who was ineligible to participate in a plan before the effective date of amended Code section 410(a)(2) because of a maximum age condition and who is eligible to participate in the plan on or after the effective date of such section, hours of service and years of service credited to the employee before the first plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988, shall be taken into account in accordance with section 411 and the regulations thereunder and in accordance with 29 CFR Part 2530 for purposes of determining the employee's nonforfeitable right to the employee's accrued benefit. However, with respect to an employee described in the preceding sentence, hours of service and years of service credited to the employee before the first plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988, are not required to be taken into account for purposes of determining the employee's accrued benefit under the plan for plan years beginning on or after January 1, 1988. See, also, section 411(a)(4) and §1.411(a)-5 for rules relating to service that must be taken into account in determining an employee's nonforfeitable right to the employee's accrued benefit.

Section 9203(b)(2) of OBRA 1986 amended Code section 411(a)(8)(B) to provide rules relating to the determination of a participant's normal retirement age under a defined benefit plan and a defined contribution plan. Because section 203(e) of the pending Technical Corrections Act of 1987 (H.R. 2636) would change the definition of normal retirement age from the definition now set forth in section 411(a)(8)(B) (as amended by OBRA 1986), the proposed regulations do not set forth any rules under section 411(a)(8)(B) (as amended by OBRA 1986).

Section 9202(b) of OBRA 1986 amended Code section 411(b)(2)(C) to require the Secretary to provide by regulations for the application of the continued allocation rules of section 411(b)(2) to target benefit plans. The proposed regulations do not provide detailed special rules applicable to target benefit plans. Target benefit plans are subject to the rules applicable to defined contribution plans. The Commissioner will prescribe such additional rules relating to the continued allocation of contributions and accrual of benefits under target benefit plans as may be necessary or appropriate.

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section 9204(a)(1) of OBRA 1986 provides that the amendments made with regard to section 411(b)(1)(H) and (b)(2) "shall apply only with respect to plan years beginning on or after January 1, 1988, and only to employees who have 1 hour of service in any plan year to which such amendments apply." The proposed regulations provide that section 411(b)(1)(H) and (b)(2) does not apply to an employee who does not have at least 1 hour of service for the employer in a plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988.

However, the proposed regulations provide that section 411(b)(1)(H) and (b)(2) applies with respect to all years of service completed by an employee who has at least 1 hour of service in a plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988. Accordingly, under section 411(b)(1)(H)(i), the proposed regulations provide that, for plan years beginning on or after January 1, 1988, in determining the benefit payable under a defined benefit plan to a participant who has at least 1 hour of service in a plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988, the plan does not satisfy section 411(a) if the plan disregards, because of the participant's attainment of any age, any year of service completed by the participant or any compensation earned by the participant after attaining such age, including years of service completed and compensation earned before the first plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988. Under the proposed regulations, section 411(b)(2) does not require allocations to the accounts of employees under a defined contribution plan for any plan year beginning before January 1, 1988. However, the proposed regulations provide that, for plan years beginning on or after January 1, 1988, in determining the allocation to the account of a participant (who has at least 1 hour of service in a plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988) under a defined contribution plan that determines allocations under a service related allocation formula, the plan does not satisfy section 411(a) if the plan disregards, because of the participant's attainment of any age, any year of service completed by the participant.

Under the proposed regulations, a defined benefit plan and a defined contribution plan will not be treated as impermissibly disregarding, because of the participant's attainment of any age, a year of service completed by the participant before the first plan year beginning before January 1, 1988, merely because the participant was not eligible under the plan to make mandatory or voluntary employee contributions (as well as contributions under a cash or deferred arrangment described in section 401(k)) for such year.

TITLE I OF ERISA AND OBRA 1986

Under section 101 of Reorganization Plan No. 4 of 1978 (43 FR 47713), the Secretary of the Treasury has jurisdiction over the subject matter addressed in the OBRA 1986 regulations. Therefore, under section 104 of the Reorganization Plan, these regulations apply when the Secretary of Labor exercises authority under Title I of ERISA (as amended, including the amendments made by Title IX of OBRA 1986 and the amendments by the Tax Reform Act of 1986). Thus, the requirements also apply to employee plans subject to Part 2 of Title I of ERISA.

Under section 9201 of OBRA 1986, these regulations also apply for purposes of applying comparable provisions under section 4(i)(7) of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 (29 U.S.C. 623) as amended. No inference is intended under the proposed regulations as to the application of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, as in effect prior to its amendment by OBRA 1986, to employees who are not credited with at least 1 hour of service in a plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988.

RELIANCE ON THESE PROPOSED REGULATIONS

Taxpayers may rely on these proposed regulations for guidance pending the issuance of final regulations. Because these regulations are generally effective for plan years beginning after 1987, the Service will apply these proposed regulations in issuing rulings and in examining returns with respect to taxpayers and plans. If future guidance is more restrictive, such guidance will be applied without retroactive effect.

TIME OF PLAN AMENDMENTS

The proposed regulations provide rules relating to the postponement of the deadline for amending plans to comply with the provisions of OBRA 1986. Plan amendments required to conform the plan to the changes contained in OBRA 1986 need not be made until the dates specified in section 1140 of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 (in general, the last day of the first plan year commencing on or after January 1, 1989). This deferred amendment date is available only if: (1) the plan is operated in accordance with the applicable provisions of OBRA 1986 for the period beginning with the effective date of the provision with respect to the plan; (2) the plan amendments adopted are retroactive to such effective date; and (3) the plan amendments adopted are consistent with plan operation during the retroactive effective period.

SPECIAL ANALYSES

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291 and that a regulatory impact analysis is not required.

Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking which solicits public comments, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. Chapter 6).

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Proposed amendments to the regulations

The proposed amendments to 26 CFR Part 1 are as follows:

INCOME TAX REGULATIONS

(26 CFR Part 1)

Paragraph 1. The authority citation for Part 1 is amended by adding the following citation:

Authority: 26 U.S.C. 7805  Section 1.411(b)-2 is also issued under 26 U.S.C. 411(b)(1)(H) and 411(b)(2).

Par. 2. A new §1.410(a)-4A is added immediately after §1.410(a)-4 to read as follows:

§1.410(a)-4A Maximum age conditions after 1987.

(a) Maximum age conditions. Under section 410(a)(2), a plan is not a qualified plan (and a trust forming a part of such plan is not a qualified trust) if the plan, either directly or indirectly, excludes any employee from participation on the basis of attaining a maximum age.

(b) Effective date and transitional rule. If a plan contains a provision that excludes an employee from participation on the basis of attaining a maximum age, the provision may not be applied in a plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988, to any employee (regardless of when the employee first performed an hour of service for the employer) who is credited with at least 1 hour of service on or after January 1, 1988. For purposes of determining when such an employee (who is not otherwise ineligible to participate in the plan) must become eligible to participate in the plan under section 410(a)(1)(A)(ii), section 410(a)(1)(B) and the provisions of the plan, hours of service and years of service credited to the employee before the first plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988, are taken into account in accordance with section 410 and the regulations thereunder and in accordance with 29 CFR Part 2530. Any employee who would be eligible to participate in the plan taking such service into account and whose entry date would be prior to the first day of the first plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988, must participate in the plan as of the first day of such plan year.

(c) Examples. The provisions of this section may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). Employer X maintains a defined benefit plan that uses a 12-month period beginning July 1 and ending June 30 as its plan year and that specifies a normal retirement age of 65. The plan provides that each employee of X is eligible to become a participant in the plan on the first entry date on or after the employee completes 1 year of service for X. The plan has 2 entry dates, July 1 and January 1. However, prior to the plan year beginning July 1, 1988, the plan contained a provision that excluded from participation any employee first hired within 5 years of attaining the plan's specified normal retirement age of 65. Employee A was hired by X on August 1, 1986 at age 62. A completes 1 year of service for X by August 1, 1987. If A performs at least one hour of service for X on or after January 1, 1988, the plan, in order to meet the requirements of section 410(a)(2), may not apply the maximum age provision to A on or after July 1, 1988, and A must be eligible to become a participant in the plan in accordance with the other eligibility rules contained in the plan, taking into account A's service with X performed prior to July 1, 1988 to the extent required under the terms of the plan or under section 410 and the regulations thereunder and under regulations in 29 CFR Part 2530. Accordingly, if A is still employed by X on July 1, 1988, A must become a participant in the plan on that date.

Example (2). Employer X maintains a defined benefit plan that uses the calendar year as its plan year and that specifies a normal retirement age of 65. Employee B is first hired by Y in 1988 when B is age 60. In order for the plan to meet the requirements of section 410(a)(2), B may not be excluded from plan participation on the basis of B having attained a specified age.

Par. 3. Section 1.411(a)-1 is amended by revising paragraph (a)(3) to read as follows:

§1.411(a)-1 Minimum vesting standards; general rules.

(a) In general. ***

(3) The plan satisfies the requirements of—

(A) Section 411(a)(2) and §1.411(a)-3 (relating to vesting in accrued benefit derived from employer contributions),

(B) In the case of a defined benefit plan, section 411(b)(1) and (3) (see §§1.411(b)-1 and 1.411(b)-2, relating to accrued benefit requirements, separate accounting and accruals and allocations after a specified age), and

(C) In the case of a defined contribution plan, section 411(b)(2) and (3) (see §§1.411(b)-1(e)(2) and 1.411(b)-2, relating to accruals and allocations after a specified age and separate accounting).

* * * * *

Par. 4. Section 1.411(a)-7 is amended by adding a new subparagragh (b)(3) to read as follows:

§1.411(a)-7 Definitions and special rules.

* * * * *

(b) Normal retirement age.

(3) Effect of Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986 (OBRA). [RESERVED]

* * * * *

Par. 5. A new section 1.411(b)-2 is added after §1.411(b)-1 to read as follows:

§1.411(b)-2 Accruals and allocations after a specified age.

(a) In general. Section 411(b)(1)(H) provides that a defined benefit plan does not satisfy the minimum vesting standards of section 411(a) if, under the plan, benefit accruals on behalf of a participant are discontinued or the rate of benefit accrual on behalf of a participant is reduced because of the participant's attainment of any age. Section 411(b)(2) provides that a defined contribution plan does not satisfy the minimum vesting standards of section 411(a) if, under the plan, allocations to a participant's account are reduced or discontinued or the rate of allocations to a participant's account is reduced because of the participant's attainment of any age. A defined benefit plan is not considered to discontinue benefit accruals or reduce the rate of benefit accrual on behalf of a participant because of the attainment of any age in violation of section 411(b)(1)(H) and a defined contribution plan is not considered to reduce or discontinue allocations to a particpant's account or reduce the rate of allocations to a participant's account because of the attainment of any age in violation of section 411(b)(2) solely because of a positive correlation between increased age and a reduction or discontinuance in benefit accruals or account allocations under a plan. Thus, for example, if a defined benefit plan or a defined contribution plan provides for reduced or discontinued benefit accruals or account allocations on behalf of participants who have completed a specified number of years of credited service, the plan will not thereby fail to satisfy section 411(b)(1)(H) or (b)(2) solely because of a positive correlation between increased age and completion of the specified number of years of credited service. See paragraph (b)(2) of this section for rules relating to benefit and service limitations under defined benefit plans and paragraph (c)(2) of this section for rules relating to limitations on allocations under defined contribution plans. Also, if benefit accruals or the rate of benefit accrual on behalf of a participant in a defined benefit plan or allocations or the rate of allocations to the account of a particpant in a defined contribution plan are reduced or discontinued under the plan and the reason for the reduction or discontinuance is neither directly nor indirectly related to the participant's attainment of a specified age, the plan does not thereby fail to satisfy the requirements of section 411(b)(1)(H) or (b)(2). Thus, for example, if a defined benefit plan is amended to cease or reduce the rate of benefit accrual for all plan participants, such cessation or reduction does not fail to saisfy the requirements of section 411(b)(1)(H).

(b) Defined benefit plans—(1) In general. (i) A defined benefit plan does not satisfy the minimum vesting standards of section 411(a) if, either directly or indirectly, because of the attainment of any age—

(A) A participant's accrual of benefits is discontinued or the rate of a participant's accrual of benefits is decreased, or

(B) A participant's compensation after the attainment of such age is not taken into account in determining the participant's accrual of benefits.

(ii) In determining whether a defined benefit plan satisfies paragraph (b)(1)(i) of this section, the subsidized portion of an early retirement benefit (whether provided on a temporary or permanent basis), a social security supplement (as defined in §1.411(a)-7(c)(4)(ii)) and a qualified disability benefit (as defined in §1.411(a)-7(c)(3)) are disregarded in determining the rate of a participant's accrual of benefits under the plan.

(iii) The provisions of paragraph (b)(1)(i) of this section may be illustrated by the following example. In the example, assume that the participant completes the hours of service in a plan year required under the plan to accrue a full benefit for the plan year.

Example. Employer X maintains a defined benefit plan that provides a normal retirement benefit of 1% of a participant's average annual compensation, multiplied by the participant's years of credited service under the plan. Normal retirement age under the plan is age 65. The plan contains no limitations (other than the limitations imposed by section 415) on the maximum amount of benefits the plan will pay to any participant or on the maximum number of years of credited service taken into account under the plan for purposes of determining the amount of any participant's normal retirement benefit. Participant A became a participant in the plan at age 25 and worked continuously for X until A retires at age 70. The plan will satisfy the requirements of section 411(b)(1)(H) and paragraph (b)(2) of this section if, under the plan's benefit formula, upon A's retirement, A has an accrued normal retirement benefit of at least 45% of A's average annual compensation (1% per year × 45 years).

(2) Benefit and service limitations—(i) In general. A defined benefit plan does not fail to satisfy section 411(b)(1)(H) and paragraph (b) of this section solely because the plan limits the amount of benefits a participant may accrue under the plan or limits the number of years of service or years of participation taken into account for purposes of determining the accrual of benefits under the plan (credited service). For this purpose, a limitation that is expressed as a percentage of compensation (whether averaged over a participant's total years of credited service for the employer or over a shorter period) and a limitation of the type described in section 401(a)(5)(D) are treated as permissible limitations on the amount of benefits a participant may accrue under the plan. However, in applying a limitation on the number of years of credited service that are taken into account under a plan, the plan may not take into account any year of service that is disregarded in determining the accrual of benefits under the plan (prior to the effective date of section 411(b)(1)(H) and this section) because of the attainment of any age.

(ii) Limitation not based on age. Any limitation on the amount of benefits a participant may accrue under the plan and any limitation on the number of years of credited service taken into account under the plan may not be based, directly or indirectly, on the attainment of any age. A limitation that is determined by reference to age or that is not determinable except by reference to age is considered a limitation directly based on age. Thus, a plan provision that, for purposes of benefit accrual, disregards years of service completed after a participant becomes eligible to receive social security benefits is considered a limitation directly based on age. Similarly, a plan provision that, for purposes of benefit accrual, disregards years of service completed after the sum of a participant's age and the participant's number of years of credited service equals a specified number, is considered a limitation directly based on age. Whether a limitation is indirectly based on age is determined with reference to all the facts and circumstances.

(iii) Examples. The provisions of paragraph (b)(2) of this section may be illustrated by the following examples. In each example, assume that the participant completes the hours of service in a plan year required under the plan to accrue a full benefit for the plan year.

Example (1). Assume the same facts as in the Example set forth in paragraph (b)(1)(ii) of this section, except that the plan provides that not more than 35 years of credited service will be taken into account in determining a participant's normal retirement benefit under the plan. Upon A's retirement at age 70, A will have a normal retirement benefit under the plan's benefit formula of 35% of A's average annual compensation (1% per year × 35 years). The plan will not fail to satisfy the requirements of section 411(b)(1)(H) and this paragraph (b) merely because the plan provides that the final 10 years of A's service under the plan is not taken into account in determining A's normal retirement benefit. The result would be the same if the plan provided that no participant could accrue a normal retirement benefit in excess of 35% of the participant's average annual compensation.

Example (2). Employer Y maintains a defined benefit plan that provides a normal retirement benefit of 50% of a participant's final average compensation. Normal retirement age under the plan is age 65. Other than the limitations imposed by section 415, the plan contains no provision that limits the accrual of the benefit payable to a participant who has less than a specified number of years of credited service for Y. Participant A is hired by Y at age 66 and commences participation in the plan at age 67. Under the plan's benefit formula, if A completes one year of credited service under the plan, A will be entitled to receive (subject to the limitations of section 415) a normal retirement benefit equal to 50% of A's final average compensation.

(3) Different rates of benefit accrual—(i) In general. A defined benefit plan does not fail to satisfy the requirements of section 411(b)(1)(H) and paragraph (b) of this section solely because the plan provides for the accrual of benefits at different rates with respect to participants under the plan. Accordingly, a plan under which a participant's accrued benefit is determined in accordance with the fractional rule described in section 411(b)(1)(C) and §1.411(b)-1 (b)(3) will not fail to satisfy the requirements of section 411(b)(1)(H) and paragraph (b) of this section solely because the rate at which a participant's normal retirement benefit accrues differs depending on the number of years of credited service a participant would have between the date of commencement of participation and the attainment of normal retirement age. In addition, a plan will not be treated as failing to satisfy section 411(b)(1)(H) and paragraph (b) of this section solely because the plan's benefit formula provides, on a uniform and consistent basis, a normal retirement benefit equal to, for example, 2% of average annual compensation multiplied by a participant's first 15 years of credited service and 1% of average annual compensation multiplied by a participant's years of credited service in excess of 15 years. The preceding sentence applies regardless of when the participant's normal retirement age occurs.

(ii) Differences not based on age. Any differences in the rate of benefit accrual described in paragraph (b)(3)(i) of this section may not be based, directly or indirectly, on the attainment of any age.

(4) Certain adjustments for delayed retirement—(i) In general. Under section 411(b)(1)(H)(iii), a plan may provide that benefit accruals that would otherwise be required under section 411(b)(1)(H)(i) and paragraph (b) of this section for a plan year are reduced (but not below zero) as set forth in paragraph (b)(4)(ii) and (iii) of this section. This paragraph (b)(4) applies for a plan year to a participant who, as of the end of the plan year, has attained normal retirement age under the plan.

(ii) Distribution of benefits. (A) A plan may provide that the benefit accrual otherwise required under section 411(b)(1)(H)(i) and paragraph (b) of this section for a plan year is reduced (but not below zero) by the actuarial equivalent of total plan benefit distributions (as determined under this paragraph (b)(4)(ii)) made to the participant by the close of the plan year.

(B) The plan benefit distributions described in this paragraph (b)(4)(ii) are limited to distributions made to the participant during plan years and periods with respect to which section 411(b)(1)(H)(i) and this section apply (including plan years and periods beginning before January 1, 1988) for which the plan could (without regard to section 401(a)(9) and the regulations thereunder) provide for the suspension of the participant's plan benefits in accordance with section 203(a)(3)(B) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA) and regulations issued thereunder by the Department of Labor.

(C) For purposes of determining the total amount of plan benefit distributions that may be taken into account under this paragraph (b)(4)(ii) as of the close of a plan year, distributions shall be disregarded to the extent the total amount of distributions made to the participant by the close of the plan year exceeds the total amount of the distributions the participant would have received by the close of the plan year if the distributions had been made in accordance with the plan's normal form of benefit distribution. Accordingly, the plan is required to accrue a benefit for the plan year on behalf of a participant in accordance with the plan's benefit formula, taking into account all of the participant's years of credited service, reduced (but not below the participant's normal retirement benefit for the prior plan year) by the actuarial equivalent of total benefit distibutions (taken into account under this paragraph (b)(4)(ii)) made to the participant by the close of the plan year. If, by the close of the plan year, the actuarial equivalent of total plan benefit distributions made to the participant and taken into account under this paragraph (b)(4)(ii) is greater than the total benefit accruals required under section 411(b)(1)(H)(i) and paragraph (b) of this section for the plan years during which such distributions were made, the plan is not required under section 411(b)(1)(H)(i) and paragraph (b) of this section to accrue any benefit on behalf of the participant for the plan year.

(iii) Adjustment in benefits payable. (A) A plan may provide that the benefit accrual otherwise required under section 411(b)(1)(H)(i) and paragraph (b) of this section for the plan year is reduced (but not below zero) by the amount of any actuarial adjustment under the plan in the benefit payable for the plan year with respect to the participant because of a delay in the payment of plan benefits after the participant's attainment of normal retirement age.

(B) For purposes of subdivision (iii)(A), the actuarial adjustment may be taken into account for a plan year only to the extent it is made to the greater of (1) the participant's retirement benefit as of the close of the prior plan year, including any actuarial adjustment made under the plan for the prior plan year, and (2) the participant's normal retirement benefit as of the close of the prior plan year determined by including benefit accruals required by section 411(b)(1)(H)(i) and paragraph (b) of this section. If the retirement benefit, as actuarially adjusted for the plan year in accordance with this paragraph (b)(4)(iii) for delayed payment, exceeds the normal retirement benefit, as determined by including benefit accruals required for the plan year by section 411(b)(1)(H)(i) and paragraph (b) of this section, the plan shall be required to provide the retirement benefit, as actuarially adjusted in acordance with this paragraph (b)(4)(iii) under the plan. Notwithstanding the provisions of this subdivision (iii)(B), in the case of a plan that suspends benefit payments in accordance with section 203(a)(3)(B) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 and the regulations issued thereunder by the Department of Labor, the plan does not fail to satisfy the requirements of section 411(b)(1)(H) and paragraph (b) of this section solely because the plan provides that the retirement benefit to which a participant is entitled as of the close of a plan year ending after the participant attains normal retirement age under the plan is the greater of (1) the benefit payable at normal retirement age (not including benefit accruals otherwise required by section 411(b)(1)(H) and paragraph (b) of this section) actuarially adjusted under the plan to the close of the plan year for delayed payment, and (2) the retirement benefit determined under the plan as of the close of the plan year determined by including benefit accruals required by section 411(b)(1)(H) and paragraph (b) of this section and determined without regard to any offset that would otherwise be applicable under this paragraph (b)(4)(iii).

(iv) Examples. The provisions of paragraph (b)(4) of this section may be illustrated by the following examples. In each example, assume that the participant completes the hours of service in a plan year required under the plan to accrue a full benefit for the plan year and assume that the participant is not married unless otherwise specified.

Example (1). Employer Y maintains a defined benefit plan that provides a normal retirement benefit of $20 per month multiplied by the participant's years of credited service. The plan contains no limit on the number of years of credited service taken into account for purposes of determining the normal retirement benefit provided by the plan. Participant A attains normal retirement age of 65 and continues in the full time service of Y. At age 65, A has 30 years of credited service under the plan and could receive a normal retirement benefit of $600 per month ($20 × 30 years) if A retires. The plan provides for the suspension of A's normal retirement benefit (in accordance with section 203(a)(3)(B) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA) and regulations thereunder issued by the Department of Labor) during the period of A's continued employment with Y. Accordingly, the plan does not provide for an actuarial adjustment of A's normal retirement benefit because of delayed payment and the plan does not pay A's normal retirement benefit while A remains in the full time service of Y. If A retires at age 67, after completing two additional years of credited service for Y, A must receive additional accruals for the two years of credited service completed after attaining normal retirement age in order for the plan to satisfy section 411(b)(1)(H)(i). Accordingly, A is entitled to receive a normal retirement benefit of $640 per month ($20 × 32 years).

Example (2). Assume the same facts as in Example (1), except that the plan provides that at the time A's normal retirement benefit becomes payable, the amount of A's normal retirement benefit (determined as of A's normal retirement age and each year thereafter) will be actuarially increased for delayed retirement. The plan offsets this actuarial increase against benefit accruals in plan years ending after A's attainment of normal retirement age, as permitted by paragraph (b)(4)(iii) of this section. Accordingly, the plan does not provide for the suspension of normal retirement benefits (in accordance with section 203(a)(3)(B) of ERISA and regulations thereunder issued by the Department of Labor). Under section 411(b)(1)(H), the plan must provide A with a benefit of at least $620 per month after A completes 31 years of credited service for Y. However, under paragraph (b)(4)(iii) of this section, the plan is not required to provide A with a benefit accrual for A's additional year of credited service for Y because, under the plan, A will be entitled to receive, upon retirement at age 66 after completing 1 additional year of credited service for Y, an actuarially increased benefit of $672 per month. This monthly benefit of $672 is the greater of A's normal retirement benefit at normal retirement age ($20 × 30 years = $600) actuarially adjusted for delayed payment and A's normal retirement benefit ($20 × 31 years = $620) determined by taking into account A's year of credited service after attaining normal retirement age. Under the plan, A will be entitled to receive, upon retirement at age 67 after completing 2 additional years of credited service for Y after attaining normal retirement age, an actuarially increased benefit of $756 per month. This monthly benefit of $756 is the greater of A's actuarially adjusted normal retirement benefit at age 66 ($672) actuarially adjusted to $756 for delayed payment to age 67 and A's normal retirement benefit ($20 × 32 years = $640) determined by taking into account A's years of credited service after attaining normal retirement age.

Example (3). Assume the same facts as in Example (1), except that the plan neither provides for the suspension of normal retirement benefit payments (in accordance with section 203(a)(3)(B) of ERISA and regulations thereunder issued by the Department of Labor) nor provides for an actuarial increase in benefit payments because of delayed payment of benefits. Consequently, the plan provides that the normal retirement benefit will be paid to a participant, beginning at age 65 (normal retirement age) even though the participant remains in the service of Y and offsets the value of the benefit distributions against benefit accruals in plan years ending after the participant's attainment of normal retirement age, as permitted by paragraph (b)(4)(ii) of this section. Participant B (who remains in the full time service of Y) receives 12 monthly benefit payments prior to attainment of age 66. The total monthly benefit payments of $7,200 ($600 × 12 payments) have an actuarial value at age 66 of $7,559 (reflecting interest and mortality) which would produce a monthly benefit of $72 commencing at age 66. The benefit accrual for the year of credited service B completed after attaining normal retirement age is $20 per month ($20 × 1 year). Because the actuarial value (determined as a monthly benefit of $72) of the benefit payments made during the one year of credited service after B's attainment of normal retirement age exceeds the benefit accrual for the one year of credited service after B's attainment of normal retirement age, the plan is not required to accrue benefits on behalf of B for the one year of credited service after B's attainment of normal retirement age and the plan is not required to increase B's monthly benefit payment of $600 at age 66. Assume B receives 24 monthly benefit payments prior to B's retirement at age 67. The total monthly benefit payments of $14,400 ($600 × 24 payments) have an actuarial value at age 67 of $15,839 (reflecting interest and mortality) which would produce a monthly benefit payment of $156 commencing at age 67. The benefit accrual for the two years of credited service B completed after attaining normal retirement age is $40 per month ($20 × 2 years). Because the actuarial value (determined as a monthly benefit of $156) of the benefit payments made during the two years of credited service after B's normal retirement age exceeds the benefit accrual for the two years of credited service after B's normal retirement age ($20 × 2 years = $40), the plan is not required to accrue benefits on behalf of B for the second year of credited service B completed after attaining normal retirement age and the plan is not required to increase B's monthly benefit payment of $600.

Example (4). Assume that Employer Z maintains a defined benefit plan that provides a normal retirement benefit of 2% of the average of a participant's high three consecutive years of compensation multiplied by the participant's years of credited service under the plan. The plan contains no limit on the number of years of credited service taken into account for purposes of determining the normal retirement benefit provided by the plan. Participant C, who has attained normal retirement age (age 65) under the plan, continues in the full time service of Z. At normal retirement age, C has average compensation of $20,000 for C's high three consecutive years and has 10 years of credited service under the plan. Thus, at normal retirement age, C is entitled to receive an annual normal retirement benefit of $4,000 ($20,000 × .01 × 10 years). Assume further that the plan provides for the suspension of N's normal retirement benefit (in accordance with section 203(a)(3)(B) of ERISA and regulations issued thereunder by the Department of Labor) during the period of C's continued employment with Z. Accordingly, the plan does not provide for the actuarial increase of C's normal retirement benefit because of delayed payment and the plan does not pay C's normal retirement benefit while C remains in the full time service of Z. At age 70, when C retires, C has average annual compensation for C's high three consecutive years of $35,000. Under section 411(b)(1)(H), C must be credited with 15 years of credited service for Z and C's increased compensation after attaining normal retirement age must be taken into account for purposes of determining C's normal retirement benefit. At age 70, C is entitled to receive an annual normal retirement benefit of $10,500 ($35,000 × .02 × 15 years).

Example (5). Assume the same facts as in Example (4), except that the payment of C's retirement benefit is not suspended (in accordance with section 203(a)(3)(B) of ERISA and regulations issued thereunder by the Department of Labor) and, accordingly, the plan provides that retirement benefits that commence after a participant's normal retirement age will be actuarially increased for late retirement. The plan offsets this actuarial increase against benefit accruals in plan years ending after C's attainment of normal retirement age, as permitted by paragraph (b)(4)(iii) of this section. Under this provision, at the close of each plan year after C's attainment of normal retirement age, C's retirement benefit is actuarially increased. Under this provision, the actuarial increase for the plan year is made to the greater of C's normal retirement benefit at the close of the prior plan year (including previous actuarial adjustments) and C's normal retirement benefit at the close of the prior plan year determined by including all benefit accruals. Accordingly, at the close of each plan year, C is entitled to receive an annual normal retirement benefit equal to the greater of C's normal retirement benefit (adjusted actuarially under the plan from the benefit to which C was entitled at the close of the prior plan year) determined at the close of the plan year and C's normal retirement benefit determined at the close of the plan year by taking into account C's years of credited service and benefit accruals after C's attainment of normal retirement age. The foregoing is illustrated in the following table with respect to certain years of credited service performed by C after attaining normal retirement age 65.

1 Age	2 Years of credited service	3 Average compensation for high three consecutive years	4 Normal retirement benefit with additional accruals (.02 × Column 2 × Column 3)	5 Retirement benefit, as actuarially increased under the plan from the benefit at prior age (Column 6)	6 Normal retirement benefit to which C is entitled (greater of Column 4 and Column 5)
65	10	$20,000	$4,000	N/A	$4,000
66	11	$21,000	$4,620	$4,482	$4,620
67	12	$29,000	$6,960	$5,192	$6,960
68	13	$30,000	$7,800	$7,848	$7,848
69	14	$33,000	$9,240	$8,880	$9,240
70	15	$35,000	$10,500	$10,494	$10,500

Example (6). Assume the same facts as in Example (4), except that C does not retire at age 70, but continues in the full time service of Z. Upon C's attainment of age 70, the plan commences benefit payments to C. The annual benefit paid to C in the first plan year is $10,500 ($35,000 × .02 × 15 years). In determining the annual benefit payable to C in each subsequent plan year, the plan offsets the value of benefit distributions made to the participant by the close of the prior plan year against benefit accruals in plan years during which such distributions were made, as permitted by paragraph (b)(4)(ii) of this section. Accordingly, for each subsequent plan year, C is entitled under the plan to receive benefit payments based on C's benefit (at the close of the prior plan year) determined under the plan formula by taking into account all of C's years of credited service, reduced (but not below C's normal retirement benefit for the prior plan year) by the value of total benefit distributions made to C by the close of the prior plan year. The foregoing is illustrated in the following table with respect to certain years of credited service performed by C while benefits were being distributed to C.

1 Years of benefit distributions	2 Years of credited service (as of close of the year)	3 Average compensation for high three years	4 Normal retirement benefit with additional accruals (.02 × Column 2 × Column 3)	5 Suspendible benefit distributions made during the year	6 Cumulative suspendible benefit distributions made as of close of the year	7 Annual benefit that is actuerial equivalent of cumulative suspendible benefit distributions made as of close of the year	8 Retirement benefit to which C is entitled at close of the year (Column 4 – Column 7, but not less than Column 8 for prior year)
N/A	15	$35,000	$10,500	N/A	N/A	N/A	$10,500
1	16	$35,000	$11,200	$10,500	$10,500	$1,472	$10,500
2	17	$45,000	$15,300	$10,500	$21,000	$3,209	$12,091
3	18	$50,000	$18,000	$12,091	$33,091	$5,510	$12,490

(c) Defined contribution plans—(1) In general. A defined contribution plan (including a target benefit plan described in §1.410(a)–4(a)(1)) does not satisfy the minimum vesting standards of section 411(a) if, either directly or indirectly, because of the attainment of any age—

(i) The allocation of employer contributions or forfeitures to the accounts of participants is discontinued, or

(ii) The rate at which the allocation of employer contributions or forfeitures is made to the accounts of participants is decreased.

(2) Limitations on allocations.

(i) A defined contribution plan (including a target benefit plan described in §1.410(a)–4(a)(1)) does not fail to satisfy the minimum vesting standards of section 411(a) solely because the plan limits the total amount of employer contributions and forfeitures that may be allocated to a participant's account (for a particular plan year or for the participant's total years of credited service under the plan) or solely because the plan limits the total number of years of credited service for which a participant's account may receive allocations of employer contributions and forfeitures. The limitations described in the preceding sentence may not be applied with respect to the allocation of gains, losses or income of the trust to the account of a participant. Furthermore, a defined contribution plan (including a target benefit plan) does not fail to satisfy section 411(a) solely because the plan limits the number of years of credited service that may be taken into account for purposes of determining the amount of, or the rate at which, employer contributions and forfeitures are allocated to a participant's account for a particular plan year. However, in applying a credited service limitation described in this paragraph (c)(2)(i), the plan may not take into account any year of service (prior to the effective date of section 411(b)(2) and paragraph (c) of this section) that is disregarded in determining allocations to a participant's account because of the participant's attainment of any age.

(ii) Any limitation described in paragraph (c)(2)(i) of this section may not be based, directly or indirectly, on the attainment of any age. The provisions of paragraph (b)(2)(ii) of this section shall also apply for purposes of this paragraph (c).

(iii) The Commissioner shall provide such additional rules as may be necessary or appropriate with respect to the application of section 411(b)(2) and this section to target benefit plans.

(d) Benefits and forms of benefits subject to requirements—(1) General rule. Except as provided in paragraph (d)(2) of this section, section 411(b)(1)(H) and (b)(2) and paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section apply to all benefits (and forms of benefits) provided under a defined benefit plan and a defined contribution plan, including accrued benefits, benefits described in section 411(d)(6), ancillary benefits and other rights and features provided under the plan. Accordingly, except as provided in paragraph (d)(2) of this section, benefit accruals under a defined benefit plan and allocations under a defined contribution plan will be considered to be reduced on account of the attainment of a specified age if optional forms of benefits, ancillary benefits, or other rights or features under the plan provided with respect to benefits or allocations attributable to credited service prior to the attainment of such age are not provided (on at least as favorable a basis to participants) with respect to benefits or allocations attributable to credited service after such age. Thus, for example, a plan may not provide a lump sum payment only with respect to benefits attributable to years of credited service before the attainment of a specified age. Similarly, except as provided in paragraph (d)(2) of this section, if an optional form of benefit is available under the plan at a specified age, the availability of such form of benefit, or the method for determining the manner in which such benefit is paid, may not, directly or indirectly, be denied or provided on terms less favorable to participants because of the attainment of any higher age. Similarly, if the method for determining the amount or the rate of the subsidized portion of a joint and survivor annuity or the subsidized portion of a preretirement survivor annuity is less favorable with respect to participants who have attained a specified age than with respect to participants who have not attained such age, benefit accruals or account allocations under the plan will be considered to be reduced on account of the attainment of such age.

(2) Special rule for certain benefits. A plan will not fail to satisfy section 411(b)(1)(H) or paragraph (b) of this section merely because the following benefits, or the manner in which such benefits are provided under the plan, vary because of the attainment of any higher age.

(i) The subsidized portion of an early retirement benefit (whether provided on a temporary or permanent basis),

(ii) A qualified disability benefit (as defined in §1.411(a)–7(c)(3)); and

(iii) A social security supplement (as defined in §1.411(a)–7(c)(4)(ii)).

(e) Coordination with certain provisions. Notwithstanding section 411(b)(1)(H), (b)(2) and the preceding paragraphs of this section, the following rules shall apply.

(1) Section 415 limitations. No allocation to the account of a participant in a defined contribution plan (including a target benefit plan described in §1.410(a)-4(a)(1)) shall be required for a limitation year by section 411(b)(2) and no benefit accrual with respect to a participant in a defined benefit plan shall be required for a limitation year by section 411(b)(1)(H)(i) to the extent that the allocation or accrual would cause the plan to exceed the limitations of section 415 (b), (c) or (e) applicable to the participant for the limitation year.

(2) Prohibited discrimination. (i) No allocation to the account of a highly compensated employee in a defined contribution plan (including a target benefit plan) shall be required for a plan year by section 411(b)(2) to the extent the allocation would cause the plan to discriminate in favor of highly compensated employees within the meaning of section 401(a)(4).

(ii) No benefit accrual on behalf of a highly compensated employee in a defined benefit plan shall be required for a plan year by section 411(b)(1)(H)(i) to the extent such benefit accrual would cause the plan to discriminate in favor of highly compensated employees within the meaning of section 401(a)(4).

(iii) The Commissioner may provide additional rules relating to prohibited discrimination in favor of highly compensated employees.

(3) Permitted disparity. In the case of a plan that would fail to satisfy section 401(a)(4) except for the application of section 401(l), no allocation to the account of a participant in a defined contribution plan and no benefit accrual on behalf of a participant in a defined benefit plan shall be required under section 411(b)(1)(H) or (b)(2) for a plan year to the extent such allocation or accrual would cause the plan to fail to satisfy the requirements of section 401(l) and the regulations thereunder for the plan year.

(f) Effective dates—(1) Noncollectively bargained plans—(i) In general. Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (f)(2) of this section, section 411(b)(1)(H) and (b)(2) and paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section are effective for plan years beginning on or after January 1, 1988, with respect to a participant who is credited with at least 1 hour of service in a plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988. Section 411(b)(1)(H) and (b)(2) and paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section are not effective with respect to a participant who is not credited with at least 1 hour of service in a plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988.

(ii) Defined benefit plans. In the case of a participant who is credited with at least 1 hour of service in a plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988, section 411(b)(1)(H) and paragraph (b) of this section are effective with respect to all years of service completed by the participant, including years of service completed before the first plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988. Accordingly, in the case of a participant described in the preceding sentence, a defined benefit plan does not satisfy section 411(b)(1)(H) and paragraph (b) of this section for a plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988, if the plan disregards, because of the participant's attainment of any age, any year of service completed by the participant or any compensation earned by the participant after attaining such age. However, a defined benefit plan is not required under section 411(b)(1)(H) and paragraph (b) of this section to take into account for benefit accrual purposes any year of service completed before an employee becomes a participant in the plan. See paragraph (b)(2) of this section for rules relating to benefit and service limitations that may be imposed by a defined benefit plan.

(iii) Defined contribution plans. Section 411(b)(2) and paragraph (c) of this section are not applicable with respect to allocations of employer contributions or forfeitures to the accounts of participants under a defined contribution plan for a plan year beginning before January 1, 1988. However, in the case of a defined contribution plan under which allocations to the accounts of participants for a plan year are determined on the basis of an allocation formula that takes into account service or compensation for the employer during prior plan years, section 411(b)(2) and paragraph (c) of this section are effective for plan years beginning on or after January 1, 1988, with respect to all years of service completed by the participant, including years of service completed before the first plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988. Accordingly, in the case of a participant who has at least 1 hour of service in a plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988, a defined contribution plan containing an allocation formula described in the preceding sentence does not satisfy section 411(b)(2) and paragraph (c) of this section with respect to allocations for a plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988, if the plan disregards, because of the participant's attainment of any age, any year of service completed by the participant. See paragraph (c)(2) of this section for rules relating to limitations on allocations to the accounts of participants that may be imposed by a defined contribution plan.

(iv) Employee contributions. In applying paragraph (f)(1)(i), (ii) and (iii) of this section to plan years beginning on or after January 1, 1988, a year of service completed before the first plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988, will not be treated as being disregarded under a plan on account of a participant's attainment of a specified age solely because such year of service is disregarded under the plan because the participant was not eligible to make voluntary or mandatory employee contributions as well as contributions under a cash or deferred arrangement described in section 401(k)) under the plan for such year. A plan is not required to permit a participant to make voluntary or mandatory employee contributions (as well as contributions under a cash or deferred arrangement described in section 401(k) for a plan year beginning before January 1, 1988, in order to satisfy section 411(b)(1)(H) or (b)(2) or paragraphs (b) of (c) of this section for a plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1988.

(v) Hour of service. For purposes of this paragraph (f)(1), one hour service means one hour of service recognized under the plan or required to be recognized under the plan by section 410 (relating to minimum participation standards) or section 411 (relating to minimum vesting standards). In the case of a plan that does not determine service on the basis of hours of service, one hour of service means any service recognized under the plan or required to be recognized under the plan by section 410 (relating to minimum participation standards) or section 411 (relating to minimum vesting standards).

(vi) Examples. The provisions of paragraph (f)(1) of this section may be illustrated by the following examples. In each example, assume that the participant completes the hours of service in a plan year required under the plan to accrue a full benefit or receive an allocation for the plan year.

Example (1). Employer X maintains a noncontributory defined benefit plan (that is not a collectively bargained plan) that provides a normal retirement benefit equal to 1% of a participant's average annual compensation for the participant's three consecutive years of highest compensation, multiplied by the participant's years of credited service under the plan. The plan contains no limit on the number of years of credited service taken into account for purposes of determining the normal retirement benefit provided by the plan. The plan uses the calendar year as its plan year. The plan specifies a normal retirement age of 65 and provides (prior to January 1, 1988) that no compensation earned and no service performed by a participant after attainment of normal retirement age will be taken into account in determining the participant's normal retirement benefit. Participant A attains normal retirement age on December 15, 1985. A continues in the full time service of X and has at least 1 hour of service for X during the plan year beginning on January 1, 1988. As of the plan year ending December 31, 1985, A had 35 years of credited service under the plan. In accordance with the plan provisions in effect prior to January 1, 1988, A's service and compensation during the 1986 and 1987 plan years is not taken into account in determining A's normal retirement benefit for those plan years. Beginning on January 1, 1988, the plan provisions that compensation earned and years of service completed after normal retirement age are not taken into account in determining a participant's normal retirement benefit may not be applied to A. Thus, as of the plan year beginning January 1, 1988, A's normal retirement benefit under the plan must be determined without regard to those provisions. Accordingly beginning on January 1, 1988, the plan is required to take into account A's service for X and A's compensation from X during the 1986 and 1987 plan years for purposes of determining A's normal retirement benefit in order to satisfy section 411(b)(1))H) and paragraph (b) of this section.

Example (2). Assume the same facts as in Example (1), except that the plan provides that, in determining a participant's normal retirement benefit under the plan (a) not more than 35 years of credited service will be taken into account and (b) no compensation earned after 35 years of credited service have been completed will be taken into account. Accordingly, the plan is not required to take into account A's service for X or A's compensation from X during the 1986 and 1987 plan years for purposes of determining A's normal retirement benefit in order to satisfy section 411(b)(1)(H) and paragraph (b) of this section.

Example (3). Assume the same facts as in Example (1), except that A retires on December 5, 1987 and does not perform any hours of service for X after A's retirement. Accordingly, the plan is not required to take into account A's service for X and A's compensation from X during the 1986 and 1987 plan years for purposes of determining A's normal retirement benefit in order to satisfy section 411(b)(1)(H) and paragraph (b) of this section.

Example (4). Assume the same facts as in Example (1), except that the plan requires, as a condition to accruing benefits attributable to employer contributions under the plan, that a participant make employee contributions under the plan. The plan provides that a participant is not eligible to make employee contributions in a plan year beginning after the plan year in which the participant attains normal retirement age under the plan. Accordingly, A does not make employee contributions during the 1986 and 1987 plan years and, therefore, does not accrue in those plan years a benefit attributable to employer contributions. The plan is not required to take into account A's service for X and A's compensation from X during the 1986 and 1987 plan years in order to satisfy section 411(b)(1)(H) and paragraph (b) of this section. In addition, the plan is not required to permit A to make employee contributions to the plan for the 1986 and 1987 plan years in order to satisfy section 411(b)(1)(H) and paragraph (b) of this section.

Example (5). Employer Y maintains a profit-sharing plan (that is not a collectively bargained plan). The plan is the only qualified plan maintained by Y and uses the calendar year as its plan year. The formula under the plan for allocating employer contributions and forfeitures to the accounts of participants contains a year of service factor. Pursuant to the allocation formula containing the years of service factor, employer contributions and forfeitures for the plan year are allocated among the accounts of participants on the basis of one unit for each full $200 of compensation of the participant for the plan year and one unit for each year of credited service for Y completed by the participant. The plan contains no limit on the number of years of credited service taken into account for purposes of determining the allocation to the account of a participant for the plan year under the plan's allocation formula. The plan specifies a normal retirement age of 65 and provides (prior to January 1, 1988) that no service performed by a participant in a plan year beginning after attainment of normal retirement age will be taken into account in determining the allocation to the participant's account for a plan year. Participant B attains normal retirement age on December 15, 1985. B continues in the full time service of Y and has at least 1 hour of service for Y during the plan year beginning January 1, 1988. As of the plan year ending December 31, 1985, B had 35 years of credited service under the plan. In accordance with the plan provisions in effect prior to January 1, 1988, B's service during the 1986 and 1987 plan years is not taken into account in determining the allocation of employer contributions and forfeitures to B's account for the 1986 and 1987 plan years. As of the plan year beginning January 1, 1988, the plan provision that years of service in plan years beginning after attainment of normal retirement age are not taken into account in determining the allocation of employer contributions and forfeitures to the accounts of participants may not be applied to B. Thus, the allocation of employer contributions and forfeitures to B's account for the 1988 plan year must be determined under the allocation formula contained in the plan without regard to that provision. Accordingly, the plan is required to take into account B's service for Y during the 1986 and 1987 plan years for purposes of determining the allocation of employer contributions and forfeitures to B's account for the 1988 plan year in order to satisfy section 411(b)(2) and paragraph (c) of this section. However, the plan is not required to provide any additional allocation to B's account under the plan for the 1986 or 1987 plan year in order to satisfy section 411(b)(2) and paragraph (c) of this section.

Example (6). Assume the same facts as in Example (5), except that the plan provides that, in determining the allocation of employer contributions and forfeitures to the account of a participant for a plan year, not more than 35 years of credited service for Y will be taken into account. Accordingly, the plan is not required to take into account B's service for Y during the 1986 or 1987 plan years for purposes of determining the allocation of employer contributions and forfeitures to B's account for the 1988 plan year under the allocation formula contained in the plan.

(2) Collectively bargained plans. (i) In the case of a plan maintained pursuant to 1 or more collective bargaining agreements between employee representatives and 1 or more employers, ratified before March 1, 1986, section 411(b)(1)(H) and (b)(2) is effective for benefits provided under, and employees covered by, any such agreement with respect to plan years beginning on or after the later of —

(A) January 1, 1988, or

(B) The date on which the last of such collective bargaining agreements terminates (determined without regard to any extension of any such agreement occurring on or after March 1, 1986).

However, notwithstanding the preceding sentence, section 411(b)(1)(H) and (b)(2) shall be effective for benefits provided under, and employees covered by, any agreement described in this paragraph (f)(2)(i) no later than with respect to the first plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1990.

(ii) The effective date provisions of paragraph (f)(1) of this section shall apply in the same manner to plans described in paragraph (f)(2)(i) of this section, except that the effective date determined under paragraph (f)(2)(i) shall be substituted for the effective date determined under paragraph (f)(1) of this section.

(iii) In accordance with the provisions of paragraph (f)(2)(i) of this section, a plan described therein may be subject to different effective dates under section 411(b)(1)(H) and (b)(2) for employees who are covered by a collective bargaining agreement and employees who are not covered by a collective bargaining agreement.

(iv) For purposes of paragraph (f)(2)(i) of this section, the service crediting rules of paragraph (f)(1) of this section shall apply to a plan described in paragraph (f)(2)(i) of this section, except that in applying such rules the effective date determined under paragraph (f)(2)(i) of this section shall be substituted for the effective date determined under paragraph (f)(1) of this section. See paragraph (f)(1)(v) of this section for rules relating to the recognition of an hour of service.

(3) Amendments to plans. (i) Except as provided in paragraph (f)(3)(ii) of this section, plan amendments required by section 411(b)(1)(H) and (b)(2) (the applicable sections) shall not be required to be made before the first plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1989, if the following requirements are met—

(A) The plan is operated in accordance with the requirements of the applicable section for all periods before the first plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1989, for which such section is effective with respect to the plan; and

(B) Such plan amendments are adopted no later than the last day of the first plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1989, and are made effective retroactively for all periods for which the applicable section is effective with respect to the plan.

(ii) In the case of a collectively bargained plan described in paragraph (f)(2)(i) of this section that satisfies the requirements of paragraph (f)(3)(i) of this section (as modified by this subdivision (ii)), paragraph (f)(3)(i) shall be applied by substituting for "the first plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1989," the first plan year beginning on or after the later of —

(A) January 1, 1989, or

(B) The date on which the last of such collective bargaining agreements terminate (determined without regard to any extension of any such agreement occurring on or after March 1, 1986).

However, notwithstanding the preceding sentence, section 411(b)(1)(H) and (b)(2) shall be applicable to plans described in this paragraph (f)(3)(ii) no later than the first plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1990.

Par. 6. Section 1.411(c)- is amended by revising paragraph (f)(2) to read as follows:

§1.411(c)-1 Allocation of accrued benefits between employer and employee contributions.

* * * * *

(f) Suspension of benefits, etc.

(2) Employment after retirement. Except as permitted by paragraph (f)(1) of this section, a defined benefit plan must make an actuarial adjustment to an accrued benefit the payment of which is deferred past normal retirement age. See, also, section 411(b)(1)(H) (relating to continued accruals after normal retirement age) and §1.411(b)-2.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

This document contains proposed regulations relating to the requirement that certain payments must be reported to the Internal Revenue Service and that, in certain instances, 20 percent of a reportable payment must be deducted and withheld under section 3406 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (26 U.S.C. 3406). This provision was added to the Code by section 104 of the Interest and Dividend Tax Compliance Act of 1983 (Pub. L. 98-67, 97 Stat. 369, 371). These amendments are proposed to be issued under the authority contained in section 3406(a), section 6041(a), section 6042(a), (b), and (c), section 6043, section 6044(a) and (c), section 6045, section 6049(a), (b), (c), and (d), and section 6050A. The temporary regulations contained in Part 35a and proposed to be deleted (§35a.9999-3A, and parts of §35a.9999-3, §35a.9999-4T, and §35a.9999-5) will remain in effect until superseded by final regulations on this subject.

These regulations modify and expand upon the various information reporting provisions to the extent that they relate to transactions involving foreign persons. The regulations also clarify the application of backup withholding to certain reportable payments. However, these regulations do not address the application of backup withholding to reportable payments of either foreign source dividends or foreign source interest paid outside the United States or to payments made outside the United States by foreign branches of banks, brokers, and payee agents. These subjects are reserved and will be addressed in future proposed regulations.

With respect to information reporting of payments of interest by or to foreign persons, these regulations clarify the information reporting requirements applicable to foreign branches of domestic and foreign banks. Foreign branches of domestic banks generally are required to report payments of interest on deposits held by United States persons. The foreign branches, however, are not required to obtain a Form W-8 in order to treat a payee as other than a United States person; rather, they may rely on documentary evidence in their records (beyond merely a foreign address). The regulations also specify that a foreign branch of a foreign bank is subject to information reporting with respect to deposits of United States persons only if the bank is a U.S.-related person (either a controlled foreign corporation or a person with at least 50 percent effectively connected income for the preceding three years).

The regulations modify current regulations that exempt from information reporting any interest paid on deposits of foreign persons with United States branches of foreign and domestic banks. The Internal Revenue Service has determined that information concerning deposits of individual residents of Canada in United States bank accounts would be of significant use in furthering its compliance efforts. Consequently, these regulations require reporting of interest paid on those deposits to residents of Canada, which provides such information to the United States. However, such interest is not subject to backup withholding. The regulations do not require reporting of deposit interest paid to residents of any other foreign country. If at some future time the Service should determine that extension of the requirement to residents of other foreign countries is appropriate, new proposed regulations proposing such an extension would be issued. Payors may, however, report deposit interest paid to a nonresident alien who is a resident of a country other than Canada.

The regulations expand the reporting provisions of current law to require a custodian or nominee of a United States person to make an information return with respect to foreign source interest collected outside the United States on behalf of such person. However, this requirement does not extend to foreign custodians or nominees unless they are U.S.-related persons.

These regulations also change current regulations by not allowing a payor or broker to avoid the requirement to obtain a Form W-8 simply because it has withheld tax on any amount paid to a payee or a customer.

The rules under section 6042 relating to information reporting of dividends paid by foreign corporations are modified by these regulations to correspond more closely to the rules relating to information reporting of interest paid by such corporations.

These regulations also modify and clarify the information reporting provisions of section 6045 as they relate to transactions effected by foreign offices of brokers. The information reporting requirements generally parallel those applicable to foreign branches of banks. Also, these regulations would require a broker to effect a sale at a foreign office in order for the broker to be able to rely on documentary evidence (rather than a Form W-8) in determining whether a customer is a foreign person with respect to whom no information return is required. Further, the definition of documentary evidence for purposes of establishing a payee's foreign status is clarified and modified prospectively only.

These regulations also propose to change certain regulatory provisions affecting payments by and to United States persons. First, the payment of a capital gain dividend is exempt from reporting under section 6042 because it is not a dividend under section 316. Second, the list of exempt recipients under §1.6049-4(c) has been revised to exclude brokers, nominees, and custodians. Third, the requirements of a statement to the recipient of reportable payments under section 6042, 6044, and 6049 has been revised by adding to the statement the taxpayer identification number of the person filing the form, by changing the wording of the legend, and by updating the separate mailing requirement.

EFFECT OF THE TAX REFORM ACT OF 1984 ON INFORMATION REPORTING

The Tax Reform Act of 1984 amended section 6042 to provide that payments made to exempt recipients (as defined in section 6049(b)(4)) are not subject to information reporting under section 6042. Accordingly, the regulations under section 6042 will be amended to eliminate reporting on exempt recipients identified in regulations under section 6049. Because such payments of dividends are not subject to information reporting, backup withholding will not apply to such payments and dividends. Thus, payments of interest and dividends are afforded the same treatment for purposes of information reporting and backup withholding.

EFFECT OF THE TAX REFORM ACT OF 1986

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 added section 6050N to require information reporting on royalty payments according to the forms or regulations prescribed by the Secretary. The Internal Revenue Service expects to issue regulations under section 6050N. In the meantime, payors and nominees are subject to the reporting requirements under section 6050N according to the forms prescribed by the Secretary.

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 also changed the mailing requirements applicable to the delivery of statements to recipients of dividends, partronage dividends, and interest under sections 6042(c), 6044(e), and 6049(c). The Internal Revenue Service issued guidance to the public on the statement mailing requirement under new law through Notice 87-17, 1987-1 C.B. 454. These proposed rules do not further address the statement mailing requirements under new law and specifically reserve this topic. Accordingly Notice 87-17 continues to apply.

NON-APPLICABILITY OF EXECUTIVE ORDER 12291

The Commissioner has determined that these regulations are not major rules as defined in Executive Order 12291 and that a Regulatory Impact Analysis is therefore not required.

REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY ACT

Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking which solicits public comment, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. Chapter 6).

COMMENTS AND REQUEST FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commissioner of the Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the Federal Register. The collection of information requirements contained herein has been submitted to OMB for review under the Paperwork Reduction Act, and comments on them should be sent to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of OMB, Attention: Desk Officer for the Internal Revenue Service, New Executive Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20503. The Internal Revenue Service requests persons submitting comments to OMB to also send copies of the comments to the Service.

Proposed amendments to the regulations.

The proposed amendments to 26 CFR Parts 1, 31, and 35a are as follows:

PART 1—INCOME TAX REGULATIONS

Paragraph 1. The authority for Part 1 continues to read in part:

Authority: 26 U.S.C. 7805  Section 1.6042 also issued under 26 U.S.C. 6042(b). Section 1.6044 also issued under 26 U.S.C. 6044(a), (b), and (e). Section 1.6043 also issued under 26 U.S.C. 6043(a) and (b). Section 1.6045 also issued under 26 U.S.C. 6045(a). Section 1.6049 also issued under 26 U.S.C. 6049(a), (b), (c), and (d). Section 1.6050A-1 also issued under 26 U.S.C. 6050A.

Par. 2. Section 1.6041-1 is amended by adding the following new sentences at the end of paragraphs (a)(1) and (2) to read as follows:

§1.6041-1 Return of information as to payments of $600 or more.

(a) General rule. (1)  However, for purposes of section 6041, the term "interest" does not include amounts described in section 6049(b)(2)(C) or (D). For example, an amount paid to an exempt recipient under §1.6049-4 or an amount that is not considered interest under §1.6049-5 is not considered interest for purposes of section 6041. A payment described in subdivision (ii) of this paragraph, except a payment of rent or royalties, shall not include a payment of foreign source income under section 862 if the payee is a foreign person. Unless the payor has actual knowledge that a payee of an amount is a United States person, a payor may treat the payee as a foreign person if the payor receives from the payee the penalties of perjury statement as described in §1.6049-5(g).

(2) Prescribed form.  For the requirement to submit the information required by Form 1099 on magnetic media for payments after December 31, 1983, see section 6011(e) and §301.6011-2 of this chapter (Regulations on Procedure and Administration.)

* * * * *

Par. 3. Section 1.6041-3 is amended by revising paragraph (m) to read as follows:

§1.6041-3 Payments for which no return of information is required under section 6041.

* * * * *

(m) Payments made to employees (other than employees of the United States or any agency thereof) for services performed in Puerto Rico;

* * * * *

Par. 4. Section 1.6041-4 is amended by adding the following new sentence at the end of paragraph (a) to read as follows:

§1.6041-4 Returns of information as to foreign items.

(a) In general.  However, no information return shall be required by this section with respect to the collection of amounts described in section 6049(b)(2)(C) or (D), amounts described in section 6042(b)(2), or amounts exempted from reporting under section 6045 by regulation.

* * * * *

Par. 5. Section 1.6041-7 is amended by revising the section heading and adding a new last sentence to paragraph (a) to read as follows:

§1.6041-7 Magnetic media requirement.

(a) General.  For rules relating to permission to submit the information required by Form 1099 or Form W-2 on magnetic media for payments after December 31, 1983, see section 6011(e) and §301.6011-2 of this chapter (Regulations on Procedure and Administration).

* * * * *

Par. 6. Section 1.6042-2 is amended by—

1. Revising the heading of §1.6042-2,
2. Adding the introductory text of paragraph (a)(1) and revising paragraph (a)(1)(i),
3. Revising paragraph (a)(1)(ii),
4. Removing the reference to "1099M" in the first sentence of paragraph (a)(1)(iii) and adding in its place the reference to "1099",
5. Removing the reference to "1087" in the second sentence of paragraph (a)(4) and inserting "1099" in its place, and deleting the third sentence, and
6. Revising the heading of paragraph (e) and adding a new last sentence to paragraph (e).

These revised and added provisions read as follows:

§1.6042-2 Returns of information as to dividends paid.

(a) Requirement of reporting—(1) In general. An information return on Form 1099 shall be made under section 6042(a) by—

(i) Every person who makes a payment of dividends (as defined in §1.6042-3) to any other person during a calendar year. The information return shall show the aggregate amount of the dividends, the name, address, and taxpayer identification number of the person to whom paid, the amount of tax deducted and withheld under section 3406 from the dividends, if any, and such other information as required by the forms. An information return is generally not required if the amount of the dividends paid to the other person during the calendar year aggregates less than $10 or if the payment is made to a person who is an exempt recipient described in §1.6049-4(c)(1)(ii), unless the tax imposed by section 3406 is required to be withheld. In the case of any amount subject to backup withholding under section 3406, an information return shall be made unless the amount is refunded by the payor before the due date of the information return in accordance with the regulations under section 3406. For purposes of this paragraph, until such time as the Commissioner determines that it is feasible to permit aggregation of payments on two or more separate stock ownership accounts, and until this paragraph is amended accordingly to provide for reporting on an aggregate basis, the requirement for filing Form 1099 under this section will be met only if a person making payments of dividends to another person on two or more separate stock ownership accounts (regardless of whether all dividends are made on only one class of stock) files a separate Form 1099 with respect to each such stock ownership account as required by this paragraph.

(ii) Every person, except to the extent that he acts as a nominee described in paragraph (a)(1)(iii) of this section, who receives payments of dividends as a nominee on behalf of another person. The information return shall show the aggregate amount of the dividends, the name, address, and taxpayer identification number of the person on whose behalf the dividends are received, the amount of tax deducted and withheld under section 3406 from the dividends, if any, and such other information as required by the forms. An information return is generally not required if the amount of the dividends received on behalf of the other person during the calendar year aggregates less than $10 or if the payment is made to a person who is an exempt recipient described in §1.6049-4(c)(1)(ii), unless the tax imposed by section 3406 is required to be withheld. In the case of any payment of dividends subject to backup withholding under section 3406, however, an information return shall be made unless the amount is refunded by the payor in accordance with the regulations under section 3406 before the due date of the information return. However, the filing of Form 1099 is not required if—

(A) The record owner is required to file a fiduciary return on Form 1041 disclosing the name, address, and identifying number of the actual owner and furnishes Form K-1 to each actual owner containing the information required to be shown on the form, including amounts withheld under section 3406; or

(B) The record owner is a nominee of a banking institution or trust company exercising trust powers, and such banking institution or trust company is required to file a fiduciary return on Form 1041 disclosing the name, address, and identifying number of the actual owner and furnishes Form K-1 to each actual owner containing the information required to be shown on the form, including amounts withheld under section 3406; or

(C) The record owner is a banking institution or trust company exercising trust powers, or a nominee thereof, and the actual owner is an organization exempt from taxation under section 501(a) for which such banking institution or trust company files an annual return and furnishes Form K-1 to each actual owner containing the information required to be shown on the form, including amounts withheld under section 3406 but only if the name, address, and identifying number of the record owner are included on or with the Form 1041 fiduciary return filed for the estate or trust or the annual return for the tax exempt organization.

* * * * *

(e) Magnetic media requirement.  For the requirement to submit the information required by Form 1099 on magnetic media for payments after December 31, 1983, see section 6011(e) and §301.6011-2 of this chapter (Regulations on Procedure and Administration)

Par. 7. Section 1.6042-3 is amended by revising Paragraph (b) to read as follows

§1.6042-3 Dividends subject to reporting.

* * * * *

(b) Exceptions. The term "dividend" does not include—

(1) Any amount paid to a person who is not a United States person. An amount is considered to be an amount paid to a person who is not a United States person if the amount is described in subdivision (i), (ii), (iii), or (iv) of this paragraph. If the amount is paid to joint payees, each joint payee must provide the statement described in this paragraph (b)(1)(i) (or other evidence permitted to be received under §1.6042-3(b)(1)). If any joint payee has not provided such statement, the exemption from reporting does not apply. See §1.6049-5(l) for the manner of avoiding keeping backup withholding in such a case.

(i) An amount is described in this subdivision (i) if, unless the payor or middleman has actual knowledge that the payee is a United States person, the payor or middleman receives from the payee the penalties of perjury statement described in §1.6049-5(g) in accordance with the provisions of that paragraph. A statement from a payee that is a partnership must also include a statement under penalties of perjury that the partnership is composed in whole of nonresident aliens and is not engaged in a trade or business in the United States.

(ii) An amount is described in this subdivision (ii) if the amount paid is subject to withholding under 1441 or 1442 (relating to withholding of tax on nonresident aliens or foreign corporations, respectively) by the person making the distribution or payment. Paragraph (c)(2) of §1.6049-5 applies in determining whether a distribution or payment is subject to withholding under section 1441 or 1442.

(iii) An amount is described in this subdivision (iii) if the amount would be subject to withholding under subchapter A of chapter 3 of the Code by the person paying such amount but for the fact that it is exempt from withholding by reason of a tax treaty. Paragraph (c)(3) of §1.6049-5 applies in determining whether a distribution or payment would be subject to withholding but for the provisions of a treaty.

(iv) An amount is described in this subdivision (iv) if withholding is not required under subchapter A of chapter 3 of the Code by reason of paragraph (a) or (f) of § 1.1441-4. Paragraph (c)(4) of §1.6049-5 applies in determining whether withholding is not required by reason of paragraph (a) or (f) of §1.1441-4.

(2) Any amount from sources outside the United States under section 862(a)(2) that is distributed or paid outside the United States by a foreign corporation other than the amount that is collected on behalf of the actual owner and paid by a nominee, custodian or other agent of the actual owner, which agent is either a United States person or a United States-related person under § 1.6049-5(f)(2), unless such actual owner is not a United States person. A determination by a paying, transfer, or other agent of the corporation or by a nominee, custodian, or other agent of the actual owner of whether an amount is distributed or paid by a foreign corporation and as to whether an amount is income from sources outside the United States shall be made for this purpose in accordance with procedures provided in § 1.6049-5(d)(4)(ii). Solely for purposes of paragraph (b)(2) of this section, a nominee, custodian or other agent of the actual owner may treat the actual owner as a person who is not a United States person if the agent of the actual owner has documentary evidence in its records that the actual owner is not a United States person (provided that the agent of the actual owner does not have actual knowledge that the evidence is false). An agent of the actual owner has documentary evidence in its records that actual owner is not a United States person if (i) the agent of the actual owner obtains and has in its records the statement described in §1.6049-5(g), a Form 1001 completed under penalties of perjury, or a Form 4224 completed under penalties of perjury, or (ii) the agent of the actual owner has been provided with documentary evidence (such as a passport, identity credential, or other similar evidence of citizenship and residence) on the basis of which a reasonable person would conclude that the actual owner is not a United States person, and the employee of the agent of the actual owner who has been provided with such evidence signs a separate written statement as part of the records of the account which states that such evidence has been provided and specifies the nature and details of the evidence. The mere fact, however, that the actual owner has provided an address outside the United States is not sufficient evidence for this purpose. For purposes of section 6042 and this section, an amount is considered paid outside the United States by a corporation or its paying agent or by the agent of the actual owner if the corporation or its paying, transfer, or other agent or the agent of the actual owner completes the acts necessary to effect payment outside the United States. A payment is not considered to be made within the United States for purposes of section 6042 and this section by reason of the fact that it is drawn on a United States bank account or by wire or other electronic transfer from a United States account. However, without regard to the location of the account from which the amount is drawn, an amount paid by transfer to an account maintained by the payee or actual owner in the United States or by mail to a United States address is considered to be paid within the United States if the amount is described in subdivision (i) or (ii) of §1.6049-5(j)(1).

(3) A capital gain dividend as defined in section 852(b)(3)(C). A person making a distribution or payment may treat each distribution or payment as a capital gain dividend (as defined in section 852(b)(3)(C)) if the person has received a copy of the notice required by section 852 and the regulations thereunder that designates the amount as a capital gain dividend.

(4) With respect to amounts paid or credited after December 31, 1982, any amount paid or credited to any person described §1.6049-4(c)(1)(ii).

* * * * *

Par. 8. Section 1.6042-4 is amended by revising the heading, by removing the phrase "Form 1099 or 1087" and adding in its place wherever it appears the phrase "Form 1099", and by adding a new sentence at the end of paragraph (a) to read as follows:

§1.6042-4 Statements to recipients of dividend paid before January 1, 1984.

(a) Requirement.  For the requirement to furnish a statement to a recipient of dividend payments made after December 31, 1983, see §1.6042-5.

* * * * *

Par. 9. A new §1.6042-5 is added immediately after §1.6042-4 to read as follows:

§1.6042-5 Official statements to recipients of dividends paid after December 31, 1983.

(a) Requirement. Every person filing a Form 1099 under section 6042(a)(1) and §1.6042-2 with respect to dividends paid after December 31, 1983, shall furnish under section 6042(c) and this section to each person whose identifying number is shown on the form a written statement showing the information required by paragraph (b) of this section. The statement shall be furnished to the recipient in the manner required in paragraph (c) of this section.

(b) Official statement to recipient for dividends paid after December 31, 1983. Section 6042(c) and paragraph (a) of this section require every person making an information return under section 6042(a) and §1.6042-2(a) to furnish a statement to the recipient. This requirement shall be met by furnishing to the recipient an official Form 1099 for dividends paid after December 31, 1983. The official Form 1099 shall be the form prescribed by the Internal Revenue Service for the respective calendar year. The Form 1099 shall include:

(1) The name, address and taxpayer identification number of the recipient,

(2) The aggregate amount of dividends paid to (or received on behalf of) the recipient,

(3) The amount of tax withheld under section 3406, if any,

(4) The name, address and taxpayer identification number of the person making the return,

(5) A statement, in bold and conspicuous type, informing the recipient that the form contains important tax information that is being furnished to the Internal Revenue Service and that if the recipient is required to file an income tax return, the recipient may be subject to a negligence penalty (as described in section 6653(g)) or other sanction in the event that the income is taxable and the Internal Revenue Service determines that the recipient has not included the income on the recipient's tax return, and

(6) Any other information as required by the form.

A reasonable facsimile (as described in §1.6042-4(b)) of the official Form 1099 will not satisfy the requirement under this section to furnish a statement to any person. A payor, however, may use a form that contains provisions that are substantially similar to those of the official Form 1099 if the payor complies with all applicable revenue procedures relating to substitute Forms 1099. A payor may aggregate all payments of dividends made to a recipient with respect to each separate stock ownership account during a calendar year on one Form 1099.

(c) Manner of providing the official statement to the recipient. The official Form 1099 shall be provided to the recipient either in person or by first-class mail. The Form 1099 shall be sent by first-class mail to the recipient at his last known address or personally delivered to the recipient.

(1) Separate mailing requirement for forms to be filed after December 31, 1984, and on or before October 22, 1986. With respect to a Form 1099 which is required to be filed after December 31, 1984, and on or before October 22, 1986 (without regard to extensions), a Form 1099 that is mailed to the recipient generally must be furnished separately from any other mail (including the payment subject to reporting) that the payor mails to the recipient. The only items that may be mailed to the recipient with the Form 1099 are—

(i) Statements related to other Forms 1099, Forms 1098, and Forms 5498 (or the account balance on a Form 5498); and

(ii) Any documents relating to a solicitation of the recipient's correct taxpayer identification number (Form W-9) or a solicitation of a Form W-8 or substitute form.

If a payor does not either personally deliver the Form 1099 to the recipient or mail the Form 1099 in a separate first-class mailing to the recipient, the payor shall be considered to have failed to make the statement required under section 6042(c) and will be subject to the penalty under section 6678.

(2) Statement mailing requirement to be filed after October 22, 1986. [Reserved]

(d) Time for furnishing statements. Each statement required by section 6042(c) and this section shall be furnished to the recipient in accordance with §1.6042-4(c).

(e) Penalty. For provisions relating to the penalty provided for failure to furnish a statement under this section, see sections 6722 and 6724(c) and the regulations thereunder (section 6678 for statements required to be furnished before January 1, 1987).

Par. 10. Section 1.6043-2 is amended by removing all reference to "1099L" and adding in its place the reference to "1099".

Par. 11. Section 1.6044-2 is amended by adding two new sentences at the end of paragraph (a)(1) and by revising the heading to paragraph (f) and adding a new first sentence to paragraph (f) to read as follows:

§1.6044-2 Returns of information as to payments of patronage dividends.

(a) Requirement of reporting—(1) In general.  The organization is required to make an information return regardless of the amount of the payment if the tax imposed by section 3406 is required to be withheld. Thus, in the case of any amount subject to backup withholding under section 3406 and not refunded by the payor before the due date of the information return in accordance with the regulations under section 3406, an information return shall be made even if the payment is not generally reportable because it is made to an exempt recipient described in §1.6049-4(c)(1)(ii) or the amount paid during the calendar year to the recipient aggregates less than $10.

* * * * *

(f) Magnetic media requirement. For the requirement to submit the information required by Form 1099 on magnetic media for payments after December 31, 1983, see section 6011(e) and §301.6011-2 of this chapter (Regulations on Procedure and Administration). ***

Par. 12. Section 1.6044-3 is amended by revising paragraph (c) to read as follows:

§1.6044-3 Amounts subject to reporting.

* * * * *

(c) Exceptions. An amount described in paragraph (a) of this section does not include—

(1) Any amount described in §1.6042-3(b), or

(2) With respect to amounts paid or credited after December 31, 1982, any amount paid or credited to any person described in §1.6049-4(c)(1)(ii).

* * * * *

Par. 13. Section 1.6044-5 is amended by revising the heading and by adding a new sentence at the end of paragraph (a) to read as follows:

§1.6044-5 Statements to recipients of patronage dividends made before January 1, 1984.

(a) Requirement.  For the requirement to furnish a statement to a patron with respect to payments made after December 31, 1983, see §1.6044-6.

* * * * *

Par. 14. A new §1.6044-6 is added immediately after §1.6044-5 to read as follows:

§1.6044-6 Official statements to recipients for payments made after December 31, 1983.

(a) Requirement. Every cooperative filing a Form 1099 under section 6044(a)(1) and §1.6044-2 with respect to payments made to its patrons after December 31, 1983, shall furnish under section 6044(e) and this section to each patron whose identifying number is shown on the form a written statement showing the information required by paragraph (b) of this section. The statement shall be furnished to the patron in the manner required in paragraph (c) of this section.

(b) Official statement to recipient for payment made after December 31, 1983. Section 6044(a) and paragraph (a) of this section require every cooperative making an information return under section 6044(a)(1) and §1.6044-2(a)(1) to furnish a statement to the patron. This requirement shall be met by furnishing to the patron an official Form 1099 for payments made after December 31, 1983. The official Form 1099 shall be the form prescribed by the Internal Revenue Service for the respective calendar year. The Form 1099 shall include:

(1) The name, address and taxpayer identification number of the recipient,

(2) The aggregate amount of payments made to (or received on behalf of) the patron,

(3) The amount of tax withheld under section 3406, if any,

(4) The name, address, and taxpayer identification number of the cooperative making the return,

(5) A statement, in bold and conspicuous type, informing the recipient that the form contains important tax information that is being furnished to the Internal Revenue Service and that, if the recipient is required to file an income tax return, the recipient may be subject to a negligence penalty (as described in section 6653(g)) or other sanction in the event that the income is taxable on the recipient's tax return and the Internal Revenue Service determines that the recipient has not included the income on the recipient's tax return, and

(6) Any other information as required by the form. A reasonable facsimile (as described in §1.6044-5(b)) of the official Form 1099 will not satisfy the requirement under this section to furnish a statement to any patron. A cooperative, however, may use a form that contains provisions that are substantially similar to those of the official Form 1099 if the cooperative complies with all applicable revenue procedures relating to substitute Forms 1099. A cooperative may aggregate all payments under section 6044 to a patron during a calendar year on one Form 1099.

(c) Manner of providing the official statement to the recipient. The official Form 1099 shall be provided to the patron either in person or by first-class mail. The Form 1099 shall be sent by first-class mail to the patron at his last known address or personally delivered to the patron.

(1) Separate mailing requirement for forms to be filed after December 31, 1984, and on or before October 22, 1986. With respect to a Form 1099 which is required to be filed after December 31, 1984 and on or before October 22, 1986 (without regard to extensions), a Form 1099 that is mailed to the patron generally must be furnished separately from any other mail (including the payment subject to reporting) that the cooperative mails to the patron. The only items that may be mailed to the patron with the Form 1099 are—

(i) Statements related to any other Forms 1099, Forms 1098, and Forms 5498 (or the account balance on a Form 5498); and

(ii) Any documents relating to a solicitation of the patron's correct taxpayer identification number (Form W-9) or the solicitation of a Form W-8 or substitute form.

If a cooperative does not either personally deliver the Form 1099 to the patron or mail the Form 1099 in a separate first-class mailing to the patron, the cooperative shall be considered to have failed to make the statement under section 6044(e) and will be subject to the penalty under section 6678.

(2) Statement mailing requirement for forms to be filed after October 22, 1986. [Reserved]

(d) Time for furnishing statements. Each statement required by section 6044(e) and this section shall be furnished to the patron any time during the year of the payment and on or before January 31, of the following year, but no statement may be furnished before the final payment has been made for the calendar year.

(e) Penalty. For provisions relating to the penalty provided for failure to furnish a statement under this section, see sections 6722 and 6724(c) and the regulations thereunder.

Par. 15. Section 1.6045-1 is amended by—

1. Revising paragraph (a)(1),

2. Adding new paragraph (a)(14),

3. Redesignating paragraph (c)(5)(ii) as paragraph as paragraph (c)(5)(iii) and adding a new paragraph (c)(5)(ii),

4. Revising paragraph (g).

These added and revised provisions read as follows:

§1.6045-1 Returns of information of brokers and barter exchanges.

(a) Meaning of terms. ***

(1) (i) Except as provided in paragraph (a)(1)(ii), the term "broker" means—

(A) With respect to a sale effected at an office inside the United States, a person, other than a person who is required to report a transaction under section 6043, who in the ordinary course of a trade or business during the calendar year, stands ready to effect sales to be made by others, and includes an obligor that regularly issues and retires its own debt obligations or a corporation that regularly redeems its own stock; and

(B) With respect to a sale (including a redemption or retirement) effected at an office outside the United States, a person described in a subdivision (i) of this paragraph (a)(1) but only if such person is either a United States person or a

United States-related person as defined in §1.6049-5(f)(2).

(ii) With respect to the redemption or retirement by an international organization of an obligation issued by it, the term "broker" does not include an international organization (as described in §1.6049-4(c)(1)(ii)(G)), of which the United States is a member and which enjoys immunity with respect to the inviolability of its archives pursuant to an international agreement having full force and effect in the United States (or its paying, transfer, or other agent).

* * * * *

(14) For transactions occurring on September 3, 1982, and thereafter, the term "person" includes any governmental unit and any agency or instrumentality thereof. Under section 6652 and 6722 and the regulations thereunder, no penalty shall be imposed on a person defined under section 6045(c)(4)) for failing to file a return or furnish a statement under section 6045 for payments paid or credited before January 1, 1985.

* * * * *

(c) Reporting by brokers—

* * * * *

(5) Form of reporting for regulated futures contracts—(i) In general. ***

(ii) Determination of profit or loss from foreign currency contracts. A broker effecting closing transaction in foreign currency contracts (as defined in section 1256(g)) shall report information with respect to such contract in the manner prescribed in paragraph (c)(5)(i) of this section. If a foreign currency contract is closed by making or taking delivery, the net realized profit or loss for purposes of paragraph (c)(5)(i)(b) of this section is determined by comparing the contract price to the spot price for the contract currency at the time and place specified in the contract. If a foreign currency contract is closed by entry into an offsetting contract, the net realized profit or loss for purposes of paragraph (c)(5)(i)(b) of this section is comparing the contract price to the price of the offsetting contract. The net unrealized profit or loss in a foreign currency contract for purposes of paragraph (c)(5)(i)(c) and (d) of this section is determined by comparing the contract price to the broker's price for similar contracts at the close of business of the relevant year.

* * * * *

(g) Exempt foreign persons—(1) Brokers—(i) In general. No return of information is required by a broker with respect to a customer who is considered to be an exempt foreign person under this paragraph. Unless it has actual knowledge that a customer is a United States person, a broker may treat a customer as an exempt foreign person if—

(A) With respect to a sale effected at an office of the broker inside the United States, the broker obtains the statement described in paragraph (g)(3) of this section; or

(B) With respect to a sale effected at an office of the broker outside the United States by a United States person or a United States-related person under §1.6049-5(f)(2), either the broker has documentary evidence in its records that the customer is not a United States person or the broker is not acting as a custodian, nominee, or other agent of the payee and the sale is described in paragraph (g)(1)(ii) of this section.

(ii) Exception for the redemption or retirement of certain stock yielding foreign source dividends or certain obligations issued by foreign persons or targeted to foreign persons. A sale is described in this subdivision if it is the redemption or retirement of an obligation or stock effected at an office of the broker outside the United States by an issuer (or its paying or transfer agent); and the interest or dividend on the obligation or stock is described in paragraph (g)(1)(ii)(A), (B), or (C) of this section.

(A) Any interest paid with respect to the obligation is described in—

(1) §1.6049-5(c)(6) with respect to a foreign-targeted registered obligation as defined in §1.6049-5(j)(4) or a foreign-targeted bearer obligation (an obligation not in registered form within the meaning given such term by section 163(f)),

(2) §1.6049-5(d)(3), or

(3) §1.6049-5(e)(2)(i) or (ii).

(B) Any original issue discount paid with respect to the obligation is described in §1.6049-5(c)(5)(ii).

(C) Any dividend paid with respect to the stock is described in §1.6042-3(b)(1).

(iii) Special rules—(A) Documentary Evidence. A broker has documentary evidence in its records that the customer is not a United States person if (1) the broker obtains and has in its records the statement described in paragraph (g)(3) of this section, Form 1001 completed under penalties of perjury, or Form 4224 completed under penalties of perjury, or (2) the broker has been provided with documentary evidence (such as a passport, identity credential, or other similar evidence of citizenship and residence) on the basis of which a reasonable person would conclude that the customer is not a United States person, and the employee of the broker who has been provided with such evidence signs a separate written statement as part of the records of the account which states that such evidence has been provided and specifies the nature and details of the evidence. The mere fact, however, that a customer has provided an address outside the United States is insufficient evidence to establish for this purpose that the customer is not a United States person.

(B) Place of effecting sale. (1) Sale outside the United States. For purposes of this section and except as provided in subdivision (2) of this paragraph (g)(1)(iii)(B), a sale is considered to be effected by a broker at an office outside the United States if, in accordance with instructions directly transmitted to such office from outside the United States by the broker's customer, the office completes the acts necessary to effect the sale outside the United States. The acts necessary to effect the sale may be considered to have been completed outside the United States without regard to whether—

(i) Pursuant to instructions from an office of the broker outside the United States, an office of the same broker within the United States undertakes one or more steps of the sale in the United States; or

(ii) The gross proceeds of the sale are paid by a draft drawn on a United States bank account or by a wire or other electronic transfer from a United States account.

(2) Sale inside the United States. Notwithstanding the rules of subdivision (1) of this paragraph (g)(1)(iii)(B), a sale is considered to be effected by a broker at an office inside the United States if either—

(i) The customer has opened an account with a United States office of that broker,

(ii) The customer has transmitted instructions concerning this and other sales to the foreign office of the broker from within the United States by mail, telephone, electronic transmission or otherwise (unless the transmissions from the United States have taken place in isolated and infrequent circumstances),

(iii) The gross proceeds of the sale are paid to the customer by a transfer of funds into an account (other than an international account as defined in §1.6049-5(j)(4)) maintained by the customer in the United States or mailed to the customer at an address in the United States.

(iv) The confirmation of the sale is mailed to a customer at an address in the United States, or

(v) An office of the same broker within the United States negotiates the sale with the customer or receives instructions with respect to the sale from the customer.

(2) Barter exchanges. No return of information is required by a barter exchange with respect to a client or member who is considered to be an exempt foreign person under this paragraph. Unless is has actual knowledge that a client or member is a United States person, a barter exchange may treat the client or member as an exempt foreign person if the barter exchange obtains the statement described in paragraph (g)(3) of this section in accordance with the provisions of that paragraph, except that paragraph (g)(3)(v) of this section shall not apply to barter exchanges.

(3) Penalties of perjury statement—(i) In general. Except as provided in paragraph (g)(3)(vi) of this section, the broker (or barter exchange) must receive a statement, signed by the customer (or client or member) under penalties of perjury certifying that—

(A) The customer (or client or member) is not a United States person, or in the case that the customer (or client or member) is an individual, that he is neither a citizen nor a resident of the United States;

(B) In the case that the customer (or client or member) is an individual, that the customer (or client or member) has not been, and at the time the statement is furnished reasonably expects not to be, present in the United States for a period aggregating 183 days or more during the calendar year; and

(C) The customer (or client or member) is not, and at the time the statement is furnished reasonably expects not to be, engaged in a trade or business within the United States with respect to which any gain derived from sales effected by the broker (or barter exchange) during the calendar year is effectively connected.

The statement must also contain the name of the customer (or client or member), the address of customer (or client or member), and the taxpayer identification number (if any) of the customer (or client or member). The address provided for an individual shall be that of his permanent residence; the address provided for a partnership or corporation shall be the address of its principal office; and the address provided for a trust or an estate shall be the address of the permanent residence or principal office of any fiduciary of the trust or estate. The statement may be made, at the option of the customer (or client or member), on a Form W-8 or on a form prepared by the broker (or barter exchange) which is substantially similar to Form W-8. Blank copies of Form W-8 will be supplied to broker upon request to the district director.

(ii) Who may sign statement. The statement described in paragraph (g)(3)(i) may be signed by any person who is authorized to sign a declaration under penalties of perjury on behalf of the customer (or client or member) as described in section 6061 and the regulations thereunder.

(iii) When statement must be received and retention. Except as otherwise provide in paragraph (g)(3)(v) of this section, the statement must be received by the broker (or barter exchange) in the calendar year in which a sale is effected or in either of the preceding 2 calendar years. The broker (or barter exchange), however, may require the statement from the customer (or client or member) each time it effects a transaction on behalf of the customer (or client or member). The broker (or barter exchange) shall retain the statement for at least 4 years following the end of the last calendar year during which the transaction to which the statement relates is effected. If the information provided on the statement changes during the period to which the statement relates, the customer (or client or member) shall notify the broker (or barter exchange) in writing within 30 days of such change.

(iv) Joint account. If a transaction is effected with respect to a joint account with a broker (or barter exchange), the broker (or barter exchange) must receive the statement described in paragraph (g)(3)(i) (or other evidence permitted to be received under §1.6045-1) from each joint owner. If a joint owner is a United States person, the transaction is not exempt from reporting under paragraph (g)(1). See paragraph (g)(3)(vi) of this section for the statement required from a customer (or client or member) who is a United States person.

(v) Special rule prior to January 1, 1985. With respect to a brokerage relationship that is not a post-1983 brokerage account (as described in section 3406 and the regulations thereunder), the broker is not required to obtain the statement described in paragraph (g)(3)(i) of this section before January 1, 1985, if—

(A) The broker sent a separate mailing to the customer on or before December 31, 1983, requesting the statement (or the broker sent a nonseparate mailing on or before December 31, 1983, requesting the statement and sent a separate mailing requesting the statement on or before March 31, 1984),

(B) The broker sent an additional mailing (which may be a nonseparate mailing) during calendar year 1984 requesting the statement, and

(C) The broker has documentary evidence in its records that the customer is an exempt foreign person in accordance with A-1 of §35a.9999-4T published at 49 FR 33237 on August 22, 1984. [In the final regulations, the text of the rule in A-1 will be inserted in this paragraph.]

The mailing described in paragraph (g)(3)(v)(A) and (B) of this section must be sent by first-class mail, or by airmail if sent to a foreign address, and must contain a notice describing the penalties of perjury statement described in paragraph (g)(3)(i) of this section and advising the customer that backup withholding under section 3406 may commence if the statement is not provided. The broker must also provide a reply envelope and a form on which the customer may make the statement described in paragraph (g)(3)(i) of this section. A separate mailing, for purposes of this paragraph (g)(3)(v), is a mailing that contains only the information described in this paragraph and, at the option of the broker, information relating to the solicitation of a taxpayer identification number. With respect to mail-hold accounts and accounts with respect to which the last-known address of the customer is incorrect, the broker will be considered to have satisfied the requirements of paragraph (g)(3)(v)(A) and (B) of this section if the broker handles the mailings in the same manner that the broker handles other correspondence with the customer. A broker may also satisfy the requirements of this paragraph (g)(3)(v)(A) and (B) if the mailings are delivered to the customer by personal delivery or intra-office mail, provided they are delivered by the same method used generally by the broker in delivering account information and other correspondence to the customer.

(vi) Exception. A broker (or barter exchange) is not required to obtain the statement described in paragraph (g)(3)(i) of this section from a customer (or client or member) if the customer (or client or member) has provided the broker (or barter exchange) with a Form W-9 (or acceptable substitute) or if the broker (or barter exchange) may treat the customer (or client or member) as an exempt recipient without receiving a Form W-9 or an acceptable substitute from the customer.

(4) Examples. The application of the provisions of paragraph (g) of this section may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). FC is a foreign corporation that is not engaged in a trade or business in the United States during the calendar year. FC regularly issues and retires its own debt obligations. FP is a foreign corporation that is not a United States-related person under §1.6049-5(f)(2). A is an individual whose residence address is inside the United States. A holds a bond issued by FC in registered form within the meaning of section 163(f) and the regulations thereunder and listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Interest on the bond is paid outside the United States. The bond is retired by FP, the designated paying agent of FC and not the agent of A. FP mails the proceeds to A at A's United States address. The sale would be considered to be effected at an office outside the United States under §1.6045-1(g)(1)(iii)(B)(1) except that the proceeds of the sale are mailed to a United States address. The sale is considered to be effected at an office of the broker inside the United States under §1.6045-1(g)(1)(iii)(B)(2). FC and FP are brokers under §1.6045-1(a)(1)(i)(A). FC is not required to report the payment because, under §5f.6045-1(c)(3)(ii) (the multiple broker exception), FC is not the broker responsible for paying the holder redeemed or retired, or crediting the gross proceeds on the sale to such holder's account. Under paragraph (g)(1)(i)(A) of this section, FP may not treat A as an exempt foreign person and must make an information return under section 6045 with respect to the retirement of the FC bond, unless FP obtains the statement described in paragraph (g)(3) of this section and does not have actual knowledge that A is a United States person.

Example (2). The facts are the same as in Example (1) except that FP mails the proceeds to A at an address outside the United States. Under §1.6045-1(g)(1)(iii)(B)(1), the sale is considered to be effected at an office of the broker outside the United States. Under §1.6045-1(a)(1)(i)(B), neither FC nor FP is a broker with respect to the retirement of the FC bond. Therefore, neither is required to make an information return under section 6045.

Example (3). The facts are the same in Example (2) except that FP is also the agent of A. The result is the same as in Example (2).

Example (4). The facts are the same as in Example (1) except that the registered bond held by A was issued by DC, a domestic corporation, and FP mails the proceeds to A at an address outside the United States. DC regularly issues and retires its own debt obligations. Interest on the bond is neither portfolio interest on a foreign-targeted registered obligation described in §1.6049-5(c)(6) nor interest described in §1.6049-5(e)(2)(ii). The sale is considered to be effected at an office outside the United States under §1.6045-1(g)(1)(iii)(B)(1). DC is a broker under §1.6045-1(a)(1)(i)(B). DC is not required to report the payment under the multiple broker exception. FP is not required to make an information return under section 6045 because FP is not a broker.

Example (5). The facts are the same as in Example (4) except that FP is also the agent of A. DC is a broker under §1.6045-1(a)(1)(i)(B). DC is not required to report under the multiple broker exception. FP is not required to make an information return under section 6045 because FP is not a broker.

Example (6). The facts are the same as in Example (4) except that the bond is retired by DP, the designated paying agent of DC and not the agent of A. DP is a United States person or a United States-related person. DC is a broker under §1.6045-1(a)(1)(i)(B). DC is not required to report under the multiple broker exception. DP is a broker under §1.6045-(a)(1)(i)(B) and therefore is required to make an information return under section 6045 unless DP obtains the documentary evidence described in paragraph (g)(1)(iii) of this section and does not have actual knowledge that the customer is a United States person.

Par. 16. Section 1.6049-4 is amended by:

1. Removing the phrase "section 3451" each place it appears and adding in its place the phrase "section 3406";

2. Revising paragraph (b)(1);

3. Adding two new sentences after the last sentence of paragraph (b)(2);

4. Revising paragraph (b)(3);

5. Revising paragraph (c)(1)(i) and (ii), redesignating paragraph (c)(1)(iii) as paragraph (c)(1)(iv), and adding a new paragraph (c)(1)(iii);

6. Revising the introductory text and the first and second examples of paragraph (c)(1)(iv) as redesignated;

7. Removing the reference to "§1.6049-5(c)" in paragraph (d)(2) and adding in its place the reference to "§1.6049-5(k)";

8. Revising the caption of paragraph (d)(7) and adding a new second sentence to paragraph (d)(7);

9. Removing the reference to "§1.6049-5(b)(1)(ii)" in paragraph (d)(8) and adding in its place the reference to "§1.6049-5(b)(2)";

10. Revising the reference to paragraph (d)(10)(i) in paragraph (d)(9)(ii) to read "(d)(9)(i)";

11. Removing the reference to "paragraph (c)(1)(ii)(K)" in paragraph (f)(4)(i) and adding in its place the reference to "paragraph (c)(1)(ii)(M)", by deleting the last two sentences of paragraph (f)(4)(i), and by adding two new sentences in their place;

12. Revising the last sentence of the Example in paragraph (f)(4)(ii).

These revised and added provisions read as follows:

§1.6049-4 Return of information as to interest paid and original issue discount includible in gross income after December 31, 1982.

* * * * *

(b) Information to be reported—(1) Interest payments. Except as provided in paragraph (b)(3) of this section, in the case of a payment of interest, other than original issue discount treated as interest under §1.6049-5(k) and other than amounts described in §1.6049-5(e)(2), an information return on Form 1099 shall be made for the calendar year showing the aggregate amount of the payments, the name, address, and taxpayer identification number of the person to whom paid, the amount of tax deducted and withheld under section 3406 from the payments, if any, and such other information as required by the forms. In the case of interest described in §1.6049-5(e)(2), the payor shall make an information return on Form 1042S for the calendar year showing the aggregate amount of the payments, the name, address of the permanent residence, and taxpayer identification number, if any, of the person to whom paid, and such other information as required by the form and shall transmit the information return at the time and in the manner prescribed by §1.1461-2. The payor shall also furnish to such person a written statement showing the information required by §1.6049-6(e)(6). An information return is generally required only if the amount of interest aggregates $10 or more and if the payment is made to a person other than an exempt recipient described in §1.6049-4(c)(1)(ii), unless the tax imposed by section 3406 is required to be withheld. In the case of any amount subject to backup withholding under section 3406, however, an information return shall be made unless the amount is refunded by the payor before the due date of the information return in accordance with the regulations under section 3406.

* * * * *

(2) Original issue discount.  In the case of payments of original issue discount described in §1.6049-5(e)(2), an information return shall be made on Form 1042S for the calendar year showing the aggregate amount of the payments, the name, address of the permanent residence, and taxpayer identification number, if any, of the person to whom paid, and such other information as required by the forms and shall be transmitted as the form and instruction require. The person to whom the original issue discount is paid shall be furnished with a written statement showing the information required by §1.6049-6(e)(6).

(3) Returns made by middleman—(i) In general. Every person acting as a middleman (as defined in paragraph (f)(4) of this section) shall make an information return for the calendar year. In the case of interest payments (other than original issue discount and other than interest described in §1.6049-5(e)(2)), the information return shall be made on Form 1099 and shall show the aggregate amount of the interest, the name, address, and taxpayer identification number of the person on whose behalf received, the amount of tax withheld under section 3406, if any, such other information as required by the forms. In the case of interest described in §1.6049-5(e)(2), the middleman shall make an information return on Form 1042S for the calendar year showing the aggregate amount of the payments, the name, address of the permanent residence, and taxpayer identification number, if any, of the person on whose behalf received, and such other information as required by the form and shall transmit the information return at the time and in the manner prescribed by §1.1461-2. The middleman shall also furnish to such person a written statement showing the information required by §1.6049-6(e)(6). In the case of original issue discount, the information return shall show the information required to be shown for the person on whose behalf received, as described in paragraph (b)(2) of this section. See §1.6049-5(k) to determine whether a middleman is required to make an information return with respect to original issue discount. A middleman shall make an information return regardless of whether the middleman receives a Form 1099 or Form 1042S. A middleman shall not be required to make an information return if the payment of interest aggregates less than $10 or if the payment is made to an exempt recipient described in paragraph (c)(1)(ii) of this section, unless the amount is withheld upon under section 3406. In the case of any amount subject to backup withholding under section 3406, however, an information return shall be made unless the amount is refunded by the middleman in accordance with the regulations under section 3406 before the due date of the information return.

(ii) Forwarding of interest coupons and original issue discount obligations. In the case of a middleman who, from within the United States, forwards an interest coupon or discount obligation on behalf of a payee for presentation, collection or payment outside the United States, the middleman shall make an information return on Form 1099 for the calendar year showing, in the case of an interest coupon, the information required under paragraph (b)(3)(i) and, in the case of a discount obligation, information required under paragraph (b)(2). For purposes of paragraph (b)(3)(ii), a middleman is considered to forward an interest coupon or discount obligation on behalf of a payee for presentation, collection or payment outside the United States if the middleman forwards the coupon or obligations outside the United States on or after the date when the payee is entitled to be paid or at an earlier date if within 90 days of such date or if the middleman has actual knowledge that the coupon or obligation is being forwarded outside the United States for presentation, collection, or payment outside the United States.

Example. Individual F, who is entitled to payment on an interest coupon, instructs an office of Bank M in the United States to forward the coupon to Bank N for collection by Bank N outside the United States. Bank M in the United States forwards the interest coupon to Bank N outside the United States. Bank M is required to make an information return for the calendar year under §1.6049-4(b)(3)(ii) showing the aggregate amount of the interest coupon forwarded, the name, address of the permanent residence, and the taxpayer identification number, if any, of Individual F and such other information as the form requires.

(c) Information returns not required—(1) Payment to exempt recipient—(i) In general. No information return is required with respect to any payment made to an exempt recipient described in paragraph (c)(1)(ii) of this section unless such payment is made by a person required to make a return by paragraph (a)(2)(i) of this section (relating to persons who backup withhold under section 3406). Thus, a person who backup withholds under section 3406 and does not refund the amount withheld pursuant to the regulations under section 3406 is required to make an information return regardless of whether the payee is an exempt recipient in paragraph (c)(1)(ii) of this section.

(ii) Exempt recipient defined. The term "exempt recipient" means any person described in this paragraph (c)(1)(ii)(A) through (N). An exempt recipient is generally exempt from information reporting without filing a certificate claiming exempt status unless the provisions of this paragraph (c)(1)(ii) require a payee to file a certificate. A payor may in any case require a payee not otherwise required to file a certificate under this paragraph (c)(1)(ii) to file a certificate as a person who is not an exempt recipient. See section 3406 and the regualtions thereunder for the provisions relating to the certificate a payee may file to claim exempt status and the requirement that a payee described in this paragraph (c)(1)(ii) include such payee's taxpayer identification number on the certificate in order to make the certificate effective.

(A) Corporation. A corporation, as defined in section 7701(a)(3), whether domestic or foreign, is an exempt recipient. In addition, the term "corporation" includes a pool, syndicate, partnership, or unincorporated association, any of which is composed exclusively of corporations described in this paragraph, but only if the pool, syndicate, partnership, or unincorporated association files a certificate with the payor claiming exempt status because it is composed exclusively of corporations. Except for the preceding sentence, a payor may treat a payee as a corporation (and, therefore, as an exempt recipient) without requiring a certificate provided that—

(1) The name of the payee contains one of the following unambiguous expressions of corporate status: Incorporated, Inc., Corporation, Corp., or P.C., but not Company or Co.,

(2) The name of the payee contains the term "insurance company", "indemnity company", "reinsurance company", or "assurance company".

(3) The payee is a foreign entity whose name contains any unambiguous expression of corporate status that the Commissioner so designates by ruling, or

(4) The payee is known to the payor to be a corporation through a corporate resolution or similar document on file with the payor clearly indicating corporate status.

(B) Tax exempt organization—(1) In general. Any organization which is exempt from taxation under section 501(a) is an exempt recipient. A custodial account under section 403(b)(7) shall be considered an exempt recipient under this paragraph. A payor may treat an organization as an exempt recipient under this paragraph without requiring a certificate if the organization's name is listed in the compilation by the Commissioner of organizations for which a deduction for charitable contributions is allowed, if the name of the organization contains an unambiguous indication that it is a tax exempt organization, or if the organization is known to the payor to be a tax exempt organization.

(2) Examples. The application of the provisions of paragraph (c)(1)(ii)(B) of this section may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). The following persons maintain accounts at M Bank: N College, O University, P Church. M may treat N, O, and P as exempt recipients without requiring a certificate because the names of the organizations contain an unambiguous indication that they are tax exempt organizations.

Example (2). Q is listed in the current edition of Internal Revenue Service publication 78 as an organization for which deductions are permitted for charitable contributions under section 170(c). Such listing has not been revoked by an announcement published in the Internal Revenue Bulletin. A payor may treat Q as an exempt recipient.

Example (3). Employer R maintains a section 403(b)(7) custodial account with Regulated Investment Company S on behalf of R's employees. S may treat the account as an exempt recipient.

(C) Individual retirement plan. An individual retirement plan as defined in section 7701(a)(37) is an exempt recipient. A payor may treat any such plan of which it is the trustee or custodian as an exempt recipient under this paragraph without requiring a certificate.

(D) United States. The United States Government and any wholly-owned agency or instrumentality thereof are exempt recipients. A payor may treat a person as an exempt recipient under this paragraph without requiring a certificate if the name of such person reasonably indicates it is described in this paragraph.

(E) State—(1) In general. A State, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, a political subdivision of any of the foregoing, wholly-owned agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing, and a pool or partnership composed exclusively of any of the foregoing are exempt recipients. A payor may treat a person as an exempt recipient under this paragraph without requiring a certificate if the name of such person reasonably indicates it is described in this paragraph or if such person is known generally in the community to be a State, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States or a political subdivision or a wholly-owned agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing.

(2) Example. The application of the provisions of paragraph (c)(1)(ii)(E) of this section may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. The following persons maintain an account at R Bank: Town of S and County of T. R may treat S and T as exempt recipients.

(F) Foreign government—(1) In general. A foreign government, a political subdivision of a foreign government, and any wholly-owned agency or instrumentality of either of the foregoing are exempt recipients. A payor may treat a foreign government or a political subdivisions thereof as an exempt recipient under this paragraph without requiring a certificate provided that its name reasonably indicates that it is a foreign government or provided that it is known to the payor to be a foreign government or a political subdivision thereof.

(2) Example. The application of the provisions of paragraph (c)(1)(ii)(F) of this section may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. The Government of V maintains an account of U Bank. U may treat V as an exempt recipient.

(G) International organization. An international organization and any wholly-owned agency or instrumentality thereof are exempt recipients. The term "international organization" shall have the meaning ascribed to it in section 7701(a)(18) and includes the following organizations:

(1) African Development Fund,

(2) Asian Development Bank,

(3) Caribbean Commission,

(4) Caribbean Organization,

(5) Customs Cooperation Council,

(6) European Space Research Organization,

(7) Food and Agriculture Organization,

(8) Great Lakes Fishery Commission,

(9) Inter-American Defense Board,

(10) Inter-American Development Bank,

(11) Inter-American Institute of Agriculture Sciences,

(12) Inter-American Statistical Institute,

(13) Inter-American Tropical Tuna Commission,

(14) Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration,

(53) Universal Postal Union,

(54) World Health Organization,

(55) World Intellectual Property Organization,

(56) World Meteorological Organization, and (57) World Tourism Organization.

A payor may treat any of the foregoing and any other organization designated as an international organization by executive order (pursuant to 22 U.S.C. section 288 to 288f) as an exempt recipient without requiring a certificate.

(H) Foreign central bank of issue. A foreign central bank of issue is an exempt recipient. A foreign central bank of issue is a bank which is by law or government sanction the principal authority, other than the government itself, issuing instruments intended to circulate as currency. See §1.895-1(b)(1). A payor may treat a person as a foreign central bank of issue (and, therefore, as an exempt recipient) without requiring a certificate provided that such person is known generally in the financial community as a foreign central bank of issue.

(I) Securities or commodities dealer—(1) In general. A dealer in securities or commodities registered as such under the laws of the United States or a State is an exempt recipient. A payor may treat a dealer as an exempt recipient under this paragraph without requiring a certificate if the person is known generally in the investment community to be a dealer meeting the requirements set forth in the paragraph.

(2) Examples. The application of the provisions of paragraphs (c)(1)(ii)(I) of this section may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). X advertises that purchases of securities may be made through it and is known generally in the investment community as a registered broker-dealer. A payor may treat X as an exempt recipient.

Example (2). Z is listed as a member firm in the most recent publication of members of the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc. A payor may rely on such listing in treating Z as an exempt recipient.

(J) Real estate investment trust. A real estate investment trust, as defined in section 856 and §1.856-1, is an exempt recipient. A payor may treat a person as a real estate investment trust (and, therefore, as an exempt recipient) without requiring a certificate if the person is known generally in the investment community as a real estate investment trust.

(K) Entity registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940. An entity registered at all times during the taxable year under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (15 U.S.C. section 80a-1 to 89a-52), is an exempt recipient. An entity that is created during the taxable year will be treated as meeting the registration requirement of the preceding sentence provided that such entity is so registered at all times during the taxable year for which such entity is in existence. A payor may treat such an entity as an exempt recipient under this paragraph without requiring a certificate if the entity is known generally in the investment community to meet the requirements of the preceding sentence.

(L) Common trust fund. A common trust fund, as defined in section 584(a), is an exempt recipient. A payor may treat the fund as an exempt recipient without requiring a certificate provided that its name reasonably indicates that it is a common trust fund or provided that it is known to the payor to be a common trust fund.

(M) Financial institution. A financial institution such as a bank, mutual savings bank, savings and loan association, building and loan association, cooperative bank, homestead association, credit union, industrial loan association or bank, or other similar organization is an exempt recipient. A payor may treat any person described in the preceding sentence as an exempt recipient without requiring a certificate if the person's name reasonably indicates it is described in the preceding sentence.

(N) Trust. A trust which is exempt from tax under section 664(c) (i.e., a charitable remainder annuity trust or a charitable remainder unitrust) or is described in section 4947(a)(1) (relating to certain charitable trusts) is an exempt recipient. A payor which is a trustee of the trust may treat the trust as an exempt recipient without requiring a certificate.

(iii) Exempt recipient no longer exempt. Any person who ceases to be an exempt recipient, shall no later than 10 days after such cessation, notify the payor when it ceases to be an exempt recipient unless it reasonably appears that the person formerly qualifying as an exempt recipient will not thereafter receive a reportable payment from the payor. If a payor treats a person as an exempt recipient by requiring the exempt recipient to file a certificate claiming exempt status, that person shall revoke the certificate as provided in the preceding sentence. A person notifies a payor that it no longer qualifies as an exempt recipient by delivering to the payor a written statement to that effect. If the exempt recipient terminates its relationship with the payor, the exempt recipient is not required to notify the payor. If, however, the person who formerly qualified as an exempt recipient later reinstates the relationship with the payor, the person must notify the payor that it no longer qualifies as an exempt recipient in case the payor relies upon the previous treatment.

(iv) Examples. The application of the provisions of paragraph (c)(1) of this section may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). In 1980, Corporation Y issued 10-year debentures with 9 percent interest coupons payable semiannually on June 30 and December 31. Individual F presents a coupon for payment at Bank M on the interest payment date. Bank M transmits the coupon to Bank N, which in turn presents the coupon to Corporation Y for payment. Bank M is required to make an information return with respect to the payment to Individual F under §1.6049-4(a)(2)(iii). Bank N is not required to make an information return with respect to the payment to Bank N because Banks M and N are exempt recipients described in §1.6049-4(c)(1)(ii)(M).

Example (2). Broker E acquires a bond issued in 1980 by the United States Treasury through the Bureau of Public Debt. Broker E sells interests in the bond to the public after December 31, 1982. A purchaser may acquire an interest in any interest payment falling due under the bond or an interest in the principal of the bond. The bond is held by Custodian H for the benefit of the persons acquiring these interests. Custodian H is known generally in the investment community as a nominee. On receipt of interest and principal payments under the bond, Custodian H transfers the amount received to the person whose ownership interest corresponds to the component giving rise to the payment. Under either section 1232B or section 1286, each bond component is treated as a bond issued with original issue discount equal to the excess of the stated redemption price at maturity over the purchase price of the bond component. Accordingly, H is required to make an information return setting forth the information required in §1.6049-4(b)(2) with respect to each holder of an interest in the bond. The Bureau of Public Debt is required to make an information return since it made payment to Custodian H who is not an exempt recipient.

(d) Special rules—

(7) Magnetic media requirement. For the requirement to submit the information required by Form 1099 on magnetic media for payments after December 31, 1983, see section 6011(e) and §301.6011-2 of this chapter (Regulations on Procedure and Administration).

(f) Definitions. ***

(4) Middleman—(i) In general.  A person shall be considered to be a middleman as to any portion of an interest payment made to such person which portion is actually owned by another person, whether or not the other person's name is also shown on the information return filed with respect to such interest payment, except that a husband or wife will not be considered as acting in the capacity of a middleman with respect to his or her spouse. A person who, from within the United States, forwards an interest coupon or discount obligation on behalf of a payee for presentation, collection or payment outside the United States is also a middleman for purposes of this section (but the transfer, although subject to information reporting under this section, does not make the payment subject to backup withholding under section 3406).

(ii) Example.  Broker B is required to make an information return showing the amount of original issue discount treated as paid to A during 1984 under §1.6049-5(k).

* * * *

Par. 17. Section 1.6049-5 is amended by—

1. Removing the phrase "section 3451" each place it appears in paragraph (a) and adding the phrase "section 3406";
2. Removing the last sentence of paragraph (a)(6);
3. Revising paragraph (b);
4. Redesignating paragraph (c) as paragraph (k) and revising the last sentence in paragraph (k); and
5. Adding new paragraphs (c) through (j) and (l).

These revised and added provisions read as follows:

* * * * *

(b) Interest excluded from reporting requirement. The term "interest" does not include—

(1) Interest on any obligation issued by a natural person or defined in §1.6049-4(f)(2) irrespective of whether such interest is collected on behalf of the holder of the obligation by a middleman.

(2) Interest on any obligation if such interest is exempt from taxation under section 103(a), relating to certain governmental obligations, or interest which is exempt from taxation under any other provision of law without regard to the identity of the holder. The holder of a tax exempt obligation must provide written certification to the payor (other than the issuer of the obligation) that the obligation is exempt from taxation. A statement that interest coupons are tax exempt on the envelope or "shell" commonly used by financial institutions to process such coupons, signed by the payee, will be sufficient for this purpose if the envelope is properly completed (i.e., shows the name, address, and taxpayer identification number of the payee). A payor may rely on such written certification in treating such interest as tax exempt for purposes of section 6049. See §1.6049-4(d)(8) with respect to the requirement that the issuer of a taxable obligation shall make an information return if such issuer receives an envelope which improperly claims that the interest coupons contained therein are tax exempt.

(3) Interest on amounts held in escrow to guarantee performance on a contract or to provide security. However, interest on amounts held in escrow with a person described in paragraph (a)(2) or (3) of this section is interest subject to reporting under section 6049.

(4) Interest that a governmental unit pays with respect to tax refunds.

(5) Interest on deposits for security, such as deposits posted with a public utility company. However, interest on deposits posted for security with a person described in paragraph (a)(2) or (3) of this section is interest subject to reporting under section 6049.

(6) For obligations issued in taxable years beginning on or before December 31, 1983, any amount on which the person making the payment is required to deduct and withhold a tax under section 1451 (relating to tax free convenant bonds), or would be so required but for section 1451(d) (relating to benefit of personal exemptions).

(7) Any amount in paragraph (c) of this section (relating to amounts paid to a person who is not a United States person).

(8) Any amount described in paragraph (d) of this section (relating to amounts paid with respect to obligation of, or deposits with, certain persons who are not United States persons, that is income from sources outside the United States, or that is paid by certain payee agents).

(9) Any amount paid by an international organization described in §1.6049-4(c)(1)(ii)(G) (or its paying, transfer, or other agent that is not also a payee's agent) with respect to an obligation of which the international organization is the issuer, provided the international organization is an organization of which the United States is a member and which enjoys immunity with respect to the inviolability of its archives pursuant to an international agreement having full force and effect in the United States.

(c) Amount paid to persons who are not United States persons. An amount is described in this paragraph (c) and is thus considered to be an amount paid to a person who is not a United States person and an amount not subject to information reporting under section 6049 if subparagraph (1), (2), (3), (4), (5), or (6), of this paragraph (c) applies. For the rule regarding reporting of an amount paid to joint payees where any of the payees is other than a person who is not a United States person, see §1.6049-6(1).

(1) This subparagraph (1) applies if, the payor or middleman receives from the payee the penalties of perjury statement described in paragraph (g) of this section in accordance with the provisions of that paragraph or the amount is described in section 871(i)(2)(A) and paragraph (e)(2)(i) or (ii). However, this paragraph (1) does not apply if the payor or middleman has actual knowledge that the payee is a United States person or the amount is described in paragraph (e)(2) (other than paragraph (e)(2)(i) or (ii)).

(2) This subparagraph (2) applies if the amount paid is subject to withholding of tax under subchapter A of chapter 3 of the Code by the person paying such amount. A payor or middleman may treat an amount as subject to withholding under subchapter A of chapter 3 of the Code for purposes of this subparagraph (2) if such person, or another payor or middleman from whom such person collects the amount, in fact withholds tax on such amount under subchapter A of chapter 3 in accordance with the provisions of chapter 3.

(3) This subparagraph (3) applies if the amount would be subject to withholding of tax under subchapter A of chapter 3 of the Code by the person paying such amount but for the fact that it is exempt from withholding of tax under section 1441(a) or 1442(a) by reason of the provisions of a tax treaty. Unless it has actual knowledge that the payee of an amount is a United States person, a payor or middleman may treat such amount as an amount described in this subparagraph (3) if with respect to such amount the payor or middleman receives from the payee a Form 1001 in accordance with §1.1441-6(b) or (c) and completed under penalties of perjury.

(4) This subparagraph (4) applies if the amount would be subject to withholding of tax under subchapter A of chapter 3 of the Code by the person paying such amount but for the fact that it is exempt from withholding of tax under section 1441(a) or 1442(a) by reason of the application of section 1441(c) and paragraph (a) or (f) of §1.1441-4. Unless it has actual knowledge that the payee of an amount is a United States person, a payor or middleman may treat such amount as an amount described in this subparagraph (4) if with respect to such amount it has received a Form 4224 from the payee in accordance with §1.1441-4(a) and completed under penalties of perjury or has on file with respect to such amount a notice described in §1.1441-4(f)(2)(ii).

(5) This subparagraph (5) applies if the amount would be subject to withholding of tax under subchapter A of chapter 3 of the Code by the person paying such amount but for the fact that the amount is original issue discount. Unless it has actual knowledge that the payee of an amount is a United States person, a payor or middleman may treat such an amount as an amount described in this subparagraph (5) if—

(i) With respect to any amount that is or may be paid to the payee during the calendar year the payor or middleman has received the documentation described in subparagraph (3) or (4) of this paragraph (c) in accordance with the provisions of §1.1441-4 or §1.1441-6; or

(ii) Except as provided in paragraph (f) of this section, the amount is paid by the issuer or its agent outside the United States with respect to an obligation that—

(A) Has a face amount of not less than $500,000;

(B) Has a maturity (at issue) of 183 days or less;

(C) Satisfies the requirements of section 163(f)(2)(B)(i) and (ii)(I) and the regulations thereunder (as if it would otherwise be a registration-required obligation within the meaning of section 163(f)(2)(A));

(D) If in registered form, is registered in the name of an exempt recipient described in §1.6049-4(c)(1)(ii); and

(E) Has on its face the following statement (or a similar statement having the same effect): "By accepting this obligation, the holder represents and warrants that it is not a United States person (other than an exempt recipient described in section 6049(b)(4) of the Internal Revenue Code and regulations thereunder) and that it is not acting for or on behalf of a United States person (other than an exempt recipient described in section 6049(b)(4) of the Internal Revenue code and the regulations thereunder)".

Unless it has actual knowledge to the contrary, a middleman may treat an obligation as satisfying the requirements of section 163(f)(2)(B)(i) and (ii)(I) and the regulations thereunder if the obligation contains the statement in the preceding sentence.

(6) This subparagraph (6) applies, unless a payor or middleman has actual knowledge that the payee is a United States person or unless paragraph (f) of this section applies, if the amount is portfolio interest described in section 871(h)(2)(A) or (B) or 881(c)(2)(A) or (B) and the regulations thereunder that is exempt from withholding of tax under sections 1441(a) or 1442(a) by reason of the application of section 1441(c)(9) and the amount is paid outside the United States.

(d) Amounts from sources outside the United States and amounts paid with respect to obligations of certain foreign persons—(1) In general. An amount is described in paragraph (d) of this section and thus is not subject to information reporting under section 6049 if paragraph (d)(2) or (d)(3) of this section applies to such amount.

(2) Amounts from sources outside the United States paid inside the United States. This paragraph (d)(2) applies, unless a payor or middleman has actual knowledge that a payee of an amounts is a United States person, if an amount is from sources outside the United States within the meaning of section 862(a)(1) that is paid inside the United States and the payor or middleman receives from the payee the penalties of perjury statement described in paragraph (g) of this section or, with respect to any amount that is or may be paid to the payee during the calendar year, the payor or middleman has received the documentation described in paragraph (c)(3) or (4) of this section in accordance with the provisions of §1.1441-4 or §1.1441-6.

(3) Certain amounts paid outside the United States. This paragraph (d)(3) applies, unless paragraph (e) or (f) of this section applies, if an amount is paid outside the United States and the amount is described in paragraph (d)(3)(i), (ii), or (iii).

(i) An amount is described in this subdivision (i) if it is paid or collected with respect to an obligation of, or deposit with, or an amount an issuer or other obligor that is—

(A) A foreign government or international organization or any agency or instrumentality thereof;

(B) A foreign central bank of issue;

(C) A foreign corporation not engaged in a trade or business in the United States within the calendar year of the payment; or

(D) A partnership that is not engaged in a trade or business in the United States within the calendar year of the payment and that is composed in whole of nonresident alien individuals or persons described in paragraph (d)(3)(i)(A), (B), or (C) of this section.

(ii) An amount is described in this subdivision (ii) if it is income not otherwise described in subdivision (i) of this paragraph (d)(3) that is from sources outside the United States within the meaning of section 862(a)(1).

(iii) An amount is described in this subdivision (iii) if it is paid by a middleman (other than a United States person or a United States-related person as described in §1.6049-5(f)(2)) that, as a custodian or nominee or other agent of a payee (and not as the agent of the issuer), collects the amount for or on behalf of the payee.

(4) Determination by a paying agent or middleman that an amount is described in paragraph (d)(3) of this section. The provisions of this paragraph (d)(4) apply with respect to determinations made by paying agents and middlemen as to whether an amount is paid with respect to an obligation or deposit of an entity described in paragraph (d)(3)(i) of this section and as to whether an amount is income from sources outside the United States for purposes of paragraph (d)(3)(ii).

(i) With respect to a foreign government, an international organization, or a foreign central bank of issue. Absent actual knowledge to the contrary, a paying agent or middleman may treat an entity as a foreign government, an international organization, or a foreign central bank of issue if the paying agent or middleman could treat such entity under §1.6049-4(c)(1)(ii) as an exempt recipient without the receipt of a Form W-9 or an acceptable substitute.

(ii) With respect to a foreign corporation. Absent actual knowledge to the contrary, a middleman generally may treat a corporation as a foreign corporation if its name reasonably so indicates and, if so, may treat it as a foreign corporation described in paragraph (d)(3)(i)(C) of this section. A payment agent of, or middleman having a contractual relationship with, the corporation with respect to the paying of an amount may treat it as a corporation described in paragraph (d)(3)(i)(C) of this section unless the paying agent or middleman has reason to believe to the contrary. Absent actual knowledge to the contrary, a paying agent will not be considered to have reason to believe that a corporation is not described in paragraph (d)(3)(i)(C) of this section if the paying agent receives a statement signed under penalties of perjury from a corporate officer who would be authorized by section 6062 to sign returns on behalf of the corporation either that the corporation is not, or does not expect during the calendar year of payment to be, engaged in trade or business in the United States. However, failure to obtain this statement will not in itself be considered evidence that the paying agent has reason to believe that the corporation is not described in paragraph (d)(3)(i)(C) of this section.

(iii) With respect to domestic corporations. Absent actual knowledge to the contrary, a middleman generally may treat a domestic corporation as a corporation the interest payments of which would not be subject to withholding under subchapter A of chapter 3 of the Code if such payments were made to a person who is not a United States person if an annual report, offering circular, or other standard source of financial information published by the corporation reasonably so indicates. However, a paying agent of, or a middleman having a contractual relationship with, a domestic corporation with respect to the payment or collection of an amount may, absent actual knowledge to the contrary, treat a domestic corporation as such a corporation only if a corporate officer authorized by section 6062 to sign returns on behalf of the corporation provides the paying agent or middleman with a statement signed by the officer under penalties of perjury that interest paid by such corporation would be income from sources outside the United States.

(iv) With respect to partnership. A paying agent or middleman may, absent actual knowledge to the contrary, treat a partnership as a partnership that is not engaged in a trade or business in the United States during the calendar year of payment and that is composed in whole of nonresident alien individuals or persons described in paragraph (d)(3)(i)(A), (B), or (C) of this section if it receives a statement, signed under penalties of perjury, by any partner of the partnership authorized by section 6063 to sign returns on behalf of the partnership, that the partnership is not, and is not expected during the calendar year of the payment to be, engaged in a trade or business in the United States and that all of its partners are, and are expected during the during the calendar year of payment to be, nonresident alien individuals or persons described in paragraph (d)(3)(i)(A), (B), or (C) of this section.

(v) When to receive statement and retention. A paying agent or middleman must receive the statement described in paragraph (d)(4) of this section in the calendar year in which a payment is made or collected or in either of the 2 preceding calendar years. The paying agent or middleman may, however, require such a statement from the corporation or partnership each time it makes a payment for the corporation or partnership. The paying agent or middleman shall retain the statement for at least 4 years following the end of the last calendar year during which an amount to which the statement relates is paid or collected. If after providing such statement the status of the corporation or partnership changes from that reflected in the statement, the corporation or partnership shall notify the paying agent or middleman within 30 days of such change in status.

(e) Exception for certain amounts. Notwithstanding paragraph (c) or (d) of this section, an amount will be considered to be interest for purposes of reporting under section 6049 and this section if the payment is either—

(1) Made to, or collected on behalf of, a United States person (as determined in accordance with paragraph (e)(3) of this section) by either a United States person or a United States-related person under §1.6049-5(f)(2) that is in the commercial banking business with respect to an account or deposit maintained at an office of such person outside the United States (other than a deposit evidenced either by a foreign-targeted registered obligation as defined in §1.6049-5(j)(4) or by a bearer obligation that such person has issued in accordance with the procedures of §1.163-1(c)(2)(i)(B), provided that such person does not act in the capacity of a custodian, nominee or other agent of the payee with respect to the obligation); or

(2) Made to a nonresident alien individual who is a resident of Canada and the amount is described in section 871(i)(2)(A) with respect to a deposit maintained at an office within the United States. Amounts described in this paragraph (e)(2) are exempt from backup withholding under section 3406. However, this paragraph (e)(2) shall not apply to either—

(i) Except as provided in paragraph (f) of this section, an amount described in section 871(i)(2)(A) that is paid by the issuer or its agent outside the United States with respect to an obligation that—

(A) Is not in registered form (within the meaning of section 163(f) and the regulations thereunder);

(B) Is described in section 163(f)(2)(B); and

(C) Is part of a larger single public offering of securities; or

(ii) Except as provided in paragraph (f) of this section, an amount described in section 871(i)(2)(A) that is paid by the issuer or its agent outside the United States with respect to an obligation that—

(A) Has a principal amount of not less than $500,000;

(B) Satisfies the requirements of section 163(f)(2)(B)(i) and (ii)(I) and the regulations thereunder (as if it were a registration-required obligation within the meaning of section 163(f)(2)(A));

(C) If in registered form, is registered in the name of an exempt recipient described in §1.6049-4(c)(1)(ii); and

(D) Has on its face, and on any detachable coupons the following statement (or a similar statement having the same effect): "By accepting this obligation or coupon, the holder represents and warrants that it is not a United States person (other than an exempt recipient described in the regulations under section 6049(b)(4) of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations thereunder) and that it is not acting for or on behalf of a United States person (other than an exempt recipient described in the regulations under section 6049(b)(4) of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations thereunder)".

For purposes of paragraph (e)(2)(i), unless it has actual knowledge to the contrary, a middleman may treat an obligation as if it is described in section 163(f)(2)(B) if the obligation or coupon therefrom, whichever is presented for payment, contains the statement described in section 163(f)(2)(B)(ii)(II) and the regulations thereunder. For purposes of paragraph (e)(2)(ii), unless it has actual knowledge to the contrary, a middleman may treat an obligation as satisfying the requirements of section 163(f)(2)(B)(i) and (ii)(I) and the regulations thereunder if the obligation or a coupon therefrom, whichever is presented for payment, contains the statement described in paragraph (e)(2)(ii).

(3) United States person for purposes of paragraph (e)(1) of this section. Paragraph (h) of this section applies in determining whether a person is a United States person for purposes of paragraph (e)(1) of this section.

(4) Nonresident alien individual for purposes of paragraph (e)(2) of this section. Paragraph (g) of this section applies in determining whether a person is a nonresident alien individual for purposes of paragraph (e)(2) of this section. The country contained in the address required to be provided under paragraph (g) is considered the country of residence of a nonresident alien individual for purposes of paragraph (e)(2).

(f) Payments by middleman outside the United States—(1) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (c)(5)(ii) and (6), paragraph (d)(3), and paragraph (e)(2)(i) and (ii) of this section, an amount paid outside the United States by a middleman that is either a United States person or a United States-related person (as described in subparagraph (f)(2) and that, as a custodian or nominee or other agent of a payee, collects the amount for or on behalf of the payee shall be treated as interest for purposes of section 6049 and this section unless the middleman may treat the payee as a person who is not a United States person in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (h) of this section. For purposes of this paragraph (f), a middleman is considered to collect an amount as an agent of a payee if the payee has an account with the middleman's office that makes the payment. Also, this paragraph (f) applies to a middleman that is also a paying, transfer, or other agent of the payor.

(2) A United States-related person is either a controlled foreign corporation within the meaning of section 957(a) or a foreign person 50 percent or more of the gross income of which, from all sources for the three-year period ending with the close of its taxable year preceding the collection or payment (or such part of such period as the person has been in existence), was effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States.

(g) Penalties of perjury statement—(1) In general. The statement described in this paragraph is a statement, signed by the payee under penalties of perjury, certifying that the payee is not a United States person, or in the case that the payee is an individual, that he is neither a citizen nor a resident of the United States. The statement must also contain the name of the payee, the address of the payee, and the taxpayer identification number (if any) of the payee. The address provided for an individual shall be that of his permanent residence; the address provided for a partnership or corporation shall be the address of its principal office; and the address provided for a trust or estate shall be the address of the permanent residence or principal office of any fiduciary of the trust or estate. The statement may be made, at the option of the payor or middleman, on a Form W-8 or on a substitute form prepared by the payor or middleman that is substantially similar to Form W-8.

(2) Who may sign the statement. The statement may be signed by any person who is authorized to sign a declaration under penalties of perjury on behalf of the payee as described in section 6061 and the regulations thereunder.

(3) When statement must be received and retention. Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (g)(5) of this section, the statement must be received by the payor or middleman in the calendar year in which the payment is made or collected or in either of the preceding 2 calendar years. The payor or middleman, however, may require the statement from the payee each time it makes a payment to, or collects an amount on behalf of, the payee. The payor or middleman shall retain the statement for at least 4 years following the end of the last calendar year during which the amount to which the statement relates is paid or collected. If the person providing the statement becomes a United States citizen or resident during the period to which the statement relates, such person shall notify the payor in writing within 30 days of the change in status.

(4) Joint payees. If interest is paid with respect to a joint account with a payor or middleman, the payor or middleman must receive the statement from each joint owner. If a joint owner is a United States person, see paragraph (l) of this section.

(5) Special rule prior to January 1, 1985. With respect to a pre-1984 account (as described in the regulations under section 3406) or a brokerage relationship that is not a post-1983 brokerage account (as described in the regulations under section 3406) the payor or middleman is not required to obtain the statement before January 1, 1985, if—

(i) The payor or middleman sent an additional separate mailing to the payor on or before December 31, 1983, requesting the statement (or the payor or middleman sent a nonseparate mailing on or before December 31, 1983, requesting the statement and sent a separate mailing requesting the statement on or before March 31, 1984),

(ii) The payor or middleman sent a mailing (which may be a nonseparate mailing during the calendar year 1984) requesting the statement, and

(iii) The payor or middleman has documentary evidence in its records that the customer is an exempt foreign person in accordance with A-34 of §35a.9999-3 published at 49 FR 33236 on August 22, 1984 [1984-2 C.B. 325]. [In the final regulations, the text of the rule in A-34 will be inserted in this paragraph. The mailings described in paragraph (g)(5)(i) and (ii) of this section must have been sent by first-class mail, or by airmail if sent to a foreign address, and must have contained a notice describing the penalties of perjury statement described in paragraph (g)(1) of this section and advising the payee that backup withholding under section 3406 may commence if the statement is not provided. The payor or middleman must also have provided a reply envelope and a form on which the payee might make the statement described in paragraph (g)(1) of this section. A separate mailing, for purposes of this paragraph (g)(5), is a mailing that contains only the information described in this paragraph and, at the option of the payor or middleman, information relating to the solicitation of a taxpayer identification number. With respect to mail-hold accounts and accounts with respect to which the last-known address of the payee is incorrect, the payor middleman will be considered to have satisfied the requirements of paragraph (g)(5)(i) and (ii) of this section if the payor or middleman handled the mailings in the same manner that it handled other correspondence with the payee. A payor or middleman may also satisfy the requirements of this paragraph (g)(5)(i) and (ii) if the mailings were delivered to the payee by personal delivery or intra-office mail, provided they were delivered by the same method used generally by the payor or middleman in delivering account information and other correspondence to the payee.

(6) Exception. A payor or middleman is not required to obtain the statement described in paragraph (g)(1) of this section from a payee if the payee has provided the payor or middleman with Form W-9 (or acceptable substitute) form) or if the payor or middleman may treat the payee as an exempt recipient under §1.6049-4(c)(1)(ii) without receiving a Form W-9 (or acceptable substitute form) from the payee.

(h) Information indicated that a payee is a foreign person. A payor or middleman may treat a payee as a person who is not a United States person in accordance with paragraph (h) of this section if the payor has documentary evidence in its records that the payee is not a United States person (provided that the payor does not have actual knowledge that the evidence is false). A payor or middleman has documentary evidence in its records that the customer is not a United States person if (1) the payor or middleman obtains and has in its records the statement described in paragraph (g) of this section, Form 1001 completed under penalties of perjury, or Form 4224 completed under penalties of perjury, or (2) the payor or middleman has been provided with documentary evidence (such as a passport, identity credential, or other similar evidence of citizenship and residence) on the basis of which a reasonable person would conclude that the customer is not a United States person, and the employee of the payor or middleman who has been provided with such evidence signs a separate written statement as part of the records of the account which states that such evidence has been provided and specifies the nature and details of the evidence. The mere fact, however, that the payee has provided an address outside the United States is insufficient evidence to establish for this purpose that the payee is not a United States person.

(i) Examples. The application of the provisions of paragraphs (c), (d), (e) and (f) of this section may be illustrated by the following examples.

Example (1). DB, a domestic corporation engaged in a commercial banking business, pays interest on a deposit with an account maintained by A, a non-resident alien individual, at a branch of DB in the United States. A has signed and provided DB with a Form W-8 during the current calendar year. DB is required to make an information return by reason of the application of paragraph (e)(2) of this section with respect to interest paid to A. However, the payment is not subject to backup withholding under section 3406.

Example (2). B, an individual, holds a bearer certificate of deposit issued in 1984 by SL, a federally-chartered savings and loan institution, as part of a larger single public offering of securities. The certificate of deposit has a maturity at issue of one year. It was issued by SL under arrangements satisfying the provisions of section 163(f)(2)(B)(i) and the regulations thereunder and contains on its face and on each detachable interest coupon the statement described in section 163(f)(2)(B)(ii)(II) and the regulations thereunder. Interest is payable on the obligation only by presentation of a coupon at a foreign office of DC, a domestic corporation that is the designated paying agent of SL with respect to the obligation. B does not have an account with the office of DC that pays the interest. DC does not have actual knowledge that B is a United States person. B presents a coupon for payment to DC at its foreign office, and DC pays the obligation in cash. Because the coupon contains the statement described in section 163(f)(2)(B)(ii)(II), DC may treat the obligation as an obligation described in paragraph (e)(2)(ii) of this section. Therefore, the payment by DC to B is considered not to be interest for purposes of section 6049 under paragraph (e)(2)(i) of this section, and DC is not required to make an information return with respect to the payment.

Example (3). The facts are the same as in Example (2) except that the certificate of deposit is held on B's behalf in a custodial account by FC, a wholly-owned foreign country X subsidiary of a domestic financial institution. FC presents the coupon for payment to the foreign office of DC. By reason of the application of paragraph (f) of this section, FC is required to treat the amount collected on behalf of A as interest subject to information reporting under section 6049 unless FC can establish under paragraph (h) of this section that B is not a United States person.

Example (4). FC is a foreign corporation that is not engaged in a trade or business in the United States during the current calendar year. D, an individual who is a resident and citizen of the United States, holds a registered obligation issued by FC in a public offering. Interest is paid on the obligation within the United States by DC, the designated paying agent of FC. D does not have an account with DC. Although FC is a corporation described in paragraph (d)(3)(i) of this section, the interest paid by DC to D is considered to be interest for purposes of information reporting under section 6049 since it is paid in the United States.

Example (5). The facts are the same as in Example (4) except that D is a nonresident alien individual who has signed and provided DC with a Form W-8 in accordance with paragraph (g) of this section. By reason of paragraph (c)(1) or (d)(2) of this section, the payment of interest by DC to D is not considered to be a payment of interest for purposes of information reporting under section 6049. Therefore, DC is not required to make an information return under section 6049.

Example (6). The facts are the same as in Example (4) except that DC pays interest on the obligation at its branch outside the United States. The payment of interest by DC to D is not considered to be payment of interest for purposes of information reporting under section 6049 because the amount is described in paragraph (d)(3)(i). Therefore, DC is not required to make an information return under section 6049.

Example (7). The facts are the same as in Example (6) except that the obligation of FC is held in a custodial account for D by FB, a foreign branch of a domestic financial institution. By reason of paragraph (f) of this section, FB is considered to have collected interest on behalf of D for purposes of section 6049. Therefore, FB is required to make an information return unless FB may treat D as a person who is not a United States person in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (h) of this section.

Example (8). The facts are the same as in Example (7) except that the FC obligation is held for D by NC, in a custodial account at NC's foreign branch. NC is a foreign corporation that is not a United States-related person as described in paragraph (f)(2) on the New York Stock Exchange. Under paragraph (d)(3)(iii), the payment by NC to D is not considered to be a payment of interest for purposes of section 6049. Therefore, NC is not required to make an information return under section 6049 with respect to the payment.

Example (9). FB, a foreign country X branch of a domestic corporation, engages in the commercial banking business in foreign country X. FB pays interest to E, a United States citizen residing in foreign country X, on a deposit in an account maintained by E with FB. Although the records of FB show a foreign country X address of residence for E, FB does not have sufficient information in its files to establish under paragraph (h) of this section that E is not a United States person. The payment by FB to E is considered to be a payment of interest for purposes of section 6049 under paragraph (e)(1) of this section. Therefore, FB is required to make an information return under section 6049.

Example (10). The facts are the same as in example (9) except that FB is a wholly owned foreign subsidiary of a domestic corporation. The payment by FB to E is considered to be a payment of interest for purposes of section 6049 under paragraph (e)(1) of this section. Therefore, FB is required to make an information return under section 6049.

(j) Determination of whether amounts are considered paid outside the United States—(1) In general. For purposes of section 6049 and this section, an amount is considered to be paid by a payor or middleman outside the United States if the payor or middleman completes the acts necessary to effect payment outside the United States. A payment shall not be considered to be made within the United States for purposes of section 6049 by reason of the fact that it is made on a draft drawn on a United States bank account or by a wire or other electronic transfer from a United States account. However, without regard to the location of the account from which the amount is drawn, an amount that is described in subdivision (i) or (ii) of this paragraph (j)(1) and paid by transfer to an account maintained by the payee in the United States or by mail to a United States address is considered to be paid within the United States.

(i) The amount is paid by an issuer or the paying agent of the issuer and the obligation is either—

(A) Issued by a United States person, or by a United States-related person under §1.6049-5(f)(2);

(B) Registered under the Securities Act of 1933; or

(C) Listed on an exchange that is registered as a national securities exchange in the United States or included in an interdealer quotation system in the United States.

(ii) The amount is paid by a middleman that, as a custodian, nominee, or other agent of the payee, collects the amount for or on behalf of the payee if the middleman is a United States person or United States-related person under §1.6049-5(f)(2).

(2) Amounts paid with respect to deposits or account with banks and other financial institutions. Notwithstanding paragraph (j)(1) of this section, an amount paid by a bank or other financial institution with respect to a deposit or with respect to an account with the institution is considered to be paid at the branch or office at which the amount is credited unless the amount is collected by the financial institution as the agent of the payee. However, an amount will not be considered to be paid at the branch or office where the amount is considered to be credited unless—

(i) The branch or office is a permanent place of business that is regularly maintained, occupied, and used to carry on a banking or similar financial business;

(ii) The business is conducted by at least one employee of the branch or office who is regularly in attendance at such place of business during normal business hours; and

(iii) The branch or office receives deposits and engages in one or more of the other activities described in §1.864-4(c)(5)(i).

In addition, an amount paid by a bank or other financial institution with respect to a deposit or an account with the institution is not considered to be paid at a branch or office outside the United States if the customer has transmitted instructions to an agent, branch, or office of the institution from inside the United States by mail, telephone, electronic transmission or otherwise concerning the deposit or account (unless the transmission from the United States has taken place in isolated and infrequent circumstances).

(3) Coupon bonds and discount obligations in bearer form. Notwithstanding paragraph (j)(1) of this section, an amount paid with respect to a bond with coupons attached (including a certificate of deposit with detachable interest coupons) or a discount obligation that is not in registered form (within the meaning of section 163(f) and the regulations thereunder) is considered to be paid where the coupon or the discount obligation is presented to the payor or its paying agent for payment. However, without regard to where the coupon or discount obligation is presented for payment, an amount paid with respect to either a bond with coupons attached or a discount obligation by transfer to an account maintained by the payee in the United States or by mail to a United States if the payment is described in subdivision (i) and (ii) of this paragraph (j)(3).

(i) The amount is paid by an issuer or the paying agent of the issuer and the obligation is either—

(A) Issued by a United States person or a United States-related person under §1.6049-5(f)(2);

(B) Registered under the Securities Act of 1933; or

(C) Listed on an exchange that is registered as a national securities exchange in the United States or included in a interdealer quotation system in the United States.

(ii) The amount is paid by a middleman that, as a custodian, nominee, or other agent of payee, collects the amount for or on behalf of the payee if the middleman is a United States person or a United States-related person under §1.6049-5(f)(2).

(4) Foreign-targeted registered obligations. Notwithholding paragraph (j)(1) of this section, where the payor is the issuer or the issuer's agent, an amount is considered paid outside the United States with respect to a foreign-targeted registered obligation if the conditions of either subdivision (i) or (ii) of this paragraph (j)(4) are met. (A foreign-targeted registered obligation is an obligation that is issued in registered form under section 163(f) and the regulations thereunder and that is described in Q & A's 12 and 13 of §35a.9999-5. These questions and answers refer to obligations with respect to which interest is paid to a registered owner that is a financial institution at an address outside the United States if the obligation is targeted to foreign markets.)

(i) The amount is paid by transfer to an account maintained by the registered owner outside the United States or by mail to an address of the registered owner outside the United States.

(ii) The amount is paid by credit to an international account.

For purposes of subdivision (ii) of this paragraph (j)(4), an international account is the book-entry account of a financial institution (within the meaning of section 871(h)(4)(B)) or of an international financial organization with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York for which the Federal Reserve Bank of New York maintains records that specifically identify an international financial organization or a financial institution (within the meaning of section 871(h)(4)(B)) that is either a non-United States person or a foreign branch of a United States person as registered owner. An international financial organization is a central bank or monetary authority of a foreign government or a public international organization of which the United States is a member that is characterized as a foreign corporation for United States federal income tax purposes to the extent that such central bank, authority, or organization holds obligations solely for its own account and is exempt from United States federal income tax section 892 or 895 of the Internal Revenue Code.

(5) Examples. The application of the provisions of paragraph (j) of this section may be illustrated by the following examples:

Examples (1). FC is a foreign corporation that is not a United States-related person under §1.6049-5(f)(2). A holds bonds that are not in registered form under section 163(f) and the regulations thereunder, that were issued by FC in a public offering outside the United States, that are not registered under the Securities Act of 1933, and that are neither listed on an exchange that is registered as a national securities exchange in the United States nor included in an interdealer quotation system. DC, a domestic corporation that is engaged in a commercial banking business, is the designated fiscal agent for FC. FB, a foreign branch of DC, is the designated paying agent with respect to the bonds issued by FC. A does not have an account with FB. A presents a coupon from a FC bond for payment to FB at its office outside the United States. FB pays A with a check drawn against a bank account maintained in the United States. For purposes of section 6049, the place of payment of interest on the FC bond by FB to A is considered to be outside the United States under paragraph (j)(3) of this section.

Example (2). The facts are the same as in example (1) except that A presents the coupon to FB at its office outside the United States with instructions to transfer funds in payment to a bank account maintained by A in the United States. FB transfers the funds in accordance with A's instructions. Even though the amount is credited to an account in the United States, the place of payment of interest on the FC bonds is considered to be outside the United States under paragraph (j)(3) of this section since the coupon is presented for payment outside the United States, since FC is a foreign person that is not a United States-related person under §1.6049-5(f)(2), since FB is not acting as A's agent, and since the obligation is not registered under the Securities Act of 1933, listed on a securities exchange that is registered as a national securities exchange in the United States, or included in an interdealer quotation system.

Example (3). FC is a foreign corporation that is not a United States-related person. B, a United States citizen, holds a bond issued by FC in registered form under section 163(f) and the regulations thereunder and registered under the Securities Act of 1933. The bond is not a foreign-targeted registered oblignation as defined in paragraph (j)(3). DB, a United States branch of a foreign corporation engaged in the commercial banking business, is the registrar of the bonds issued by FC. DB supplies FC with a list of the holders of the FC bonds. Interest on the FC bonds is paid to B and other bondholders by checks prepared by FC at its principal office outside the United States, and B's check is mailed from there to his designated address in the United States. The bond is described in paragraph (j)(1)(i)(B). The place of payment to B by FC of the interest on the FC bonds is considered to be inside the United States under paragraph (j)(1) of this section.

Example (4). The facts are the same as in example (3) except that the checks are prepared and mailed in the United States by DC, a domestic corporation engaged in the commercial banking business that is the designated paying agent with respect to the bonds issued by FC, and B's check is mailed to his designated address outside the United States. For purposes of section 6049, the place of payment of DC of the interest on the FC bonds is considered to be within the United States under paragraph (j)(1) of this section.

Example (5). Individual C deposits funds in account with FB, a foreign country X branch of domestic bank DB. FB maintains an office and employees in foreign country X, accepts deposits, and conducts one or more of the other activities listed in §1.864-4(c)(5)(i). The terms of C's deposit provide that it will be payable in six months with accrued interest. On the day that the interest is credited to C's account with FB, C telephones DB from inside the United States and asks DB to direct FB to transfer the funds in his account with FB to an account C maintains in the United States with DB. Transmissions from the United States concerning this account have taken place in isolated and infrequent circumstances. Under paragraph (j)(2) of this section, FB is considered to have paid the interest on C's deposit outside the United States. For the requirement to report on the interest payment, see §1.6049-5(e)(1).

Example (6). The facts are the same as in example (5) except that C has placed his deposit with FB for an indefinite period of time. Interest will be credited to C's account daily. C has instructed FB to wire the interest at 90-day intervals to C's account with DB within the United States. FB is considered to have paid the interest credited to A's account outside the United States under paragraph (j)(2) of this section. For the requirement to report on the interest payment, see §1.6049-5(e)(1).

Example (7). DC, a domestic corporation engaged in the commercial banking business, maintains a branch in foreign country X. The branch has an office and employees in foreign country X, accepts deposits, and engages in one or more of the other activities listed in §1.864-4(c)(5)(i). D, a United States citizen, purchases a certificate of deposit issued in 1980 by the foreign country X branch. The certificate of deposit has a maturity of 20 years and has detachable interest coupons payable at six-month intervals. D presents more of the coupons at the United States office of DC and receives payment in cash. Because the coupon is presented to DC for payment with the United States, DC is considered to have made the payment within the United States under paragraph (j)(3) of this section.

Example (8). FB is recognized by both foreign country X and by the Federal Reserve Bank as a foreign country X branch of DC, a domestic corporation engaged in the commercial banking business. A local foreign country X bank serves as FB's resident agent in Country X. FB maintains no physical office or employees in foreign country X. All the records, accounts, and transactions of FB are handled at the United States office of DC. E deposits funds in an amount maintained with FB. Interest earned on the deposit is periodically credited to E's account with FB by employees of DC. For purposes of section 6049, the place of payment of the interest on E's deposit with FB is considered to be within the United States by reason of paragraphs (j)(1) and (j)(2) of this section.

Example (9). DC is a domestic corporation. A holds bonds that were issue by DC in registered form under section 163(f) and the regulations thereunder and that are foreign-targeted registered obligations as defined in paragraph (j)(4) of this section. DB, a commercial banking business, is the registrar of bonds issued by DC. Interest on the DB bonds is paid to A and other bondholders by check prepared by DB at its principal office inside the United States and mailed from there to A's address outside the United States. The check is drawn on a United States account maintained by DC with DB within the United States. The place of payment to A by DB of the interest on the DC bonds is considered to be outside the United States under paragraph (j)(4)(i) of this section.

(k) Original issue discount treated as payment of interest.

Original issue discount (including an obligation with a maturity of not more than 6 months from the date of original issue) described in §1.6049-5(c) or (d) is not interest subject to reporting under section 6049 unless it is described in §1.6049-5(e) or (f).

(l) Joint Payees. Unless each joint payee of an account or instrument is a person other than a United States person as determined under §1.6049-5(c), the exemption from reporting under that section does not apply. In order to avoid backup withholding on the payment, any one of the joint payees who has not established such payee's foreign status must provide a taxpayer identification number to the payor in the manner described in section 3406 and the regulations thereunder and the payor must show such payee as the first person on the account on the information return. See section 3406 and the regulations thereunder for backup withholding rules applicable to joint payees where not all such payees have established foreign status.

Par. 18. Section 1.6049-6 is amended by:

1. Removing the phrase "section 3451" each place it appears and adding in its place the phrase "section 3406",

2. Adding the following new sentence at the end of paragraph (a) to read as follows: "See paragraph (e) of this section for the requirement to furnish an official 1099 to the recipient and the manner of furnishing the statement for payments made after December 31, 1983"., and

3. Adding a new paragraph (e) to read as follows:

§1.6049-6 Statements to recipients of interest payments and holders of obligations as to which there is attributed original issue discount after December 31, 1983.

* * * *

(e) Official statement to recipient for payments made after December 31, 1983--(1) In general. Section 6049(c) and this section require any person who makes an information return under section 6049(a) and §1.6049-4 to furnish a statement to the person whose identifying number is required to be shown on the form. Except as provided in paragraph (e)(3) of this section, this requirement shall be met by furnishing to the recipient the official Form 1099 for payments of interest or original issue discount made after December 31, 1983.

(2) Form of the statement. The official Form 1099 shall be the form prescribed by the Internal Revenue Service for the respective calendar year.

(i) Interest. With respect to payments of interest (other than original issue discount) to any person during a calendar year, the statement shall show—

(A) The name, address and the taxpayer identification number of the recipient,

(B) The aggregate amount of payments made to (or received on behalf of) the person during the calendar year,

(C) The amount of the tax withheld under section 3406, if any,

(D) The name, address, and the taxpayer identification number of the person filing the form,

(E) A statement, in bold and conspicuous type, informing the recipient that the form contains important tax information that is being furnished to the Internal Revenue Service and that, if the recipient is required to file an income tax return, the recipient may be subject to a negligence penalty (as described in section 6653(g)) or other sanction in the event that the income is taxable on the recipient's tax return and the Internal Revenue

Service determines that the recipient has not included the income on the recipient's tax return, and

(F) Any other information required by the form.

(C) The amount of tax withheld under section 3406, if any,

(D) The name, address, and taxpayer identification number of the person filing the form,

(E) The amount, serial, or other identifying number of each obligation with respect to which a return is being made,

(F) A statement, in bold and conspicuous type, informing the recipient that the form contains important tax information that is being furnished to the Internal Revenue Service and that, if the recipient is required to file an income tax return, the recipient may be subject to a negligence penalty (as described in section 6653(g)) or other sanction in the event that the income is taxable on the recipient's tax return and the Internal Revenue Service determines that the recipient has not included the income on the recipient's tax return, and

(G) Any other information required by the form.

(3) Substitute Forms 1099. No reasonable facsimile (as described in paragraph (d) of this section) of the official Form 1099 will satisfy the requirement under this paragraph to furnish a statement to any recipient. A payor, however, may use a form that contains provisions that are substantially similar to those of the official Form 1099 if the payor complies with all applicable revenue procedures relating to substitute Forms 1099.

(4) Aggregation of payments. A payor may aggregate all payments of interest or original issue discount made to a recipient during a calendar year on one Form 1099.

(5) Manner and time of providing the official statement to the recipient. The official Form 1099 shall be provided to the recipient either in person or by first class mail at the time provided in paragraph (c). The only items that may be mailed to the recipient with the Form 1099 are—

(A) Statements related to other Forms 1099, Forms 1098, and Forms 5498 (or the account balance on a Form 5498), and

(C) Any documents relating to a solicitation of the recipient's correct taxpayer identification number (Form W-9) or solicitation of a Form W-8 or a substitute form (as described in §1.6049-5(g)(1)).

If a payor does not either personally deliver the Form 1099 to the recipient or mail the Form 1099 in a separate first-class mailing to the recipient, the payor shall be considered to have failed to make the statement required under section 6049(c) and will be subject to the penalty under section 6678.

(ii) Statement mailing requirement for forms to be filed after October 22, 1986. [Reserved]

(6) Special rule for amounts described in §1.6049-5(e)(2). In the case of amounts described in §1.6049-5(e)(2), any persons who make a Form 1042S under section 6049(a) and §1.6049-4(b)(1), (b)(2), or (b)(3) shall furnish a statement to the recipient at the time and in the manner prescribed by §1.1461-2. The statement shall include the aggregate amounts of the payments, the amount of tax withheld under section 3406, if any, and the name, address, and taxpayer identification number of the person filing Form 1042S. The statement shall include a legend to the effect that information is being furnished to the United States Internal Revenue Service and may be furnished to the foreign country of legal residence. There is no requirement that the statement with respect of Form 1042S be personally delivered or mailed separately to the recipient.

Par. 19. Section 1.6050A-1 is amended by removing the phrase "Form 1099F" each place it appears and adding in its place the phrase "Form 1099".

PART 31—WITHHOLDING TAXES

Par. 20. The authority for Part 31 is amended by adding the following citation:

(c) Application of backup withholding to joint foreign payees. Although generally any payment made to joint payees shall be treated as if the entire payment were to the first person listed on the account or instrument giving rise to the payment, this general rule does not apply if the first payee listed on an account or instrument provides the penalties of perjury statement as to its foreign status (as described in §1.6049-5(g) with respect to interest and original issue discount and §1.6045-1(g)(3)(i) with respect to broker transactions). In such a case, backup withholding shall apply unless—

(1) every joint payee provides the statement as to foreign status, or

(2) any one of the joint payees who has not established foreign status provides a taxpayer identification number of the payor in the manner required in regulations under section 3406.

If any one of the joint payees who has not established foreign status provides a taxpayer identification number in the manner required in regulations under section 3406, such number is the taxpayer identification number that is required to be furnished for purposes of information reporting and backup withholding.

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Apportionment of Expenses in the FSC and DISC Contexts

INTL-128-87

AGENCY: Internal Revenue Service, Treasury.

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking.

SUMMARY: This document contains proposed Income Tax Regulations relating to apportionment of expenses in the FSC and DISC contexts.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed by July 18, 1988. The amendments are proposed to be effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1986.

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests for a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T [INTL-28-86], Washington, DC 20224.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

This document contains proposed amendments to the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1) under section 861(b) of the Internal Revenue Code.

DISCUSSION

These regulations modify §1.861-8 (f)(1)(vi)(C) to provide that expenses, losses and other deductions that have been properly allocated and apportioned between combined gross income of a related supplier and a DISC or FSC from an export transaction and residual gross income are not also allocated and apportioned to gross income consisting of certain distributions from the DISC or FSC. A new Example (23) is added to §1.861-8(g) by these regulations to reflect this change. Specifically, new Example (23) illustrates how a related supplier's general and administrative expenses are apportioned to its various classes of gross income if the related supplier pays commissions to the FSC on export sales. In contrast to the apportionment of general and administrative expenses in existing Example (22) of §1.861-8(g) which involves an export sale made through a DISC, new Example (23) illustrates that there is not a second stage apportionment to FSC dividends attributable to the FSC's foreign trade income (except to the extent that the foreign trade income is determined under the section 925(a)(3) transfer pricing method) of the related supplier's general and administrative expenses that have already been apportioned to the combined taxable income of the FSC and the related supplier. The example also illustrates that the related supplier's research and development expenses are apportioned in a like manner.

In addition, new Example (23) of §1.861-8(g) illustrates that in the DISC context, there will not be a second stage apportionment to DISC dividends of the related supplier's expenses that have already been apportioned to the combined taxable income of the DISC and the related supplier. Existing Example (22) of §1.861(g) applies only with regard to taxable years beginning before January 1, 1987.

New Example (23) does not apply to corporations electing the application of section 936.

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting as final regulations these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is to be held, notice of the time and place will be published in the Federal Register.

SPECIAL ANALYSES

Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking which solicits public comment, it has been concluded that the proposed regulations are interpretative and that the notice and public comment procedural requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. Chapter 6). It has been determined that this proposed rule is not a major legislative regulation subject to Executive Order 12291. Accordingly, a Regulatory Impact Analysis is not required.

LIST OF SUBJECTS IN 26 CFR §§1.861-1 through 1.997-1

Income taxes, Aliens, Exports, DISC, Foreign investment in U.S., Foreign tax credit, FSC, Sources of income, United States investments abroad.

Proposed amendments to the regulations

Accordingly, the proposed amendments to 26 CFR Part 1 are as follows:

INCOME TAX REGULATIONS
(26 CFR Part 1)

Paragraph 1. The authority for Part 1 continues to read in part:

Authority: 26 U.S.C. 7805. ***

Par. 2. Section 1.861-8(f)(1)(iii) and (vi)(C) is revised to read as follows:

§1.861-8. Computation of taxable income from sources within the United States and from other sources and activities.

* * * * *

(f) Miscellaneous matters—(1) Operative sections. ***

(iii) DISC and FSC taxable income. Sections 925 and 994 provide rules for determining the taxable income of a FSC and DISC, respectively, with respect to qualified sales and leases of export property and qualified services. The combined taxable income method available for making determination of a DISC's taxable income provides, without consideration of export promotion expenses, that the taxable income of the DISC shall be 50 percent of the combined taxable income of the DISC and the related supplier derived from sales and leases of export property and from services. In the FSC context, the taxable income of the FSC equals 23 percent of the combined taxable income of the FSC and the related supplier. Pursuant to regulations under sections 925 and 994, this section provides rules for determining the deductions to be taken into account in determining combined taxable income, except to the extent modified by the marginal costing rules set forth in the regulations under sections 925(b)(2) and 994(b)(2) if used by the taxpayer as provided therein. See Examples (22) and (23) of paragraph (g) of this section. In addition, the computation of combined taxable income is necessary to determine the applicability of the section 925(d) limitation and the "no loss" rules of the regulations under sections 925 and 994.

* * * * *

(C) The amount of interest income and the income from certain distributions from a DISC or former DISC to which the foreign tax credit limitation is applied separately under section 904(d) (as in effect after enactment of the Tax Reform Act of 1976). In the case of expenses, losses, and other deductions that have been properly allocated and apportioned between combined gross income of a related supplier and a DISC or former DISC under section 994 and residual gross income, such deductions are not also allocated and apportioned to gross income consisting of certain distributions from the DISC or former DISC with respect to DISC or former DISC taxable years beginning after December 31, 1986. Accordingly, Example (22) of paragraph (g) of this section does not apply to distributions from a DISC or former DISC with respect to DISC or former DISC taxable years beginning after December 31, 1986. In addition, for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1986, in the case of expenses, losses, and other deductions that have been properly allocated and apportioned between combined gross income of a related supplier and a FSC under section 925 and residual gross income, such deductions are not also allocated and apportioned to gross income consisting of distributions from the FSC or former FSC which are attributable to the foreign trade income of the FSC or former FSC (except to the extent that the foreign trade income is determined under the section 925(a)(3) transfer pricing method). See Example (23) of paragraph (g) of this section;

* * * * *

Par. 3. Example (22) of §1.861-8(g) is amended by adding immediately after subdivision (iii) a subdivision (iv) to read as follows:

§1.861-8. Computation of taxable income from sources within the United States and from other sources and activities.

* * * * *

(g) General examples. ***

Example (22). ***

(iv) This Example (22) applies only to DISC taxable years ending before January 1, 1987, and to distributions from a DISC or former DISC with respect to DISC or former DISC taxable years ending before January 1, 1987.

* * * * *

Par. 4. Example (23) of §1.861-8(g) is removed and replaced with new Example (23) to read as follows:

§1.861-8. Computation of taxable income from sources within the United States and from other sources and activities.

* * * * *

(g) General examples. ***

Example (23)—Foreign Sales Corporations—(i) Facts. R, a domestic corporation, manufactures a product line of electronic equipment and sells it to retailers both in the United States and in foreign countries through foreign sales branches. On January 1, 1988, R established FSC, a wholly owned corporation, in a possession of the United States. FSC elected under section 922(a)(2) foreign sales corporation status. Both R and FSC are calendar year corporations. R entered into a written agreement with FSC whereby FSC was granted a sales franchise with respect to the export sales of the electronic equipment, which is export property as defined in section 927(a). Under the agreement, FSC would receive commissions with respect to those exports equal to the maximum amount permitted to be received under the administrative pricing rules of section 925(a)(1) and (2). The maximum amount will equal the expenses incurred by FSC plus the maximum profit permitted to be earned by FSC under the pricing rules. In 1987, the profit earned by FSC was $354,424. This profit was determined using the combined taxable income administrative pricing method of section 925(a)(2). FSC paid taxes to the United States in the amount of $41,914 (i.e., $354,424 × 8/23 × .34). The FSC did not pay any foreign tax. On September 15, 1989, FSC paid R a dividend of $312,510 (i.e., profit less United States tax). The 100% dividends received deduction of section 245(c) applied to this dividend. In 1988, R had total export sales of $7,700,000 for which its cost of goods sold was $6,000,000. Thus, its gross income on those sales was $1,700,000. Those sales occurred outside the United States. Moreover, R had U.S. domestic sales of $12,000,000 on which it earned gross income of $900,000. R received royalty income from the foreign license of its electronic technology in the amount of $1,000,000. R's deductible general and administrative expenses allocable to all gross income are $125,000. For purposes of this example, it is assumed that R did not incur any research and development expenses. In addition, it is assumed that R did not incur any direct selling expenses with respect to either its domestic or foreign sales. FSC incurred $100,000 of expenses relating to the activities and functions referred to in section 924(c), (d) and (e). FSC will receive the maximum commission and profit under the combined taxable income method of section 925(a)(2). Under this method, FSC will receive a profit equal to 23% of the combined taxable income attributable to the export sale of the electronic equipment computed on a product line basis.

(ii) Allocation. For purposes of determining combined taxable income of R and FSC from export sales, R's general and administrative expenses of $125,000 must be allocated to and apportioned between gross income resulting from the production and sale of the electronic equipment for foreign markets, and from the production and sale of the electronic equipment for the domestic market.

(iii) Apportionment—(A) Combined Taxable Income. In order to compute the combined taxable income from the production and sale of the electronic equipment, R's general and administrative expenses of $125,000 are apportioned between the statutory grouping of gross income under section 863(b) from the export of the electronic equipment and the residual grouping of gross income from domestic sales and foreign licenses. None of R's general and administrative expenses are apportioned to the FSC distribution of $312,510. In the absence of more specific or contrary information, R's general and administrative expenses may be apportioned on the basis of gross income in the respective groupings, as follows:

Apportionment of general and administrative expenses to the section 863(b) statutory grouping, gross income from exports of electronic equipment:

$$$125{,}000 \text{ X } \frac{$1{,}700{,}000}{($1{,}700{,}000 + $900{,}000 + $1{,}000{,}000)} = \qquad $\ 59{,}028$$

Apportionment of general and administrative expenses to the residual grouping, gross income from domestic sales of electronic equipment, foreign royalty income from licensing electronic equipment technology:

$$$125{,}000 \text{ X } \frac{($900{,}000 + $1{,}000{,}000)}{($1{,}700{,}000 + $900{,}000 + $1{,}000{,}000)} = \qquad $\ 65{,}972$$

Total apportionment of general and administrative expenses	$ 125,000

On the basis of this apportionment, the combined taxable income and FSC's portion of the combined taxable income may be calculated as follows:

Gross income from exports		$1,700,000
Less: FSC section 924(c), (d) and (e) expenses........	$100,000
Apportioned general and administrative expenses........	59,028
Total expenses		(159,028)
Combined taxable income........		$1,540,972
FSC's income— 23% of combined taxable income........		$ 354,424

(B) R's section 863(b) taxable income. R's total section 863(b) taxable income from the export sales equals 77% of combined taxable income and is computed as follows:

Gross receipts........	$7,700,000
Cost of goods sold	6,000,000
Gross income	1,700,000
Less:
Apportioned general and administrative expenses........	59,028
Commission to FSC	454,424
Total	(513,452)
R's taxable income	$1,186,548

As illustrated, all of the general and administrative expenses apportioned to combined taxable income are taken as deductions in computing R's section 863(b) taxable income.

(C) R's foreign source royalty income. In order to determine the amount of taxable income of R from sources without the United States relating to the royalty income, the remaining general and administrative expenses of $65,972 are apportioned between the statutory grouping, foreign royalty income, and the residual grouping of gross income from sources within the United States. The computations below illustrate this apportionment:

Apportionment of the general and administrative expenses to the statutory grouping, foreign royalty income:

$$$65{,}972 \text{ X } \frac{$1{,}000{,}000}{($1{,}000{,}000 + $900{,}000)} = \qquad $34{,}722$$

Apportionment of the general and administrative expenses to the residual grouping, gross income from domestic sales of electronic equipment:

$$$65{,}972 \text{ X } \frac{$900{,}000}{($1{,}000{,}000 + $900{,}000)} = \qquad $31{,}250$$

(iv) R's foreign source income from the sales using FSC as a commission agent. R's section 863(b) income of $1,186,548 from the export sales of electronic equipment manufactured in the United States and sold in foreign countries will qualify for sourcing partly from within and partly from without the United States in accordance with §1.863-3. For purposes of this example, it is assumed that R's income is sourced on the basis of Example (2) of §1.863-3(b)(2). Accordingly, one-half of the income ($593,274) would qualify as foreign source income. However, since the export sales were made using a foreign sales corporation as a commission agent on the sale, section 927(e)(1) will operate to limit R's foreign source income to $385,243. Under section 927(e)(1), R's foreign source income on the export transaction may not exceed the amount which would have been treated as foreign source income had the comparable DISC pricing rule, in this case the 50% of combined taxable income method, been used to compute FSC's profit. The calculations under section 927(e)(1) are as follows (for purposes of this example, it is assumed that there are no export promotion expenses):

Combined Taxable Income (CTI)	$1,540,972
DISC income (50% of CTI)	770,486
R's income (50% of CTI)	770,486
Source of R's income:
U.S. source	$ 385,243
Foreign source	$ 385,243

(v) Research and development expenses. For purposes of this example, it was assumed R did not incur any research and development expenses (R & D expenses). Had R incurred R & D expenses, for purposes of computing the combined taxable income from the production and sale of the electronic equipment, those R & D expenses would have been allocated and apportioned between the statutory grouping of gross income from the export of the electronic equipment and the residual grouping of gross income from domestic sales and foreign licenses. R & D expenses would also have been apportioned to R's export sales and royalty income in order to determine R's section 863(b) taxable income from export sales. As with the apportionment of general and administrative expenses, none of the R & D expenses are apportioned to the dividends from the FSC.

(vi) Apportionment of expenses in a DISC context. For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1986, general and administrative expenses and research and development expenses of a related supplier in a DISC context are also allocated and apportioned as illustrated in this example. None of the expenses are apportioned to DISC dividends.

For the text of the temporary regulations, see T.D. 8198 published in  [page 270, this Bulletin].

Special Analyses

It has been determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291 and that a Regulatory Impact Analysis is therefore not required. It has also been determined that this rule will not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities. Few small entities would be affected by these regulations. A regulatory flexibility analysis, therefore, is not required under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 6).

Comments and Requests for a Public Hearing

Before adopting these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the Federal Register.

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Registration Requirements With Respect to Certain Debt Obligations; Sanctions on Issuers of Registration Required Obligations Not in Registered Form

INTL-905-87

AGENCY: Internal Revenue Service, Treasury.

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking.

SUMMARY: This document provides a notice of proposed rulemaking relating to the application of the sanctions on issuers of registration required obligations not in registered form. These regulations would provide the public with guidance necessary to comply with the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed before July 18, 1988. These regulations are proposed to be applicable to the transfers of obligations occurring after August 17, 1988.

ADDRESS: Send comments and request for a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T (INTL-905-87), Washington, DC 20224.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

Section 4701 imposes a tax on issuers of "registration-required obligations" not in registered form. Section 5f.103-1(c)(1) provides generally that an obligation is in registered form if it is registered with the issuer (or its agent) and may be transferred by surrender and reissuance by the issuer (or its agent), or through a book entry system maintained by the issuer (or its agent), or through both of these methods.

EXPLANATION OF PROVISIONS

An issuer or its agent may have no knowledge or control over the method of transfer of an obligation that is held by a nominee. A new paragraph (d)(7) of §1.163-5T has been proposed to provide explicitly for the application of section 4701 to circumstances in which a holder transfers an obligation through a method not described in §5f.103-1(c)(1).

Section 1.163-5T(d)(7) of these proposed regulations provides, pursuant to §46.4701-1(a)(5), that any person who holds a registration required obligation that is in registered form within the meaning of §5f.103-1(c)(1) and who transfers the obligation through a method not described in §5f.103-1(c)(1) is considered the issuer of the obligations transferred for purposes of section 4701. Such transferor is therefore subject to the tax imposed under section 4701, even though he may not be the person whose interest deduction would be disallowed by reason of section 163(f)(1). Such transferor is considered to have issued the obligation on the date of the transfer in the principal amount of the obligation transferred. Section 1.163-5T(d)(7) would apply to transfers occurring after August 17, 1988.

SPECIAL ANALYSES

It has been determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291 and that a Regulatory Impact Analysis is therefore not required. Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking that solicits public comments, it has been determined that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 6) and a Regulatory Flexibility Analysis has not been prepared.

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting final regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Proposed amendments to the regulations

Accordingly, the proposed amendments to 26 CFR Part 1 are as follows:

INCOME TAX REGULATIONS (26 CFR PART 1)

Paragraph 1. The authority for Part 1 continues to read in part:

Authority: 26 U.S.C. 7805. ***

Par. 2. Paragraph (d)(7) is added immediately after paragraph (d)(6) of §1.163-5T. The added paragraph reads as follows:

§1.163-5T Denial of interest deduction on certain obligations issued after December 31, 1982, unless issued in registered form (temporary).

(d) Pass-through certificates.

* * * * *

(7)(i) For purposes of section 4701, any person who holds a registration-required obligation that is in registered form within the meaning of §5f.103-1(c)(1) and transfers the obligation through a method not described in §5f.103-1(c)(1) is considered to have issued the obligation so transferred on the date of the transfer in the principal amount of the obligation received by the transferee. Such person is therefore liable for any excise tax under section 4701 that may be imposed. This paragraph (d)(7) applies to transfers of obligations occurring after August 17, 1988.

(ii) The provisions of this paragraph (d)(7) may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). X, a corporation, holds a registration required obligation in registered form in the principal amount of 10x with a maturity date of December 31, 1999. X transfers the obligation through a method not described in §5f.103-1(c)(1) on June 30, 1990. For purposes of section 4701, X is considered to have issued an obligation on June 30, 1990 in the principal amount of 10x with a maturity date of December 31, 1999. Because X has issued a registration required obligation not in registered form, X is liable for the tax imposed by section 4701 in an amount computed with reference to the principal amount of 10x and the period beginning on June 30, 1990 and ending on December 31, 1999.

Example (2). X, a corporation, holds a registration required obligation in registered form as nominee of Y, a corporation. The principal amount of the obligation is 10x and the maturity date of the obligation is December 31, 1999. On June 30, 1990, X issued a bearer receipt to Y for the obligation. For purposes of section 4701, X is considered to have issued an obligation on June 1990 in the principal amount of 10x with a maturity date of December 31, 1999. Because X has issued a registration required obligation not in registered form, X is liable for the tax imposed by section 4701 in an amount computed with reference to the principal amount of 10x and the period beginning June 30, 1990 and ending December 31, 1999.

Example (3). The facts are the same as in Example (1) except that X transfers 5x of the 10x obligation held by X. X is considered to have issued an obligation on June 30, 1990 in the principal amount of 5x with a maturity date of December 31, 1999. Because X has issued a registration required-obligation not in registered form, X is liable for the tax imposed by section 4701 in an amount computed with reference to the principal amount of 5x and the period beginning on June 30, 1990 and ending on December 31, 1999.

Example (4). The facts are the same as in Example (1) except that X is a natural person. X is considered to have issued an obligation on June 30, 1990 in the principal amount of 10x with a maturity date of December 31, 1999. Because X is a natural person, the obligation is not a registration required obligation and, therefore, X is not subject to the tax imposed under section 4701.

Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Electronic Filing of Notice of Federal Tax Lien

LR-39-87

AGENCY: Internal Revenue Service, Treasury.

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking.

SUMMARY: This document contains proposed regulations relating to a notice of Federal tax lien filed by the use of an electronic or magnetic medium. These regulations are proposed to clarify existing regulations under section 6323(f) of the Code.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed by April 25, 1988.

The amendments to the regulations are proposed to be effective for a notice of Federal tax lien filed on or after February 23, 1988.

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests for a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T (LR-39-87), Washington, D.C. 20224.

SUPPLEMENT INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

These regulations propose to amend Part 301 of Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations to clarify that the term "Form 668" includes a notice of Federal tax lien filed by the use of an electronic or magnetic medium where the law of the state in which a notice of Federal tax lien is filed permits such method of filing.

IN GENERAL

Section 6321 of the Code imposes a lien in favor of the United States whenever a person liable for any tax neglects or refuses to pay the tax after demand. For such lien to be valid as against any purchaser, holder of a security interest, mechanic's lienor, or judgment lien creditor, a notice of the lien must be filed which meets the requirements of section 6323(f). Section 6323(f)(3) provides that the form and content of the notice referred to in section 6323(a) shall be prescribed by the Secretary, and that such notice is valid notwithstanding any other provision of law regarding the form or content of a notice of lien.

NOTICE OF LIEN MAY BE FILED BY THE USE OF AN ELECTRONIC OR MAGNETIC MEDIUM

Section 301.6323(f)-1(c) of the regulations provides that notice of a Federal tax lien "shall be filed on Form 668, 'Notice of Federal Tax Lien under Internal Revenue Law'." These proposed regulations clarify that the term "Form 668" includes both a Form 668 printed on paper and a Form 668 filed by the use of an electronic or magnetic medium if the law of the state in which the notice is filed permits a notice of Federal tax lien to be filed by the use of such medium. The use of a non-paper form will not affect the decision to place a notice of lien on file and will not significantly affect the timing of issuance of a notice of lien. Rather, the use of a non-paper form merely simplifies the manner of transmitting information to a state after a lien is determined to be valid and any remaining issues are resolved. Paper forms will continue to be used in states that do not permit electronic or magnetic filing.

The use of electronic or magnetic media to file a notice of tax lien will enable the Internal Revenue Service to better serve the public by (a) reducing the time it takes to notify the public that a lien exists; (b) reducing the amount of paperwork necessary to file a notice; and (c) in certain cases, eliminating or reducing the cost of filing a notice of lien, which cost is generally billed to the taxpayer involved.

REFILING A NOTICE OF LIEN

Section 6323(g) of the Code and §301.6323(g)-1 of the regulations, which govern the refiling of a notice of Federal tax lien, do not require a particular form to be used in refiling a notice of Federal tax lien. Therefore, an amendment to the regulations is not necessary to allow a notice of Federal tax lien to be refiled by the use of any electronic or magnetic medium permitted by the state in which the notice is refiled.

SPECIAL ANALYSES

Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking that solicits public comment, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 6). The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291. Accordingly, a Regulatory Impact Analysis is not required.

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Proposed amendments to the regulations

The proposed amendments to 26 CFR Part 301 are as follows:

Paragraph 1. The authority for Part 301 is amended by adding the following citation:

Authority: 26 U.S.C. 7805 Section 301.6323(f)-1(c) is also issued under 26 U.S.C. 6323(f)(3).

Par. 2. Section 301.6323(f)-1(c) is revised to read as follows:

(c) Form—(1) In general. The notice referred to in §301.6323(a)-1 shall be filed on Form 668, "Notice of Federal Tax Lien under Internal Revenue Laws". Such notice is valid notwithstanding any other provision of law regarding the form or content of a notice of lien. For example, omission from the notice of lien of a description of the property subject to the lien does not affect the validity thereof even though State law may require that the notice contain a description of the property subject to the lien.

(2) Form 668 defined. The term "Form 668" generally means a paper form. However, if a state in which a notice referred to in §301.6323(a)-1 is filed permits a notice of Federal tax lien to be filed by the use of an electronic or magnetic medium, the term "Form 668" includes a Form 668 filed by the use of any electronic or magnetic medium permitted by that state. A Form 668 must identify the taxpayer, the tax liability giving rise to the lien, and the date the assessment arose regardless of the method used to file the notice of Federal tax lien.

Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

On December 31, 1984, the Federal Register published proposed amendments to the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1) under sections 170(a) and 6050L of the Internal Revenue

Code of 1954, as well as temporary regulations (T.D. 8003) [1985-1 C.B. 64] containing the same rules. The temporary regulations set forth substantiation requirements with which individuals, closely held corporations, personal service corporations, partnerships, and S corporations must comply with respect to charitable contributions of certain property made after December 31, 1984, if the amount claimed or reported as a deduction with respect to the contribution exceeds $5,000. Treasury decision 8199,  [page 99, this Bulletin], finalizes the temporary and proposed regulations. The final regulations add the requirement that C corporations (as defined in section 1361(a)(2)) must comply with some of the substantiation requirements contained in the regulations with respect to contributions of certain property made after June 6, 1988.

This document contains proposed amendments to §1.170A-13 of the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1), as amended by T.D. 8199.

EXPLANATION OF PROVISIONS

The proposed regulations would apply all the substantiation requirements contained in §1.170A-13(c) to all donors (including C corporations, trusts, estates, and pooled income funds) with respect to contributions of certain property made after the date that is 30 days after a Treasury decision on the subject of this notice of proposed rulemaking is published in the Federal Register.

SPECIAL ANALYSES

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291 and that a Regulatory Impact Analysis is therefore not required. Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking that solicits public comment, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, the proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 6).

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably seven copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the Federal Register. The collection of information requirements contained herein have been submitted to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for review under section 3504(h) of the Paperwork Reduction Act. Comments on the requirements should be sent to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs for OMB, Attention: Desk Officer for Internal Revenue Service, New Executive Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20503. The Internal Revenue Service requests persons submitting comments to OMB to also send copies of the comments to the Service.

BACKGROUND

The temporary regulations (designated by a "T" following the section citations) in  [T.D. 8205, page 156, this Bulletin] amend the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1) to provide temporary rules relating to the election by a partnership, S corporation, or personal service corporation to use a taxable year other than the year required (the "required year") under the applicable provision of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (the "Code"). The temporary regulations reflect the amendment of the Code by section 10206 of the Revenue Act of 1987 (Pub. L. 100-203, 101 Stat. 1330), which added sections 444, 7519 and 280H. Section 444 provides for the election (a "section 444 election") to use a taxable year other than the required year. A partnership or S corporation that makes or continues a section 444 election must make the payment required by section 7519. A personal service corporation that makes or continues a section 444 election is subject to the deduction limitations imposed by section 280H. This document proposes to adopt the temporary regulations as final regulations. Accordingly, the text of the temporary regulations serves as the comment document for this notice of proposed rulemaking. In addition, the preamble to the temporary regulations explains the proposed and temporary rules.

All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the Federal Register.
